WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly, "Deny it who can." it is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. it is rapidly absorbed, pesetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets.

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your preju ice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming in, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price. 25 cents per Bottle.

The Trade supplied through the Wholesale Drug and Patent Medicine Houses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

D., presented the report of the Committee appointed at the last General Conference to prepare a course of study for the probationers to the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Canada. Bishop Caaman and E. I. Badgley, LL.D., are the committee, and the course of study submitted by them is full and complete, and puts the standard of examination and qualification, as it should be, high.

The Bishop also presented a statement in regard to Alma College and the distribution of territory to the agents appointed to canvass therefor. The whole matter reverts now to the General Conference for consideration and adoption. Both these documents were referred to the Committee on education.

The name of Dr. Jaques was added to the Committee on Education. The names of J. McVeitty and Alex. Martin were added to the Committee on the Book-room and Publishing Interests.

The Conference adjourned at twelve noon to meet at ten o'clock on Friday.

FOURTH DAY.

Pursuant to adjournment the Conference met at 10 o'clock this morning, and after the customary religious services conducted by Rev. S. Card, and after other preliminaries had been disposed of, the business as per rules of order was called.

The Committee on Education presented report No. 1, recommending the holding of a public meeting in the interests of education on some evening during the Conference session.

The Secretary of the Book Committee, Rev. J. B. Aylsworth, presented the report of the Committee, giving a comparative statement of the business of the concern, also its assets and liabilities for the past four years. The report also recommends the enlargement of the Advocate, mentions the propriety of the publication of a hymnal for the use of the Church, and commends the efficient management of Rev. Dr. Stone.

The report was referred to the Book-room and Publishing Interests for further action.

The Church Extension Committee in their report gave information respecting the operation of the organization, the receipts and expenditure, and recommended a more thorough organization of the Society.

A report from the Board of Management of Albert College was read showing the financial condition of the institution which is very favorable. Through the indefatigable and gratuitous labors of the bursar, Mr. J. G. Robinson, the endowment fund now amounts to over $43,000, and will soon reach the $50,000, the sum aimed at by Mr. Robinson. The document was very satisfactory.

The Committee on Obituaries reported progress, recommending the Conference to hold a memorial service for the late Bishop Richardson, who died since the session of this body four years ago.

A communication from Dr. Palmer, Principal of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, was read, inviting the Conference to visit the institution. The communication was cordially received.

In the afternoon the reception of the delegation from the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States was called, when Rev. Dr. Todd, of Philadelphia, was introduced by Rev. W. Pirritte, Chairman of the Committee appointed for that purpose.

Dr. Todd presented a certificate of his appointment; also the address of the General Conference of the American Methodist Episcopal Church to this body.

The address is as follows:—

"To the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Canada:—

DEAR FATHERS AND BRETHREN,—It is exceedingly gratifying to us to hear of your prosperity and to be assured of your Christian love. Bishop Carman and Rev. E. Lounsbury addressed our General Conference in words befitting the occasion, and were received as messengers of Church of God and brethren of our own household. It would be natural for us to feel very kindly towards you, who are bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh. The introduction of laymen into our General Conference produced no friction, but has drawn ministers and laymen together nearer than ever. We feel it to be our duty as rapidly as possible to extend our missions to the uttermost parts of the earth. This is the first great work of the Church. Education, secular and religious, still commands our attention and our resources. Our Sunday schools are prosperous beyond any former experience. Our work in the West and South is increasing in strength. Humbly relying on the Almighty for help we are going forth in the hope of doing our part in bringing the world to Christ. A most gratifying spirit of paternity is springing up all over our land. Methodists are coming near together, and for this we bless God, even if nothing comes from it but an increase of brotherly love. We hold ourselves ready to exert all our influences in the interests of peace, good will, and, as far as possible, union. Our representative will convey to you our regards, and inform you of our state,

"May the blessing of God rest upon you.

(Signed) "WM. L. HARRIS,
"President.

"To GEO. W. WOODRUFF,
"Secretary.

"New York, May 10th, 1878."

After the reading of the above address, Bishop Carman, in a few earnest and appropriate remarks, presented to the Conference Dr. Todd, who captivated all hearts by his eloquent utterances.

Rev. F. Chisholm presented the report of the Committee on Canadian Methodism, from which it seems that the first Methodist class was formed sometime during the year 1778, consequently this is the Centennial year.

The report was laid on the table for further consideration.

The Conference adjourned at 5 p. m.

O'Donovan Rossa's Illness.

Jeremiah O'Donovan Rossa is still confined to St. Peter's Hospital, Brooklyn, by paralysis of his legs and the lower part of his body. He can shuffle about with crutches, but his condition is not much improved. His trouble began with maltreatment in prison in Ireland, he says, but he was not prostrated by it until after a wrench received in jumping from a railroad train near Toronto last spring. His mind was seriously affected before he was taken to the hospital a week ago, and he is only slowly regaining the power to take any interest in anything. The hope of his recovery is slight. The serious illness of Mr. O'Donovan Rossa has had a marked effect on the Irish skirmishing fund, of which he was the originator and chief collector. The money had been sent to him personally, and his fame as an Irish martyr had been the cause of swelling the fund to more than $70,000. His lectures and his exciting appeals in the Irish World had made contributors in all parts of the country. His mental and physical incapacity compelled the accep'ance of his resignation as secretary and trustee of the fund, and of course, his active services were lacking. Mr. Augustine Ford, one of the editors of the Irish World, was made secretary, and of late contributions have been received by him at 10 Spruce street. The remaining trustees are John J. Breslin, John Devoy, Thomas F. Bourke, and Thomas G. Luby, all of high repute as Irish Nationalists; but O'Donovan Rossa had been regarded as the head and front of the movement, and as soon as the news of his incapacity spread the contributions dropped. It was he who had talked of injuring England with dynamite and other frightful things, and without him as a leader the enthusiasm of the skirmishers cooled. The receipts had averaged about $1,000 a week; but during the past week only $118 has been received. The total sum in the hands of the trustees yesterday was $70,402. Nothing can be learned as to what is to be done with it. England must not know where or how she is to be smitten.—New York Sun, 20th.

For the year ending 30th June, 1873, Sir John Macdonald collected $4,527,287 of Excise revenue at an expense of $171,704, or about $3.79 per $100. (Pub. Acc. p. 13.) For year ending June, 1877, Mackenzie's government took $21,157 to collect $4,973,951, or about $4.24 per $100! (Pub. Acc. p. 15.)

Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, Prime Minister of Canada, Salary per year, $8,000; additional for sessional allowance, $1,000:—Total $9,000. Sir John A. Macdonald, Prime Minister of Canada, salary, $5,000; additional for sessional allowance, $600;—Total $5,600. Increased salary per annum of Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, Prime Minister of Canada over that of Sir John A. Macdonald, while holding the same office, THREE THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED DOLLARS. Next!

THE COMING STRUGGLE.

Our Battle Cry: "Protection to Home Industries."

The Opposition Policy.

The commercial policy of the Opposition is represented in the following resolution moved by Sir John Macdonald in the House of Commons :—

"That this House is of opinion that the welfare of Canada requires the adoption of a National Policy, which by a judicious readjustment of the Tariff will benefit and foster the Agricultural, the Mining, the Manufacturing and other interests of the Dominion; that such a policy will retain in Canada thousands of our fellow-countrymen, now obliged to expatriate themselves in search of employment denied them at home; will restore prosperity to our struggling industries, now so sadly depressed; will prevent Canada from being made a sacrifice market; will encourage and develop an active inter-provincial trade; and moving in it ought to do in the direction of the reciprocity of Tariffs with our neighbors, so far as the varied interests of Canada may demand, will greatly tend to procure for this Country, eventually, a reciprocity of Trade."

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, SEPT. 2.

THE GRIT NOMINEE.

At Frankford, in the presence of hundreds of people, Mr. Brown indignantly denied that he was the nominee of the Grit party, but unfortunately for him the facts are against him. In the local Grit organ of May 11th will be found the report of a "Reform" Convention held in the Metropolitan Hall, Belleville, on that day. From this report we learn that there was a difference of opinion amongst the gentlemen of whom the convention was composed. Mr. Massie, of Sidney, moved that the delegates pledge themselve to support the nominee of the Convention, but Mr. S. B. Burdett, doubtless knowing the pressure the Government had brought to bear in favor of Mr. Brown, and wishing to secure the nomination of some other gentleman, moved in amendment: "That this Convention do not support any nominee who would not pledge himself in writing to support the present Government and the Government candidates in East and North Hastings." Dr. Hope pooh-poohed this idea, which would defeat his purpose of nominating Mr. Brown, a step said to have been urged upon him by the Government, with whom he, as the real leader of the party here, holds confidential relations. Proof of this will be found in the Dr's. remarks, as he went on to express his confidence in Mr. Brown, "whose course in Parliament had met with the approval of the leaders of the party." Some debate took place which the report summarizes, and after Mr. Burdett had stated his opinion that "the candidate as well as the electors should sign a pledge," the amendment was lost and the Convention proceeded to nominate candidates. The first motion made was as follows: "Mr. Lee moved, seconded by Dr. Hope, that JAMES BROWN, M.P., be the nominee of this Convention." A number of other gentlemen were nominated, but all retired except Mr. Brown, who, the report informs us, was "made the nominee of the party amidst great applause." Mr. Brown was apprised of the action of the Convention, and appeared before it and accepted the nomination. How in the face of this record of facts Mr. Brown could make the statement which he undeniably did is strange beyond a peradventure. In doing so he was ungrateful to the party who placed him in the field, and doubly so to those leaders of the party with which he has chosen to ally himself, and whose approval of his course in Parliament led their followers to make him their nominee. It may be Mr. Brown's idea that by such a denial he may win back some of his former Conservative supporters, but such an idea he will find to be delusory. He has forfeited the confidence of his old friends, for whose support extending over many years he has returned nothing but ingratitude, and having made his political bed he must lie in it.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.—The imports into the Dominion of Canada for the month of July are valued at $7,530,432; duty collected, $1,065,062. The exports for a similar period were as follows:—Produce of the mine, $169,221; do. fisheries $192,768; do. forest $2,083,804; animals and their produce, $1,490,712; agricultural products, $1,033,253; manufactures, $167-820; miscellaneous articles, $20,190; total produce of Canada, $5,667,535; coin and bullion, $37,545; goods not the produce of Canada, $93,003; grand total, $6,635,083.

THE HANLAN REGATTA.—About four thousand people assembled on the Island, at Toronto, on Friday the 30th inst. to see the professional race got up by the champion. The weather was fine, the water smooth, and everything passed off most successfully. The course was three miles with turn. The starters were: Wallace and E. Ross, Morris, Luther, Plaisted, McKen and Elliott. Morris led nearly from the start to the finish, and won a fine race by three lengths from Plaisted, who was half a length ahead of Wallace Ross, Luther being fourth, McKen fifth, Elliott sixth, and E. Ross, who pulled in his brother's big boat, seventh. The time was nominally given as 22 min.

THE SUGAR QUESTION.

By one stroke of R. J. Cartwright's pen, Redpath's Sugar Refinery at Montreal was closed up, throwing two hundred skilled mechanics, four hundred laborers, and about two hundred horses out of work. Over two hundred of these men are to-day working in New York and Boston, and nearly a million dollars' worth of property is lying idle. This killed our West India trade, as there was no use for the lower qualities of raw sugars without refineries. Thus we see our shipping was interfered with. Since the closing of the refinery our white sugars are brought from New York and Boston, and yellow sugar from England and Scotland. The Americans, after several attempts, have mastered the Scotch and English manufacturers, and are to-day making nearly all the yellow sugars used in Canada. This has been brought about by the American Government returning a large part of the duty paid on the raw material to the refiners on all sugars exported.

Now what Canada wants is a high duty on refined sugars, and a very low duty on the darker qualities of the raw sugars. This will open our refineries again, rebuild our West India Trade, and give a large number of our people work.

To give the people an idea of the effect of giving our trade to the Americans,—when Redpath was refining, the crushed sugar always sold 2½c. per lb. higher than the lower yellows. To day the lowest yellow sugar is 6¼c. and dry crushed is 10c., or 3¼c. per pound higher than the lowest grade of yellow. Granulated sugar was 2cts. per pound higher than the lowest grade of yellow. To-day, granulated is worth 9½c., or 3c. per pound higher than the lowest grade of yellow. This shows clearly that when the American get the monopoly they make us pay for it. We are paying 1 cent per pound higher than we should.

American ships and railways are getting the benefit of this trade, and American citizens are doing the work. The United States are manufacturing sugar for the world to-day, and this industry is gaining ground every day, and our legislators are looking on satisfied. We require wise legislation on this point, and a great industry can be rebuilt.

STEAMER BURNED.—The steamer M. K. D. owned by Capt. MacNaughton, and two barges lying in Currier's Bay, Ottawa, were destroyed by fire on the 31st ult. The loss will probably reach $15,000, on which there is no insurance. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

AN OLD INHABITANT GONE.—Mr. John Mallory, who for the past 37 years has been an officer of the Law Society in Toronto has died in his ninetieth year. He landed in Lower Canada in 1822, and was an officer in the celebrated "Royal William," said to have been the first steamer that ever crossed the Atlantic. He took an active part in the politics of Lower Canada, having aided Sir James Stewart in his efforts to quell a rebellion in Lower Canada. He was subsequently connected with the Commissariat staff in Toronto up till his connection with the Law Society was formed.

HOW IT WORKS.—On Wednesday, before the the Hewitt Committee, at present sitting on the other side the line to consider the subject of its industries, Mr. Roach, the eminent ship-builder of Philadelphia, said: "England had put a protection on corn until her whole territory was made a garden; by this means she had cheap bread, and could afford to develope her grains; when that time arrived the protection on corn was removed; next were introduced her navigation laws, and they were only removed when her navy and merchant marine were developed and her superiority on the sea was established." Is there any reason why history would not repeat itself in Canada?

GOVERNMENT PAPERS defend the increase of expenditure on civil service by saying that Sir John increased the number of appointments shortly before he went out of office. If he did so improperly, as his opponents allege, when they went into power they should have reduced the number of officials and carried on the government as economically as when in opposition they promised to do.

NORTH HASTINGS.

MR. O'FLYNN'S MEETING AT STIRLING.

A TRIUMPH FOR THE OPPOSITION.

On Friday evening, the 30th ult., a large number of the electors assembled at the Stirling Hall to hear Mr. O'Flynn, the Ministerial candidate, hold forth on the several public questions now so much discussed.

After order was had, Mr. Craige, the Reeve, was requested to act as Chairman, when Mr. O'Flynn, after complimenting the inhabitants on the fine appearance of the village and the large number attending the meeting, began by saying that if the Government had been lavish in their expenditure of the public moneys they ought to be dismissed, but he defied any one to prove that they were. As for the steel rails purchase, it was a perfectly proper transaction, and one which he could not but sustain the Government in. The Goderich Harbor job, so much spoken of, was a matter which would bear any scrutiny; he also alleged that the contracts entered into by Mr. Mackenzie were more favorable than those which the old Government had entered into, and the Government had saved money, and had always given them to the lowest tender, whereby the country had not suffered any loss. He also gave out the old and stale matter of Sir John's appointments in his last year of office as being in number about 600—as also the often made statement that Sir John dare not and would not be allowed to fill the position of Privy Councillor of England by reason of his acts. Protection it was only buncombe, and the country did not require it, and he quoted the London Times, W. C. Bryant, and others, in support of free trade,—and as for the Barley question, beyond a doubt the consumer paid the duty.

Mr. O'Flynn also pleaded hard and long with his hearers, in fact became quite pathetic over the assertion that as he was a local man, his claims upon the people were far in advance of Mr. Bowell's and he wished to be informed what Mr. Bowell had done for the people, and charged that Mr. Bowell never had given an independent vote in or out of the House. He made a vain attempt to shew his hearers that there was not a political stain on Mr. Mackenzie's Government and closed by saying he would not go pledged to support Mackenzie or any other Government, and it would be a public calamity for John A. to return to power. After speaking over two hours and the meeting for some time having shewed themselves restless, he sat down without a cheer.

Dr. Roulter, who had been taking notes, was called upon to address the meeting. He took up the several arguments and assertions as they had been made by Mr. O'Flynn, and as the hour was late said he would only touch upon them as time would not permit of more. He showed to the meeting conclusively that Mr. Mackenzie's brother was a partner in the firm of Cooper, Fairman & Co. and benefitted by the transaction notwithstanding Mr. O'Flynn's statement to the contrary, and was followed by Mr. Bunbling his brother to withdraw the amount of capital he had invested, which he would probably have lost, and showed beyond a doubt and in a convincing manner that favoritism had been shown by Mr. Mackenzie in the letting of the contract for the Goderich Harbor job.

On this Mr. O'Flynn rose majestically and informed the meeting that Dr. Roulter was wrong in saying that the late Mr. Neilson had tendered for the work, when the Dr. read the tender of Mr. Neilson, much to the mortification of Mr. O'Flynn and to the humiliation of Mr. O'Flynn's friends in the room at their candidate's wild statement, and when the Dr. shewed the falsity in the number of the alleged appointments, quoting from the official reports, the audience was complete. Seeing that his sheet anchors had been lost and his vessel was rapidly drifting on the rocks, Mr. O'Flynn's appearance was pitiable. The Dr. also cut up the figures of Mr. O'Flynn in the way of Departmental expenses, shewing to the meeting from the records that these had increased since 1874, and that the Government had increased the debt over $30,000,000 in five years. The Dr. also followed up the question of the National policy, and as Mr. O'Flynn stated he did not know what it was, he read Sir John's resolution, also shewing that our farmers had to take 15 cents per bushel less for their barley than the Americans received for theirs by reason of the jug-handled policy of the Government. He so riddled the fallacious arguments of Mr. O'Flynn on this topic, that in the opinion of all it would have been better that that gentleman had left the question alone. The Dr. shewed that England under protection had made herself what she is, the manufacturer for the world, and that the United States was rapidly making her mark in the same direction, but he did not wish the people to believe the statement of Ministerialists that Sir John intended to have the same tariff as the United States, which would be absurd.

The meeting was convulsed with laughter at a little incident which transpired.

Mr. O'Flynn asserted that Sir John had increased the debt of the country with the contract of the Pacific Railway $30,000,000, when the Dr. shewed it to be false, as no contract was entered into, and requested Mr. O'Flynn not to again repeat it in his canvass, when he meekly promised that he would not.

The meeting was enthusiastically with Dr. Roulter's remarks with the cheers of the meeting, which was largely in favor of Mr. Bowell.

Cheese Market.

This market has, for a week past, been gradually losing strength, until to-day, it is only by dint of great effort that it is able to sell upright. From England instructions have just been received by cable not to ship July cheese, but to sell here, as stocks on the other side are accumulating. The receipts in New York are astonishingly heavy, and, as English operators are taking less, the market there is in a bad way and prices are off, for even fancy sorts. According to a report of the cheese market at Ingersoll, on Wednesday, many factories refused to offer their August make, although 9½c was bid, and 11c, it is stated, was offered for August, September and October. Only a few miles distant from Ingersoll, and on the same day, the Woodstock cheese market was held, the report of which states that, owing to the dullness of the market, the several factories present did not register, and no transactions were reported. The attempt to lift prices by the Board of Trade previously referred to by us, may account for the improbable tenor of their report. The shipments from Montreal this week by English steamers will be 17,542 boxes, against 17,676, last week. Business here is at a complete stand still; the market is weak and prices are lower, and it is questioned whether 8c could be obtained to day for choice spot offerings.—Star.

M. E. General Conference.

The proceedings of the General Conference for Thursday and Friday will be found on the first page of to-day's issue.

FIFTH DAY.

August 31.

Conference opened at ten o'clock, Bishop Carman, D. D., presiding.

The Committee on the Book Room and Publishing Interests reported. The Committee recommend that the Christian Advocate be enlarged to an eight page paper, and that one man, with such aid as he may secure, be the Editor and Book Agent.

The Committee on Lay Delegation reported that the principle of lay delegation has been conceded by the General Conference for years. The Committee recommend a plan for the election of the lay delegates by the calling of an electoral college composed of one member from each circuit, station, and mission throughout the Church, such electoral college to meet in January before each General Conference. The laity shall have equal representation with the ministers in the General Conference. This measure will no doubt pass the Conference and the General Conference of 1882 will be composed of laity and ministers equally. This is a popular question, and the Church desires to bring up its legislation to the demands of the age. The question elicited considerable discussion, in which Revs. S. G. Stone, W. Pirritte, W. H. Graham, J. M. Simpson, J. Curtis, H. Wilson, G. White, J. Gardiner and others participated.

The Committee on Obituary reported, giving the programme for a memorial service in memory of Bishop Richardson, D. D., deceased.

Twelve o'clock having arrived, the Conference adjourned with the benediction, pronounced by Rev. S. L. Kerr.

In the afternoon, Bishop Haven, of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States, was introduced to the Bishop, who in a few well chosen remarks, introduced him to the Conference.

Bishop Haven expressed great pleasure in being permitted to meet the Conference. He had been taught to shout Hallelujah for that for which he could give no reason. He thought all Methodists would ultimately come to accept Mr. Wesley's views concerning its government. He referred to his visit to England during the time of the American rebellion, and related some of his experience with the Watchman, in which one half an article he wrote was published while the other was omitted. His politics were the rights of all the people of every color. Methodist claim the right to adopt the best means to win the world to Christ. Methodism has leavened the doctrines of other churches. He congratulated the Conference on the efficiency of the various departments of the appropriate work of the Church, particularly in the erection of fine church buildings and educational institutions, such as that now in course of erection at St. Thomas. Methodism has itinerancy regulated in law, but other Churches have itinerancy without regulation. He expressed himself as a strong conservative with regard to church polity, the polity given us by John Wesley. He spoke strongly in favor of the presiding eldership and in comparing our system with that of others he thought ours was much to be preferred and that we had better adhere to what we had got and retain it in its entirety. The bishop closed his excellent address by reference to the proposed Ecumenical Methodist Council, believing it would tend to bind all more closely together. He also spoke strongly in favor of lay delegation, provision for the introduction of which has been made by this conference. He congratulated the Conference on the excellency of its Government, the salubrity of the climate, and urged them to hold on to Christ.

The following resolution was then moved by Rev. W. Pirritte and seconded by Dr. Webster, and carried:—

"That we hail with great delight the presence amongst us of the Rev. Bishop Haven, of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States. We are very much gratified by his visit, encouraged by his words, and cheered by his address. We assure the Bishop of our profound regard for himself and the Church of which he is an honored superintendent. We sympathize with him in his indisposition, and devoutly pray that he may be speedily restored to his wonted health, and that himself and his daughter be prospered in their journey, and that in the providence of God they may both be brought in safety to their own land and in their own home."

After the adoption of the resolution,

Rev. J. Gardiner was called, who congratulated the Conference in its enjoyment of the privilege of listening to the eloquent utterances and wise counsels of the beloved Bishop Haven.

Dr. Jaques being called expressed his gratification at the privilege of meeting with the highly esteemed Bishop.

Dr. Webster referred to his meeting with Bishop Haven some eighteen years ago, when he found in him then a true friend. His friendship to the Church has not abated. The great work of the Church is the salvation of souls, but he felt that was more closely to the ministers from the parent Church.

Rev. Mr. Benson Smith expressed his gratification in being permitted to enjoy the services of the hour and to take part therein.

Rev. E. Bristol expressed his warmth of affection for the old Church policy, and for those who adhere to it. He thought the Bishop's address was timely.

Dr. Pilcher expressed his desire for the unification of Methodism on this continent under the episcopal form of Church government. All his efforts would tend in that direction. He was here from choice declaring Canada to be his adopted country.

Rev. S. Morrison expressed in a very humorous way the same sentiments as uttered by previous speakers.

Dr. Stone heartily reciprocated all the words of congratulation and kindness to which he had listened and thought that if Episcopal Methodism meant anything over the lines it meant something here, and those who visit us from the parent body in speaking of that polity mean all they say.

The hour of adjournment having arrived the committees were called and the benediction pronounced.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, SEPT. 2.

City and Vicinity.

CITY COUNCIL.—A regular meeting will be held this evening.

MEETING TO-NIGHT.—Mr. Wallbridge and other gentlemen will address a gathering of the electors at Sidney Town Hall this evening.

THE CONFERENCE.—It is expected that the M. E. General Conference, now in session here, will conclude its labors on Friday next.

VITAL STATISTICS.—The vital statistics of the city for the month of August were, as registered: Births 18; Marriages 4; Deaths 16.

PARDEE & LLOYD.—We understand that Mr. Lloyd has given notice of appeal to the Court of Appeals from the award of the arbitrators.

CRICKET IN SYRACUSE.—The Port Hope club beat the Onondagas of Syracuse at that city last Thursday, making 125 in one inning to 46 and 77 (total 123) for Syracuse.

SUDDEN DEATH.—We are informed that Mr. Andrew Wright, merchant of Madoc, was found dead in his bed this morning. The cause of death was not known to our informant.

PERSONAL.—Messrs. Angus McFee and Wesley Bullen have reached home after a two months' tour in Great Britain and on the continent of Europe. Both gentlemen seem to have gathered health and strength from their trip.

CHEAP EXCURSION.—Another of those popular excursions per the swift steamer Cit of Belleville will take place to-morrow. The steamer will leave Campbell & Co's wharf at 3 p. m., and will leave Picton on the return at 7:30 p. m.

INLAND REVENUE.—The collections in the Belleville District during the month of August were as follows: Spirits $4,017.15; Tobacco $904.90; Malt $220.60; Licenses $100. Total $2,242.65. Same month last year, $4,499.59. Increase $743.06.

Promote perspiration in colds and chills with SANFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER.

THE SEASON.—There can be no complaint of lack of moisture this season. On the contrary, there has been more than farmers like, grain having been damaged in many instances; but meanwhile the root crops are thriving, and fruit trees have seldom or never looked better than they do at present. On Saturday night Jupiter Pluvius was very generous, a large amount of rain having followed the southerly gale of Saturday.

POLICE RETURNS.—During the month ending 31st August the police made a total of thirty-eight arrests of persons charged with the following offences: Assault and battery 2; drunk 10; drunk and disorderly 8; exposing his person 1; house-breaking 1; horse stealing 1; larceny 4; threatening 1; trespass 3; vagrancy 7. Fourteen persons were summoned, charged as follows: Abusive language 6; assault 5; assault and battery 1; breach of liquor act 2; non-registration of dogs 3.

BELLEVILLE AND NORTH HASTINGS RAILWAY.—Mr. Bickford commenced work in earnest on his contract for the completion of this road this morning. A locomotive and fifteen platform cars left for the north via the Grand Junction, carrying a force of laborers, to whose numbers will be added a number of men living near the line in North Hastings. Some delay has been occasioned as to putting in the diamond crossing over the Grand Trunk, which will be placed in position at an early day. In the meantime, a new switch is being put in south of the crossing, to enable the trains to get to the wharf. We hope, and have every reason to believe, that the work will now be pushed forward to completion within the time specified in the contract.

THE CHURCHES.—The threatening appearance of the weather seriously affected attendance at the churches yesterday, morning and evening. Still, considerable congregations gathered in the various churches where the Rev. gentlemen appointed by the M. E. Conference conducted the services. The M. E. Tabernacle was, however, an exception to the rule, being crowded at each of the three services. In the morning the Rev. John Todd, D. D., of New York, Fraternal Delegate from the M. E. Church in the United States, delivered a powerful discourse worthy of his great reputation. In the afternoon the Rev. A. Youker, of Chicago, Pastor of the West End Moody Church, delivered an eloquent sermon to a large congregation, and in the evening the Rev. S. G. Stone, editor of the C. C. Advocate, Hamilton, preached with his accustomed eloquence and power. On the whole, the services were of a rare order and merit, such as are seldom heard even in Belleville, favored as it has been with the presence at various times of many earnest divines.

ACCIDENT.—William Koelcher, employed in Messrs. Baker's "Eagle" saw mill, Ferry Point, had a part of one of the fingers of his right hand cut off and another of the fingers severely cut by a buzz saw this afternoon.

TEMPERANCE.—The public are invited to a public Temperance Meeting in the Bleecker Street Methodist Church this evening, beginning at 7:30 p. m. Choice music by the choir, and excellent addresses by Rev. F. Chisholm, and S. Card and other members of the General Conference of the M. E. Church now in session in this city. Admission free.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING.—The meeting of the Liberal Conservative Association of East Hastings, held in the Conservative Association rooms here on Saturday, was well attended. The most cheering reports were received from various localities, and it is quite evident that the contest will be conducted with spirit and enthusiasm, the determination being to make Mr. White's majority as large as possible.

MEETING AT CLARK'S SCHOOL HOUSE.—A very successful meeting in the interest of Mr. Wallbridge was held at Clark's School House, Sidney, on Friday evening. Addresses were delivered by the candidates and by some of their supporters, the feeling being very largely in favor of the Opposition candidate. Mr. Clute, with the rashness characteristic of Grit platform orators, asserted that 300,000 men are unemployed in Massachusetts, which statement Mr. Fraleck showed to be a gross exaggeration, the State Bureau of Massachusetts having made an exhaustive inquiry into the matter, and reporting but 21,813 idle men in that commonwealth.

YACHTING IN OSWEGO.—The Oswego Palladium of Wednesday says:—"The S. S. and A. H. M. clubs held a meeting last evening and organized "The Oswego Yacht Club" with the following officers: President, W. B. Phelps, jr.; secretary, H. R. Shead; treasurer, W. E. Grigg; managing committee, Messrs. Lee, Irwin, Worts, Higgins, Henderson, Ames. It is proposed to have a regatta about September 15, if there is sufficient encouragement. A sub committee will call on citizens immediately for the purpose of seeing if a sufficient sum can be raised. The committee secured between $75 and $100 in subscriptions this forenoon, which would seem to put the question of a regatta among the certainties. From $200 to $300 is about the necessary sum." We note this movement with pleasure, as the people of Oswego seem to be enthusiastic supporters of yachting, for which they have unsurpassed facilities. Organization was the one thing needed, and now that this has been secured, and under the most favorable auspices, the sport is certain to prove highly successful amongst our neighbors.

DROWNED AT HASTINGS.—The Norwood Register says:—"We regret to learn that Mr. Nicholas Keating, father of the Messrs. Keating of Asphodel and Dummer, met his death by drowning at Hastings on Monday of last week. It appears that the old gentleman was returning home on horseback about 9 o'clock on that evening, when he was invited by Mr. T. Hurley, of that village, to stay at his place for the night, and, after consenting, enquired if he could procure water for his horse, and was answered in the affirmative. He then went, it is supposed, on this errand, and was not seen after alive. Being missed by his friends, and the horse returning home riderless, enquiry was made for the missing man, but no tidings could be obtained of his whereabouts. On the Wednesday following, however, some gentlemen of Hastings searched the waters in the vicinity of the Lock, and a little below it found the body of Mr. Keating. The surmise is that, proceeding either to water his horse or to Mr. Hurley's,—the night being very dark—he walked or fell into the basin of the lock, and striking in his descent some hard substance, as a severe and ghastly wound was found on his head, sufficient of itself, we were informed, to cause death."

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—A special from the South says Dr. Woolfolk, of Paducah, has arrived at Grenada to render assistance. He never had the fever, and was urged to return, but insists on remaining, saying it is his duty. He is the Democrat candidate for Lieut. Governor of Kentucky.

Rev. Dr. Hall, Baptist, and Campbell, Presbyterian, at Grenada are dead. At Memphis, Rev. Geo. Harris, dean of St. Mary's Episcopal Cathedral, is sick. A woman who called to secure Dr. Hodge's services, on opening the door found Hodges lying helpless from fever; but for this discovery he would have died, without attention. Two cases have broken out at the Father Matthew aid camp, 6 miles from the city, one of the cleanest and healthiest localities. A number of cases are also reported at Fort Pickering, which has been exempt from epidemics since 1857, when fever desolated it. The fever has taken entire possession of the city and suburbs. Visitors continue to report finding dead bodies; one found yesterday in the upper story of a library building was so decomposed, it was impossible to ascertain whether the victim was white or black.

Saw mills and lumber dealers having closed, it is thought the Mayor will press all lumber found, to be converted into coffins for pauper dead. An impression prevails that all the whites in Memphis will be attacked.

If the fever makes as great drafts on working organizations during the coming ten days as it has during the past ten days, nobody will be left to direct efforts of nurses and distribution of supplies. Doctors, nurses, undertakers, and even grave diggers, are broken down. It is a common occurrence for two or three dead bodies to be found in the same house. It is becoming difficult to maintain order among the mob at the relief offices. The supplies are really exhausted.

At Greenville, north of Vicksburg, the town is panic stricken. Twenty cases of fever are reported, although it was strictly quarantined with every road guarded night and day.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Special agents have traced the numerous mail robberies in Kentucky to Mrs. Dizney, wife of the Postmaster at Brafford's.

Advices from Hickman, Ky., report the cases there billious, not yellow fever.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—A blasphemous maniac disturbed the communion service at St. John the Baptist Episcopal Church yesterday, then cursed Dr. Bevans' congregation as they were leaving the church on the opposite side of the street. The maniac escaped.

It is reported that Jas. Gordon Bennett brought from France a steeple chaser which has made extraordinary time and cost $10,000.

Julius Hildebrand was found dead from consumption in a miserable tenement yesterday. He was an educated gentleman, with wealthy relatives in Hanover.

A benefit for the fever sufferers announced at the Grand Opera house yesterday was prevented by the police under the Sunday law.

Ex-Alderman De Witt Clinton Daniels was killed yesterday at Brooklyn by falling down stairs.

The Sun recounts the travels of Owen Murphy, defaulting excise commissioner and says he is now in Brazil trying to secure a railroad contract.

Fernando Wood said to a Tribune reporter he thought we were on the eve of the greatest prosperity the American people have ever seen. He favors Canadian reciprocity.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 2.—Several newspapers report that Schouvaloff is about to be appointed chief of the new Ministry of Police, including the whole gen d'armerie and police administration hitherto under the control of the Minister of the Interior; that Prince Orloff, ambassador at Paris, will succeed Schouvaloff at London; that Novikoff, ambassador at Vienna, will go to Paris, and Prince Doubril, ambassador at Berlin, to Vienna.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—A Constantinople despatch of August 30th says: According to authentic information, direct from Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Austrians are acting with great energy, but with moderation and perfect discipline. Nevertheless reports are circulated that the army of occupation has been guilty of many excesses. These accusations bear a singular resemblance to charges brought against the Russian army in Bulgaria and Roumelia. This explains perhaps the change which recently occurred in the attitude of the Austrians in the Rhodope Commission. Till a few days ago the Austrian delegate gave his active co-operation in the preparation of the report, but now, to the surprise of his colleagues, he seems indisposed to sign the document.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 2.—Miss Davis, from New Orleans, was removed to the hospital last week, suffering from yellow fever. Her case to-day is considered very critical.

A death from yellow fever is reported at Franklin, Ohio.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 2.—New cases, 195; deaths 77.

MILFORD, Ill., Sept. 2.—The Central elevator, occupied by Stephens & Roberts, with three adjoining shops filled with manufactured lumber, were burned on Sunday. Loss, $72,000.

DETROIT, Sept. 2.—The saloon keepers united yesterday to resist the Sunday liquor law, assembling in large numbers at a Hall, where beer flowed like water. Four prominent saloon keepers, officiating as waiters, were arrested. 50 Germans, headed by a brass band, marched to the police station last night and demanded their release but in vain.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Glosser, wife of a respectable old farmer residing near Detroit, went into her husband's room to awaken him and found him murdered. The skull was broken. A bloody axe was near by. Christopher Brienstinbach, aged 17, their grandson, who slept in the same room, but is now missing with $40 which the old man had, is suspected.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Arrived out, the steamers Sorrento and State of Virginia.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region, moderate to fresh winds, and partly cloudy weather with local rains. For the St. Lawrence light to moderate winds, and partly cloudy weather with local rains. For the Maritime Provinces, light to moderate winds, and partly cloudy weather, with light rain in some localities.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Indications:—clear or partly cloudy, stationary temperature.

For the Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, 2nd. Sept., 1878.

MR. EDITOR,—Several Orangemen have through your columns addressed the public on "the effigy burning." Permit me the following: When I heard it was contemplated having a procession and burning Mayor Beaudry in effigy, I saw a number of my brother Orangemen, who one and all expressed their strongest abhorrence of the contemplated act, and we set ourselves earnestly to prevent it. Bro. Wm. Johnson took the matter in hand, and it was finally believed that through him the procession and the burning had been given up.

You will understand that the Orange Association has no control over or connection with the True Blues. I am confident that the Orangemen almost to a man denounce and repudiate the act and refuse to be held responsible for it. In my enquiries the names of two Orangemen have been mentioned several times as aiders and instigators of the act, viz. N. B. Falkiner and Dr. Potts. They can speak for themselves.

Yours truly,
GEO. D. DICKSON,
Past County Master.

Don Quixote Eclipsed.

To the Editor of the Daily Intelligencer.

SIR,—Of course you have read the exploits of Don Quixote and you remember how that doughty Knight successfully—in his own opinion—vanquished all his enemies, and after "thrice slaying all the slain" returned home to receive the plaudits of his country, who for the first time learnt from himself of his mighty acts. Well, Sir, I was strongly reminded of this self-conceited individual, by reading in your local contemporary of last evening, of the marvels—according to their account—wrought by two Belleville lawyers who guided by the northern Star went to Hawdon and there met those pigmies—in their opinion—Messrs. Bowell and Boulter, who according to their tale they completely demolished, knocking them into a cocked hat and making them feel so small that they wanted to crawl through a key-hole. Alas! Alas!! that we have only now, know—from themselves however—(what's that remark about "tooting your own horn")—of the marvellous powers possessed by these gentlemen.

"The flowers that are born to blush unseen
And lose their sweetness on the desert air."

Are a fitting illustration of these gentlemen, Think of the brilliant rhetoric—sharp and incisive wit, glowing imagination, and graceful gestures of these gentlemen, and then, think, O! think, of what our city has lost by not knowing sooner—from themselves—that they possessed all these. Why! yes, everybody who knows them and the men—they say—they demolished, quite concur in their high opinion of themselves and of their transcendent abilities. Go on, gentlemen, some more misrepresentation, "pile on the agony," it's all helping (!) your cause as you will learn when the 17th of September arrives.

FARMERS OF ONTARIO.—Do not be misled and deceived by free trade theorists. Do not allow foreign rivals to get all the profits from the Canadian buyers. Do not allow foreign banks to absorb all the money that should be kept at home to foster the progress and maintain the future prosperity of the Dominion. "Fair play is bonnie play." Let us insist upon having it at the hands of our legislators. Vote against every Government candidate, and prove that men who are recreant to their trust will not be endorsed by intelligent electors.

The Reformers (in opposition) strongly urged the total independence of the Dominion and Provincial Governments. Perhaps that is why the Hon. O. Mowat, M.P. P., Premier of Ontario, and the Hon. A. S. Hardy, M. P. P., Provincial Secretary, are now advertised under those titles, to address public meetings in South Bruce in support of Mr. Blake as a candidate for the House of Commons, why Mr. Joly and his colleagues are doing their best for the Dominion Government candidate in Quebec, why the Provincial Government of Nova Scotia have dissolved the Legislature and run their elections concurrently with those for the House of Commons, and why Provincial Treasurer Wood is "stumping" for the Grit candidate in South Victoria.

Diversified industry is a defence against famine.

The rewards of labor increase as occupations become diversified.

The farmer near a market is always enriching his land.

No merely agricultural country is wealthy.

Foreigners using our markets should pay their share of our taxes.

The nation which begins by exporting its raw material ends by exporting its men.

Where there are no manufactures the farmers' children must emigrate.

Diversity of industries and combination of action result from protection.

Mackenzie's jobbery and blundering have resulted in a direct loss to the country of over four millions of dollars. Yet the electors are asked to throw up their hats and cheer for Mackenzie, "Reform" and honest capable Government.

The Government are preparing to expend $29,000 to beat Mr. Laugevin in Rimouski. They will spend $10,000 on a wharf at Matane, $5,000 on a wharf at Riviere Blanche, and have just paid $16,000 to Judge Tessier, father-in-law of the local member, Hon. Mr. Chauveau, to relieve the cenasitures of the Seigniory owned by the Hon. Judge of the duty owing by them to the Judge of the journier de course, (days' labor), which, according to the deeds of concession, they were obliged to furnish their Seignior, but which up to date for short time was never exacted. The exaction of such duty exasperated the censitaires against their Seignor, who through his son-in-law the Hon. Mr. Chauveau, has repeatedly urged upon the local Government to consent that the estimated value $16,000 be paid by the Federal Government, the refusal of which undoubtedly contributed to the withdrawal of his support from the Conservative party. This is the way in which the standard is to be elevated in Quebec.

Journals which are opposed to the National Policy are advising what a few manufacturers have said in reference to their business and the profits they have made thereby under the present tariff. But how foolish to argue that because a reaping machine factory in one place and a tub factory in another have made money, therefore there is no need for any modification of tariff, as every one else may do the same. Do these journals not see that the very exceptions prove the rule? Canada sanight as well give up the political ghost at once, if she could not furnish some instances of prosperity among her manufacturers. It would be too late to talk of a "National Policy," or any other policy, after her factories were closed and their occupants gone to the States.

Another warning comes to Canada that she must be up and doing with a view to protecting herself—a service which no one else will perform for her, particularly in the case where the respective interests are, under existing conditions, so diametrically opposed as are those of ourselves and the United States. If we do not encourage our nascent home manufactures, and other interests, there are other countries which are in no way possessed by such blindness as ourselves ; and no one is more ready to discharge this duty on its own behalf than the United States, which has decided that foreign-built steam vessels cannot ply in its interior waters. A word to the wise sometimes goes a long way. Will any one take the hint that this incident conveys, and endeavor to profit by it? To the Americans in regard to their policy with respect to Canadian shipping and other interests, it would not be at all out of place to apply the facts which gave rise to, as well as the conclusions contained in the poetical dispatch of Mr. Canning to Sir Charles Bagot :—

"In matters of commerce the fault of the Dutch
Is giving too little and asking too much ;
With equal advantage the French are content,
So well clap on Dutch bottoms a twenty per cent.'

Now equal advantages are all that the most advanced advocates of a National policy desire, and a precedent for them is found in the above quoted incident in British history as well as in dozens of others which could very easily be produced. Our American neighbors have a peculiar weakness for giving too little and asking too much. For our part we shall have in the asking way to go at least as far as they do or we shall get nothing at all.

Extracts from a letter from C. H. S. Cronkhite, Esq.

CANTERBURY STATION, York Co., N. B., October 10th, 1876.

MR. J. H. ROBINSON.

DEAR SIR : In reply to your letter of enquiry, I would say that your Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime is the best preparation of the kind I have ever seen or taken.

I was ordered by my physician to take it, and commenced about the last of August, and since that time I have felt a different man, and also look differently, and all for the better, as the doctor can testify.

I was unable in the summer, to walk any distance without much fatigue. I can now take my gun and travel all day, and feel first-rate at night, and eat as much as any lumber man. Have not bled any since I took your preparation, and can now inflate my lungs without feeling any soreness, and I think I can inflate them up to full measurement same as before I was sick ; have also gained in flesh, my weight in the summer was 173 lbs., and now it is nearly 190 lbs., which is pretty well up to my former weight.

The foregoing is a correct statement which I am prepared to swear to, and I hereby authorise you to give it publicity in my name.

"I am, dear sir, yours truly,

(Signed) C. H. S. CRONKHITE.

We, the undersigned, hereby consent to have our names published as witnesses to the effects of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion on the person of Mr. Cronkhite, and do assert that the statement is correct in every particular.

Personal knowledge and common sense reasoning will soon show you that Green's August Flower will cure you of Liver Complaint, or Dyspepsia, with all its miserable effects, such as sick headache, palpitation of the heart, sour stomach, habitual costiveness, dizziness of the head, nervous prostration, low spirits, &c. Its sales now reach every town on the Western Continent and not a druggist but will tell you of its wonderful cures. You can buy a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Three doses will relieve you. d&w.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Deny it who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer; it is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.

The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price, 25 cents per Bottle.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The First Session of the Third Parliament of British Columbia was opened on the 30th of July, and on the following day the reply to the speech of the Lieutenant-Governor was moved by Mr. Wilson, and seconded by Mr. R. S. Galbraith, M.P.P., of Kootenay, formerly of this city. The following is part of Mr. Galbraith's speech, which will be read with special interest by his many friends, and yet which will be of interest to all our readers, as it presents the views of the Liberal Conservatives, the party now in power in British Columbia:

Mr. Galbraith, in rising to second the reply to the address, said he regretted that the duty had not fallen into better hands. The work, however, had been made comparatively easy by the able manner in which his hon. friend who had just sat down had treated it. As a Mainland member, he (Mr. G.) supposed that it was expected that he should express his views on that most important subject, the railway question. He could assure the Speaker that he heartily endorsed the stand taken by the Government with regard to the removal of the rails from the Island for purposes other than that for which they were intended [Hear, hear, and applause.] He would ask if the removal of the steel rails meant an early commencement of the great work? He, for one did not take it as an earnest of Canada's intention to fulfil her treaty obligations with this county, any more than the advertisement issued in some of our local papers calling for tenders for the removal of these rails, when he knew that the route had not yet been decided on. (Hear, hear.) Our duty as British Columbians was very plain. Let us stand firmly together and not be divided on this important matter. Let us demand what we are fairly and justly entitled to—namely, our treaty rights guaranteed to us when we entered into Confederation. (Hear, hear and applause.) Let us demand the fulfilment of those terms (hear, hear, and applause,) not as Island members or as Mainland members, but as British Columbians. (Applause.) Let us show no wavering, no division, but a united action,—and let us demand of Canada a fulfilment of those obligations entered into and solemnly ratified by the people of Canada by a large majority. Should Canada still refuse to fulfil her agreement within a reasonable time, an alternative painful to the mind of every true lover of Confederation presented itself, but he sincerely hoped that no such alternative would be forced upon us. (Hear, hear.) We are all agreed that the finances require earnest attention, and he hoped for the future that the revenue and expenditure would be more closely equalized. He hoped the Graving Dock would relieve us of a great burden. He was pleased to see that the Government intended to introduce the Municipal system—a system that worked well in Ontario and other portions of the Dominion. Such a system, when once introduced, would relieve the Government of a great deal of legislation and responsibility in the matter of roads and bridges. The experience of other portions of the Dominion showed that such matters were better managed by Municipalities. Great care, however, should be taken in adapting this system to districts where the population is sparse or migratory, such as mining sections; but he had no doubt the Government would make proper provisions for such districts. * * * * He was pleased that the Government intended to try and solve the Chinese problem. We were all agreed that something must be done in this matter. It is a question that is engaging the attention of other colonies, where to such a magnitude had the evil grown that measures had to be passed to prevent, if possible, any further emigration of this very undesirable class, who are no benefit to a country, but rather a great evil. (Hear, hear and applause.) * * *

One of the most important questions that will be considered by the Legislature at its present session will be the Chinese one, it will be seen that Mr. Galbraith refers to it in his speech. He evidently does not hold the "celestials" in high regard, and is in sympathy with the bill which has been introduced by the leader of the government and is entitled "a bill to tax Chinamen." The provisions of it are as follows:—

"The Chinese are exempt from all liability to pay taxes under the General Personal Property Assessment Act and School Tax Act. In order, however, that theo should be compelled to contribute to the revenue and assist in providing for the expense of maintaining the Government, every Chinaman will be obliged to take out a license each half year, for which he will have to pay thirty dollars, or sixty dollars for the year. Persons employing Chinamen are likewise compelled to make a true return of the number they so employ under a penalty of one hundred dollars. Chinamen unable or unwilling to pay for their license will be obliged to work on roads or other public works at a rate per diem to be specified, until the amount due is worked off. The toll collectors at Yale and at Telegraph Creek, Cassiar, will be instructed to allow no Chinaman to pass who cannot produce a license."

The Victoria Standard says:—

"In first looking at it, the tax of sixty dollars a year may appear high, but that is all the tax that Chinamen will have to pay. It is thus a manner of equalizing the Chinaman, whereby the special advantages he has hitherto enjoyed in competition with white men will be obliterated. Under this Act he will be compelled to bear his proper share of the cost of carrying on the business of the country. All the taxes hitherto levied, and which the Chinese were supposed to pay their part equally with white men, have been systematically evaded. And this has been going on for years, indeed, ever since there were Chinese in this country."

The practical working of this new method of dealing with the difficult problem of Chinese labor, will be watched with interest, and should it prove successful in British Columbia will doubtless be introduced by other places "cursed" (as they say) by Chinese immigration.

Agitation in England for Reciprocity.

The Birmingham (Eng.) Weekly Post, of the 16th inst., contains an account of the organization of an association, with Lord Bateman as President, called "The Central Reciprocity League," which is rapidly spreading in all the great manufacturing centres. Its object may be best known from the following extract:—

"The address attributes to foreign competition the cause to a very great extent of the existing depression in trade and continues: "It is an undeniable fact that the markets for our manufactured goods are being day by day manipulated by foreign traders, who seize the advantages offered them by our present free trade system, which allows them, unrestricted, to choke our markets with their goods, and as a natural consequence, to close against us a source as no denying the fact that French and German locomotives run on our railways, that tramcars made in New York run in the streets of Wolverhampton and other towns; that thousands of tons of iron pillars and girders, rails, and iron in all forms, are continually arriving from Belgium, and that the hardware and jewelry trades of Birmingham are paralyzed by the enormous importations from America and France. The lock-makers of Wolverhampton and Willenhall feel the serious effects of locks imported from the same countries. The Stafford and Northampton bootmakers are being robbed of their legitimate markets from the same cause. The Sheffield cutler stands aghast at the severe competition he is compelled to face; in fact, there is no branch of our industry that is not affected by the vast influx of foreign made articles, which are sold in our markets, and take the place of articles which would be made in this country; and our own manufacturers and artisans would be the recipients of the benefits accruing therefrom if we were to impose the same import tariff they would impose on our goods going into their ports." After pointing out that our yearly exports have decreased, and that our imports are largely in excess of our exports, and how different in the latter respect is the case in America, the address proceeds, "What is there to hinder us from adopting the same system existing in America? That is, they allow all kinds of un-manufactured products to enter their ports free of tariff." The address asks the working classes to come forward, and "let their watchword be reciprocity," and never cease agitating until they have obtained it.

Branches of the League are formed in Birmingham, Wolverhampton, Sheffield, and the manufacturing towns in Lancashire, and as its objects become more widely known and the effects of foreign competition more widely felt the adoption of the principle of "reciprocity of tariffs" will make rapid progress even in "Free Trade England."

There could not be a more forcible endorsement of the statesmanlike views of the leaders of the Liberal Conservative party in propounding their National Policy than this agitation in England for reciprocity of trade or reciprocity of tariffs instead of one-sided free trade.

Absolute Secrecy or the Ballot.

Now for the proof of our statement that the ballot papers are not numbered and that it cannot be found for whom an elector votes.

In introducing the Election Amendment Bill of last season, the Hon. Mr. Laflamme said in explanation of its provisions that they were intended to do away with the envelope system, to prevent fraud, and "to avoid the possibility of discovering who had voted." These are Mr. Laflamme's own words. In the official report we read as follows:

"Mr. Plumb wished to know what was meant by the numbering of the ballot papers. * * * *

"Mr. Laflamme said the ballot papers would not be numbered, but only the annexes, which would not be violated."

The clause respecting the manner of voting reads as follows:

"Each elector, being introduced, one at a time for each compartment, into the room where the poll is held, shall declare his name, surname and addition, which shall be entered or recorded in the voters' list to be kept for that purpose by the Poll Clerk; and if the same be found on the list of electors for the polling district of such polling station, he shall receive from the Deputy Returning Officer a ballot paper, on the back of which such Deputy Returning Officer shall have previously put his initials so placed that when the ballot is folded they can be seen without opening it; and on the counterfoil to which he shall have placed a number corresponding to that opposite the voter's name on the voters' list."

Let it be noted particularly that the number is put on the counterfoil, not on the ballot paper, the object of the number being placed on the counterfoil being to prevent the possibility of the ballot box being "stuffed" by a ballot paper being taken out and used during the day. Further on, section Six of the Act reads thus:

"The elector, on receiving the ballot paper shall forthwith proceed into one of the compartments of the polling station and there mark his ballot paper, making a cross with a pencil on any part of the ballot paper within a division containing the name or names of the candidate for whom he intends to vote, and shall then fold up such ballot paper so that the initials on the back can be seen without opening it and hand it to the Deputy Returning Officer, who shall without unfolding it, ascertain by examining his initials and the number upon the counterfoil that it is the same that he furnished to the elector, and shall first detach and destroy the counterfoil and shall then immediately, and in the presence of the elector, place the same in the ballot box."

This, then, disposes of the false representations made. There is no number placed on the ballot paper, but there is on the counterfoil, for the purpose of guarding against fraud, but when the Deputy Returning Officer identifies the ballot as the one given the elector to mark he "shall detach and destroy the counterfoil and then immediately, and in the presence of the elector," place the ballot in the box. Thus absolute secrecy is guaranteed, there being no number on the ballot paper and the counterfoil being destroyed.—Kingston News.

THE COMING STRUGGLE.

Our Battle Cry: "Protection to Home Industries."

The Opposition Policy.

The commercial policy of the Opposition is represented in the following resolution moved by Sir John Macdonald in the House of Commons:—

"That this House is of opinion that the welfare of Canada requires the adoption of a National Policy, which by a judicious readjustment of the Tariff will benefit and foster the Agricultural, the Mining, the Manufacturing and other interests of the Dominion; that such a policy will retain in Canada thousands of our fellow-countrymen now enforced to expatriate themselves in search of employment denied them at home; that the increased demand for home industries, the development of our resources, will encourage and develop an active interprovincial trade; and moving (as it ought to do) in the direction of the reciprocity of Tariffs with our neighbors, so far as the varied interests of Canada may demand, will greatly tend to procure for this Country, eventually, a reciprocity of Trade."

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, SEPT. 3.

CONFESSING ITS FAULTS.

The following extraordinary production appears in the Globe of the 2nd inst.:

The Belleville Intelligencer and New York Tribune both notice approvingly the assertion of the London Times to the effect that there is in England no disposition to fetter Canadian liberty of action in the matter of the tariff. Nobody ever said there was, in so far as the Imperial authorities are concerned, but the Times' assertion is worthless if the reference is to public opinion in the mother land. Not many years ago the Times was the organ and chief mouth-piece of those who held the colonists in light esteem, and if it is not actually trying now to play into their hands by leading us to adopt a commercial policy at variance with the interests of England, it it safe to say that by the time our policy had aroused public opinion against us, it would again be the mouth-piece of those who tell us we are free to go and set up for ourselves politically.

The above is one of the most awkward attempts we have ever seen to wriggle out of an untenable position. The Globe, with the easily discernible object of humbugging the electors, advanced the alarming proposition that if a protective tariff were adopted by Canada, the golden link which binds this great colony to the empire would ties would cest us off, because it is not even asserted that the people of Canada, or even any portion of them—except the Annexationists and Independents in the Cabinet and allied with the Grit party—desire to alter our present eminently satisfactory political position. If this was not the Globe's meaning then it meant nothing, as it cannot be pretended that any power in Great Britain outside of the Imperial Government could dismember the empire by casting off the colonies at its own will and pleasure. Therefore, when the Globe denies that it meant that the Imperial authorities would sever the connection between Canada and the empire, it seeks to set at naught the truth.

The Globe's reference to our being led to adopt a commercial policy at variance with the interests of England is still more self-condemnatory. The Times' article referred to a possible Reciprocity Treaty between Canada and the United States, which the Globe, it now seems, condemns as disloyal, although the chief editor of that journal tried very hard four years ago to negotiate one, offering large advantages to our neighbors, and he was even charged with influencing the press of the United States in the attempt to effect the object he had in view, but in which he failed. However, we are pleased to have the Globe's declaration that its "loyalty" cry meant nothing in reality, and that it is now opposed to a Reciprocity Treaty between Canada and the United States.

NOTHING IN IT.

The report that the United States Government had opened communication with that of Great Britain for the negotiation of a Reciprocity Treaty with Canada proves to be, as we believed it was, a falsehood, published with the intention of assisting the Free-trade party in this country in the elections. Secretary Evarts, a Washington telegram informs us, utterly denies having taken any such action as was attributed to him. Our markets are now controlled by United States manufacturers and farmers, and it is a dead certainty that no Reciprocity Treaty will be asked for by the United States until our markets are closed against them.

Nero Fiddled, &c.—The Halifax Reporter and Times looks at Mr. Mackenzie's speeches during his recent tour through the Maritime Provinces in their proper light when it says that Nero fiddled while Rome was burning, and we suppose it is deemed in order for Mr. Mackenzie to amuse the people of Canada with comics, while they are suffering from a long continued depression, the evidence of which is seen in the fact that in the years 1875-6-7 there were 5,586 failures in business, with an aggregate amount of liabilities of nearly eighty millions of dollars—in the lack of hope among the people generally, and in the closing of sugar refineries and the transfer of numbers of manufacturing establishments to the United States.

The Workingman vs. Free Trade.

It is a standing assertion of the advocates of Free Trade doctrines that their system benefits the working classes and that protection must necessarily operate to their disadvantage; and that therefore the free-traders should be acknowled by the workingmen as their friends, while they ought to regard the protectionists as their enemies. In order to make this appear they persistently propound certain fallacies, and make certain misrepresentations, some of the more prominent of which it is our intention to expose and to controvert.

In the first place the system which they advocate is not free trade at all. There can be no free trade between two nations one of which taxes the products of the other from 25 to 75 per cent, while the latter admits the products of its rival free, or at the lowest rate of revenue duty, with differential rates in their favor in some instances. Free imports are not free trade—trade to be free must be equal.

Another fallacy is that a cheap country is a good country for the workingman. A cheap country is always a poor country, and a poor country means low wages, coarse food, and hard living.

Fallacy the third: That the British "corn laws" were repealed in the interest of the working classes. Who, we would ask, were the instigators and promoters of that policy? Your John Brights, your Richard Cobdens, your George Wilsons, Villierses, Thompsons, and other cotton-lords, iron-masters, calico-printers, and woolstaplers, who advocated the measure as a means of enabling them to reduce the wages of their "hands" (already approaching starvation point) to the level of the then half-starved and over-worked artizans of Belgium, Germany and Switzerland.

They the friends of the workingman indeed! Who was it that led the opposition to the Factory Bill for regulating the hours of labor, and the employment of females and children in factories, and mines of Britain? Why, John Bright, recipient of Cobden's mantle and the chief apostle of peace-at-any-price, and Manchester philanthropy. And will the workingmen of Canada entrust their destinies to Mr. A. Mackenzie, an avowed disciple of the same school, who refused even to listen to their complaints, and to Mr. Richard John Cartwright and Mr. John Walker, (the famous "Majaw") who call honest laborers "tramps," because they have to follow their work from point to point, as circumstances compel them?

Fallacy number four: That a nation which imports more goods than it exports has the balance of trade in its favor, and grows richer by the amount of such excess! A very comfortable doctrine, if it were not that the balance of the account has to be paid in cash: If this goes on from year to year, the supply of cash becomes exhausted, debt accumulates until bankruptcy and ruin ensue, or a change of policy restores the equilibrium, and finally gives the preponderence to the exports.

Fallacy number five: That the price of any article is increased by the amount of duty placed upon it. With respect to equally with freight and charges upon the goods, forming part of their cost. But in the case of articles which we can produce at home, the duty by raising the price of the imported article, and thus excluding foreign competition, and giving to our manufacturers the sole enjoyment of the home market, enables them to produce their commodities at a reduced price, whilst their competition will be with their fellow countrymen, and the sums expended in wages, &c., will be expended within the country, and thus benefit our own farmers, instead of going to enrich our foreign rivals.

Fallacy number six: That "protection" means the putting on of high duties. Protection may, and frequently does, consist in reducing imposts, or even in taking them off altogether. Thus the admitting of the raw material which they employ free of duty is as much a "protection" to manufacturers as placing a tax on the importation of goods similar to those they produce. Thus by a skilful readjustment of the tariff efficient protection may be afforded to manufacturers, sufficient revenue raised for the demands of the public service under an honest and capable Government, and the necessaries and many of the luxuries of life cheapened, without adding one cent to the gross amount of taxes raised in the shape of import duties, and at the same time much of the money now sent abroad would be retained in the country to increase the capital of our manufacturers and farmers, and enable them to extend their operations and pay better wages to their workmen.

Regiments for Canada.—On the departure of the last Allan steamer from Liverpool, the latest rumors were that three regiments had been ordered for service in Canada, but their names had not been designated, nor had arrangements been completed for their transport.

Protection vs. Free Trade.—That most astute European politician, Bismarck, said a few months ago:—"I have given free trade a fair trial, and it does not seem to have benefitted the country, commercially, industrially or financially. I am overwhelmed with lamentations respecting the decline of trade and the decay of manufacturing enterprise, and with assurances from people for whose judgment in such matters I entertain the highest respect, that partial and moderate protection would remedy these evils as if by magic. Therefore I also propose to give protection a chance of ameliorating the condition of the manufacturing and operative classes, and of lightening the load which the budget unquestionably lays upon the shoulders of the nation." But our Canadian "fly on the wheel statesmen" are more far-seeing, know more, and are wiser than all the statesmen of Europe and America combined. Perish every industry in the country; closed be every workshop; idle be every mechanic; but let Mackenzie & Co. reign!

The Big Pushes.—The following little tale was told by a correspondent of the St. John (N. B.) Sun:—The other day, at Shediac, he (Sir Albert Smith) paid $40 (so his friends say) for his dinner at a pic-nic, and a worthy relative who attends him like a shadow paid $10 for a similar feed. The Knight, at Moncton, besides "treating" several interesting French electors, paid $5 to the mother of a child whose little head and body show just forty-two "bear marks" (see advertisement), and the sum of $3 to the mother of triplets, extra sums for horse hire, etc., etc. To show how thoroughly anti-corruption principles have been accepted by the Minister's supporters it is only necessary to add that leading men of his party in the country are boasting that he will spend $20,000 rather than be beaten. And so the Big Pushes proceed all around.

Business Depression.—The N. Y. Herald says:—"Judge Thurman says:—"Now, certainly no one will deny that this country has for the last five years suffered, as perhaps no other country ever did suffer, from depression in every branch of business in every industrial occupation. I deny this statement in toto. That this country has suffered depression in many branches of business and in many industrial occupations I admit, but every civilized and christian country in the world has suffered to a greater degree. In comparison with any nation of modern times, our condition in every respect is more prosperous and happy. If you read the English or French or German papers you will find that our causes of complaint are nothing to be compared with theirs, while in our country there are many circumstances which relieve the general depression. Let me name some of the hopeful signs of the times. The whole period since the war, and before the panic was a debt contracting period. From July 1, 1863, to July 1, 1873, our imports exceeded our exports in the enormous sum of $1,047,069,219. Much of this was for silks and furbelows, contracted in the faith of corner lots marked up, of inflated fortunes suddenly acquired; but most of it was for articles that our own labor should have produced. It represented foreign capital loaned to our citizens and to our corporations, and paid for in government and corporation bonds and private notes. The same causes produced extravagant prices here."

The Boston Transcript records the following "deviations," as things spoken in sober earnest:—"Have you ever seen Mark Twain?" "No, but I have seen his brother, George Francis Twain." "I am selecting colors to make an African for a baby carriage," said Mrs. ——. "Have you a small edition of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary?" asked a book-vender.

M. E. General Conference.

SIXTH DAY.

Monday, Sept. 2.

Bishop Carman called the Conference to order at 10 a. m., and called on Rev. W. G. Brown to conduct the religious services. These being concluded with other preliminaries, the call for reports was made, when Prof. Badgley read the report of the Committee on the Ecumenical Council recommending co-operative action on the part of the General Conference.

On the motion to adopt,

Rev. J. Gardiner did not think it advisable to vote for the adoption of the recommendation in the report referring to the election of delegates to such Council, as it would not meet before 1884.

Dr. Webster entertained the same view.

The Committee was permitted to withdraw the report for the present.

On motion of W. Pirritte, it was ordered that the reception of the delegates from the Canada Methodist Church be the first order of business for Tuesday afternoon.

The order of business was suspended to allow Rev. Dr. Todd to take his leave, as he was about to depart. He said he wanted to look in the face of the brethren before he departed from the city. He would take with him the most pleasant memories of his visit to the Conference. He thought that he had never met men of sunnier countenances or warmer hearts. He expected to find the Conference composed of aged men, but he found it made up of men mostly in the prime and strength of manhood. The doctor's time being limited he could not lengthen his remarks.

Rev. J. Gardiner referred to the kindness, brotherly feeling, ability, wise counsels and able pulpit ministrations of Dr. Todd and other delegations that had visited this Conference by the appointment of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States.

Rev. W. Pirritte heartily endorsed the sentiments uttered by Rev. Mr. Gardiner, as did also Rev. B. Lane.

Bishop Carman said they had greeted Dr. Todd as the representative of the Mother Church, as a Christian gentleman, and as an able minister of the New Testament.

The Conference adopted by a rising vote the following resolution:—

Moved by Rev. J. Curts, seconded by Rev. W. D. Hughson,

That whereas it has been our great pleasure to hail the presence of the esteemed and greatly beloved Rev. Dr. Todd, fraternal delegate of the Methodist Episcopal Church, bearing the fraternal address of the parent body in the United States, therefore,

"Resolved,—That we have listened with great pleasure to his able ministrations and very eloquent addresses, replete with rich intelligence, wise counsels and high appreciation of our Church; and we hereby heartily reciprocate the great love manifested by him and his Church for us, praying that his valuable life may be long spared to promote the interests of the kingdom of Christ, and that he, with his excellent lady, may safely return to their own land and home."

The order of business was then resumed, the first subject being the report on Law questions, and a number of items were adopted.

The Conference adjourned at noon.

In the afternoon religious services were conducted by Rev. W. F. Shaw.

The opening services being concluded, the report pending at the close of the forenoon session was called up, and a number of items were adopted.

The Committee on Revision reported No. 4, recommending a change respecting the arrangement of the districts, giving the power to the Advisory Committee with the Bishop, and limiting the number of circuits and stations to sixteen. Laid on the table under the rule.

References by Rev. W. Pirritte and others regarding disciplinary changes were given to the Committee on Revision.

Several references were made by Rev. Geo. Abbs, G. Muller, S. Williamson, H. Williams, F. Chisholm, A. E. Griffith, Dr. Aylsworth and others, to the Committees on Law Questions, Revision, &c.

Rev. B. Lane, seconded by Rev. Dr. Stone:

"That in all cases the ceremony of laying the corner stones of our churches be conducted by the proper officers of the Church according to the ritual provided by the discipline." Adopted.

The Conference adjourned at 5:30.

Three Ladies Drowned.—A Pembroke despatch of the 2nd says:—"About half-a-dozen young ladies went out bathing at about 7:30, and after remaining a while in the water they determined to walk out further than they were, and for this purpose they, as a precautionary measure, took hold of each other's hands. They had not got far, however, when four of them disappeared under the water, having got into a deep hole; the others were so alarmed that they with difficulty succeeded in getting one of the four out in a half drowned condition. The remaining three were drowned before any assistance could be rendered. Their names were Maggie and Lizzie Lee, daughters of Mr. Thos. Lee, carpenter, and Ada Edwards, daughter of Mr. J. H. Edwards. The bodies were recovered shortly afterwards and will be interred to-day. Much sympathy is felt for their bereaved relatives."

Doomed.—From all directions come the echoes, the reiterated cry that the wilful and incompetent Mackenzie Government is doomed. The people have stood it long enough and are determined to stand it no more. In New Brunswick the tide of Conservative success is sweeping on in a manner which is astounding and disheartening the advocates of the starvation policy. The St. John Sun says:—"The political change which is now passing over this Province, commencing at St. John, is a political development wholly unprecedented in our history. A few weeks ago the Government were congratulating themselves on what they thought would be an easy victory. To-day, amazed at the display of Opposition sentiment and the extent of Opposition successes, and depressed by their own mad blundering, they fear a foe in every elector, and know not what constituency to depend on. Opposed with the utmost determination in Westmoreland, in Queens, in Charlotte, in York, in Sunbury, in Carleton—in all of which they deemed themselves invulnerable,—they find their calculations scattered to the winds and their fondest hopes disappearing like chaff before the tempest. From all parts of the Province the same cry comes: 'The Government must fall!"

A Slight Cough that we are so apt to consider a mere annoyance and treat with corresponding neglect, too often proves to be the seed sown for an inevitable harvest—CONSUMPTION. Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. A teaspoonful of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime given whenever the Cough is troublesome, will afford immediate relief, and if perservered in will effect a cure even in the most obstinate cases.

Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six for $5.00. d&w-1m

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, SEPT. 3.

City and Vicinity.

CRICKET.—The Belleville Club will go to Brighton on Friday to play a return match with the Cricket Club of that village.

CITY COUNCIL.—There was no quorum of members last night, and consequently no meeting of Council.

MUSIC ON THE HILL.—The band of the 15th battalion will play on the hospital lot on Thursday night.

RETURNED.—The yacht Katie Gray returned home last night, the party on board reporting a very pleasant cruise amongst the Thousand Islands.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.—An article of special interest to many in this locality appears on the first page of this day's issue. It contains a number of extracts from the speech made in the Legislature, by Mr. Galbraith in seconding the address.

RAILWAY GUIDE.—Messrs. C. R. Chisholm & Bro., of Montreal, the publishers, have sent us the September number of their Railway and Steam Navigation Guide, which is a useful and handy publication, containing much useful information.

SILVER PRODUCTION.—The Mail's correspondence from Silver Islet states that a shipment of sixty-two barrels of ore was valued at $35,000, and pieces of native silver worth $209 each have been exhibited. A driving-rod man is at work, and he says the main vein is being worked on, and that it is very rich.

Promote perspiration in colds and chills with SANFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER.

DUCKS.—Two professional hunters who came over from Prince Edward this morning seemed to have had good luck yesterday. One brought two dozen black ducks and the other had a dozen black ducks and about twenty teal. This shows that the extension of the close season has had a good effect, and if spring shooting were but put a stop to by law, ducks would in a few years be as plentiful as ever in the fall.

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANAC.—Messrs. T. & R. White, of the Montreal Gazette, have issued a new edition of the political almanac compiled by Mr. D. Creigeton, of the Owen Sound Times. This almanac contains more information in small compass and handy form than any other publication, and besides refers in each case to the public documents and page at which the information can be found.

CATTLE SHIPMENT.—The total number of cattle, sheep, &c., shipped from Boston by Messrs. Lingham, of this city, from May 7th to Aug. 31st, was as follows: Cattle 5,613, hogs 4,534, sheep 5,464, horses 3. The total value of these animals was about $650,000, and we are glad to learn that this very large business has been profitable to the firm named. The season's operations are nearly concluded, and Mr. George H. Pope, who has superintended the shipment of this immense number of cattle, has returned to his home.

THE QUARTERLY REVIEW.—The July number of the American issue of the Conservative Review has been received from the Leonard Scott Publishing Company, 41 Barclay Street, New York. Its contents are as under:—Martin Joseph Rastto; The Englishman at School; The Duke of Wellington and the Aristocracy; Lamb'eh Palace; Madame du Deffand; The Block in the House of Commons; Catharine of Russia; The Crown and the Army; The People of Turkey. Price $4 a year. Club-rates will be found in the advertisement.

ATTEMPTED SHOOTING.—At the recent Pic-Nic in Tyendinaga, there came very near being another bad shooting affray. A young man named Donaghue, who was considerably under the influence of liquor, renewed an old standing feud with one of his neighbors who was present. In the melee which followed he drew a revolver and fired, the ball grazing the head of a young lad near by. At this juncture, Donaghue was persuaded by his friends to return his revolver to his pocket, and they proceeded to lead him from the grove. He had not gone far when he endeavored to release himself and again drew his weapon, threatening vengeance on his enemy. At this point the Rev. Mr. Davis, who was near by, together with another party, seized the revolver and endeavored to wrench it from the infuriated man. In the struggle it exploded, but fortunately the ball passed between the parties without doing any damage. Finally the Rev. gentleman got possession of the dangerous weapon, which still contained three cartridges, and pacified Donaghue, who was thus no doubt providentially prevented from committing a serious crime. It is high time our young men who delight in carrying dangerous weapons were given to understand that they cannot do it with impunity.—COM.

GRAIN MARKET.—The market was today rather favorable to sellers, barley advancing to 90c. Peas sold at 62c. to 63c.; Rye 55c. to 56c.; and Oats 32c. to 33c.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION.—Another of those highly popular excursions is to take place on the comfortable and commodious steamer Alexandra on Saturday evening next. Full particulars are contained in the advertisement.

LOOKS LIKE BUSINESS.—The North Hastings Railway construction train passed down the Pinnacle Street line this afternoon. This is the first train which has passed over that portion of the Grand Junction for many months, and it certainly looked like business.

OSWEGO REGATTA.—A telegram from Mr. W. B. Phelps, President of the Oswego Yacht Club, informs us that the date for the regatta at that city has been fixed for Tuesday, Sept. 10th, one week from to-day. Mr. Phelps expresses the hope that Belleville will be represented. We echo the hope, and trust that some of our yachtsmen will strain a point to send their craft to Oswego. The prizes for yachts of ten tons and over are: $75 to first; $50 to second and $25 to third.

THE PIC-NIC TO-MORROW.—Remember the charity pic-nic to-morrow at the Agricultural Grounds under the auspices of the St. Vincent de Paul Association. There will be an extensive programme of games and dancing, and an election for a meerschaum pipe between the Parliamentary candidates for West Hastings, whilst music will be furnished by the band of the 15th Battalion. A most enjoyable day is in store for those who attend, and the attendance ought to be large, as the entire proceeds will be devoted to the relief of the poor.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE EXCURSION.—We again direct attention to this event, which is to take place at Indian Point on Friday. As a great Conservative demonstration is to take place at Stella Point on the same day at which Sir John A. Macdonald and others are to speak, passengers who desire to attend it will be conveyed thither free of extra charge. This affords a fine opportunity for those who wish to attend the Amherst Island demonstration as in no other way can they do so at so cheap a rate. The steamer Kincardine will leave here at 7 a. m. Tickets for the round trip 50cts. The Oddfellows' band will accompany the excursion.

GOERNOR PROTECTION.—The Peterborough Times, an independent journal, at the close of an able review of the political situation, says:—"Even at the risk of some loss, owing to the increased prices,—if such should really result,—we would favor a policy which would give Canadian markets to our Canadian industries, and we believe that the result of such a policy would not be an increase of price. Our object of course would not be to obtain revenue from such duties, but to exclude competition." No truly patriotic Canadian can come to any other conclusion than that arrived at by the Times.

THE FORTNIGHTLY REVIEW.—The August number of the Canadian reprint of this able organ of Liberalism is on our table. Its contents are as follows: The Convention with Turkey by S. Laing, M. P.; Iceland by Anthony Trollope; The Change in Belgian Politics, by E. De Laveleye; Rectifications, by W. R. Greg; A Chapter of Buddhist Folk-lore, by B. F. Hartshorve; Henry Murger, by George Saintsbury; The Political Adventure of Lord Beaconsfield—IV.; Greece at the Congress of Berlin, by G. Shaw Lefevre, M. P.; The Position of English Joint Stock Banks, by A. T. Wilson; Home and Foreign Affairs. Published by the Rose-Belford Publishing Company, 60 York Street, Toronto, at $5 per annum. Single numbers 50c each. To be had of the booksellers.

MEETING AT SIDNEY TOWN HALL.—A largely attended meeting of electors was held in the interest of Mr. Wallbridge at Sidney Town Hall last night. Mr. Brown, who attended, was first to arrive, and was received in silence, but when the Opposition candidate drove up he was received with loud applause. The meeting was organized by the appointment of Mr. T. H. Blanchard as Chairman, and the proceedings commenced at 7:45. Mr. Wallbridge, who was the first speaker, delivered an able address lasting about two hours. He was followed by Mr. Brown, who spoke better than at any previous meeting of the campaign, but was interrupted at times, owing to his halting and equivocating as to his position. Mr. E. B. Fralick was the next speaker, and gave an excellent address, which was well received. Mr. Holden next spoke on behalf of Mr. Brown, his address, though able, being very dry in delivery and tiresome to the audience, who manifested their impatience frequently. Mr. J. W. Johnson made a short but spirited speech in support of the Opposition policy, Mr. K. Graham closing with a speech in favor of Mr. Brown. The meeting closed at about 3 a. m., with cheers for the Queen and for each of the candidates. The feeling of those present appeared to be pretty equally divided, and good order was maintained, although the proceedings were protracted to such an extreme length. Mr. Wallbridge has reason to be amply satisfied with the result of the meeting, which shows that he is as strong as Mr. Brown in that one section of Sidney which is considered to be that gentleman's stronghold.

FROM KINGSTON,

Mr. Mackenzie condemned by one of His Own Supporters.

KINGSTON, Sept 2.—Mr. "Ex-Rev." J. A. Allen, until lately one of Mr. Mackenzie's strongest, most prominent and enthusiastic supporters, is to speak at a Conservative meeting in the city hall this evening in condemnation of the Premier's career as a minister, who, he says, has violated his principles and humiliated the party to which he (Mr. Allen) belongs. His attitude is the talk of the city in political circles.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 3.—Howard's report a large increase of fever among the negroes. The weekly mortuary report ending on Sunday evening shows 596 deaths, 411 from yellow fever; the deaths include 20 colored.

GRENADA, Miss., Sept. 3.—Six deaths, 3 whites and 3 colored, 8 new cases yesterday; the whites included Col. B. Anderson, of the Memphis Howard's, and Postmaster Cole.

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—Timothy Lane, aged 15, and John Lane, his brother, aged 12, residing in East Cambridge, quarrelled yesterday. John stabbed Timothy, causing death.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Minister Welsh has gone to Paris, having brought to a conclusion the negotiations concerning Condon, the Fenian prisoner. Welsh had previously been to Portland prison to explain to Condon the efforts that had been made in his behalf. British officials joined in assuring Condon that after his release he should find himself comfortably provided for.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Special telegrams report that in view of the inability of the undertakers to bury the people as fast as they die in Memphis, the Citizens' committee has organized a burial force of forty men, with waggons.

Mayor Flippen has asked the President to station two Companies of troops in the vicinity of Memphis, to maintain order.

John D. Allen has been arrested, charged with swindling the relief committee by drawing rations and selling them.

At New Orleans the Howard's gave $10,000 to the Peabody Subsistence Association yesterday. Tolling of church bells has ceased, and the streets are muffled with sawdust.

At Grenada the disease is very complicated. Patients left by the doctors in a fair way of recovery, are found dying in less than six hours after.

Failures—Anthony Jauch, hotel keeper, Long Branch, liabilities $96,000; Henry Valkening, marble dealer, liabilities $230,000; no assets; John Sullivan, builder, liabilities $180,000.

The American Exchange of Butter and Cheese dealers passed resolutions yesterday approving the proposed dairy in this city this fall.

The thermometer yesterday reached 90° in the shade, several sunstrokes are reported. To-day the weather is close, warm and uncomfortable.

John Johnson and Patrick Riley were buried alive by the caving of a bank at Bayonne yesterday. Riley was killed.

Miss Genevieve Ward, made her first appearance in this city, as a tragic artiste at the reopening of Booth's theatre last night. The Tribune says she awakens vivid reminiscence of Ristori, while the Herald declares she exhibits the training of an European School. Her reception was very cordial.

Arrived, the S.S. Somerset from Bristol.

RALEIGH, N.C., Sept. 3.—Albert Atwater, a negro, confessed that he, another negro and two whites, are guilty of the numerous burglaries and attempted outrages recently in Orange County; little doubt the whole gang will be convicted and hanged.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—There will be an impressive funeral ceremony at the Cathedral Notre Dame to-day in celebration of the anniversary of the death of Thiers. It is stated that Mme. Thiers spent £20,00 in the preparation of the ceremony. Music will be rendered by twenty-five hundred performers, and the Gloria sung to an accompaniment of harps. The Cathedral is decked with flowers, offerings from the departments with which Thiers was intimately associated. A guard of honor has been furnished by the Garde Republicaine. Deputations from the municipalities of Paris and other cities will walk in the procession from the Place du Carrousel to the Cathedral. Many persons on Sunday deposited flowers on Thiers' tomb.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—It is stated that Commander Cameron will start for Cyprus soon, thence will cross to Asia Minor to survey the route for a railway to the Persian Gulf.

It is rumored that a split is impending in the Belgian clerical party. The constitutionalists will separate from the extremists, or party of the Syllabus and organize a Catholic constitutional party. It seems probable that the Pope is not unfriendly to such movements.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—The new 5 per cent. Russian internal loan of 300,000,000 roubles issued by the Russian Imperial bank at 93 proved a partial failure. At the close of subscriptions only 101,000,000 roubles had been taken. The Russian Imperial bank will probably distribute the residue among its branches to be worked off privately.

SOUTHAMPTON, Aug. 3.—Arrived, the S. S. Mosel from New York.

PITTSTON, Pa., Aug. 3.—While a gang were working in the Exeter colliery this morning, several tons of rock fell, killing Mr. Reese and slightly injuring two others.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The society of horse-car drivers met on Saturday evening to consider the reduction of wages, and resolved to make an united effort to-day to regain the former wages, and encourage a general strike on all horse-car lines.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The nurses to leave to-night for the fever districts number 7 male and 8 female. Two of the lady nurses are from the Treasury department and one from the Government printing office.

Can the Truth Overtake a Lie?

Investigation discloses the fact that the lady reported in the Associated Press dispatches, about Aug. 10th, to have died in Chicago after two weeks' use of some reputed remedy for corpulency, had not taken Allan's Anti-Fat, but had used a preparation put up by a regular physician in Luzerne, Pa. Allan's Anti-Fat is manufactured in Buffalo, N. Y., by the undersigned. We have already sold over 100,000 bottles of it. It has therefore been taken by thousands, and we challenge proof that it has ever harmed any body, unless the reduction of obese persons from 20 to 60 pounds, leaving them healthy and strong, is considered a misfortune. Furthermore, we hereby offer $5,000 reward for evidence showing that it contains poisonous or injurious ingredients. We also offer $5,000 if we cannot prove that it has reduced numbers of persons as stated herein, and always without injury. It is said a lie will outravel the truth any time; but we trust that those newspapers that have misled the public by saying that physicians attributed the lady's death to the use of Anti-Fat (which is only put up by us, the term "Anti-Fat" being our trade-mark), will correct the false impression they have conveyed, by publishing this refutation.

Salt Necessary to Animals.

The true value of salt for feeding to animals is neither well understood nor appreciated as it should be by a large class of farmers, and the best mode of feeding is too frequently ignored, even when its importance is fully admitted. That it is actually required by animals, is shown by the amount of salt contained in the blood of this human species, it being fully one-half of one per cent., and 57½ per cent. of the ashes of blood. Investigation has proved that where salt is supplied with the food, this proportion is invariable, and when not supplied, other parts of the system must supply the deficiency, to their injury. What is true of the human species is equally true of our farm stock and animals, which suffer the same troubles when deprived of salt. When the equilibrium of any part is disturbed, the whole system is weakened, and the animal becomes liable to disease, and the system succumbs when attacked.

Salt is a great aid to digestion, and the natural instinct of animals prompts them to its use, as is evinced by their resorting to salt licks and other natural sources, previous to and during the early settlement of our country, and by what may be still witnessed at the present day on the pampas of South American and other wilds, where herds of horses and other cattle travel miles to obtain from natural sources a much needed supply. It is an undoubted fact that where animals have unrestrained access to salt at all times many of the diseases to which they are liable are warded off and prevented by keeping the system regular. We find that when salt is regularly given them only good results follow, as is evidenced in their exemption from disease. Where free access is had to salt, stock will take only what is needed, but where the the supply is inconstant, a surfeit is often taken which frequently operates injuriously.

The invariable presence of salt in quantities in tissues of the body shows conclusively the important influence which it exerts in the production of flesh and fat in animals. Salt assists digestion by increasing the flow of saliva, aiding also further by promoting thirst, and a constant flow of fluids, to assist in dissolving much of the food which otherwise might be only imperfectly digested. Actual experiments, carefully conducted, have demonstrated that where two hogs were fattened, one fed salt in its food, and the other with salt excluded, the one fed salt food fatted very much faster, and in several weeks less time. It exceeded in weight by a considerable proportion the one fed without salt in its food. It is an unquestioned fact that all our food products contain a greater or lesser proportion of salt in their structure, but that the animal economy requires an additional quanity, is equally true. Farm animals, when kept at grass, or on green succulent feed, naturally take more salt than when kept on dry fodder; at least such has been my observation.

Making Butter.

There must be good milk and cool nights and the maker will never get more pounds of butter for 100 pounds of milk than by setting in the old-fashioned small pan. The cream must be well conditioned, soured up to good shape, but not old or musty. Churn early in the morning with a good strong stroke, and with a power that will carry it, but do not churn it to death after it has come. For the first working wash it and work, and gently; second working watch closely and not break the grain, and turn out the butter so it will break brittle. For salt, use the best that is to be had—if it is the Ashton, go for the Ashton; if it is the Syracuse, get that; but any how have the best, and that for butter making, means a salt that will assimilate, dissolve, lose its identity and individuality, and that will be completely held in a solution by the butter. A raw, gritty, gravelly or impure, ill-flavored, lime-depositing salt is good to put on bird's-balls, and for asparagus beds, but it is about a fee to five cents per pound bad for butter. If you are going to carry butter till fall or winter, put in one ounce to the pound; if for immediate use, one half to three fourths of an ounce. Have your packages air tight, and packed solid; do not throw it in as we do food. There is more value in butter lost in bad packing and holding and carrying, than by all the slouchy making, with the poor stuff thrown in. Therefore deodorize packages thoroughly, either by scalding, steaming or thoroughly seasoning. The woody smell must be out of the wood before it is used, or the butter will take it out, and the consumers will get a taste of the woods of this country instead of its grasses. This is especially the case with tub covers. Put on a green ash tub cover, and in a few weeks the butter half-way down the tub will smell and taste like a carriage shop. Do not be afraid to keep the butter under a strong brine; not enough to drench it and leach the flavor of it, but enough to keep the flavor in where it belongs, and the butter sweet and sound. —D. W. Lewis, New York.

Nature does not capriciously scatter her secrets as golden gifts to lazy pets and luxurious darlings, but imposes tasks before she presents opportunities, and uplifts him whom she would reform. The apple that she dropped at the feet of Newton was but a coy invitation to follow her to the stars.

The Bible goes equally to the cottage of the plain man and the palace of the king. It is woven into literature, and it colors the talk of the street. The banque of the merchant cannot sail to sea without it. No ship of war goes to conflict but the Bible is there. It enters men's closets; mingling in all grief and cheerfulness of life.

Extracts from a letter from C. H. S. Cronkhite, Esq.

CANTERBURY STATION, York Co., N. B., October 10th, 1876.

Mr. J. H. ROBINSON.

DEAR SIR: In reply to your letter of enquiry, I would say that your Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime is the best preparation of the kind I have ever seen or taken.

I was ordered by my physician to take it, and commenced about the last of August, and since that time I have felt a different man, and also look differently, and all for the better, as the doctor can testify.

I was unable in the summer, to walk any distance without much fatigue. I can now take my gun and travel all day, and feel first-rate at night, and eat as much as any lumber man. Have not bled any since I took your preparation, and can now inflate my lungs without feeling any soreness, and I think I can inflate them up to full measurement same as before I was sick; have also gained in flesh, my weight in the summer was 173 lbs., and now it is nearly 190 lbs., which is pretty well up to my former weight.

The foregoing is a correct statement which I am prepared to swear to, and I hereby authorise you to give it publicity in my name.

"I am, dear sir, yours truly,
(Signed) C. H. S. CRONKHITE.

We, the undersigned, hereby consent to have our names published as witnesses to the effects of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion on the person of Mr. Cronkhite, and do assert that the statement is correct in every particular.

Personal knowledge and common sense reasoning will soon show you that Green's August Flower will cure you of Liver Complaint, or Dyspepsia, with all its miserable effects, such as sick headache, palpitation of the heart, sour stomach, habitual costiveness, dizziness of the head, nervous prostration, low spirits, &c. Its sales now reach every town on the Western Continent and not a druggist but will tell you of its wonderful cures. You can buy a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Three doses will relieve you. d&w.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly, "Don't it who can."

It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer.

It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets.

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless. Pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price. 25 cents per Bottle.

OUR PARIS LETTER.

TROCADERO, THE ARTISTS' PARADISE. CHAMP DE MARS, THE SCHOOL OF PRACTICAL EDUCATION AND KNOWLEDGE. HOW THE GOLDEN THREADS ARE SPUN. FASHIONABLE DOLL RABIES. "IVORINE." GLASS BLOWING, &c., &c.

(From a regular Correspondent.)

HOTEL DU LOUVRE, PARIS, Aug. 23, 1878.

Visitors apparently prefer the Champ de Mars to the Trocadero ; at the commencement the opposite taste was evident. People soon tire of architecture, and the Trocadero has few popular exhibits infinite in their variety. It is the intellectual variety of the palace, less the elevator. Its various halls devoted to retrospective art, corresponding to so many epochs or ages, rivet the attention even of the ordinarily indifferent. The masses commence to take in, that our ancestors had to work their way to civilization, and that all those models of flint, roughly hewn, or polished, typically represent human progress, as accurately as Shakespeare's Seven Ages does the life of man. The collection of retrospective objects from the museum of Bordeaux is most instructive, and some of the above jewellery might set ladies to reflect on the clauses of the Decalogue touching covetousness.

The Process Gallery is not only one of the Exhibition's most curious features, but it is of importance in the influence it may have in giving technical education in the world in certain minute but lucrative branches of industry, which have hitherto been, in their most successful development, essentially Parisian. It has received a magnificent locale in the Vestibule du Sud, opposite the Ecole Militaire. It will be remembered that in 1867 a similar department existed in the Exhibition of that year, and its success induced the French Commissioners to re-establish it now, upon a grander scale. It was proposed to them to turn the whole champ de Mars into a series of workshops ; to establish all over it forges, glass-works and foundries ; to have it bristling with tall chimnies, re-echoing with the whole gamut of machinery discords, and redolent of smoke and steam ; to turn it, in fact, into a species of industrial colosseum ; but this, like a number of other ridiculous schemes which the archives of the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce could reveal, was abandoned, although the Gallerie du Travail was extended beyond the limits originally assigned to it. A hundred little things, that are continually in domestic use are manufactured before the eyes of the visitors themselves, who purchase them in large quantities ; and it may therefore, not be uninteresting if we glance at some of the principal industries so represented.

To commence, we may mention a curious industry, which cannot fail to attract the visitor's attention soon after entering the gallery. We allude to the filagree work. Few of us have not often had occasion to admire the delicate and ingenous work for this purpose for which Genoa is so famous, and which has its origin in the dimest antiquity. The workman takes in his hand a simple silver thread ; he folds it, bends it, and twists it, in a thousand different ways, and with a rapidity which baffles description produces in a few minutes the most diverse objects, and the most astonishing effects. It seems to be the simplest work in the world ; but a very little consideration will show that the workmen must be endowed with more than ordinary haste, and with a dexterity which is only the result of pratice and education.

Passing hence we glance at a modiste, who is dressing dolls in the newest and most approved Parisian fashions, and then we arrive at a stand where "skilled" workmen are supposed to be engaged in the production of numerous pretty conceits in ivory, mother-of-pearl, and tortoiseshell. The real fact, however, is that all the "skill" of these workmen consists in unpacking ready-manufactured goods and pricing them, whilst the only claim that the stall possesses to a privilege could only be engaged by a few farmers living near towns and cities. The "large price" which Free Trade orators so glibly prate about are not in these days forthcoming, as our farmers know to their sorrow. Had we free access to the United States market, we might possibly turn some of these grains over to reasonably good advantage, but with an almost prohibitory duty staring us in the face, with the price of barley at home down to something like 40 cents, and with Western corn a valuable thing this country the poor farmer has a poor lookout. His only hope is to have a duty placed on Western grain, and secure a permanent home market for his coarse grains, as well as for his more perishable productions, provided manufactures were better encouraged, and manufacturing more largely gone into.

Why Canadians Leave their Country.

Many of us are anxiously enquiring of ourselves and from any one that can afford us information, why it is that so many young and enterprising Canadians are annually leaving for the United States. The attention of the New York Sun having been directed to this, it replies : "The plain facts are that young and enterprising Canadians come because they can make more money here than in Canada, and the opportunities for getting ahead in the world are in every respect better. Many French Canadians have found employment in the factories of the New England States, and they save money on such small wages that some have called them the Chinese of the East." With respect to the latter part of that statement we must take exception to the French Canadians being called the Chinamen of the East. It is true that they are thrifty and saving, but, unlike the Chinaman, they take an interest in the country of their adoption, and in many cases become as good citizens there as they would here, had they the facilities which the United States affords. It is a matter of regret that, in so far as the causes of the exodus are concerned, the remarks of our contemporary are correct, and the reason is obvious, because in our commercial relations we are not put upon the same footing as are our neighbors on the other side. On the subject of international trade relations Mr. Forney, who is at present in Europe, has just written "that the fact is clear that these are not the times for more free trade experiments on human industry by idle politicians. Compromise is the order, as well as the master of the day. Germany, instead of reducing duties, is increasing them. France adheres to all her protective discriminations, and in view of her own increasing debts and alarming possibilities, Great Britain must inevitably call a "halt" in her career. These are the facts of the hour, and I am sure before the Paris Exhibition is over, free trade will be relegated to the past, as practicable only for nations who only have goods to sell to others, and who can have no rivalry in their manufacture. If it is true that protection is a special privilege for a class, as the Cobden school declares, it is far more true that free trade is a remorseless monopoly for a great nation."—Montreal Star.

Our Coarse Grains.

With the present large importation to Canada of Western Prairie Corn, the farmer of Canada finds but a poor market for his coarse grains. All know that farms are soon exhausted by a continual cropping of wheat, and therefore a change of crops is very desirable. But as we have no foreign market for our coarse grains—except we pay an enormous duty at the American frontier—it seems a most uncertain and unsatisfactory undertaking to go largely into raising rye, barley, peas, oats, &c., for which our farms are well adapted—especially with the competition of the eight million bushels of Yankee corn which are allowed to come in free of duty. The unfairness of this competition must be apparent to every one when he reflects that in the Western States, where corn is most extensively produced, the land is scarcely worth a quarter the price which has to be paid for land in this part of Canada, and for that peculiar grain, the said prairie land is much more productive than ours. How, we would like to know, can, under those circumstances, our farmers fairly compete with their rivals ? So long as we have distilleries in this country, we think the Canadian farmer should have the benefit arising from supplying the said establishments with the grain they require. If the distiller would thus have a trifle more to pay for his grain, of course he would charge more for the proceeds of his establishment, and the farmer would be the gainer. We can hardly conceive of a more unjust proceeding than that which allows millions upon millions of bushels of corn to come into this country and compete with the productions of our farms. It is all bosh to talk of the benefit which the farmer derives from buying cheap corn for his cattle, and selling his peas, barley and rye for a large price, as that doubtful privilege, if it is a privilege could only be engaged by a few farmers living near towns and cities. The "large price" which Free Trade orators so glibly prate about are not in these days forthcoming, as our farmers know to their sorrow. Had we free access to the United States market, we might possibly turn some of these grains over to reasonably good advantage, but with an almost prohibitory duty staring us in the face, with the price of barley at home down to something like 40 cents, and with Western corn a valuable thing this country the poor farmer has a poor lookout. His only hope is to have a duty placed on Western grain, and secure a permanent home market for his coarse grains, as well as for his more perishable productions, provided manufactures were better encouraged, and manufacturing more largely gone into.

Electors—Read This.

SHALL CANADIANS CONTRIBUTE TO FOREIGN REVENUE.

Where manufactures flourish, land and its products are most valuable.

The nation which persists in exporting its raw material, will end by exporting its men.

Every dollar sent to pay for foreign manufactures is so much taken from the country's working capital.

The farmer near a market is always enriching, while the farmer far from a market is always impoverishing his land.

The nearer the producer to the consumer the more profitable to both, hence the plough and the loom should be neighbors.

Canada needs encouragement to home products, employment to labor at living wages and development of her natural resources.

A tariff is only a tax when levied on goods we cannot produce. Home competition converts it into a tax on our foreign rivals.

If the United States is allowed to monopolize the trade of each of the separate provinces of the Dominion, political annexation is only a question of time.

That certainly is a wise commercial policy which imports nearly all our coal and allows our iron mines in the world to be unworked.

The coarsest father gives a new impulse to labor from the moment of his baby's birth ; he scarcely sees it when awake, and yet it is with him all the time. Every stroke he strikes is for his child. New social aims, new moral motives, come vaguely up to him.

THE COMING STRUGGLE.

Our Battle Cry: "Protection to Home Industries."

The Opposition Policy.

The commercial policy of the Opposition is represented in the following resolution moved by Sir John Macdonald in the House of Commons :—

"That this House is of opinion that the welfare of Canada requires the adoption of a National Policy, which by a judicious readjustment of the Tariff will benefit and foster the Agricultural, the Mining, the Manufacturing and other interests of the Dominion ; that such a policy will retain in Canada thousands of our fellow-countrymen, now obliged to expatriate themselves in search of employment denied them at home ; will restore prosperity to our struggling industries, now so sadly depressed ; will prevent Canada from being made a sacrifice market ; will encourage and develop an active interprovincial trade ; and moving (as it ought to do) in the direction of the reciprocity of Tariffs with our neighbors, so far as the varied interests of Canada may demand, will greatly tend to procure for this Country, eventually, a reciprocity of Trade."

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 4.

WEST HASTINGS.

A general meeting of Mr. Wallbridge's Central and Ward Committees will be held in the Central Committee Rooms to-morrow (Thursday) evening at 7:30. Mr. Wallbridge will be present. It is specially requested that all the members of the Committees will attend and a general invitation is extended to all supporters of the Opposition candidate who are disposed to assist in completing the active work of the campaign.

EAST HASTINGS.

Mr. White is to address the electors of East Hastings at the school house near the Cryaler farm, Shannonville road, 1st concession of Thurlow, to-morrow evening at 7:30. As Mr. Aylesworth cannot attend, Mr. White invites Messrs. Thomas Holden and R. C. Clute to meet him at this gathering.

ORGANIZE! ORGANIZE!

In less than two weeks the Electoral Battle for the Dominion will be ended. From all parts of the country the tidings are hopeful for the triumph of the Liberal Conservative party. No doubt there will be disappointments and surprises to both parties when the ballots come to be counted throughout the country. However, the present is the time for work, and no stone should be left unturned to make the final triumph of Opposition priciples as sure as it can be made before the final returns from the Returning Officers are published.

We trust that every member of the Liberal Conservative party in the North, East, and West Ridings of this County, will make this election his own personal matter, and spend the remaining few days before the polling day, in perfecting the organization and geting everything ready to poll the entire vote. If this be done we can confidently predict the election of Messrs. Bowell, White and Wallbridge by very large majorities.

NO TIME TO LOSE.

Thirteen days from to-day the great contest for the triumph of good Government will take place. On that day the momentous question whether this country shall enter upon an era of prosperity, or remain in its depressed, ruinous condition, will be decided. We have no fears of the result if the Opposition party but do its simple duty. Every Liberal Conservative elector should make this election his own personal business—should make up his mind, first to poll his own vote at all hazards—and second, see that a thorough organization exist in every school section, and every preparation be made to secure the polling of the entire strength of the party.

We urge upon our friends in the North, East and West Ridings of this County, to be up and doing. There is no time to lose.

VOLUNTEER TEAMS.

As the Election law very properly prohibits the hiring of teams for the conveyance of voters to and from the polls, such service must necessarily be performed free of charge. As it is of the greatest importance that a full vote be brought out, we ask those friends of the Opposition cause in the three Ridings of this County owning horses and vehicles to place them at the disposal of the Committees on the day of election, and to turn out themselves, wherever it be possible to assist in bringing up the voters. Let those having horses and vehicles for use notify the Chairman or Secretary of the respective Committees as many days in advance as possible, so that it may be known how many vehicles can be relied on. Victory is assured in every division of the County if the voters can but be brought out, and we are confident that the friends of good government will not be lacking in this regard.

A farmer who, in the harvest-field, circulated a jug of wiskey too freely among his hired help, soon found that he had his hands full.

Above are represented the forms of ballot papers which will be used in the elections for the three Ridings of this County, and in which the voter has marked his ballot for Messrs. Bowell, White and Wallbridge respectively. In order that all may fully understand how to vote, we give herewith the directions, as contained in the statute :

"The elector, on receiving the ballot-paper, shall forthwith proceed into one of the compartments of the polling station, and there mark his ballot paper, making a cross with a pencil, on any part of the ballot-paper within the division containing the name of the candidate for whom he intends to vote, and shall then fold up such ballot-paper, so that the initials on the back can be seen without opening it, and hand it to the Deputy-Returning officer, who shall, without unfolding it, ascertain, by examining his initials, and the number upon the counterfoil, that it is the same that he furnished to the elector, and shall first detach and destroy the counterfoil, and shall then immediately, and in the presence of the elector, place the ballot-paper in the ballot-box."

Thus the ballot is absolutely secret, and it being impossible to ascertain how any man voted by subsequent examination.

Each Elector shall vote at the Polling Station of the Polling District in which he is qualified to vote and no other.

No Candidate is allowed to pay for conveying voters to the Poll, and no Agent or other person is allowed to pay for such service. This does not, however, debar neighbors and friends from assisting each other in getting to the poll.

Friends, be very careful in marking your ballots for

BOWELL in North Hastings.
WHITE in East Hastings, and
WALLBRIDGE in West Hastings.

THE NOMINATIONS.

On Tuesday next the nominations will take place. The old formula of proposing and seconding a number of bogus candidates, with the intention of allowing them to speak, has been done away with. The nominations are now made on printed papers, signed by at least twenty-five electors each. Probably, however, as in former times, large numbers of electors will gather at the places appointed for holding the nominations, which gatherings will doubtless be addressed by the candidates.

Decrease and Increase of Trade Between Canada, Great Britain and the United States Respectively.

It has been asserted by the advocates of the national policy that, while under the present administration, our trade with the mother country has been decreasing, it has been increasing with the United States. Of course the Free Traders, who have raised the "loyalty" cry, deny this. The figures below will show that such a denial is false, and that the assertion is true, and at the same time they will also prove that if any body is disloyal to Great Britain it is the man who advocates a trade policy and legislates so as to throw the great volume of our trade into the hands of a foreign country.

The dutiable and free goods imported from Great Britain during the five previous years to this, as collated in the Blue book, are as follows :—

	DUTIABLE	FREE
1873	$47,497,034	$21,025,742
1874	47,739,230	15,289,217
1875	49,239,119	11,107,973
1876	32,385,453	8,347,773
1877	32,916,776	6,655,463
Total	$209,829,531	$62,428,178

This shows a yearly average of dutiable imports from Great Britain of $41,665,506 ; of free goods $12,485,635, with an enormous yearly decrease in the free list, as well as a great decrease during the last two years in the other list of dutiable goods. The imports from the United States during the same period are as follows :—

	DUTIABLE	FREE
1873	$16,678,505	$31,056,873
1874	21,103,356	33,179,716
1875	22,923,665	28,782,153
1876	21,334,613	24,735,420
1877	23,510,846	27,801,823
Total	$104,651,285	$145,555,987

It will thus be seen that in the free list the United States sent us over twenty-one millions of dollars worth of goods last year more than Great Britain. Who now is discriminating against the mother country, the Free Traders or those in favor of a reasonable protective policy ?

ACCIDENT TO HON. MR. TILLEY.—A St. John (N. B.) despatch says :—"While Hon. Mr. Tilley was driving to Fairville last night to attend a political meeting, his carriage collided with a passing team and he was thrown out, receiving some bruises about the body and head, and necessitating his return to town. He will be confined to his house for a few days."

"Who are the Taxationists ?"

In reply to a Grit journal which asks the above question, we would say that it is plain that the Taxationists are the set of men who expend the largest amount of money in governing the country and carrying on the public service, as the money required for such service must be raised by taxation, direct or indirect.

Taking this, then, as the only fair criterion, we find that the expenditure under the rule of Sir John A. Macdonald was as follows :

1868-9	14,038,000
1869-70	14,345,500
1870-1	15,623,000
1871-2	17,589,500
1872-3	19,174,600

Thus a gradual increase of expenditure is shown, but it must be remembered that during the year above named the Provinces of Manitoba, British Columbia and Prince Edward Island were added to the Union and the Provincial debts were assumed, involving great additional expense. No Provinces have been admitted since Mr. Mackenzie took office and only one small Territory has been created. The Grit record, leaving out 1873-4, responsibility for which is disputed, is as follows :—

1874-5	$24,648,700
1876-7	22,050,000

Therefore, as the Grit party have expended several more millions of dollars yearly in the various Government services, more than did their opponents, they, and not the Conservatives, to whom they have, with characteristic effontery, applied the epithet, are the true "Taxationists."

M. E. General Conference.

TUESDAY, Sept. 3,
SEVENTH DAY.

The twelfth session of the Conference opened at ten o'clock. Bishop Carman presiding. After religious services and routine, the Conference proceeded with regular business.

The Committee on Boundaries presented their report. It recommends that the Manitoba missions be attached to the Ontario Conference, and that no other changes shall be made in the boundaries of the several Annual Conferences.

A Committee was appointed to prepare a pastoral address from the General Conference to the Church.

A resolution of regard for Rev. A. Yonker, of Chicago, formerly of the Bay of Quinte Conference, and also of thanks for his able sermon on Sabbath last, was unanimously passed.

The Conference adjourned at twelve noon.

After religious services by Rev. J. Young, and the order of the day, the reception of the fraternal delegation from the Canada Methodist Church was called, when Rev. J. Gray, ex-President of the London Conference, and Rev. W. Williams, pastor of the Centenary Church, Hamilton, were introduced.

The address of the General Conference which those gentlemen came with is as follows :

"To the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Canada.

"DEAR BRETHREN,—We have much pleasure in acknowledging your very brotherly greeting and salutation conveyed to us by your deputation, the Rev. James Gardiner and the Rev. Michael Berson. The assurance thus given us, both in your letter and in the communications of these brethren, are the more pleasing as they so clearly give evidence of a charity which can rejoice in the prosperity of others, even as in their own.

"It has been necessary, as you say, that we should divide our extensive field of labor, and thus place it under the administration of several annual Conferences, while at the same time, by a general Conference, to preserve our unity and thereby increase our efficiency. Our success in the past, for which with you we thank and glorify God the Father, Son and Holy Spirit, has rendered such a duty so manifest that we have felt impelled to recognize and act upon it. We join you most heartily in thankfulness that your Church can rejoice over those attending influences of the Holy Spirit upon your ministry manifested in the conversion of sinners and in the upbuilding of believers, and we pray that in years to come, as in those that are past, you may have abundantly this scriptural and truest evidence of apostolicity—ministers of the gospel of our Lord and Saviour.

"To you, as to us, dear brethren, the prayer of our Divine Lord is greatly important at this time, and in this connection it will not, we are sure, be thought by you untimely or irrelevant to introduce it here :—

"Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on Me through their word ;

"That they all may be one ; as Thou, Father, art in Me and I in Thee, that they also may be one in us, that the world may believe that Thou hast sent me.

"And the glory which Thou gavest me I have given them ; that they may be one even as we are one.

"I in them, and Thou in me, that they may be made perfect in one ; and that the world may know that Thou has sent me, and hast loved them as Thou has loved me.

"With such a oneness it were little to say that Ephraim would not envy Judah, nor Judah vex Ephraim, for in the flowing tide of divine attestation and unction which such a condition would secure, there would be other and more desirable subjects for our thoughts and feelings. We are fain to believe that no great difficulty can be in the way of effecting more closely and fully than ever the unity for which our Lord prayed with these with whom, since your Church and ours, there exists so many things in common, and especially in the duty and privilege of offering to all whom our ministry can reach a free, a full, and a present salvation, through faith alone in the one only and all-sufficient sacrifice of the Son of God.

"Praying that we all might be filled with the knowledge of His will in all wisdom and spiritual understanding, we remain your brethren in the kingdom and patience of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

"Signed by order and on behalf of the General Conference of the Methodist Church of Canada, Toronto, Ontario, this the first day of October, 1874.

"(Signed), "E. RYERSON,
"President.
"DUNCAN D. CARRIE,
"Secretary."

At the close of addresses by the delegates and responses by several members of the Conference, the following resolution was adopted by a rising vote :—

Moved by Rev. W. PIRRITT, seconded by Rev. R. JAMES and

"Resolved, That the fraternal delegation from the General Conference to the Methodist Church of Canada, consisting of the Rev. W. Williams and the Rev. James Gray, bearing the fraternal greetings of that body to this General Conference, has given us very great satisfaction. We rejoice in this, the first interchange of brotherly and Christian greetings between the two oldest members of the Methodist families of Canada as an evidence of increasing good will and fraternal regard for each other and as opening the way for a more cordial fraternization and for a deeper, broader and purer feeling of Christian love and unity. We thank these dear brethren for their visit and for their works of brotherly love and Christian greeting. We assure them of our fraternal regards for themselves and our best wishes and warmest prayers for the peace and prosperity of the great Church they have so honorably represented.

The hunter who shot a stag and attempted to carry it home on his shoulders was heard to complain that his heart was heavy."

LOOK AT THESE FIGURES.—The balance of trade during the last three years owing to its fiscal policy has been no less than $488,582,539 in favor of the United States. A recent statement of this subject is summarized :—"The export of iron and steel and their manufactures has increased by nearly six millions, while imports have fallen over fifty millions ; cotton manufactures have increased six and one-half millions in exports, and the imports have decreased over fifteen millions ; copper, brass and their manufactures have increased in exports by over two millions, while their imports have fallen three and a-third millions. These are obvious instances of the growth and prosperity of American manufactures, gradually replacing those of foreign countries. In other words, American labor has not only supplied the American people with all they require, but has, during the course of three years, made them enormously richer to the tune of $500,000 000." Is it beyond the bounds of possibility for us to have in Canada similar satisfactory results ? It would appear not, if we only went to work the right way about it.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—My attention was drawn to the report in last night's Ontario of the meeting at Sidney Town Hall on Monday night, wherein it is stated that "Mr. Charles Gillen, of unenviable notoriety," and Mr. Charles Carroll were the prominent interlopers. I went to the meeting with Mr. Gillen, and came home with him. After Mr. Wallbridge and Mr. Brown had spoken, and while Mr. Fraleck was speaking, we left for home. During the time Mr. Gillen was there, he never by action or word interrupted. Knowing this, I went with Mr. Gillen to Mr. Carman, the proprietor of the Ontario, this morning, to tell him the truth about it. When Mr. Carman was asked who gave him the information he refused to tell, and said that he would take the responsibility of the truth of the statement, and at once commenced a tirade of abuse, and caught Mr. Gillen by the shoulder and told him to leave. I and Mr. Gillen stated to Mr. Carman the facts again, but he preferred to abuse the man who tried to get the truth into him, and preferred to "believe a lie" rather than do justice to Mr. Gillen. If such conduct will be endorsed by the public, and especially by those who are advocating Mr. Brown's cause, I am much mistaken.

Yours, &c.,
W. JEFFERS DIAMOND.

THE BAND.—Music on the hospital lot by the band of the 15th Battalion to-morrow night.

VISIT TO THE INSTITUTION.—The members of the M. E. Conference were to visit the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb this afternoon per steamer Kincardine.

FIRST CARGO.—The schooner Katie Eccles is at Campbell & Co's. loading barley for W. D. Fuller. Her cargo will be the first to leave port this season.

Promote perspiration in colds and chills with SANFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER.

POSTPONED.—The excursion to Picton per steamer City of Belleville, which was to have taken place yesterday, was postponed on account of the rain. It will take place to-morrow, the boat leaving here at 3 p.m.

BLACK QUARTER.—We are informed that this disease is prevalent amongst the young cattle in the vicinity of Sucker Creek, Tyendinaga, in the front concessions. Upwards of twenty cattle have died from the effects of the disease.

DOMINION RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—The annual meeting of this Association commenced at Ottawa yesterday. In the all-comers' match, 7 shots each at 500 and 600 yards, Corporal Hilton, of the 49th, won a prize of $5, with a score of 51. The highest score was 61.

RAILS.—Eight car loads of rails for the North Hastings Railway were taken yesterday afternoon from the pile which lay for the last five years at the lower end of Campbell & Co's dock. The work of track laying will, we understand, be proceeded with immediately.

RAIN STORM.—Lightning flashed brilliantly for many hours in the east last night and during the night and early morning there was a heavy fall of rain. Thus it is that pastures, usually brown and sere at this time of year, are as bright and fresh as in spring time. The fall rains seem to have come before their time.

RELIGIOUS CALENDAR.—The following is the religious calendar for September:—Sunday 8th, Twelfth Sunday after Trinity; Sunday 15th, Thirteenth Sunday after Trinity; Saturday 21st, St. Matthew; Sunday 22nd, Fourteenth Sunday after Trinity; Sunday 29th, Fifteenth Sunday after Trinity; St. Michael and all Angels.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.—A cow was seen last night running about in Murney Ward, as if mad, with a hay fork stuck in its back. It is true that cows are very annoying and destructive at times, but such cruel actions as that above noted are in no case justifiable. The law provides redress for the damages done by cows, and to the law only should appeal be made.

GUIDE TO VOTERS.—We have received from Thomas Hodgkins, Esq., Q. C., a valuable little pamphlet entitled a "Guide to Counting Marked Ballots at Elections for the House of Commons." The work also contains the clauses of the Dominion Election Acts of 1874-8 relating to voting by ballot, together with copious notes of decisions and fac similes of ballots adjudicated upon by the election courts. From a hasty glance at its contents we believe it to be an important book of reference, especially valuable at this time, while we are on the eve of a general election for the House of Commons. It is published by Rowsell & Hutchinson, of Toronto.

THE SCHOOLS.—The High and Public Schools of the city re-opened on Monday with a large attendance. It is very important that pupils be prompt and punctual in their attendance at their respective schools, so that their names be enrolled and the necessary routine of class duties assigned them. It is important alike for teachers and pupils. Parents and guardians are also interested. They naturally expect their children to make progress in their studies, but without punctuality in attendance at school, it is next to impossible for their expectations in this respect to be realized. Absentees for a few days in each month cannot keep pace in their classes with those who are regular attendants. The same is true of those who are not supplied with the regular text books. Home work is another important adjunct to punctuality at school. Unless parents be vigilant in this respect, much of the teacher's instruction will be of little avail. All parents should therefore observe the following rules: (1) See that their children leave home at such an hour as will give them ample time to reach the school at 9 o'clock a. m. and at 1:30 o'clock p. m. (2) Examine and sign their weekly reports. (3) Provide their children with the requisite school books. (4) Furnish them with a properly signed note for the teacher in every case of absence from school, and do not encourage or allow them to write notes of this kind for themselves. By allowing these rules parents will do a good thing for their children and greatly facilitate the labors of the teachers, and increase the value and efficiency of the schools.

NEW YORK MARKETS.—There is no report of the New York markets to-day.

THE CHARITY PIC-NIC.—The attendance at the St. Vincent de Paul Society's pic-nic for the benefit of the poor, held to-day in the Agricultural Grounds, was very small up to 3 o'clock this afternoon. This was no doubt due to the very unfavorable weather, which circumstance is much to be regretted.

NEW ORANGE HALL.—The new Orange Hall in Mill Point was dedicated "to Almighty God and the Protestant Cause" by Mr. Wm. Johnson, D. G. M., on Tuesday, the 3rd September, assisted by Dr. Newton, of Mill Point, acting as Grand Chaplain, and by Mr. James Cameron, W. M. of the Orange Lodge of Mill Point. The attendance was very large, a large excursion party of Orangemen and Orange Young Britons having come from Picton, and numbers from Shannonville and surrounding country being present.

PROLIFIC.—Mr. William Clark, of lot 27 in the 2nd concession of Tyendinaga (south range) informs us that this season he sowed 2 bushels of Red Chaff Wheat, from which he thrashed 50 bushels—a splendid yield. From a single pea planted by Mr. Robert Orr, on the adjoining lot, seventeen vines sprung. On these vines were 150 pods, each of which contained from 4 to 8 peas, averaging 6 each, or a return of nine hundred fold. This is indeed a wonderful yield, even for this wonderfully favorable season. Mr. William Gill has also shown us a bunch or cluster of tomatoes, nine in number, and weighing 4½ pounds. These latter were grown on the farm of Mr. Charles Huffman, 5th concession of Sidney. On land belonging to Mr. Severn, brewer, peas were grown this season the vines of which were 9 ft. in length.

HOW TO GET RID OF MOSQUITOES.—Seth Green, the eminent fish culturist of New York, says there is no need of having mosquitoes, "and if every man will look over his own premises (if your neighbor will not look over his, look it over for him,) and empty all the water out or cover up all vessels containing rain water you will not be troubled with them. The wigglers in rain water are young mosquitoes. One keg or barrel will annoy a whole neighborhood. Last week the pests made their appearance in my house. I searched around the neighborhood, and did not hunt long before I found a barrel full of rain water and wigglers. I explained it to my neighbor and he tipped the barrel over, knocked the other head out and said when it got dry he would make kindling wood of it. My advice to all is to do likewise and you will not be troubled with the pests."

NOVEL SAILING MATCHES.—Sailing matches are very popular at Clayton. From four to six row boats manned by two men and rigged with only a sail and a piece of sponge for bailing, start out to make a circuit of three or four miles. There are no oars or rudders, and the direction given the boat depends entirely upon the management of the sail and the trimming of the boat by changing the weight of the men from one side to the other. Quite an exciting race of this kind came off last Monday. One of the occupants often sits upon the edge of the boat when the waves are tossing it in a most merciless manner, as these peerless boatmen often encounter a gale in their daring trips. This novel method of sailing involves beating to windward under the most adverse circumstances and it is wonderful to see what skill they exhibit.

POISON IN THE PEACH STONE.—The Scientific American says:—"A fatal case of poisoning by peach stones, which is noted in the French papers as having recently occurred in Paris, should serve as a warning to families in which children are allowed to look after themselves for an hour at a time. Probably very few adults themselves know how poisonous peach stones are. The victim of the recent accident in Paris selected the stones of a number of peaches, and, obtaining a hammer, when left alone broke them open industriously and ate them; the result being that he was fatally poisoned by hydrocyanic (prussic) acid. Since the peach season is now upon us it is well to explain what quantity of poison the peach stone possesses. Writers on toxicology state that one ounce of the kernels contains about one grain of pure prussic acid, and this quantity, it is well known, is sufficent to kill any adult person. Even two-thirds of a grain has very often proved fatal, and indeed may be regarded as a fatal dose for any child."

THE MULLEN A CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.—A correspondent writes as follows about that well known plant, the mullen: "I have discovered a remedy for consumption. It has cured a number of cases after they had commenced bleeding at the lungs and the hectic flush was already on the cheek. After trying this remedy to my own satisfaction, I have thought philanthropy required that I should let it be known to the world. It is the common mullen plant steeped strongly and sweetened with coffee sugar, and drink freely. Young or old plants are good, dried in the shade and kept in clean bags. The medicine must be continued from three to six months, according to the nature of the disease. It is very good for the blood vessels also. It strengthens and builds up the system instead of taking away the strength. It makes good blood, and takes inflammation away from the lungs. It is the wish of the writer that every periodical in the United States, Canada, and Europe should publish this recipe for the benefit of the human family. Lay this up and keep it in the house ready for use. The mullen plant is light green in color, with thick, soft, velvety leaves. The stalk on which the flowers grow, shoots up to a great height, and the flowers, which are yellow in color, cluster thickly around it.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

Awful Disaster on the Thames.

HUNDREDS OF LIVES LOST.

London, Sept. 3.—The excursion steamer Princess Alice in returning from Gravesend to London this evening with about eight hundred passengers, was run down off Barking, about eight o'clock, by a screw steamer. It is reported that between five and six hundred persons were drowned.

MIDNIGHT.—The Princess Alice was struck amidships, and sank almost immediately. The number of persons drowned is seriously estimated at 500 to 650. The higher estimate is the latest, and is given by the London Steamboat Company, the owners of the Princess Alice. The Company's wharf is besieged by crowds, anxious to hear of relatives and friends who were passengers on the ill-fated boat.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The excursion on the steamer Princess Alice, which was sunk with such frightful results last evening while on the return from Gravesend to London by the screw collier Bywell Castle, was one of the largest saloon steamers of the London Steamship Company. She left London about 11 o'clock yesterday morning for Gravesend and Sheerness, many excursionists being induced by fine weather to go for a holiday trip. The vessel left Gravesend on her return soon after 6 o'clock in the evening, and arrived within sight of the Royal Arsenal at Woolwich about eight. The Bywell Castle was then approaching in the opposite direction. The steamers were near the middle of the stream just off the city of London gas works at Beckton and below the mouth of Woodwich gardens, almost the precise spot where the fatal collision occurred between the Metis and Wentworth, ten years ago. All that is known amid the maddening excitement is that the screw steamer struck the steamer Princess Alice on the portside; an unparalleled scene ensued. A very few clambered on the other vessel, but nearly all rushed to the after part of the boat, as the bow subsided gradually under water. The shrieks were fearful, and nothing could be done to save life. There were a dozen or more life buoys on board and some boats swinging in the davits, but even if they could have been got at they would have been of little service. Within five minutes the Princess Alice heeled completely over and went down. Some small boats hastened to the scene and another steamer belonging to the same Company, also on her passage up the river with excursionists, went to the rescue, but the river for a hundred yards was full of drowning people screaming in anguish and praying for help, and as it was growing dark not much could be done. It is believed that not more than 150 escaped out of 800 aboard.

The Princess Alice was a long and low river steamer, built for excursions down the Thames, of which the middle and poorer classes of Londoners were very fond. She had saloons on the forward and after decks, and her carrying capacity was unusually large.

A large proportion of the passengers were on the upper deck and must have seen their impending doom, but those in the stern had no warning until they heard the crash, and found the passengers from the forward part running to the after part.

Beyond the fact that the tide was two hours' ebb, which would enable the Princess Alice to ease and stop sooner than a screw steamer, which would be borne on the tide it is impossible to discover any circumstances immediately preceding the collision.

Before the boats came into collision there were cries from one to the other to keep out of the way. The accident was probably due to misunderstanding, one misinterpreting the intention of the other. All rules of sailing were cast to the winds in the moment of peril, each taking a wrong course to avoid each other's blunder.

The cause of the Princess Alice disaster is believed to be that both vessels were rounding a sharp bend in the river, caused by the projection of a point of land whereon the powder magazine of Woolwich arsenal is situated. To turn this point the Princess Alice had crossed over to the right bank, and was thus out of her proper course. Her lights were probably obscured by the shadow of the powder magazine, and being much smaller and lower than the Bywell Castle, the latter was upon her before the danger was perceived.

Dangerous "Gas" Machines.

Not a month goes by that we do not hear of some explosion and fire caused by so-called "gas-machines." Within the last few days the daily papers have chronicled the death of two or three persons, the injury of several others and the destruction of the town hall at Harrison, Ohio, by one of these machines ; and we desire to enter our earnest and solemn protest against the danger to life, limb and property, caused by the use of such infernal machines, as are erected throughout the country as "modern conveniences."

We state most emphatically, and can prove beyond question, that these gasoline torpedoes are more dangerous than gun-powder or nitro-glycerine ; that their presence in any building occupied or designed for occupancy, is in violation of all the laws of precaution or safety, and would not be tolerated by law or countenanced by underwriters. Their name is a misnomer and their presence and use a peril.

The lighter products of the petroleum distillation, even though the most minute ores, are highly volatile, readily inflammable, fiercely combustible and mixed in certain proportions with air, a trace of common air, powerfully explosive. Being heavier than air, the insidious and invisible vapors evolved from naphtha, gasoline, benzine, &c., at normal temperatures, do not early make their danger, ous presence know to the sense of smell, they flow like water along the floor or the ground, all the while mingling by diffusion with the air above and before them in explosive proportions. The tiniest flash will ignite the gaseous magazine and explode it with a rending and damaging effect proportionate to its quantity and the strength of the surrounding walls. That particular property of these heavy yet penetrating vapors which should cause us specially to guard against the possibility of their introduction or entrance into any room—and more particularly a cellar—seems to be entirely ignored in many domestic matters ; and, strange to say, this precaution is most recklessly disregarded where skilled attention is least likely to be paid and the damage done swiftest and most terrible when it takes place. The employment in the household of light oils, flashed below 125° or 110° F. should be forbidden by the most rigid enactment prevented by the strictest surveillance, and visited with the heaviest and most summary punishment. In ordinary metal lamps such oils after burning an hour or so, heated beyond their flashing points are likely to burst ; while glass lamps are liable to break and cause heavy loss, shocking disfigurement, excruciating torture and even agonizing death. Even with the excellent safety lamps on the market, the servant girl of the period endangers her own life and that of her housemate by filling with light flashing oils in the presence of another light, while the popular penchant for starting the fire with this inflammable liquid, seems to be indelibly inherited by the daily records of terrible, burning and disfiguring accidents from such cause.

But we concern ourselves here specially with the so-called "gas machines" including all devices for mechanically impregnating air with hydro-carbon vapors. The whole family of hydro-carbons, from the heaviest to the lightest, will yield by destructive distillation at high temperatures, a product of a high order of high illuminating quality and capable of large dilution with air, for convenience of distribution and burning, such products being lighter than air, and consequently, even if they were mere vapors liable to change their condition with each variation of our fickle climate, would be less dangerous than the heavy fluids which escape detection by smell.

It is possible by employing material and workmanship much above the average at our disposal, to produce a vapor-making machine which shall impregnate common air with inflammable vapors to such an extent that the mixture shall become inflammable, and the machine shall, if well and carefully tended, and placed in a remote and seperate safety-valve (not in a cellar), produce at a low cost an illuminating mixture, open only to the detection—no slight one—that unlike ordinary illuminating gas (also explosive when mixed with air in certain proportions), its presence in the rooms, if a tap be left unturned or a or a pipe chance to leak, is not detectable early enough to prevent possible danger.

The proper way to use liquid hydro-carbons for illumination is either to use a wick and lamp pure and simple, employing the heavy and safe liquids, drawing them by capillary attraction, and by the flame manufacturing inflammable gases as fast as wanted and fast-er—or to entirely break up either light or heavy oils by destructive distillation at a high temperature in a closed retort, thus forming light and safe fixed gases of greatly superior illuminating quality, which may be diluted with air, or with "water-gas" proper, caused by the destructive distillation of water.

Let it be laid down as a rule never to be forgotten or deviated from—that the light hydro carbons, under any circumstances or surroundings, in any degree safe, or in any way to be exempted from constant attention and careful handling ; and that their presence in any occupied buildings other than by watchful and prudent persons, is dangerous in the highest degree, and should be a matter for domestic warning and legislative enactment. —Water, Gas and Steam.

Liquid Manure.

It is generally believed that no system of enriching land for small gardens, with a view a view to perfection of crops, is so truly economical and so easily available as that of liquid manure. We occasionally hear of a gardener or an amateur fruit grower who has practiced enriching the crop by use of liquid manure, but it is not a common practice so to enrich our gardens and lawns, however often the advocacy of the practice has been published. The writer practiced the sprinkling of a lawn, in a dry season, with weak liquid manure water, and in the greatest heat and drought has kept it fresh and green. In the management of pot plants no course of supplying food equals that of a judicious use of liquid manure. There are in almost every family waste liquids which usually go into a sewer or drain, or possibly upon the road, where they are of no avail ; but if saved by being conducted to a tank along with the wash waters of the house, would enrich an entire garden for vegetables and fruits, flower-borders, etc., and the whole, if the wash be applied regularly, and at night, after sunset in moderate quantities, would prevent the driest weather of summer from checking vegetation. If an unpleasant odor comes from the tank, a little plaster (gypsum) sprinkled in and around the tank would keep it sweet and clean. Again, the use of liquid manure need never delay planting because of manure not being on hand, but planting could proceed, and the application of manure be made at leisure.—American Rural Home.

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and labored breathing, the demulcent properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime manifests itself in its healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membrane of the Bronchial passages ; the cough soon loosely yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided reasserts herself, and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health.

Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle ; six bottles for $5.00.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE For CATARRH

INSTANTLY relieves and permanently cures this loathsome disease in all its varying stages. It possesses the soothing and healing properties of Pure Balm, and the searching power of Pure Air from every Known Remedy, and is the only specific differs from every other known remedy. In this short year it has gained its way from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, and wherever known has become the standard remedy for the treatment of Catarrh. The proprietors have been waited upon by thousands of grateful people, who have been cured by this remedy, and who have, at considerable expense and personal trouble, spread the good news throughout the circles in which they move. When you hear a wealthy gentleman of intelligence and refinement say, "I owe my life to Sanford's Radical Cure," you may feel assured of a truthful statement, as are scores of others, to be classed among the standard medical specifics of the day.

THE benefit I derive from its daily use is to me worth a fortune.
HENRY WELLS, of WELLS, FARGO & CO.

I HAD cured me after twelve years of miserable rooted suffering.
REV. W. HOUGHTON, Waltham, Mass.

I FOLLOWED the directions to the letter and am happy to say I have had a permanent cure.
REV. J. WHEAT, M. D., Muscatine, Iowa.

I HAVE recommended it to quite a number of my friends, all of whom have expressed to me their high estimate of its value and good effects in each case.
WM. BOWEN, 32 Pine St., St. Louis.

AFTER using two bottles I am entirely and permanently cured. I have since recommended over one hundred, with the greatest success.
WM. W. ARMSTRONG.

We have sold SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE for nearly one year, and can say candidly that we never sold a similar preparation that gave such universal satisfaction. We have yet to learn of the first complaint.
F. D. BALDWIN & CO., Washington, Ind.

THE cure effected in my case by SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE was so remarkable that it seemed to come like a miracle, and many of my friends call it a secret remedy that it could not be true. I therefore make this statement, fully believing it.
GEORGE F. DINSMORE, Druggist, Boston.

Each package of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE contains Sanford's Inhaler, treating Catarrh, and full directions for its use in all cases. Price, $1.00. For sale by all Druggists. Retail Druggists throughout the United States and Canada

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Does it who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back; Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, gives instant relief, cures instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

Brown, Cartwright, et al., and the Intercolonial Railway.

In an open letter addressed by the Hon. Wm. Macdougall to the Hon. George Brown, which is published in the Mail, the following scathing exposure of the jugglery of Messrs. Brown, Cartwright, Mackenzie, and the whole gang of Grit howlers is given:—

I propose now, through a more liberal newspaper than the Globe, with, I believe, a political influence much more potent, to demonstrate the utter falsity, and the imprudent dishonesty of your pretence that Mr. Mackenzie and the then Opposition opposed or disapproved of the Bay Chaleur route for the Intercolonial railway. If they did not, either by motion or vote in Parliament, or by speech, or public utterance elsewhere, manifest their opposition, how can you or they find fault now with Sir John Macdonald for its selection? If neither you nor they gave Messrs. Tilley and Macdougall, the two members of the Cabinet who were known to prefer the shorter and less expensive route by the valley of the St. John, one word of approval or encouragement during the whole year the question was under discussion—though the Confederation Act required its settlement within six months after Union—how dare you accuse us of neglect of duty, or the Government as a whole, of spending eight millions needlessly, and contrary to public opinion, on their great work?

I now assert and defy you to contradict, the following propositions:—

1. That the Bay Chaleur route was adopted by the Canadian Government after full discussion in the Cabinet, and in the public press.

2. That it was apparent very early in the discussion, viz., during the first session of the Dominion Parliament, that the members of the Cabinet from the Maritime Provinces (except Mr. Tilley) and all the members from Quebec, preferred the Bay Chaleur line.

3. That the engineer, Mr. Fleming, who before Confederation had explored the whole country from the St. John to the Metapedia; who had been selected by the Imperial Government, as well as the Provincial Governments, to advise on the question of route; and who was afterwards appointed by the Dominion Government to be its chief engineer for railways, gave his decided opinion in favour of the Bay Chaleur line.

4. That the Imperial Government having agreed to guarantee a loan of three millions sterling, reserved the right to approve the line that might be selected; that the Bay Chaleur line was preferred by that Government; that the line crossing the St. John at Woodstock or at Fredericton, or elsewhere, would have been "one to which Her Majesty's assent could not have been given." (See dispatch of Colonial Secretary to Lord Monck, 22nd July, 1868.)

5. That the Canadian Parliament, the constitutional authority to which individual Ministers, as well as cabinets, must bow, especially in matters of taxation and supply, approved of the Bay Chaleur line by an immense majority. (See Commons' Journal, 1869, page 97.)

6. That the present Premier, by his speech in 1865—the best I ever heard him make—(see Confederation Debates, p. 430) —and all his present colleagues then in the House, by their votes in 1869, approved of the Bay Chaleur line.

7. That except the Hamilton Spectator's (a Conservative newspaper,) no journal of influence in Ontario or Quebec advocated or urged upon the Government the selection of the frontier line, on the ground that it would be cheaper and better than the Bay Chaleur line.

8. That when Mr. Mackenzie in May, 1869—nearly a year after the route had been determined, after the loan had been raised, the line located, and seven contracts for its construction entered into—submitted a resolution to Parliament condemnatory of the line he had previously recommended, his present colleague, the Minister of Finance, rebuked his inconsistency and sectional demagogy by moving an amendment, which gives the history of the case.

It is unnecessary here to reproduce the entire resolution, the marrow of which lies in the concluding paragraph, as follows:—

"That upon the Acts hereinbefore mentioned, and on the loan being effected, the Canadian Government proceeded to carry out the construction of the railway under the British North America Act, 1867, and have now seven sections of the same under contract."

"That under these circumstances, this House considers that any discussion as to the route of the railway would not answer any good purpose, but might greatly prejudice the credit of the Dominion both at home and abroad," inserted instead thereof."

Mr. Mackenzie's tricky motion, prepared no doubt at your suggestion for electioneering purposes in Ontario, was rejected by 114 to 28—every Lower Canadian but one, including Mr. Holton, who seconded his motion; every Nova Scotian but one; every New Brunswicker but 5, and every Upper Canadian but 20, voting against him, and actually approving of the action of the Government! Yet you now attempt to make the electors believe—presuming upon their ignorance of the foregoing facts, and your ability to prevent them from finding out the truth, that Sir John Macdonald ought now to be condemned as a man unfit to be trusted, and Mackenzie, Cartwright, Brown, and Co. to be lauded and maintained in power for their foresight and patriotism in 1867 and 1868 in trying to save eight millions of dollars by opposing the Bay Chaleur route!

Whether experience will justify, or posterity approve of Sir John's action in assenting, as an Ontario representative, to the views of the majority of his colleagues and adopting the military and national, rather than the commercial line for the Intercolonial, I do not know, but I was compelled to admit even then, that as the head of the Cabinet Sir John had no choice. I never saw, or pretended to see, any corrupt motive for his action, such as every attentive observer, not afflicted with Grit strabismus, has discovered in the purchase from political and family relatives of 50,000 tons of steel rails, upon short notice, years before they could be used, and before Parliament had voted the money; in the contract with Foster to build a railway before a survey had shown it to be even practicable; in the offer to British Columbia to build a line where it would have nothing to do, winter or summer; in the gift of the Truro and Pictou Railway, which had cost three millions, to a private company in Nova Scotia, and afterwards making them a present of steel rails for the whole line; in the contracts with members of Parliament for political support, in violation of law, and then suspending the Independence of Parliament Act to save them from punishment, et hoc genus omne.

Judge Coursol's Address.

A STIRRING APPEAL IN BEHALF OF OUR NATIVE INDUSTRIES.

We make the following extracts from the admirable election address of Judge Coursol to the constituency of East Montreal, which he is seeking to represent:—

"Having spent many years, at the call of my country, in the calm retirement of the magistracy, I owed it to my conscience to raise myself above party strife without, however, remaining indifferent to the interests of the commonwealth. Governments succeeded one another without its being my privilege to judge them. I witnessed the advent of the Mackenzie Government, and, if it had not my sympathies, at least it enjoyed my respect, and I cannot reproach myself with having in any way trammelled the liberty of its action. If I today interfere it is because I cannot any longer remain an unmoved spectator of our ruin. I feel myself called upon to strike the warning note, and without a pang of regret I quit the honors and peaceful tranquility of a seat on the judicial bench to assist, if it be not too late, in saving our common country.

"You know it as well as I, what we are in need of is native industry; for our industries are the representatives of our capital and our toil. Men will speak to you of commerce and the restriction placed upon it as though it sufficed for a country to purchase in order to boast of commercial enterprise. Do not forget, gentlemen, that foreign goods simply represent foreign labor, no matter to what extent we may flood our country with them. A country grows rich out of the product of the toil of its children. An article manufactured by a mechanic during his day's labor, forms part of the wealth of the country, and nothing is lost in its production; it is so much net gain. If we rest satisfied with importing foreign products we shall be obliged to give in exchange for them their equivalent in money. Thus we might import unceasingly, and yet never do a sound commercial business unless we ourselves are manufacturers. Had we manufactories, had we means of giving employment to the strong arms that are outstretched for labor, we should see the raw material around and about us developed into products that would add largely to our wealth. These products would in their turn develop a commerce far more stable, more enduring and remunerative than that which drives our capital out of the country. Every year there is sent out of Canada over twenty millions of dollars for the purchase of articles, the greater part of which could be manufactured at home. We must endeavor to retain the money in our own land—it is necessary for the support, the education and the comfort of our families. To secure this I now come before you, soliciting your aid in the accomplishment of my task. I appeal to you as the advocates of Protection, which the Mackenzie Government openly denounces.

"PROTECTION is the main plank of my political platform; by it alone can our manufactories be revived, and labor be given to the willing hands of the people. I desire Protection sincerely and frankly; it shall be the special object of my political career, if young votes secure me a seat in Parliament. This question I shall deal with irrespective of men or political parties. I wish to see the Mackenzie Government overthrown, because they are ruining the country by a contrary policy, and no future Administration shall obtain my support, unless its policy be one of Protection to our native industries. I am anxious for such Protection as will be reasonable and just, such as can be applied, as every one knows, without increasing the taxes that are imposed on the people. Such a policy of Protection, instead of increasing the costs of articles of prime necessity, would necessarily decrease it, for after a time, our manufactories having acquired strength and perfection, we could manufacture as cheaply as our foreign competitors, and would thus save the cost of transportation and customs duties, which represent at least a quarter of the value of imported goods.

The Cabinet Salaries.

"The Mail has again the assurance to make a comparison between the salaries paid in 1872-3 and 1876-7, and charge the difference to the present Government. Even Mr. Tilley has admitted the responsibility of the late Government for the expenditure of 1873-4, during which salaries were raised."—Globe

This is how the Globe shirks the issue in the Cabinet salaries controversy. It is true that in May, 1873, when there was an overflowing revenue and surplus was piled on surplus as regularly as deficit succeeds deficit under Reform rule, Sir John Macdonald proposed to increase the Cabinet salaries from $5,000 per Minister to $8,000 for the Premier, and $7,000 for each of the other Ministers. The salaries up to that time were as follows:—

The Premier	$ 5,000
Twelve Ministers at $5,000 each	60,000
Total	$65,000

And Sir John increased them as follows:

The Premier	$ 8,000
Twelve Ministers at $7,000 each	84,000
Total	$92,000

But Mr. Mackenzie objected to the increase and moved the following resolution:

"That in the opinion of this House it is not expedient to increase the salaries of Ministers in the manner proposed; that uniformity in amount is quite unnecessary, as the heads of the less important departments are now sufficiently well paid with $5,000 per annum; and that the resolution be not concurred in, but referred back to Committee of the Whole with instructions to graduate the salaries, so that the aggregate shall not exceed $75,000."

The point is why did not Mr. Mackenzie, who considered $75,000 enough for the Cabinet in May, 1873, reduce the salaries from $92,000 to $75,000 when he took office in November, 1873? Why has that austere friend of economy, who pledged himself to cut down Sir John Macdonald's extravagance, continued in the face of deficits and general hard times to draw $17,000 a year more than he deemed sufficient for the Cabinet in good times? Let our contemporary take his head out of the sand and face this plain issue honestly.

THE COMING STRUGGLE.

Our Battle Cry: "Protection to Home Industries."

The Opposition Policy.

The commercial policy of the Opposition is represented in the following resolution moved by Sir John Macdonald in the House of Commons :—

"That this House is of opinion that the welfare of Canada requires the adoption of a National Policy, which by a judicious readjustment of the Tariff will benefit and foster the Agricultural, the Mining, the Manufacturing and other interests of the Dominion; that such a policy will retain in Canada thousands of our fellow countrymen, now obliged to expatriate themselves in search of employment denied them at home; will restore prosperity to our struggling industries, now so sadly depressed; will prevent Canada from being made a sacrifice market; will encourage and develop an active interprovincial trade; and moving (as it ought to do) in the direction of the reciprocity of Tariffs with the colonies, so far as the varied interests of Canada may demand, will greatly tend to procure for this Country, eventually, a reciprocity of Trade."

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, SEPT. 5.

THE MEETING TO-NIGHT.

We hope to see a large gathering of the friends and supporters of the Opposition candidate at the general meeting of the Central and Ward Committees to-night. The canvass has been pushed vigorously and with success, but there is still a good deal of work to be done. Therefore, let there be a good attendance from each Ward, and let every one come prepared to take his share of the labor which still remains to be performed between now and the day of election.

"YOU'RE ANOTHER!"

The Premier is once more to the fore with his favorite "argument," namely "you're another," which he always resorts to when hard-pressed. In his recent speech at Ottawa he is reported as saying :—

"A good deal is said about the Neebing Hotel, which was valued by the valuators at something over $5,000. This is spoken of as a loss. It may have been valued too highly; how much I really don't know. Supposing it is worth nothing, these Tory gentlemen forget that Sir John A. Macdonald paid one half of that sum to Mr. Moylan without anything at all being got for it."

This, be it remembered, is from the lips of the man who promised to "elevate the standard of public morality" which he alleged that his opponents "had done so much to debase." It amounts in principle to this, that if any man's neighbor had stolen a cow he was thereby justified in committing manslaughter. Away with such "political morality" as this, which has too often guided the conduct of the Mackenzie Government, but of which people who reflect have become tired.

John Stuart Mill on Protection.

The free-trade organs never weary of quoting arguments from writers who favor their views, but they carefully suppress all reference to the fact that John Stuart Mill, admittedly the most eminent of all free trade theorists, felt himself constrained to admit that in certain cases Protection was allowable—was, in truth, an act of necessity, even of self preservation. In the tenth chapter of his great work on the "Principles of Political Economy" he reasons as follows :

"There can be no doubt that, in the present state of international morality, a people cannot, any more than an individual, be blamed for not starving itself to feed others. * * *

"The only case in which, on mere principles of political economy, protecting duties can be defensible, is when they are imposed temporarily (especially in a young and rising nation) in hopes of naturalizing a foreign industry, in itself perfectly suitable to the circumstances of the country. The superiority of one country over another in a branch of production often arises only from having begun it sooner. There may be no inherent advantage on one part, or disadvantage on the other, but only a present superiority of acquired skill and experience. A country which has the skill and experience yet to acquire, may in other respects be better adapted to the production than those which were earlier in the field; and, besides, it is a just remark that nothing has a greater tendency to promote improvements in any branch of production than its trial under a new set of conditions. But it cannot be expected that individuals should, at their own risk, or rather at their certain loss, introduce a new manufacture and bear the burden of carrying it on, until the producers have been educated up to the level of those with whom the processes are traditional. A protecting duty continued for a reasonable time, will sometimes be the least inconvenient mode in which a nation can tax itself for the support of such an experiment. But the protection should be confined to cases in which there is good ground for assurance that the industry which it fosters will after a time be able to dispense with it, nor should the domestic producers ever be allowed to expect that it will be continued to them, beyond the time strictly necessary for a fair trial of what they are capable of accomplishing."

The case which Mr. Mill saw in his mind's eye was exactly that of Canada at the present time, therefore those who profess to be his pupils and to follow his doctrines ought to support the National Policy, the wisdom of which is above vouched for by their mentor. We are aware that free-traders claim that Mr. Mill subsequently modified this strongly expressed opinion; but this was merely done on the spur of the moment, in a letter addressed to a daily newspaper. Of these two opinions we have no hesitation in accepting that adopted by Mr. Mill and confidently expressed after long study, to that formed hastily, and not improbably on false representations, by the correspondent in the United States whose letter caused the eminent theorist to modify his views, as stated. In any case, Mr. Mill's first thoughts were best, and will, we believe, find practical application in Canada within the next twelve months.

Political Notes.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.

In the Island of Montreal there are five very large and important constituencies—the three city divisions, Jacques Cartier and Hochelaga. Of these the first four were lately Ministerial, but they will all now go heavily for the National Policy. A clear gain of four, or eight on a division. If the rest of the country does as well as this, we shall ask nothing better.—Montreal Gazette.

AN UNJUST TARIFF.

Hon. Mr. Tilley, replying to Hon. Mr. Burpee, spoke as follows :—"On the tea question, he must say that he was surprised at the calmness with which the people submitted to the injustice. The rich man who bought a pound of tea at $1.20 paid 15 cents duty, while the poor man, who bought two pounds of sixty-cent tea, paid twenty cents tax. Mr. Burpee said this was an inducement to the poor people to buy good tea. (Laughter.) Suppose the man of small means should be taxed one per cent. on his property, and the rich man were taxed but a half per cent., Mr. Burpee would say that this was an inducement to the poor to get rich." (Great laughter.)

NO ESCAPE.

There is no use in our Grit and Rouge friends attempting to trump up a cry in this community that the Government will do something for the tariff. At Ottawa, no later than Saturday night, Mr. Mackenzie declared that he would "Stand or fall by the issue—the existing tariff versus a Protective one."

A COUNTERBALANCE.

The Grits are consoling themselves for their prospective losses here and elsewhere by the hope of gains in the Quebec District, basing their calculations on the recent Provincial elections. But they will find themselves mistaken. Our advices from that quarter are satisfactory, and the basis of the information in this :—In the late Provincial contest, it was neither the Constitutional question, nor yet the Railway question that had any influence in the Quebec counties. It was the Financial question. The very same question will be operated on now, in the contrary sense, and with how much more reason! For the good habitants of Quebec it is an issue of bread and butter, of poverty and distress, of wholesale emigration of their sons and daughters. And they know it.—Montreal Gazette.

The Party of Purity.

The Globe, with sublime effrontery, says that the Reform Party has struggled, out of office and in office, for pure elections, and it was chiefly owing to their efforts that the Judges were entrusted with the task of trying contested cases. The following are the Judges' decisions as to some of the Reformers whose cases they tried :—

Name.	Constituency.	Penalty.
Walker	London	Disqualified.
Jodoin	Chambly	"
Cushing	Huntingdon	"
Shibley	Addington	Unseated.
McGregor	Essex	"
Irving	Hamilton	"
Wood		"
Norris	Lincoln	"
Devlin	Montreal Centre	"
Coupal	Napierville	"
Biggar	Northumb'l East	"
Murray	Renfrew North	"
Aylmer	Richm'd & Wolfe	"

Highbotham	Wel'ngton North	"
Prevost	Two Mountains	"
Tremblay	Chateauguay	"
Macdonald	Cornwall	"
McNab	Glengarry	"
Cameron	Huron South	"
Mackenzie	Montreal West	"
Stuart	Norf'k South	"
Kerr	Northumb'd West	"
McDougall	Renfrew South	"
Cook	Simcoe North	"
O'Donohoe	Toronto East	"
McLennan	Victoria South	"
Dymond	York North	"
McKay	Cape Breton	"

This is the list of those who were found out only. Yet the Globe impudently says that Reformers will not resort to bribery in any form, but as their opponents may not be so scrupulous, "purity and vigilance must be the watchwords of Reformers during the next three weeks." Could hypocrisy be carried further?

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.—During the severe thunder storm of Wednesday, the 4th inst., three men were killed by lightning about seven miles from Battersea, on the road to Kingston. The name of two of them is Spooner; the other one's name was Michael McGarrey. They were getting ice in an ice-house, and were killed instantly.

A GOLD MINE IN NEW YORK CITY.—The Scientific American says :—When the Appleton building in Bond street was burned last year, the watches, jewelry, and silverware destroyed amounted to about a million dollars. The ruins were carefully worked over by the insurance companies, and all the larger masses of metal were taken out. Then the owners of the property subjected what was left to a thorough washing and secured a handsome sum for their labor. For months after a number of juvenile miners worked at the rubbish, and one enterprising little fellow, it is said, secured enough to set himself up in business, with a stand and newspaper route. Last spring the attention of two Western miners was attracted to the "mine," and after testing a bag of the dirt made a liberal bid for the privilege of working over the refuse scientifically. The offer was accepted, and for the next two or three months their operations afforded much entertainment if not instruction to crowds of curious spectators. A real working gold mine in the heart of a great city was something of a novelty. The miners, Messrs. Pier and Roberts, have finished their work at last, and declare that the "find" was one the richest they ever worked; that they secured over $60,000 worth of precious metals, clearing some $20,000 above expenses and the cost of their privilege. The average yield was over $1,000 a day, one day's work bringing $1,700.

The Methodist Church of Canada.

SECOND GENERAL CONFERENCE.

FIRST DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

(From the Montreal Star.)

The Second General Conference of the Methodist Church in Canada commenced its session this morning at half past nine o'clock in the Dorchester street Methodist Church. There were about two hundred delegates present, of whom about half were ministers and the remainder laymen. The Rev. Dr. Ryerson, of Toronto, took the chair, and commenced the proceedings by announcing the 218th hymn. After this hymn was sung the Rev. D. D. Currie read the 15th chapter of St. John, on the conclusion of which the Rev. Mr. Green engaged in prayer, invoking the blessing of the Almighty on the labors of the conference just opened, and asking His guidance in the selection of a president. Rev. Dr. Picard and Dr. Ryerson followed, invoking the divine blessing on whatever arrangements might be made by the Conference. The Secretary of the Conference, Rev. D. D. Currie, then read the roll of lay and clerical members, to which those present responded at the calling of their names.

The Chairman, Dr. Ryerson, addressed the conference :—In October, 1874, the First General Conference of the Methodist Church of Canada was held in the city of Toronto. This conference consisted of an equal number of lay and clerical members. During that session the Methodist New Connexion denomination was amalgamated with the Methodist Church. The three Methodist Conferences of Canada were also united at the same time. The doctor read the following statement of church work during the first four years of the Conference :

MINISTERS.—In the Canada Conference, in 1874, there were 695 ministers, and in the New Connexion, 113 ministers; total, 808. In 1878 there were in the London Conference 330 clergymen; in the Toronto Conference, 365; and in the Montreal Conference, 220; making a total of 915 ministers, or an increase in four years of 107. In East British America, in 1874, there were 223 ministers: now there are 106 in Nova Scotia, 95 in New Brunswick, and 49 in Newfoundland, making a total of 250, or an increase of 27. The total number of clergymen in 1874 in Canada was therefore 1,031, and in 1878, 1,165, showing a net increase of 134.

MEMBERS.—In 1874, in the Canada Conference, there were 73,557 members; in the New Connexion, 7,439; in the East British American Conference, 20,950 members, making a total of 101,946 members. In 1878, in the six conferences, there are 122,605 members, showing an increase of 20,659 members.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS.—In 1874 there were 1,512 schools, 13,277 teachers, and 101,218 scholars. In 1878 there are 1,733 schools, 13,751 teachers, 120,972 scholars, showing an increase during the four years of 221 schools, 2,474 teachers, and 19,754 scholars.

The following is the continuation of the statistics of the Methodist Church, given in Dr. Ryerson's address this morning :—

CHURCHES AND PARSONAGES.—In 1874 there were in the Canada Conference 1,506 churches and 374 parsonages, exhibiting a total value of $3,569,887. In 1878 there are 1,614 churches and 414 parsonages, valued at $4,8?5,997 an increase of 108 churches, 40 parsonages and $1,286,110 in value.

CONNEXIONAL FUNDS.—In 1874 the contingent funds amounted to $7,702.01; educational funds, $3,331.09; superannuated ministers' fund, $16,938.50; missionary funds, $137-954.71. In 1878 the contingent fund is $7,-106.96; educational funds, $7,067.30; superannuated fund, $26,296.01; missionary fund, 000,C?0.

THE ELECTION OF PRESIDENT

was proceeded with as follows : Rev. George Douglass, D.D., 119 votes; Rev. S. D. Rice, D.D., 59 votes; Rev. Dr. Stewart, 3 votes, and six others, one vote each. The announcement of the result of the ballot was received with applause, and the Rev. Dr. Douglass was conducted to the chair by Rev. Dr. Green. The Rev. Dr. Ryerson welcomed him to the high position of President, and addressed a few appropriate remarks to the new occupant of the chair. The voting for Secretary resulted in the election of Rev. Alexander Sutherland, of Toronto, who was welcomed to the duties of his office by the President.

The election of the first Assistant Secretary resulted as follows :—Dr. Allison, LL. D., Superintendent of Education for the Province of Nova Scotia, 113 votes; Judge Jones, of Brantford, 48 votes. Dr. Allison was invited to take his chair beside the Secretary. The balloting for the 2nd Assistant Secretary resulted in the choice of Judge Jones, of Brantford, Ont., who received 106 votes to 56 votes for Rev. Wm. Scott.

The Conference then gave a standing welcome to the Rev. Samuel Coley, the representative of the Wesleyan Methodist Conference of Great Britain, who was chosen by that Conference at its session at the town of Bradford in August, 1878.

M. E. General Conference.

EIGHTH DAY.

WEDNESDAY, Sept. 4.

The educational meeting was held last evening, when addresses were delivered by the fraternal delegates of the Methodist Church of Canada and also by Rev. Mr. Brown, of the Bay of Quinte Conference, and the Rev. Mr. S. Card, of the Niagara Conference. The attendance was large and the interest good.

The Conference opened at nine o'clock, Bishop Carman presiding. After religious services and routine,

The Committee on the Episcopacy, through its Secretary, the Rev. John Elliott, presented its report. The Bishop's character and administration, which must be sustained by the General Conference, were, according to the recommendation of the Committee, cordially passed, and the entire report was adopted.

The Committee on Correspondence reported recommending that fraternal deputations be sent to the M. E. Church of the United States, the Methodist Church of Canada, the Primitive Methodist Church, and the Bible Christian Church. The British Methodist Episcopal Church was added.

The Conference proceeded to elect delegates to the Methodist Church of Canada, the election to the other churches being deferred. The delegates elected to attend the General Conference of the Methodist Church of Canada are the Rev. J. R. Jaques, M.A., Ph. D., and the Rev. Wm. Brown.

The Committee on the Pastoral address reported, recommending that another Committee be appointed, viz : the President of the Albert University and the Presiding Elders of the Colborne and Napanee Districts.—Carried.

Several questions were presented and referred, and the Conference adjourned at twelve noon until Thursday in order to enable the members to visit the Deaf and Dumb Institute.

NEW DOMINION NOTES.—The new Dominion notes will shortly be put in circulation. They are said to be extremely neat, and bear an excellent likeness of His Excellency the Governor General.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—Newfoundland turns out to be a much larger place than our geographies would have us believe. The latest surveys establish the fact that in place of 42,000 square miles—commonly supposed to be the area—it has really 48,000. A trifle of 6,000 square miles to a place is worth having, even if only by survey. This island is evidently only in its infancy, and when it was known that there some three millions of acres of splendid land, with fisheries not even reasonably well developed, mineral deposits, and other sources of wealth at present untouched, people will wonder how it has remained dormant so long.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, SEPT. 5.

City and Vicinity.

POLICE COURT.—There were no cases for trial this morning.

NO MEETING.—The meeting of electors announced to be held at Marsh Hill last night did not take place, owing to the rain.

THE "SYLVIA."—The work of rigging Mr. Pike's new yacht is progressing rapidly. Her mast has been stepped and stayed, and it is expected that she will make her trial trip on Monday.

POSTPONED.—The Belleville cricketers did not go to Brighton to-day to play their return match with the Cricket club of that village. The match has been postponed on account of the unfavorable nature of the weather.

FIRST CARGO.—The schooner Katie Eccles has cleared for Oswego with 9,200 bushels of barley, this being the first cargo out this season. The grain was loaded at Campbell & Co's elevator and was shipped by W. D. Fuller.

THE EXCURSION.—To-morrow the excursion of the Mechanics' Institute will take place, per steamer Kincardine, to Indian Point. No doubt a large number will avail themselves of the privilege of attending the Conservative demonstration at Stella Point.

STREET FIGHT.—Two men, named respectively Latta and Smith, between whom there is an old grudge, met on Pinnacle Street yesterday afternoon and engaged in a fight, biting and kicking each other like brutes. Constable Cook was sent for, but before he could arrive the pugilists had separated and gone away.

CUSTOMS RETURNS.—We are indebted to Mr. Wolf, acting Collector of Customs, for the following statement of imports, exports and collections for the month of August:

	Exports value.	Consumption value.	Duty collected.
August 1877,	$53,434	$33,479	$3,351.83
" 1878,	46,380	21,335	3,553.60

Increase in duty collected, $201.77.

RAIN.—There seems to be no prospect of an end to the fall of rain, which commenced on Saturday night last. Blow the wind from what quarter it will at present, rain follows, the clouds seeming to circle around this locality. Very heavy showers fell yesterday afternoon, during the night and again this morning, and in consequence the roads are now as heavy as they usually are late in the autumn.

LIVELY.—The frequent passage of the North Hastings construction train to and from the wharves for and with supplies of material renders Pinnacle Street quite lively and seems to delight the boys, who apparently never tire of looking at and following the trains. The locomotive in use is a powerful one drawing with ease twice the load up the heavy grade that the engine used by Mr. Brooks on the Grand Junction used to take.

SCARCITY OF BUTTER.—During the past few days there has been a great scarcity of butter in town. But little has been offered on the market—not enough to supply the demend for home consumption, and grocers' stocks had in consequence run out. To such an extent was this the case that a hotel keeper was obliged yesterday to telegraph to a neighboring village for a supply, and scarcely a grocery in town had a pound of butter to sell this morning. Herein is a chance for speculators.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—The Legislative Assembly of Newfoundland proposes to grant an annual subsidy of £120,000 to any company which will construct a railway across the island from St. John's to George's Bay. A preliminary survey has been made, and it has been found that the railway can be built for a moderate sum. It is claimed by its advocates that its construction with a corresponding service of steamers connecting the island with the mainland on the other side, would enable the Atlantic trade —passengers, mails and merchandise—to be landed at and despatched from a point of North America almost 1,000 miles nearer to Europe than New York, thus avoiding that part of the voyage between New York and Cape Race, where so many disasters have occured.

LIBERALITY.—Mr. Thomas Jessup, the head of a manufacturing firm in Sheffield, England, has shown a rare example of liberality and public spirit by handing over to the trustees for the use of the public a magnificent building, to be used as a women's hospital. It is to take the place at Sheffield of a hospital which has been in operation some years, and which is both small and inconvenient. Not only has Mr. Jessup erected the hospital, but he has furnished it throughout, and the total cost is not much less than £30,000. Attached to the hospital is an institution for lying-in and a dispensary. It is in the direction of one of the best suburbs of the town, though, unfortunately, the architectural features of the building are hidden by surrounding houses.

LACROSSE.—A match of lacrosse will be played on the old cricket ground to-morrow afternoon at 3:30 between those members of the Alert and Oka Clubs who support Mr. Wallbridge on the one hand, against the supporters of Mr. Brown on the other. The match will no doubt be an interesting one.

CORRECTION.—The North Hastings Review says:—"The INTELLIGENCER of Monday says that Mr. Andrew Wright, of this village, was found dead in his bed that morning, having died suddenly. Our contemporary must have been wrongly informed. Mr. Wright had been ailing for over three weeks, during which time he received every attention that was possible, night and day, both medical and otherwise, but gradually sank and expired about 5 o'clock on Monday morning, in the presence of a number of friends and relatives."

THE CHARITY PIC-NIC.—Although rain greatly interfered with the attendance at the St. Vincent de Paul Society's pic-nic yesterday, yet it proved, we are happy to say, a financial success. The programme of games had to be abandoned, but the dancing competitions were held successfully. The voting for a mesrschaum pipe to be presented to that one of the Parliamentary candidates for West Hastings receiving the largest number of votes (at 10c each) resulted in a majority of 8 for Mr. Brown, the number of votes polled being: For Brown 832; for Wallbridge 824. It is stated by the Returning Officer on Mr. Brown's behalf that an amount of money was overlooked which would increase the majority. The poor will receive a substantial benefit from the proceeds of the pic-nic.

NO HARD TIMES IN "TEMPERANCE" VILLAGES.—The Scientific American says:—"Mr. William E. Dodge, the well known manufacturer and merchant of this city, when recently before the Congressional Labor Committee as a witness, said that his firm, employing some 2,000 persons, made it a rule that persons engaged in their manufacturing villages should not use intoxicating drinks. As a consequence there was no complaint of hard times among them. The villages named by him were: Ansonia, Conn.; Dodge Mills, near Williamsport, Penn.; Tobyhanna Mills, Warren Country, Penn.; St. Simon's Mills, Ga.; Wabasheen Mills and Magnattiwan Mills, Ontario, Canada, and Collingswood Mills, Canada. "Many of our employees," Mr. Dodge continued, "are property owners. They own their dwellings and have reared large families. Some of them have been with us ten, twenty and twenty-five years. Our men have not suffered during this depression. They have accepted wages which we could pay, and there has, therefore, been no special distress among them. Crime is practically unknown among them."

Serious Accident on the Grand Junction.

A YOUNG MAN DANGEROUSLY INJURED.

Yesterday afternoon a young man named Chas. Walsh, engaged on the North Hastings Railway construction train, whilst coupling cars on the Grand Junction line near the wharf, got caught between the cars and sustained very serious injuries, which may yet prove fatal. Dr. Willson, who was at once sent for, found that his patient had been caught about the centre of the body, just below the ribs. He was in a prostrate condition, from the effects of the shock upon his nervous system, as well as from that of the injuries, but a stimulant revived him. Examination discloses that some of the internal organs are badly injured, though it is believed that the bowels are safe. His condition is, however, critical, and it will be some days before a certain opinion can be given as to his recovery, inflammation being certain to set in to a greater or less extent. Walsh resides near the Grand Trunk Station, and is about twenty-two years of age.

A True Reformer.

THE MACKENZIE ADMINISTRATION DENOUNCED BY A FORMER SUPPORTER.

GRIT JOBBERY AND CORRUPTION EXPOSED.

KINGSTON, Sept. 3rd.—At a meeting held in the City Hall this evening under the auspices of the Liberal Conservative Association Mr. J. A. Allen (formerly a Church of England clergyman) and one of the most prominent Reformers in this part of the country made a long speech, in which he denounced in the strongest terms the inconsistency and jobbery of the Mackenzie Government. His remarks were received with great enthusiasm, and were frequently cheered. He said that he is still a Reformer, but Alexander Mackenzie had deceived him and the Reformers of the country. (Cheers.) He denounced Mackenzie as a demagogue, whose rule had cost the country millions of dollars that had been thrown away. The Carnarvon and Carrutchers and several other Grits endeavored to induce Mr. Allen not to speak, but he resisted their urgent solicitations and determined as a Reformer to offer his protest against his (Mr. Mackenzie's) conduct.

His stand has created a sensation among the local Grits, who, notwithstanding their blowing, are beginning to feel down in the mouth.

Miss Clara Louise Kellogg.

Preceding Miss Kellogg's concerts the newspapers teem with favorable notices, extracts from the press, and testimonials from the late President Grant and others reminding people of the power of voice possessed by one of America's sweetest singers. If your confidence be secured by such advertisements, why shake the head and doubt while reading the testimonials of positive cures effected by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? It is nonsense for ladies afflicted with the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to their sex to continue to suffer, or to submit to the harsh and caustic treatment now in vogue. The Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists under a positive guarntee to cure.

A political speaker accused a rival of "unfathomable meanness and scoundrelism," and then, rising to the occasion, said, "I warn him not to persist in his disgraceful course, or he'll find that two of us can play at the same game."

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT.

GREAT FIRE AT OMAHA.

MINES FLOODED.

CURIOUS NEGRO PROPHECY.

THE JEWESS ELOPEMENT.

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 5.—Ira Harris and J. W. Colder, the former receiver of the Dallas and Wichita Railroad, and the latter its manager, were met on the street yesterday by Messrs. Painter, Obenchain and Rosser, ex-directors of that road. Words passed between Harris and Rosser, when Harris struck Rosser and was knocked down with a cane by Rosser, who then drew a pistol and began shooting at Colder, who was standing aloof. Obenchain and Rosser also drew weapons and opened fire upon Colder, who fell mortally wounded. The three ex-directors surrendered themselves. Cause, railroad complications.

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 5.—A. B. Matteson, bankrupt, states his liabilities are over $600,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—Thos Chadwick, said to be heir to a vast estate in England, died suddenly on Sunday, leaving two sons.

OMAHA, Sept 5.—The Grand Central Hotel, costing $400,000, the finest between Chicago and San Francisco, was discovered on fire last evening, it was temporarily undergoing repairs. The Herald building, worth $50,000, will also be destroyed, and probably the entire business block. Several firemen were killed and wounded by falling walls.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 5.—The storm on Tuesday flooded the Fairlawn and Pinebrook mines. The miners escaped with difficulty. A boy was carried from the grasp of a miner back into the darkness and drowned. The damage to the mines is heavy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—A New Orleans despatch says the fever recalls a curious prophecy of a negro named Voudou, a sorcerer, last New Year's, that the plague would come upon the city equally fatal to whites and blacks, and increase until a number of deaths equalled the degrees of thermometer, when it would decline. Coincidence in death rate and the thermometer has existed past three days. Negroes are rejoicing, believing the climax has been reached.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The pretty Jewess who eloped with a blacksmith and appeared in court yesterday to have the marriage annulled, has finally decided to cleave to her husband and left the court room with him.

Mrs. Celli, a Memphis refugee, was stricken with yellow fever in this city and died yesterday. Eminent city physicians declare there is no danger of the epidemic in New York.

APPALLING DISASTER IN HUNGARY.

Three Hundred Lives Destroyed by a Waterspout.

VIENNA, Sept. 3.—It is stated that three hundred soldiers and firemen were killed by a waterspout at Miskolaz, Hungary. They were buried in one grave. Two hundred persons are still missing.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The log of the steamer Bycell Castle on Tuesday evening reports that pilot and master were on upper bridge, and the look-out on top-gallant's forecastle; weather a little hazy; proceeded at half speed down Gallion's reach; observed an excursion steamer coming up showing red lights, when we ported our helm to keep over towards Tripcock point; as the vessel neared observed that the steamer had ported her helm; immediately afterwards saw she had starboarded her helm, and was trying to cross our bows; seeing that a collision was inevitable we stopped the engines and reversed at full speed. The two vessels collided; we took immediate measures for saving life by hauling up over our bows several passengers, throwing overboard ropes ends, life buoys, hold ladders, and several planks, and getting out three boats, at the same time keeping the whistle blowing for assistance. The Princess Alice turned over and sank under over bows. We succeeded in rescuing a great many passengers and anchored for the night.

No log of the Princess Alice has been seen; the captain was drowned. The collision will be the subject of inquiry by the Board of Trade immediately. The general belief is that the drowned will not fall below five hundred.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—John Eastwood & Son, worsted spinners, near Halifax, Yorkshire, have failed. Liabilities $475,000.

The Preston Operatives' Association have issued a notice pointing out that 164 pairs of spinning-mills are stopped in the town, that it is feared an infinitely worse condition of things is imminent, and that short time will be generally adopted in Lancashire.

A meeting of manufacturers has been called at Manchester to consider the unprecedented commercial difficulties.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 5.—The Grand Central Hotel, after burning over six hours, was completely destroyed. It cost $300,000 and had just been refitted. Loss on furniture $25,000. Six firemen were seriously hurt and three killed.

GRENADA, Miss., Sept. 5th.—The situation here is heart-rending. Eeight deaths to-day. About 12 new cases developed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The strike of horse car men took place this morning. A few cars are running on 6th and 3rd Ave., with police on the platforms. Some rioting is reported at 53rd street, a few men were injured. The 2nd Ave. line has given in to the strikers demand for $2 per day.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Sept. 5.—The storm last night was very heavy along the Hudson. At Sing Sing the track of the Hudson River Railroad was washed, and the early down trains delayed two or three hours.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—A cargo of sugar valued at $30,000, consigned to Brugier & Co., was seized yesterday for alleged underweighing.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Sept. 5.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region, moderate winds, and partly cloudy weather. For the St. Lawrence, moderate to fresh winds and partly cloudy weather, with local showers. For the Maritime Provence, moderate winds, and partly cloudy to cloudy weather, with local rain areas.

Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. A teaspoonful of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime given whenever the Cough is troublesome, will afford immediate relief, and if perservered in will effect a cure even in the most obstinate cases.

obtained for Inventors, in the United States, Canada and Europe, at reduced rates. With our principal Office located in Washington, directly opposite the United States Patent Office we are able to attend to all Patent Business with greater promptness and despatch and less cost than other patent attorneys, who are at a distance from Washington, and who have, therefore, to employ "associate attorneys." We make preliminary examinations and furnish opinions as to the patentability, free of charge, and all who are interested in new inventions and Patents are invited to send for a copy of our "Guide for obtaining Patents," which is sent free to any address and contains complete instructions how to obtain Patents, and other valuable matter. We refer to the German American National Bank, Washington, D. C.; the Royal Swedish, Norwegian, and Danish Legations, at Washington; Hon. Joseph Casey, late Chief Justice U. S. Court of Claims, to the Officials of the U. S. Patent Office, and to Senators and Members of Congress from every State.

Millions of Fish and Fowl Dying.

(From the Waterbury (Conn.) American, August 3rd.

The smaller varieties of fish in the Connecticut River, such as suckers, carp, young shad, pickerel, perch and others have been behaving queerly of late by appearing upon the surface at first in a sort of lifeless way and finally dying and drifting into the shore eddies and inlets. For a considerable distance both above and below Hartford this state of things has existed, and old fisherman say there was never anything like it. Thousands of dead fish are lying along the banks for miles. It does not seem to be a universal trouble as many fish of the same species as those found dead are alive and seem to be all right. One theory is that black bass, which have got into the river within the past three years and are increasing rapidly, are making war upon their less gamy companions, but that does not account for the sickly behavior of the fish before they die. The most plausible explanation is that the recent heavy rains which have run off into the river, the ground being so much soaked as not to absorb the waterfall, have washed the valley farms up on which Paris green and other destructive agents have been used to kill the potato-bug and insect enemies generally of vegetation, and sufficient poison has got into the river to kill many fish. With the Paris green itself, a hard washing of the land would carry off millions of dead bugs, killed by the poison, and the fish eating these, would suffer. There is no reason whatever to explain the wide-spread destruction of fish more plausible than this, and it is a singular fact that sportsmen on land have complained of a fatality among birds, the same as fishermen do of the fatal effects upon fish. Quails have been found dead in various parts of the state, and there is no doubt that the death of the birds is due to agricultural poisoning.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Deny it who can."

It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer.

It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "Domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Every pound of this flour and meal, every bushel of this grain, and every head of this live stock, forced a corresponding pound, bushel, or head out of Canada to seek a foreign and less profitable market.

How One-sided Free Trade Affects the Farmer.

Grit candidates and their platform "orators" who support them say the farmers are not suffering. Mr. John Shepherd, of Bothwell, a cattle dealer in a large way, gives the following as his view, and as we venture to say it will carry more weight than all the dogmas and theories ever spun or propounded for the benefit of the Old World farmer :

"I have purchased stock largely from the farmers for eight years, paying them thousands of dollars annually. I have told them, and state now, that were it not for the duty that I am compelled to pay upon all the stock crossing the line to the United States, I could offer to pay from 60 to 75 cents more for lambs and $10 per head more for cattle. And only two weeks since, the drovers were paying $4 per 100 pounds live stock for hogs for the Montreal market ; but hogs were shipped in from Chicago free of duty and glutted the market. Had the Americans been called upon to pay 20 per cent duty the same as our farmers have to pay for the privilege of selling hogs in the United States market, we could have a fair profit and continue to pay the farmers $4 per 100 pounds. But the result is, our farmers will have to take less for their surplus hogs. No class in the community are suffering from the one-sided Free Trade policy more than our industrious farmers, for they have no control of our Canadian market, neither can they send their produce to the States without paying from 20 to 40 per cent. duty, while the Americans can bring the products of their soil into this country free of duty. And whenever any article that our farmer produces commands a good price here, the Americans take advantage of it, glut the markets and down goes the price, to the loss and ruin of the Canadian farmer."

This is a plain, simple statement, and being based on experience it is proved to be regarded than any philosopher's dictum.

United States Prosperity.

The following extract from the Scottish American will furnish an answer to those who attempt to bring up the experience of the United States as a warning to those who advocate the protection of home industries :

"The Bureau of Statistics has completed and given out the tables showing the state of the trade between the United States and other countries, and the showing is the most remarkable in American history. These statistics are brought down to Aug. 1, and included are those of the preceding year for comparison. The total exports of merchandise was $694,884,200 ; of gold and silver, $33,733,225. During the preceding year the figures were—merchandise, $602,475,220 ; gold and silver, $56,162,237. The imports were, 1878, merchandise, $437,051,333 ; gold and silver, 29,821,313 ; 1877, merchandise, 451,322,125. Thus, the balance in favor of the United States for the year ending Aug. 1, 1878, were—merchandise, $257,832,867 ; gold and silver, $3,911,912 ; total, $261,744,579. For 1877 they were—merchandise, $151,152,094 ; gold and silver, $15,387,823 ; total, $166,539,917. This shows a greater balance of trade in favor of the United States for 1878 than for 1877 of $95,204,662."

The Scientific American, a very high authority, says : "with nations as well as individuals, increased expenditure with diminished receipts is the surest evidence of prosperity. Judged by this standard the United States have been more than ordinarily prosperous in the past year." If any proof of the wisdom of building up manufactures is needed, we have it here in the fact that in spite of all the difficulties they have had to encounter during the year ending July 31, the United States have improved on the previous year to the extent of nearly one hundred millions of dollars.

Not More Taxes.

The great cry with professed Free Traders is that Protection means more taxes. This is an entire mistake. Protectionists are in favor of placing all these goods which we cannot produce, such as tea, coffee, rice and a thousand and one other necessary and staple articles, on the free list, while woollen goods, cotton goods, boots and shoes, furniture, stoves, machinery and all these kinds of goods which we can produce or manufacture should be made to pay the Customs Revenue. It should make very little difference to a man who has a certain amount of money to pay for the maintenance of the General Government whether he pays a trifle more for the coat he wears when he saves it on his tea and coffee. The cry therefore that we are in favor of increased taxes is entirely false, as we believe in reducing the taxes in all possible ways—except when it would injure the material interests and prosperity of the country. The supporters of the present Free Trade fly on the wheel Government will have to raise some other cry than that of high taxes.

Mechanics and Cheap Bread.

In an excellent letter to the Monetary Times, Mr. J. R. Ronald, of Chatham, gives an intelligent opinion as the effect of cheap and dear bread on the mechanical classes. Mr. Ronald says :—" We mechanics rejoice when flour goes up. Why ! Not that we are to pay a dollar a barrel extra to support farmers, the millers, the whole country being more prosperous, we soon feel the benefit of it—the paltry one dollar extra in each barrel we consume is a mere bagatelle to the general prosperity of our trade and our country."

Mr. Ronald, too, has something to say as to "taxing the poor man's coal," and his words are worthy of all consideration at the hands of intelligent Canadians :—" We wish to foster the industries of the Maritime Provinces as well as Ontario. We shall protect it to the full extent of their requirements, say 75c per ton.—We shall buy their coal and they our flour and other products—they will be excellent customers to Ontario, and their money will give our mechanics, millers and farmers lots of work, greatly aiding our agricultural and commercial prosperity, so much so that the 75c extra in coal would never be felt. Increased capital would be invested in the mines, and the coal actually made cheaper instead of dearer."

Mr. Ronald, an old time Reformer, sees what must be the inevitable result unless a change is made in our fiscal policy, and, preferring his country to his party, he has no difficulty in making up his mind as to his duty at the present juncture. He concludes his letter thus :—" The U. S. are absorbing our industries, our all. Ruin is staring us all in the face ; and unless we have patriots and statesmen at the helm of affairs who will enact laws for our preservation, the sooner we leave Canada the better. We have not far to go to find a people who know how to take care of themselves. A leaf from the U. S. Statute Book is about all we require."

Wise Trade Maxims.

Protection has enabled the United States to bear annual internal tax of 300 millions for the purpose of paying off an enormous debt. Free trade has driven Canada deeper and deeper into debt.

Every bushel of American grain we import forces a bushel of Canadian grain to seek a foreign and less profitable market, compelling the Canadian farmer to compete with the serf labor of Russia, and with the half clad and half fed natives of India, instead of enjoying his legitimate and rightful home market.

Every dollar expended in carrying foreign manufactures to our shores, and in carrying back our raw material to pay for them is so much lost between the producer and consumer, consequently the nearer these can be brought together the better.

In 1865 the imports af the United States from Great Britain were $122,000,000 and their exports to that country were $84,700,000. Balance of Trade against the United States $37,300,000. In 1876, after the United States had been ruined by protection for ten years, the figures stood imports from Great Britain, $98,000,000, exports to Great Britain, $347,352,000. Balance in favor of the United States, $269,352,000.

Said Lord Brougham in 1815 : "England can afford to incur some loss on the export of English goods, for the purpose of destroying foreign manufactures in the cradle." The manufacturers of the United States think they can afford some loss in order to destroy Canadian manufactures in the cradle. France, Germany, and the United States frustrated the designs of would-be monopolists of England by protection. Will Canada be as wise for her own interests ?

Under Protection, we wish the electors of this County to remember, the United States reduced their debt since the war nearly $500,000,000, while we in Canada, under our present commercial policy, have increased our debt during the past five years $34,000,000 ! Now which is the wisest policy ! We think it easy to decide.

A Word About Patent Processes.

A penny-wise and pound-foolish process for making illuminating gas was lately introduced into one of the hotels in Brooklyn, New York, by the enterprising landlord, and the usual results will be found, on another page of this issue.

We hope that the landlord, and the friends he invited to witness his pyrotechnic exhibition, have now come to the conclusion that there is nothing better nor cheaper, for illuminating purposes, than the ordinary coal gas which is made and distributed by the Brooklyn gas companies.

The use of any kind of naphtha or gasoline machine, for making or churning gas, in cities or towns where coal gas can be obtained, should be forbidden by law.

In places where there are no regular gas works, the danger can be somewhat diminished by storing the naphtha in the ground at a distance from the building.

We should think that the makers of these kind of machines would employ men who would learn the explosive nature of naphtha, without going through the unpleasantness of an explosion to gain such knowledge ; but it seems that the men who were employed in the above case were below the average in common sense. Running naphtha down through an open trough, near a lighted lamp, is about as safe as sticking a lighted candle into a barrel of powder, and watching it burn down.

As a burnt child dreads the fire, so the victim, in this case, swore he would have nothing more to do with naphtha, and ordered the whole apparatus to be taken down and carried out of the house.

Journals which are opposed to the National Policy are fond of citing what a few manufacturers have said in reference to their business and the profits they have made thereby under the present tariff. But how foolish to argue that because a reaping machine factory in one place and a tub factory in another have made money, therefore there is no need for any difference of tariff, as every one else may do the same. Do these journals not see that the very exceptions prove the rule ? Canada might as well give up the political ghost at once, if she could not furnish some instances of prosperity among her manufacturers. It would be too late to talk of a "National Policy," or any other policy, if all her factories were closed and their occupants gone to the States.

THE COMING STRUGGLE.

Our Battle Cry: "Protection to Home Industries."

The Opposition Policy.

The commercial policy of the Opposition is represented in the following resolution moved by Sir John Macdonald in the House of Commons :—

"That this House is of opinion that the welfare of Canada requires the adoption of a National Policy, which by a judicious readjustment of the Tariff will benefit and foster the Agricultural, the Mining, the Manufacturing and other interests of the Dominion ; that such a policy will retain in Canada thousands of our fellow-countrymen, now obliged to expatriate themselves in search of employment denied them at home ; will restore prosperity to our struggling industries, now so sadly depressed ; will prevent Canada from being made a sacrifice market ; will encourage and develop an active interprovincial trade ; and moving (as it ought to do) in the direction of the reciprocity of Tariffs with our neighbors, so far as the varied interests of Canada may demand, will greatly tend to procure for this Country, eventually, a reciprocity of Trade."

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, SEPT. 6.

THE WEST RIDING.

The meeting of Mr. Wallbridge's Committees last night was largely attended, and the comparison of notes on the canvass was highly encouraging—so much so as to show that the return of the Opposition candidate is beyond doubt. In every Ward of the city efficient and influential Committees are actively working, and with the most satisfactory results. In Sidney the various Branches of the Liberal-Conservative Association, assisted by not a few Reformers who have become disgusted with the Government and will not support the nominee of their party, are doing good service. And lastly, a letter from a prominent gentleman in Trenton was read, stating that that village is safe for a good majority for good Government. Thus there is every inducement for our friends to labor earnestly until the close of the polls on the 17th inst. Success awaits them, if they but continue to devote their energies to securing the triumph of their principles.

EAST HASTINGS.

Mr. M. Bowell and others will address a public meeting of the electors of East Hastings, on behalf of Mr. White, at the Town Hall, Canifton, on Saturday evening, the 7th inst. Chair taken at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Aylsworth and friends are invited to attend.

The Campaign of Lies.

The circulation of falsehoods regarding matters connected with the political contest in this County, which was begun by the Grit organ here concurrently with the issue of the writs, has been carried on daily by it without cessation ever since. A little caution has been used with regard to the meetings held near the city, since the scandalous misrepresentations made concerning the first Conservative meeting of the campaign were exposed; but as the distance from town of the political gatherings increases and renders it more difficult for people resident in the southern part of the County to get at the truth, the more bold and mendacious do the manufacturers of these falsehoods become. Thus it is that the results of the meetings in the North Riding are so grossly misrepresented as to be absolutely ludicrous. This is especially the case regarding recent meetings in Rawdon and Bridgewater, but the effect in those localities and generally where the truth is known will be to disgust the readers of those "reports" with their falsity. Gentlemen who have attended the meetings at which Mr. Bowell has spoken—and there have been a number within the past two weeks—inform us that he is everywhere received most favorably by the people, and that his election by a large majority is a foregone conclusion. We are content to leave it to the result of the polling to sustain the correctness of this assertion and to utterly disprove the numberless falsehoods to which we have referred.

EAST NORTHUMBERLAND.—The Kingston News says :—"We learn from a reliable source that East Northumberland is sure to be redeemed, and the Biggar party are frightened at the turn affairs are taking among the farmers in that Riding."

CARDWELL.—Mr. Thomas White, of the Gazette, Montreal, has been nominated by the Liberal-Conservative Convention as their candidate for Cardwell, and has accepted the nomination. Report says there is no doubt of his election.

ADDRESS TO HIS EXCELLENCY.—About seventy delegates from Ontario arrived in Quebec on the 5th inst., to present the address of the joint municipalities of Ontario to the Governor-General. They were accompanied by three Highland pipers. The address was presented by Mr. Daly, Mayor of Guelph, on behalf of the Deputation. The address has been beautifully illuminated, and contains on the title page illustrations of shooting the rapids, Niagara Falls, Parliament buildings, &c. We will publish the address and the reply of the Governor in a subsequent issue.

"COUNTING NOSES."

Some astonishing genius of an arithmetical turn of mind undertakes, as he alleges from a perfectly independent standpoint, to forecast the result of the coming elections throughout the Dominion. By way of diversion we give his forecast, which he tabulates as follows :

	Opposition majority.	Government majority.
Ontario	..	10
Quebec	..	2
Nova Scotia	Tie	..
New Brunswick	..	10
P. E. Island	..	1
Manitoba	3	..
British Columbia	4	..
	7	23

Total Government Majority..... 16

The mode of arriving at this conclusion is, to say the least, singular, as well as original, as in doing so all the ordinarily accepted rules of arithmetic are set at naught. In New Brunswick he calculates upon the return of 5 Conservatives and 10 Grits, and gives a majority of 10 to the Government, when ordinary people would count the majority on their fingers and thumbs as being 5. Quebec and Prince Edward Island are set down as giving majorities of 2 and 1 respectively to the Government, but how that can be done when the one Province returns 65 and the other elects 6 members, it would puzzle even Dr. Sangster, Prof. Cherriman, or any of our arithmetical experts to determine. Again, this astonishing "authority" only allows five members from British Columbia, which returns six members. Thus the Telegram's forecast is a capital thing—to laugh at during these days of political excitement.

An Independent on the "Loyalty" Cry.

The Montreal Evening Post, a paper thoroughly independent of party, thus argumentatively disposes of the Globe's "loyalty" cry, which was born of despair and has been nurtured by stupidity :—

* * * * We question whether wilder theory and speculation, more inappropriate and subtle arguments, grosser mis-statement of facts, baser attempts to mislead the public mind have been attempted than we find displayed, even in the leading portion of the Free Trade press of the country—journals for whose views in most other cases we entertain every respect. We credit sound reasoning, theories, and arguments, wherever we find them ; we admire precision in the statement of facts, but we hate to see sophistry and misrepresentation attempted instead. Both in England and the United States though, perhaps, unlike the case in other questions even of less national importance, honesty of purpose, strict observance of sound, consistent as well as appropriate reasoning, and reasonable precision in the statement of facts, characterized those animated and protracted discussions. * * *

This particular charge of disloyalty on the part of the Globe arises out of the point whether or not England has delegated the right to the Parliament of Canada to enact laws regulating her own fiscal affairs ; whether these laws could be framed on a basis to encourage Canadian industry and competition to the exclusion of British competition, and the results of British industry. Now, the Post maintains that England has delegated such a right, not only in the British North America Act of Confederation, not only by the Act granting Responsible Government, but by the voice of the British Constitution, which restrains England from legislating for any of her colonies not having representatives in the English Parliament ; it restrains even the Royal prerogative from interference, except in cases of rebellion. In this view, the Post is supported by a large majority of the leading press, by all the Protectionists, who consist of most of the leading merchants, statesmen, and all the industrial classes of the country

Full confirmation of this view is found in an article in the London (England) Times of the 26th inst., in which the following passage occurs :—

"Canada has the fullest liberty of regulating its tariff, subject to the single condition that the import duties imposed must be the same for all."

And now the Globe acknowledges that the cry was only a piece of humbug after all.

More "Ruin" From Protection.

The following items from the last issue of the Chicago Railway Advocate show how the various industries connected with the supply of railway material in the United States are being "ruined" by Protection. Let mechanics remember that the material for our Canadian railways, most of which now comes from the United States, could and would be made in Canada had we but a fair-play tariff, which our present rulers persistently refuse to grant. Under the heading "Manufacturing Items," the journal referred to says :—

The Cambria Iron Mills have contracted to furnish the Burlington & Missouri River Railway with 1,000 tons of iron rails per month for five months, and have begun work on them.

Twenty-four locomotives are now under construction at the shops of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad, Reading, Pa.

The Terre Haute Company are building 500 cars for the Erie & Pacific despatch.

Metcalf, Paul & Co., of Pittsburg, Pa., manufacturers of railroad track-tools, are running their extensive works to their full capacity.

The rail mill at South Cleveland has added another night hour turn, thus running night and day, and employing one third more men.

The Wason Manufacturing Co., of Springfield, Mass., have large contracts on hand, and are working a full force of about 1,400 men. They are building cars for the Coney Island and New York Elevated Railways.

The Barney & Smith Manufacturing Co., of Dayton, O., has a contract for 500 cars for the Pittsburg and Lake Erie road, in addition to several large contracts lately reported. Their extensive works, which employ over 1,000 men, are turning out a large amount of finished work daily.

Business is improving with the Hinkley Locomotive works, they having more than doubled their force within the last three weeks.

The Schenectady Locomotive Works are working to their fullest capacity on engines for the C. M. & St. P. R., C. & A., and other lines.

The British steamer Othello, of Wilson's line, for Hull, England, lately took out 166 packages (14 car loads) of machinery described as duplicate parts of 40 locomotives already forwarded to Oural, Veronich and Charkoff lines in Russia.

The products of the Barney & Smith Manufacturing Co., of Dayton, O., during the first six months of this year are as follows : 56 coaches, 4 sleepers, 2 office cars, 10 narrow gauge coaches, 8 baggage, mail, and express cars, 5 cabooses, 760 box cars, 500 gondolas, 75 flat cars, 110 narrow gauge box cars, 122 narrow gauge flat cars, 7 push cars, 22 set of trucks ; total, 1675.

EAST HASTINGS,

Rousing Meeting in favor of Mr. White.

A meeting called by Mr. White was held at the Sager School House, in the first concession of Thurlow, last evening, and was largely attended. Mr. R. Pashley occupied the chair. If Mr. Aylsworth's chances of election are to be judged by the feeling of the electors as shown last night, they are indeed very small. We never saw a meeting more enthusiastically in favor of a candidate and the principles of the party which he is the representative than that of last night, which was overwhelmingly in favor of Mr. White and the Conservative party.

Mr. WHITE addressed the meeting in his usual clear and forcible manner, touching upon points on which the late Government had been attacked at previous meetings. British Columbia's representation in Parliament he explained. He next proceeded to contrast the plan of the late Government and that of Mr. Mackenzie for building the Pacific Railway. Sir John's idea was to have the road built without cost to the country by his plan of having it built by a company to whom was to be given 50,000,000 acres of land and $30,000,000. The land was to be given in alternate sections, and as the country filled up with settlers these reserved blocks of the Government would have been sold at good prices, and the money by this means would come back to the treasury. So favorable were the prospects for building the road that two companies eagerly endeavored to obtain the charter. Owing to the unpatriotic conduct of the Globe and the then Opposition, the scheme could not be carried to a successful issue on the London money market, and instead of now having the road half built and a great increase in our population and the expenditure of many millions among the people of the Dominion had the late Government scheme gone on, we now see $15,000,000 expended on Kaministiquia Jobs, Georgian Bay Branches, Neebing Hotels, Fort Frances Locks and in other forms of corruption, but only 40 miles of road built, and in despair Mr. Mackenzie has advertised for a company that will take the elephant off his hands. Many other public matters were discussed by Mr. White, including the question of Protection and Free trade, and after an hour's speech he resumed his seat amid the most enthusiastic cheering.

Mr. AYLSWORTH was the next speaker, and in an intelligent speech did the best he could for the government, their sins and policy. He tried, but failed to convince the audience that protection simply enriches manufacturers, that the farmers of Canada do not lose the duty paid on their barley going into the States, that Liverpool ruled the grain market, that we are yet using American salt, and that the policy of closing up Canada's sugar refineries was wise. Mr. Aylsworth got a good hearing, but it was evident that his views were endorsed by not more than half a dozen electors present.

Mr. J. W. JOHNSON spoke next, taking up many of Mr. Aylsworth's points, and proving the opposite of Mr. Aylsworth's deductions regarding Liverpool necessarily ruling the grain market, that the Canadian producer of barley pays the United States duty, that we have good and cheap Canadian salt owing to the policy of protection adopted a few years ago, and that American salt to any appreciable extent is not sold now in this country, while a few years ago we were at the mercy of the United States producer. What has been done for salt and boots and shoes, can, by readjusting the tariff, be done for other Canadian industries. Mr. Johnson next proceeded to show the incompetence and extravagance of the Government, taking first Mr. Cartwright's department. He showed the loss to the country by Mr. Cartwright's loan, when he sold, without competition, Canadian bonds for 90 cents on the dollar, while Mr. Tilley obtained, by competition, $1.07 for them. He shewed the disaster that befel the bank that Mr. Cartwright had, as President, managed—the Commercial, and accepted the Globe's estimate of him that he was a "mixer and muddler," and is so still. He shewed the extravagance of the Government in the increase of the controllable expenditure and the yearly deficits, and quoted Mr. Cartwright's prospectus to prove that the expenditure of the late Government was wise and economical "that the whole of the debt has been incurred for legitimate objects public utility." He showed that the charge of not understanding their own policy made regarding the Conservative party was not true. He read Sir John Macdonald's motion and proceeded to explain what readjustment of the tariff means, illustrating it by the articles of pig iron and tea. It did not mean increased taxation. We have a certain amount of money to raise in order to run the Government, and no sane man proposes that taxes shall be levied in order to pile up money in the bank. No more taxes will be levied under a readjusted tariff than are levied now. Pig iron comes into Canada free, but tea pays a specific duty of 6cts. a pound, which means 12 per cent to the man who can only afford to buy the 50c. article. This duty was imposed by Mr. Cartwright. Under the old Government tea came in free except from the States, and the consequence was that under the former Government our merchants imported direct from China and Japan and we paid no duty, but now we are entirely at the mercy of New York in the article of tea and on it we pay a tax. We have got the ore from which to manufacture pig iron, but there being no protection the article is not made. Now readjustment is needed in these two articles, and they are examples of the anomalous condition of the tariff, which the Conservative party claims should be readjusted in the interests of the agricultural, the mining, and the manufacturing industries of this country. Mr. Johnson spoke on many other points, his speech lasting an hour and a half ; and on taking his seat, was loudly cheered.

Mr. R. C. CLUTE followed Mr. Johnson ; he made the best of a bad cause, and spoke ably for three quarters of an hour. In trying to prove the great prosperity of Canadian manufacturers and the small amount of American goods coming into Canada, Mr. Clute proceeded to quote certain past returns. A shrewd farmer present ventured to ask what year the returns referred to, and Mr. Clute had to acknowledge they were for 1872-3 ; this brought down the house, as the returns referred to the time Sir John was in power, when every industry was prosperous, and comparatively few American goods were sold in Canada.

The meeting concluded at 12:30 with cheers for the Queen, Mr. White, and Mr. Aylsworth.

NORTH HASTINGS.

JOINT MEETING AT GARNER'S.

A Triumph for the Conservative Cause.

A meeting of the electors of Huntingdon, which had been called by both parties, was held at Garner's, in Huntingdon, last night. The attendance was large, numbering 250, and great interest was manifested in the proceedings.

Mr. O'FLYNN, who was the first speaker, proclaimed himself to be an independent man, saying he would slavishly follow no Government, and that he would support good measures regardless of who introduced them, &c. He devoted a long time to abuse of the Macdonald Government, justified the steel rails transaction on the evidence of Mr. Mackenzie, and considered the Neebing Hotel swindle too small a matter to engage the attention of the electors. Of the Fort Frances lock job he declared his lack of knowledge, and after a further rehash of stale editorials from the Globe, he resumed his seat.

Mr. E. B. FRALECK followed in a very able argument in favor of the National Policy, abounding with illustrations of the unfairness of the present tariff, which went straight to the understanding of his hearers, who loudly applauded him. He also took up the record of the Government and made many excellent points against them, especially in connection with the Fort Frances lock, which he showed to be a job engaged in to help a political supporter, carried on in defiance of the statute, and almost entirely useless as a public work.

Mr. O'FLYNN replied to Mr. Fraleck, his remarks having reference to the Grit idea of the tariff, and a comparison of expenditure under the present and late Government, which was disingenuous, as the whole statement was not given.

Mr. G. D. DICKSON, who followed, took Mr. O'Flynn to task for declaring himself to be independent, he being the nominee of the Reform Convention and seeking support as a party man. He referred to the steel rails transaction, and asked could any one tell for what purpose rails were bought five years before they could possibly be used. He also reviewed the trade question, showing that no country had become rich, except such as had adopted a protective policy, and supplied the details of expenditure which Mr. O'Flynn had suppressed, which had a capital effect.

The meeting, which was in favor of Mr. Bowell by at least six to one, broke up with cheers for the Queen, for Sir John A. Macdonald, for Mr. Bowell, and for Mr. O'Flynn, the latter "hurrah" being very courteously proposed by Mr. Fraleck.

MEETING AT HUNTINGDON TOWN HALL.

A very largely attended and enthusiastic meeting, called by Mr. Bowell, was held at Huntingdon Town Hall last night.

Mr. Bowell, who was the first speaker, gave a lengthy and able address, which was well received throughout. Mr. Thomas Holden followed on behalf of Mr. O'Flynn, and Dr. Boulter, M. P. P., replied most effectually. Mr. Wm. Anderson also spoke ably in support of the Conservative cause.

The meeting, which was, like that at Garner's, largely in favor of the Conservative candidate, broke up at about 1 o'clock this morning with cheers for the Queen and for Mr. Bowell.

M. E. General Conference.

The Committee on Memorials presented a report, which was adopted.

Adjourned at noon.

The Conference again met at three o'clock.

An invitation from the ladies of the congregation of the M. E. Church to the General Conference to attend an entertainment was accepted, and the Committee on Divine Service was requested to provide therefor.

The Committee on Book Room and Publishing Interests presented a report. The Conference adopted the recommendation of the Committee to adopt the new Hymnal of the M. E. Church.

Several reports were presented, and several questions were submitted and referred.

Bishop Carman presented an elaborate statement of the history, financial condition and prospects of Alma College.

Bishop Haven spoke in the highest terms of the institution, and said he had sent plans thereof to the Committee who are about to erect a college of a similar kind at Atlanta, Ga.

The question of making the districts small and giving the presiding elders a regular station like other ministers was brought up by the Rev. W. Beason, on a reference to the Committee on Revision. The proposition was lost on a vote of 16 to 40.

The Conference adjourned at 5:30, the benediction being pronounced by the Rev. T. W. Pickett.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, SEPT. 6.

City and Vicinity.

EXCURSION.—Remember the excursion to-morrow afternoon and evening, per steamer Alexandra. See advertisement for particulars.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON ADDRESS.—Mrs. Wittenmyer, of Philadelphia, will address a meeting under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Association in the hall of Daniel's Band on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Remember the cheap sale of Staple Dry Goods now going on at Moynes'. The whole stock to be sold out before 1st November. 2t

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE EXCURSION.—The number of persons who attended this excursion to-day was not large. This was no doubt due to the fact that the weather has been so unsettled of late that no dependence can be placed on the fineness of any day, no matter how brightly the morning may look.

BARLEY.—Contrary to expectations the price of barley took a sudden jump up to $1 per bushel on Wednesday, at which price buyers seems anxious to buy, as they are scouring the country in every direction contracting for the year's crop at that figure. Farmers appear perfectly satisfied to sell at that price, and from 5,000 to 6,000 bushels are sold here daily.

Bargains can be had in everything at Moynes' cheap sale now in progress. Don't fail to get cheap goods for once. 2t

CHURCH PIC-NIC.—The Kingston News says:—"A grand pic-nic will be held at Indian woods, near Mill Point, on Thursday next, the 12th inst. Messrs. John White, M. P., G. A. Kirkpatrick, M. P., J. S. McCuaig, Robert Clapp and others are expected to be present, and deliver addresses. A good time may be expected."

PROPOSED GRIT DEMONSTRATION.—The Trenton correspondent of the Campbellford Herald writes:—"The Reform Association of this town are perfecting arrangements to have a political meeting here in the course of a week or two. The following gentlemen are expected to be present: Hon. Mr. Cartwright, Messrs. Brown, M. P., Biggar, M. P., Ferris, M. P. P., and Platt."

J. C. Moynes is running a genuine clearing sale, no humbug. The whole stock must be cleared at once; come to the sacrifice. 2t

BOTANICAL WORK.—Prof. Macoun, of Albert College, has been occupied for the past month in arranging and classifying botanical specimens in University College, Toronto. The College authorities have engaged this gentleman for the purpose of getting up an Herbarium for that institution. The Professor furnishes 1,000 specimens of plants from his own collection, and will doubtless be amply remunerated for his work.

CLIMATIC CHANGES.—John H. Tice, the St. Louis weather prophet, asserts that the railroads and telegraph lines across the continent are working great climatic changes; that they have transferred and distributed electricity so as to lessen earthquakes on the Pacific coast and increase rainfall on the plains. Tice also says nobody saw the planet Vulcan during the eclipse, but that Professor Watson and Professor Swift both saw satellites of Vulcan; Tice himself saw these satellites April 14.

SPLENDID SHOOTING.—In the match for the McDougall Cup, (5 shots each at 400 and 600 yards) at the meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association, Private Morrison of the Guards, won. Corporal Hilton, of the 49th, was second, with a score of 48 out of a possible 50, scoring 24 at each range. This shooting has seldom, if ever, been exceeded anywhere with military rifles. Corporal Hilton has done much, by his fine shooting at the Ontario Rifle Association matches, as well as at the Dominion Association's meeting, to maintain the credit of his battalion, which has not put a team in the field this year. We congratulate him on his success.

EDUCATIONAL.—From the Trenton correspondence of the Campbellford Herald we learn that three High School pupils succeeded in passing the Intermediate examination, and another pupil, Miss Polly Orr, a South Hastings candidate, carried off the silver medal donated by Mr. O'Hagan, of Trenton Separate school, who awarded the candidate for third-class certificate, obtaining the highest number of marks. The medal will be presented at the September meeting of teachers at Belleville. Mr. O'Hagan, Separate School teacher, was elected President of the Ontario Teachers' Association at the Teachers' Convention recently held at Hamilton. Another Trentonian has gained honors for himself, Mr. James White having obtained a first-class certificate, grade A, at the examination held at the Normal School, last month. Being a Catholic, he is eligible for the $100 scholarship, promised by Father Stafford, to any Catholic obtaining the certificate just granted Mr. White. Two years ago, this young man, now in his 21st year, carried off the Dufferin silver medal from over 70 competitors, at the second-class examinations held at Toronto and Ottawa.

THE STORM IN THE NORTH.—We are informed that the rain storm in the northern part of this country on Wednesday of this week was much more severe than it was in the front. A freshet was created in Rawdon Creek, on which stream some dams were swept away, and considerable damage was done at Stirling. A number of washouts occurred on the North Hastings Railway, but all have been repaired, and the work of track-laying is proceeding rapidly.

Better than whiskey and quinine for Chills—SANDFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER.

CHARGE AGAINST A POLICE OFFICER.—The following concerning a matter of local interest is contained in a despatch from Montreal:—"On Friday night last Mr. Anthony Force, a well known and extensive commission merchant of Montreal, residing at 945 Dorchester street, near Crescent street, was visited at his dwelling house by Mr. N. B. Falkiner, a prominent advocate and influential citizen of Belleville. The two gentlemen, having business to transact did not get to Mr. Force's house until after eleven o'clock. Mr. Falkiner remained there until about one, when he left for the Windsor Hotel, where he was stopping. Mr. Force, who was in his shirt sleeves, went to the door with his guest and, being engaged in a conversation, continued his walk to the corner of Crescent street. The two gentlemen stopped at the corner, when a policeman came up and told them to move on. Mr. Falkiner told the officer his name and who he was and where he was going for the night, but the policeman blew his whistle, when another officer came up. Mr. Force, seeing the course the men was taking, thought it was time to interfere, and explained to the officer exactly how matters stood. Without a word the officer directed his assistant to take Mr. Force in charge, and he arrested Mr. Falkiner. Both gentlemen were taken to the station, a request by Mr. Force to send an officer to close the door of his house being refused. A charge of insulting a policeman was lodged against Mr. Falkiner and of interfering with him while discharging his duty against Mr. Force. The next day when the facts were laid before the Chief the case was withdrawn. The officer who acted in this extraordinary manner was Sergt. Richardson. Mr. Force has laid a complaint with the Police Committee and an investigation is to be held."

ST. PAUL, Sept. 5.—The Presidential party were received here to-day with great enthusiasm. A large crowd was in attendance, and the streets were gay with flags and spanned with arches and festoons bearing various mottoes.

A the fair grounds the President made a speech, in which he said one-third of the actual public debt had been paid off in thirteen years. The reduction of the annual interest charge is $35,796,600, or more than 50 per cent of that we now pay. If the reduction of the annual interest were placed in the sinking fund it would pay off the whole debt in less than twenty-five years.

It is estimated that 5-6ths of the bonds are held in the United States, and only one-sixth abroad. The yearly taxes have been reduced since 1866 $247,521,100, and the yearly expenditures $150,528,348. The total increase in value of our paper currency since 1865 is $175,000,000. The foreign trade since 1868 has increased 153 per cent. The balance of trade in the last 3 years in favor of the United States is $488,582,639.

The President concluded as follows:—We cannot if we would, we would not if we could, isolate ourselves from the rest of the commercial world. In all our measures for the improvement of our financial condition we should remember that our increasing trade with South America, and with the old world, requires that our financial system shall be based on principles whose soundness and wisdom are sanctioned by the increased experience of the general judgment of all mankind. With diminished and still diminishing public burdens of debt, expenditures and interest, and with an improved condition of the currency and foreign trade, we may well hope that we are on the threshold of better times. But we must not forget that the surest foundation of restored financial prosperity is a sound constitutional currency, and an unstained national credit. The President also called attention to the rapid emigration from east to west as an encouraging fact, and said the indications were that there was to be a general revival of prosperity.

RICHMOND, VA., Sept. 6.—Gen. Johnson's letter at the acceptance of Congressional nomination declares the law establishing national Banks is unconstitutional. He favors an abundance of paper money, equal in value to gold and silver. He opposes discriminating tariff and unequal taxes.

OMAHA, Sept. 6.—F. C. Fadner, assistant editor of a western magazine, and a prominent temperance leader, was arrested charged with embezzling $700 in Cleveland. He was about to marry a prominent young lady. It is now discovered he has a wife and family in Ohio.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Specials from the south report the physicians report the fever becoming less virulent and easier to manage.

At Vicksburg the oldest druggist insists that the turning point has been passed, but others declare it is, if possible, more virulent than before.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—It is stated that the loss to the revenue by sugar frauds for years past reached over five millions per annum. Many refiners and importers who refused to go into this fraudulent speculation have been driven out of the business.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—An entertainment at the 5th Avenue theatre last night for the benefit of the fever sufferers, netted $6,522.

A Mrs. Seifkin was arrested yesterday, charged with sending a poisoned can of potcheese to her mother, with the intention of poisoning the family. Her brother was made slightly ill. Mrs. Seifkin had quarrelled with her mother about some property.

The striking drivers on the 6th Avenue road have mostly resumed their places.

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—An unknown woman was outraged and drowned near Brookline on Tuesday night.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 6.—The Singer Sewing Machine Company and employees raised $40,000 for the fever sufferers.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The Consul at Sidney, Australia, reports he has not been able after diligent enquiry to verify the rumor that the schooner Florence Bailey, of Essex, Conn., has been taken by the natives of New Caledonia, and the crew murdered. For the last eight or nine months nothing whatever has been heard of the master or vessel.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The steamer Hutchings, arrived yesterday from Morgan City, La., had two cases of yellow fever. One passenger died on the passage.

The strike of drivers on the 3rd Avenue car line is ended.

PANAMA, Aug. 28—The elections on August 4th in Bogota, were accompanied by serious disorders. The State Government wished to control the election. They only established four polling places in a city of 50,000 inhabitants, and put them under the control of their own people. The adherents of the other party could not get near the ballot boxes. Confusion arose, the State troops posted themselves in the towers of neighboring churches, and fired upon the crowd, killing one or two, and wounding several. This broke up the election, and as all the votes are in favor of the State Government's party, they have fully succeeded in carrying the day, unless Congress should order a new election. At the latest dates, all was quiet.

Freight traffic from the United States to the South Pacific by the Isthmus, is largely on the increase, being a gain from April to July compared with the corresponding time last year, at the rate of 113 per cent. Increase is due largely to the increased activity of American merchants and manufacturers, in competing for a share of South American trade.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 6.—The official report from the quarantine hospital, first made since its opening three weeks ago, shows the total persons received there, 48; discharged, 9; died 12; remaining, 27. All patients are refugees, from the south.

Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1878.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and it there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former ones. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Milltown.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

The Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to present more clearly those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURGH in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

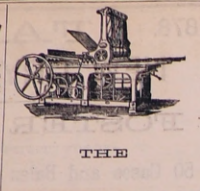

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half-page, $6.00; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

"Fire by Fire."

HON. GEO. BROWN ON THE NATIONAL POLICY.

In 1865, during the debate on Confederation, the Hon. Geo. Brown, as reported on page 105 of the official report, said:—

"I will not detain the House by reading it, but any member who desires it can have it for examination. I may state, however, in brief, that the breadstuffs alone bought by the lower provinces amounted to no less than $4,447,207—that the imports of meats, fresh and cured, amounted to $659,917—and that the total value of products which the lower provinces might have bought more advantageously from us, summed up to over seven millions of dollars. The Americans now, therefore, bear in mind that if they abolish the reciprocity treaty, they will not only lose that seven millions they have now got, but many of their products, but the carrying trade which goes with it. But on the other hand, when we have the canals, these products will, as they naturally should, go down the St. Lawrence, not only for the advantage of our farmers—but as selling the volume of our own shipping interests, as much as 1,000,000 tons cans hitherto have had a large portion of our carrying trade; they have brought us our goods—even our European goods—and that our produce not only to Europe but even to the lower provinces; and I say one of the best features of this union is, that if in our commercial relations with the United States we are compelled by them to meet fire by fire—it will enable us to stop this improvidence and turn the current of our own trade into our own waters. Farbe it from me to say I am an advocate of a coercive commercial policy—on the contrary, entire freedom of trade, in my opinion, is what we in this country should strive for. Without hesitation, I would, tomorrow, throw open the whole of our waters to the United States if they did the same to us. But, if they tell us, in the face of all the advantages they get by Reciprocity, that they are determined to put a stop to it, and if this is done through a hostile feeling to us—deeply as I should regret that this should be the first use made by the Northern States of their new found liberty—then, I say we have a policy and a good policy of our own, to fall back upon.

Adopted by a Bear.

A true story, after the Romulus and Remus order, is told by the Ingham county (Mich.) News: "Henry Freeland, of Etchel's Corners, received a letter from his brother John, of Bood City, in the northern part of this State, last week, telling a rather strange though true bear story. A three-year-old child of one of his neighbours, named Flynn, suddenly disappeared, and after a neighborhood search, lasting twenty-four hours, it was found with a big bear, whose cubs had recently been killed. The old bear seemed very loth to give up her stranger adopted child, for by the time it had conceived a strong attachment; but the child was recovered from its day's frightful captivity without a scratch."

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and laboured breathing, the stimulating properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime manifests itself in its healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided, restores herself, and when the gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now hope beckons on to life and health.

Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Deny it who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer.

It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Don't let your prejudice end give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.

The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "remedeic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price. 25 cents per Bottle.

AUGUST SAILING.

In the bright morn from out the little bay
We slowly drifted, and at noon the wind,
O'ercome with heat, had flagged and dropped behind.
Under the tyrannous sunshine all the day
We moved so lazily one scarce could say
We moved at all. Upon the deck at night,
Beside the moon-blanched sail, beneath the bright,
High-hung, great stars, with open eyes we lay;
Slept for a moment in the utter hush,
Then waked again to hear the sudden rush,
Of swift-flowing water, as we made our way
Straight to the east, and coming o'er the sea
Saw the young morn, that with slow, sweet delay
Began to draw her veil of mystery.
—H. Everett, in The Atlantic Monthly.

ROCK OF AGES CLEFT FOR ME.

Precious Saviour, pierced for me
Let me ever be with Thee;
Let the water and the blood,
From Thy side a healing flood,
Be of sin the double cure,
Save from wrath, and make me pure;
Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in Thee.

Precious Saviour, risen Lord,
To Thine own in heaven restored;
While I draw this fleeting breath,
When mine eyes shall close in death,
When I rise to worlds unknown,
And behold Thee on Thy throne;
Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in Thee.

The Power of a Sweet Voice.

There is no power of love so hard to get and keep as a kind voice. A kind hand is deaf and dumb. It may be rough in flesh and blood, yet do the work of a soft hand, and do it with a soft touch. But there is no one thing that love so much needs as a sweet voice to tell what it means and feels; and it is hard to get and keep the right tone. One must start in youth, and be on the watch night and day, at work and play, to get and keep that shall speak at all times the thoughts of a kind heart. But this is the time when a sharp voice is most apt to be got. You often hear boys and girls say words at play with a quick, sharp tone, as if it were a snap of a whip. When one of them gets vexed you will hear a voice that sounds as if it were made up of a snarl, a whine, and a bark. Such a voice often speaks worse than the heart feels. Shows more ill-will in the tone than in the words. It is often in mirth that one get a voice or a tone that is sharp, and sticks to him through life, and stirs up ill and grief, and and falls like a drop of gall on the sweet joys of home. Such as these get a sharp home voice for use, and keep their best voice for those they meet elsewhere, just as they sweet joys for best cakes and pies for their guests, and all their sour food for their own board. I would say to all boys and girls, "Use your guest voice at home. Watch it day by day, as a pearl of great price, for it will be worth more to you in days to come than the best pearl hid in the sea. A kind voice is a joy like a lark's song to a hearth and home. It is to the heart what light is to the eye. It is light that sings as well as shines. Train it to sweet tones now, and it will keep in tune through life."

The Home.

True society begins in the home. When two young people love each other and marry, they restore the riches of the Apostolic Church. They are of one heart and one soul. Neither do they say that anything they possess is their own, but they have all things in common. Their mutual trust in each other, their entire confidence in each other, draws out all that is best in both. Love is the angel who rolls away the stone from the grave by which we bury our better nature, and it comes forth. Love makes all things new; makes a new heaven and a new earth; makes all clear as light, all pain easy. It is the one enchantment of human life which outlives Fortunio's purse and Aladdin's palace, and turns the "Arabian Nights" into mere prose in comparison.

Think how this old story of love is repeated forever in all the novels and romances and poems, and how we never tire of reading about it; and how if there is to be a wedding in a church all mankind go just to have one look at the two persons who are supposed, at least, to be in love, and so supremely happy. But this, also, is not perfect society. It is too narrow, too exclusive. It shows the power of devotion, trust, self-surrender, that there is in the human heart; and it is also a prophecy of something larger that is to come. But it is at least a home, and before real society can come, true homes must come. As in a sheltered nook in the midst of the great sea of ice which rolls down from the summit of Mount Blanc is found a little green spot of tender flowers, so in the shelter of home, in the warm atmosphere which should love, spring up the pure affections of parent and child; father, mother, son, daughter; of brothers and sisters. Whatever makes this insecure, and divorce frequent, makes of marriage not a union for life, but an experiment which may be tried as often as we choose, and abandoned when we like. And this cuts up by the roots all the dear affections of home; leaves the orphaned, destroys fatherly and motherly love, and is a virtual dissolution of society.

I know the great difficulties of this question, and how much wisdom is required to solve them. But whatever weakens the permanence of marriage tends to dissolve society; for permanent homes are to the social state what the little cells are to the body. They are the commencement of organic life, the centres from which all combinations proceed. —Rev. James Freeman Clarke.

Industry.

The industrious man always finds more leisure for study and investigation than the lazy shiftless man. The busy man keeps the world moving; the busy men sustain the farmers' clubs, the Granges, and the many projects of progress and improvement. The lazy man is always full of trouble; he never succeeds; he is always finding fault with every one but himself. He is the idle man who mutiny at sea, and there is a world of philosophy in realizing the fact. We remember an old Cape Cod sea captain who, when there was nothing else to do, ordered the watch on deck to scour the anchor. Some one calls cheerfulness the daughter of employment, and it is certainly true that occupation is the necessary basis of all enjoyment. Men who have a dozen irons in the fire are not the ones to go crazy. Put in all the irons you have, shovel, poker, tongs and all, without the least fear of being too busy. It is the man of voluntary or compelled leisure who mopes and pines himself into the mad-house or grave. Employment is nature's physician, according to Galen, and any occupation which is innocent is most certainly better than none at all.

Schiller declared that he found the greatest happiness in life to consist in the regular discharge of some mechanical duty. Motion is nature's law; action is man's salvation, physical and mental. Stagnant water becomes putrid, flowing water is pure and sweet. Idleness in man is just as surely moral death. No thoroughly occupied man was ever miserable, though he may have an idle moment in which he may have thought so. Discontent arises under want of occupation, and that no man need be without who is blessed with health, eyes, hands and the usual physical endowments. Real life is thought and action, and usefulness lengthens our days. Laziness, like rust eats into the very heart of our strength; it is the paralysis of the soul. Nature never lies fallow; if we grow nothing useful, be sure we shall ourselves run to weeds.

And yet nine persons out of ten are looking for ward to the coveted hour when they shall have leisure to do nothing, or, in other words to allow their energies to stagnate. False philosophy. All powers appear only transition; the fire fly only glows when on the wing. Keep busy; that is the truly wise who lays himself out to work till life's latest hour, and that is the man who will live the longest and who will live to the most purpose. We live in deeds, not in years. Keep busy!

"Absence of occupation is not rest;
A mind quite vacant is a mind distressed."

Why Women Should Read.

Laying aside the thought of our own rest and comfort, let us look a little higher. For the children's sakes we must make the most of ourselves. Many an unselfish mother has said: "Oh, I cannot take all this time, there are so many things to do for the children." She does not realize that she may do more for them in the end by cultivating herself than if she spends all her time on clothes and cooking. A generosity which makes the recipient weak or selfish is not a blessing but a curse. Have you not seen grown-up sons who snubbed their mother's opinion in the same breath with which they called her to bring their slippers? The meek little woman has "trotted around" to wait on so long that they have come to think that that is all she is good for. Their sisters keep "Ma" in the background because she "hasn't a bit of style," and is "so uncultivated," forgetting that she has always worn shabby clothes that they might wear fine ones; that her hands have become horny with hard work that their's might be kept soft and white for the piano; and that she has denied herself books and leisure that they might have both. And there are other children, too noble for such base ingratitude, who feel a keen, though secret sense of loss as they kiss the dear withered cheek, and think how much more of a "woman" mother might have been if she had not shut herself away from the culture and sweet companionship of books.

True Economy.

Economy is frequently supposed to consist only in the art and practice of saving. To economize in our money it is thought the only need to curtail our expenditure; to economize our time, only to employ sedulously every moment. It is more complex in its nature, and aims at higher results. To economize anything of value, in the true sense of the word, is so to use it as to extract the highest degree of benefit which it is capable of producing. To do this it may often be needful to practise strict frugality, while at other times the same end would be secured only by a liberal expenditure. The economical use of money, for example, frequently demands much pinching, much sacrifice and much denial; but on other occasions it equally requires an open purse and a ready hand. A man with a limited income and a growing family cannot practise true economy unless he saves something for times of sorer need. If he be prudent and wise, he will so regulate his expenses as to have at least a small surplus at the end of each year to invest for the future. Yet a few years later, perhaps, when the actual needs of the family have increased, when the children should be educated, or when sickness or misfortune should be relieved, the same frugality would frustrate the very ends of true economy. There are times in the lives of every one of us when money can be made so very useful, and when to spend it will carry out such noble purposes, that it would be the extreme of wastefulness to hold it back. How to discern the proper seasons, to avail one's self of these opportunities, to provide for them before they come, and to be wisely liberal when they do appear, are all problems which are involved in the economical use of money.

"He Died for Me!"

The following touching story was once told in my hearing:—At the beginning of the late war a poor but industrious man, with a large family of little ones, was conscripted upon him army. A few days before his departure for scenes from which he might never return, a friend came to him and told him that he would go in his stead. He said he had no money, but could not see this man leave to be killed, and that he could not see this man taken from his loved ones—and they left to struggle alone—to starve in his absence.

This noble man left soon after, with his regiment for Tennessee, and nothing was heard from him until after the close of the war, when his friend in vain for some word that his substitute had fallen while leading a gallant charge in one of the greatest battles of the rebellion.

On learning this the man was much grieved, and at once started South in search of his remains. After many months he at last succeeded in finding the grave where he had been buried. The grave was neglected and overgrown with weeds, marked only by a rough board on which some comrade had rudely carved his name.

Having found the great object of his search, he had a neat white slab of marble placed at each end of the grave, and caused to be inscribed upon the head-stone the simple words:

"He DIED FOR ME." "Greater love hath no man than this; that a man lay down his life for his friend."

Oh! that each one of us might be as grateful as this man, and erect in our hearts a tablet to the memory of our Saviour, and inscribe upon it these simple words: "He Died for Me."

How to Take Life.

Take life like a man, says Mr. Spurgeon. Take it just as though it was—as it is—an earnest, vital, essential affair. Take it just as though you were born to the task of performing a merry part in it—as though the world had waited your coming. Take it as though it were a grand opportunity to achieve, to carry forward great and good schemes, to hold and to cheer a suffering, weary, it may be a heart-broken brother. The fact is, life is undervalued by a great majority of mankind. It is not made half so much of as should be the case. Where is the man or woman who accomplishes one tithe of what might be done? Who cannot look back on opportunities lost, plans unachieved, thoughts crushed, and all from lack of necessary and possible effort?

If we knew better how to take and make the most of life, it would be greater than it is. Now and then a man stands aside from the crowd, labors earnestly, steadfastly, confidently, and straightway becomes famous for wisdom, intellect, skill, greatness of some sort. The world wonders, admires, idolizes; and yet it is only illustrates what each may do if he takes hold of life with a will. It is a man but say he will, and follow it up, there is nothing in reason he may not expect to accomplish.

Life is Sweet.

Life with all its joys and sorrows, its smiles and tears, its mingled cup of bitter and sweet, its sunshine and storm, of prosperity and adversity, is the common lot of mortals, yet who but feels some happiness now and then, even in such a world as this? Some tell us that this is but a gloomy vale; that nothing but pinching thorns, and poisonous weeds, and dark and dismal clouds are seen over our mortal sky. Sometimes, indeed, the tempest darkens the heavens above, and the icy breath of winter robs the earth of its rich beauties and greenness, but the sun soon breaks through the clouds and the warm breath of gentle spring restores the wonted greenness of the earth. So it is after sorrow, and tears, and bitter grief; the dark clouds are quickly dispelled or the sunshine of happiness. In sickness how sweet to feel returning health, and how dearly prized the bounties of providence after having for a season known a want. There are but few whose experience has not shown them that there is more real happiness and joy than sorrow and pain. Yes, it is very sweet to live in a world of so many joys. No wonder that the heart is sometimes filled to overflowing with pure joy, when the eye beholds the rich glory of earth and sky. It is sweet to feel the charms of nature. It is sweet to enjoy the pleasures of social intercourse, but to the real of the covenant it is sweeter far to die and put on immortality and go to a world where the skies are always cloudless, where sorrow and pain are unknown.

Hiccough is caused by a spasmodic twitching of the diaphragm, a thin muscular membrane which divides the chest from the abdomen. It generally arises from sympathy with the stomach, and is highly irritable. Most of the muscular twitches and jerks are so many efforts on the part of the diaphragm to assist the stomach to get rid of some undigested matter.

Life may be eked out with pleasure, but it must be mainly filled up by business; and he who should pass a life in the vain attempt to fill up his time with amusements, would then find it too light to take up any serious pursuit and be condemned to drag about a miserable existence haunted by the ghosts of his defunct pleasures, in the shape of most restless, melancholy.

A Curious Officer.

[From the New York Herald]

The sound of blows and shrieks attracted a crowd before a house on Broad street the other day, and directly a policeman came sauntering along.

He seemed a trifle anxious, but yet made no movement, and one of the crowd exclaimed:

"Why in the name of heaven don't you stop that?"

"Is it a fight?" queried the officer.

"Of course it is."

"Are you sure?"

"Sure! Why even a fool can tell that somebody is being pounded to death!"

"Perhaps so," mused the officer, "but you can't tell—can't tell," jumped in once in just such a case as this and found that it was a young lady taking music lessons instead of a row. Keep still you boys, and let me see if I can hear crockery bang against the walls!"

"John," said a Cockney solicitor to his son, "I see you'll never do for an attorney, you have no henergy." "Shaw me, father," said John, "what I want is some of your chicanery."

THE COMING STRUGGLE.

Our Battle Cry: "Protection to Home Industries."

The Opposition Policy.

The commercial policy of the Opposition is represented in the following resolution moved by Sir John Macdonald in the House of Commons :—

"That this House is of opinion that the welfare of Canada requires the adoption of a National Policy, which by a judicious readjustment of the Tariff will benefit and foster the Agricultural, the Mining, the Manufacturing and other interests of the Dominion ; that such a policy will retain in Canada thousands of our fellow-countrymen, now obliged to expatriate themselves in search of employment denied them at home ; will restore prosperity to our struggling industries, now so sadly depressed ; will prevent Canada from being made a sacrifice market ; will encourage and develop an active interprovincial trade ; and moving (as it ought to do) in the direction of the reciprocity of Tariffs with our neighbors, so far as the varied interests of Canada may demand, will greatly tend to procure for this Country, eventually, a reciprocity of Trade."

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, SEPT. 7.

A DISLOYAL POLICY.

A few weeks ago, the Grit organs charged the Opposition with disloyalty, because they presented to the people a policy of protection to home industries. The absurd and baseless nature of that accusation, coming especially from such a source, having been conclusively shown, the cry has been abandoned as being thoroughly "played out." Recent events have, however, shown that the charge of disloyalty can be logically preferred, and with reason and fact as well to sustain it, against our opponents. As is well known, the Premier and the Minister of Finance are both free-traders in principle, and that they profess regret at being compelled by force of circumstances to support a tariff so high as that now in force in Canada, under which the control of the Canadian markets has been placed in the hands of the manufacturers, agriculturists, and miners of the United States. The Ministers referred to, and Mr. Mills, the Minister of the Interior as well, are very fond of quoting the writings of Mr. David A. Wells, a gentleman of ability, who has become the apostle of free-trade in the United States, as an authority upon the manner in which the trade relations of this country should be arranged. What this gentleman's advice will eventually lead to, if followed with the same persistence as has been shown by our Government during the last few years, has been seen and publicly stated by the Conservative leaders, whose protests against it were sneered at and disregarded by the Ministry and their supporters ; but we prefer to allow Mr. Wells to state the effect upon Canada of carrying out his policy in his own words. In a pamphlet recently written and published by him, entitled, "Why we Trade and How we Trade," he states how the politicians of the United States regard Canada, and on pages 23-4 he gives his own words on the matter as follows :—

"It is desired to annex the British North American Provinces and make them a part of the American Union. * * * With the balance of advantage in any amicable contest between the two countries, industrial and commercial betterment so transcendently on the side of the richer, most populous, and most powerful nation, it must be a very low order of statemanship on the part of the United States which could not devise and carry out a policy that in less than a decade of years would make the British Provinces applicants of their own accord for incorporation as States in the American Union, or would enable the United States, if it was deemed expedient to force them to become such, by the threat, not of armed compulsion, but of simply clouding the sun."

A more insidious policy than this of Mr. Wells', namely of compelling Canada to become commercially dependent on the United States, and then, if not willing, forcing us to annex ourselves to that country could scarcely be imagined, and the men who have blindly followed it for nearly five years past, and announce their intention to pursue the same course in the future cannot be held to be otherwise than disloyal to their country, and as guilty of aiding the foreigner to stab us in the dark. Such a consummation would no doubt be pleasing to such members of the Cabinet as Alfred Gilpin Jones, who would take off his hat and cheer when the British flag was hauled down ; L. S. Huntington and Laflamme the avowed disloyal Independent, and many other members of the late House of Commons who supported the Mackenzie Government in their ruinous and disloyal policy.

Fortunately, Mr. Wells has shown his hand too soon for the success of his Machiavellian conspiracy, and the people of Canada, by placing the helm of the ship of state in trustworthy hands, will see it guided safely away from the maelstrom of annexation into which it was being guided by such unfaithful pilots as Mackenzie, Cartwright & Co.

THE THAMES DISASTER.—Later estimates of the number drowned by the collision on the Thames are higher than those given yesterday. It is now stated that 600 to 700 were lost. A diver says he felt the corpses packed four and five deep in the after cabin of the Princess Alice.

THE NOMINATIONS.

The nominations of candidates for the representation of the people in the House of Commons will take place on Tuesday between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock. That for West Hastings will be held at the City Hall, Belleville ; that for North Hastings at the Town Hall, Village of Madoc ; and that for East Hastings at Roslin. At each place there will doubtless be gatherings of the electors, at which addresses will be delivered by the Candidates.

MASS MEETING.

Mr. Brown has called a mass meeting of the electors, to be held in the Metropolitan Hall on Monday night. As the electors have been asked to attend, irrespective of party, we hope to see the supporters of the Opposition present in large numbers. Mr. Wallbridge and some of his prominent supporters will be present and address the meeting, at which we trust a fair hearing will be given to all the speakers.

THE GRAND JUNCTION.

The Board of Directors of the Grand Junction Railway Company met yesterday afternoon to consider a proposition of Mr. Bickford for the completion of their line of railway. The meeting was lengthy and resulted in a contract being drawn up and agreed to for the completion of the road to Campbellford thisseason, and to Hastings by the first of August next, provided the people of Belleville re-vote the $50,000 already granted but now virtually forfeited, making one half of the bonus payable when Hastings is reached, and the other half payable when the road is completed to Peterboro ; and to complete the line to Peterboro' by the 1st of January, 1880. This latter part of the contract is conditional on sufficient bonuses being granted by Peterboro' and the other municipalities interested. The contract was to be signed to-day.

EAST HASTINGS.

A meeting of the electors of East Hastings was held last night in the Temperance Hall, Smithville. The meeting was called by Mr. Aylsworth, and there was a large attendance.

Mr. Harford Ashley, the Reeve, was appointed Chairman.

Mr. Aylsworth was the first speaker, and after confessing himself to be but poorly posted on public affairs, and stating that he had brought Messrs. Burdett and Clute to speak for him, he proceeded to deliver a very tame address, lasting about half an hour.

Mr. P. R. Daly spoke on behalf of Mr. White, and made some excellent points.

Mr. S. B. Burdett replied in a lengthy speech, containing the usual reference to the Pacific Scandal and other dead issues.

Mr. White, who followed, made a very able reply to what had been expressed by the previous speakers. He rallied Mr. Aylsworth on his confessed lack of knowledge on public affairs, and twitted him with bringing forward as his advocates two gentlemen who had no more brains and were no better informed than himself with regard to political matters. He discussed the issues of the day, showing up the inconsistencies and extravagances of the Government, and received a patient hearing and a very cordial reception.

Mr. Clute, who was the next speaker, addressed the gathering for an hour or upwards, his speech being principally remarkable for the number and grossness of the mis-statements which it contained.

Mr. Aylsworth then made a brief reply to the speakers opposed to him, after which Mr. White made a spirited reply to Mr. Clute, and that gentleman replied to Mr. White.

The meeting, which was very evenly divided, closed with cheers for the Queen and for the candidates. Smithville has long been a Grit stronghold, but at this election it will give Mr. White nearly if not quite as many votes as his opponent.

A Compliment to Ireland.

In a recent editorial on the Chinese immigration to this continent and its probable extension to Canada, the Globe says :—

"If every one who is comparatively ignorant, with rather demoralized religious ideas and a spirit that is content with little, is to be excluded from Canada for instance, where shall we begin and where shall we end ? Levy a prohibitory tax upon the Chinese, is the same thing to be done with the negro or the East Indian, with the Italian or the Irishman ? If not, why not ?"

The Globe is very friendly to Irishmen just at present, but the old spirit will show itself sometimes in spite of all efforts to keep it hidden.

THE NATIONAL POLICY.—The National Policy epitomised is this, "More employment and higher wages." Is not the object a good one, and should not those especially interested unite as one man and carry it into effect ? Then, when the mechanics and artizans have plenty of employment and good wages, those that are engaged in commercial pursuits prosper with them.

IMMIGRATION RETURNS.—The immigration returns for the month of August, at Toronto 1878, are as follows : English 267, Irish 93, Scotch 212, Icelanders 411, Norwegians 116, total, 1,099. The Norwegians all went on to the States. Of the Icelanders 124 went to the States, and the balance either started for Manitoba or remained in Ontario.

HOW MUCH WE LOSE.—As an instance of the extent to which we are compelled to rely upon the United States for articles, many of which, had we a proper system, we could ourselves produce, it may not be out of place to state that, while, in 1875, Spain, Italy, Russia, Turkey, the Netherlands, Portugal, Sweeden and Norway with a population of 144,989,377 imported from the United States $46,272,407, the Dominion alone, with her small population of about four millions purchased in the same market no less an amount than $50,805,826. This is a large sum of money to be taken from us in one year to go to swell the wealth of a rapacious rival and to be abstracted from the pockets of our own people, who could, were they allowed to earn it, retain a considerable portion of it among themselves.

SECOND GENERAL CONFERENCE.

(From the Montreal Star.)

THIRD DAY.

The proceedings were opened this morning with the usual devotional exercises conducted by Rev. E. B. Harper, M. A., President of the Toronto Conference. The chair was occupied by Rev. Dr. Douglass.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

Memorials were presented from Toronto, London, Kingston and several other places, suggesting local reforms, &c.

The memorials were sent to their respective Committees for consideration.

Several additional committees were struck. A motion to appoint a Select Committee on class meeting gave rise to much discussion.

The Secretary said such a committee should be selected with the greatest care and none but men of mature mind and capable and willing to go earnestly to work should be named on the Committee.

Dr. Jeffers suggested that the committee be called a Special Committee instead of Select.

Rev. Mr. Fowler coincided with the last speaker, as also did several other members.

The impression seemed to be that the word select reflected upon the composition of the other committees.

It was finally, after a good deal of talk, decided to call the new committee a special one.

Dr. Burwash read the report upon education, and it was referred to a committee for further consideration.

A long discussion took place as to whether the committees should have the discretionary power to report in full what is brought before them, or only what they might think sufficient. It was decided to give the committees a discretionary power.

The Committee on Nominations reported several additions to the committees already formed.

M. E. General Conference.

TENTH DAY.

FRIDAY, Sept. 6.

The religious services this morning were conducted by Rev. Dr. Pilcher.

Report No. 5 on Revision was read by Dr. Pilcher. It provides among other things, for the election of one-third of the Board of Trustees of adherents of the Church where it is impracticable to secure members for the position.

Rev. F. W. Chisholm read the report on Temperance, embodying the principles long held by the Church on that important question.

The Conference then took a recess for a few minutes, to allow an artist of the city to take a photograph of its members.

On resuming some reports were presented.

On reports being called in the afternoon, Rev. F. Chisholm read the address prepared for presentation to the British Methodist Episcopal General Conference, to be conveyed by a fraternal delegate to be elected by this body. The report was adopted.

The Committee on Publishing Interests presented report No. 4, speaking in general terms of the business and commending the efficient management of Dr. Stone.

Report No. 1 of the above Committee was called up. It was acted on by items.

The first recommendation, relating to the enlargement of the C.C. Advocate and making it an eight page paper, called forth a lively discussion, in which Revs. Messrs. Aylesworth, Gardiner, Stone, Jaques, Pirritte, Pilcher, and Bristol took part. It resulted in an amendment referring the matter of enlargement to the Book Committee. It was decided to leave the management with one man, so as to avoid the necessary help.

The report of the Committee on Education was read by Prof. Badgely naming the Board of Management of Alma College, and furnishing other matter relating to educational institutions. The agents for Alma College are not to canvass the ground yet uncanvassed by Mr. J. G. Robinson for the endowment fund of Albert College, providing proper diligence is shown.

Drs. Pilcher and Stone were appointed members of the University Senate.

A recommendation of the report that the Conference take Alma College under its control was adopted, and a Board of Management appointed.

Rev. J. Gardiner read the report of Committee on Union appointed four years ago, favoring the unification of Methodism on a proper basis, and appointing a committee to report to the next General Conference.

The report on Sabbath Schools showed a healthy state of that important enterprise, a large increase in every department being noted.

The election of editor was called to be by ballot, a major vote of the Conference being required to secure an election. On counting the ballots it was ascertained that Dr. Stone was elected by a large majority. The announcement was received with cheers.

The election of fraternal delegates, was now proceeded with, resulting as follows. Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States, Rev. D. R. Lane, M. A. ; Primitive Methodist, Dr. Pilcher ; Bible Christian Church, W. D. Hughson ; British Methodist Episcopal F. Chisholm.

The Conference adjourned at 7:30.

A BAD RECORD.—There never was a Government under which the country prospered less, and against whom there were so many charges of incompetence and wrong-doing, as against the present one, which prostitutes the honored name of "Reform" as a cloak to its practice.

WILL RE-VISIT CANADA.—On parting from the Ontario delegates on the 6th inst., in reply to the hope expressed by their Chairman that His Excellency would again visit Canada after his departure as Viceroy, Lord Dufferin stated, amid loud applause, that he would most probably re-visit at some future time the land of their birth.

Native Canadianism.

To the Editor of The Mail.

SIR,—Will you kindly publish the following statement by the Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, and your readers will be able to judge whether your statements or Mr. Clute's denial is nearest the truth.

Yours, &c.,

J. W. JOHNSON.

Belleville, Sept. 2nd, 1878.

STATEMENT BY THE HON. LEWIS WALLBRIDGE.

At my meeting in Frankford, Mr. Clute, who spoke for my opponent, when speaking of Mr. Johnson, stated that he had no right to address the electors, giving as his reason that he had been but a short time in the country ; and I believe he also said that Mr. Johnson was not a native Canadian. Mr. Johnson answered him at once that he had been 15 years in Canada, was born in Ireland, and asked him how long a man must live in this country before he could enjoy the rights of citizenship ? The latter part of Mr. Johnson's remarks would have been totally inapplicable unless in answer to the charge that Mr. Johnson was not a Canadian, the why Mr. Johnson was born a British subject, and had all the rights which a British subject enjoys by birth. The charge of not being a native could only have been raised to create prejudice.

—The Exhibition Buildings, Toronto, are expected to be finished in about a week, and articles will commence to come in about Monday next.

—The Rev. Dr. Fyfe, Princip l, of Woodstock Baptist Seminary, and a well known Baptist Minister, died at Woodstock on Wednesday.

—According to the accounts just presented to Parliament, it cost $3,500 to keep Lord Beaconsfield in good health at the Berlin Congress.

—The number of live stock in Great Britain at the present time is 5,732,476 cattle, 28,307,274 sheep, and 2,483,437 pigs, which is about the same average as last year.

—During last Tuesday afternoon's storm there were fourteen trees struck by lightning on the farm of Mr. John Grass, lake shore road, township of Kingston. A heavy stone was dislodged from the Court House.

—A man named Thomas Quigley, aged 65 years, committed suicide at Jones' Falls on Tuesday last by drowning himself. No cause is assigned for the rash act, and at an inquest held on the body a verdict of suicide by drowning was returned.

—On the 26th inst., twelve members of the Montreal fire brigade will visit Kingston, taking with them an engine and horses. They will be absent four days, and will compete in a trial of fire engines.

—A tree resembling the cedar, but with foliage so full of combustible oil that it goes off like a flash on the application of a match, is one of the wonders of Nevada. Within five minutes a beautiful green tree, with spreading branches, is changed into a charred and blackened trunk.

—The principal of the public debt of the United States on the 1st July, 1869, was $2,773,236,000 ; on the 31st of July, 1878, $2,278,717,000 ; decrease, $491,519,000. In 1873 the public debt of Canada was $99,000,000. It is now $133,000,000. If the States are going to ruin, can it be said that Canada is on the high road to prosperity ?

—A London bootblack named Wm. McClary, an orphan, seeing a railway lory break down on Wednesday, spilling several barrels of sugar, took a handful of it from the ground. For this he was arrested by P. C. Calderwood, on a charge of larceny and confined in the cells for twenty-two hours without a morsel to eat. In the morning he was dismissed by the Police Magistrate.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—I returned from Montreal last night, and find that during my absence kind friends and fellow citizens have been slandering my character, by stating that I had promised Mr. John Tuite and Mr. Geo. Hambly the sum of ten dollars to assist in burning in effigy the Mayor of Montreal, Mr. Beaudry. I beg to state that the above charge is false and slanderous, and that I neither directly nor indirectly aided in that demonstration nor did I have any knowledge directly or indirectly that such a demonstration was to take place.

A Slight Cough that we are so apt to con-duct in a rare manner and treat with corresponding neglect, too often proves to be the seed sown for an inevitable harvest—Consumption. Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. A teaspoonful of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime given whenever the Cough is troublesome, will afford immediate relief, and if perservered in will effect a cure even in the most obstinate cases.

Prepared solely by J. H. ROBINSON, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B. ; and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle ; six for $5.00. d&w-1m

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, SEPT. 6.

City and Vicinity.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION.—Remember the excursion on the Alexandra this evening.

HOPS.—The work of hop picking has commenced and the crop is said to be an excellent one.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education will be held on Tuesday evening.

Remember the cheap sale of Staple Dry Goods now going on at Moynes'. The whole stock to be sold out before 1st November. 2t

APPOINTMENT.—Capt. Young, of Wellington, has been appointed Clerk of the 1st Division Court, Picton, in the place of Capt. Downes, deceased.

ONTARIO STATUTES.—We have received a copy of the Statutes of Ontario, passed at the last session of the Legislature. The book contains seventy-five Acts, in about three hundred pages.

Bargains can be had in everything at Moynes' cheap sale now in progress. Don't fail to get cheap goods for once. 2t

NEW ELEVATOR.—The new elevator at Mill Point is about complete and is large enough to hold 60,000 bushels. The engine room will be begun soon and an engine put in that will load a vessel in short order.

DOMINION RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—In the Affiliated Association match on the 6th, Corpl. Hilton, of the 49th, made a score of 38 out of a possible 50—10 shots at 600 yards—and won a prize of $10.

THE PARISH GUIDE.—We are requested by the Rev. J. R. Jones, publisher of the Parish Guide to state that the paper has been discontinued, and that subscribers who have paid will have the subscriptions remitted to them during the month.

J. C. Moynes is running a genuine clearing sale, no humbug. The whole stock must be cleared at once; come to the sacrifice. 2t

NOTICE TO QUIT.—We are informed that to still further mark their "strong disapprobation" of the proceedings of the True Blues on Monday evening, the 26th of August, the trustees of the Orange Hall has given them "notice to quit," their occupancy of the Orange Hall. This notice was served upon them through their Master at their last meeting on last Thursday evening, when they were informed that that was the last night they could meet there.

OSWEGO REGATTA.—It seems now that, owing to the fact that most of the yachts have lately returned from cruises and that election work engages many of our amateur sailors at present, none of the Belleville yacht owners will be able to send their craft to the Oswego regatta. This is very much to be regretted, as our Oswego neighbors are kind and courteous, and there, as here, fair play can be relied upon at all times, besides their purses are as liberal as can be expected these hard times.

ACCIDENT AT MARYSVILLE.—The Bearer says:—"On Tuesday last Mr. Michael Ryan, a blacksmith and carriage-maker at Marysville, met with an accident that will cost him his leg. The railroad crossing is nearer his place of residence or business than the station, and while trying to get on the noon train at the crossing to come to Napanee, he slipped and fell under the wheels. His leg was so badly crushed that Drs. Ruttan and Bristol pronounced amputation as the only salvation for the limb. Being a powerful man and healthy, he will soon recover from the effects of the accident and amputation."

GRAND LACROSSE MATCH.—An interesting game of lacrosse took place on the old cricket ground yesterday afternoon, between Mr. Wallbridge and Mr. Brown's supporters in our two local clubs. A large number of spectators were present and great interest was manifested in the game. The ball was faced about 4 p. m. by Stewart and Carroll, and after 17 minutes good playing, A. Way scored the first game for the Conservatives. The second and third games were also taken by the Wallbridge men in 26 and 12½ minutes respectively, by J. Taylor in the former and H. Minore in the latter game. Thus terminated the match. The Brownites confined themselves to a defence game, being completely over matched by the Wallbridge men. For the Conservatives Minore, Sangster, and Taylor, did good service, whilst Charles Gillen was always in the right place. For the Brownites, A. Forin and Burdett played admirably. The Wallbridge players were: Newbery, Carroll, Minore, Taylor, Way, Benjamin, Hawley, A. Gillen, C. Gillen, E. Gillen, Sangster and Weller. The Brownites: Lawrence, A. Forin, J. Forin, Ashton, Jones, J. Drowry, Burdett, J. Stewart, Redick, T. Stewart, W. Drowry and Fleming.

For sleeplessness, with cold extremities, SANDFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER.

ALBERT COLLEGE is opening with favorable auspices for the Michalmas Term, which closes in December. The new Professors, Bannister and Wilbur, have entered upon their work with enthusiasm.

EAST HASTINGS.—Mr. M. Bowell and others will address a public meeting of the electors of East Hastings, on behalf of Mr. White, at the Town Hall, Canifton, this evening, the 7th inst. Chair taken at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Aylsworth and friends are invited to attend.

PEACH FESTIVAL.—The postponed Peach Festival of the ladies of Holloway Street C. M. Church, will be held at the City Hall on Wednesday evening next, 11th inst. An election contest, for a Silver-headed Cane, will take place, the candidates being Messrs. Brown and Wallbridge. Proceedings commence at 7:30. Tickets 15 cents.

MEETING AT HOGLE'S SCHOOL HOUSE.—Mr. Brown's meeting last night at Hogle's School House was largely attended. The speakers were Mr. Brown, and on his behalf Messrs H. Bleecker, K. Graham and Neil Mc. Arthur. Messrs. Wallbridge and Fraleck, also addressed the gathering very effectually. There was a good deal of noise at times, particularly when an issue of fact was raised between Messrs. Brown and Fraleck, but eventually all became quiet, and the meeting closed with cheers for the Queen and the candidates. Although there were probably a majority of Mr. Brown's friends present, Mr. Wallbridge created a highly favorable impression, and the result will be an accession of strength to his cause.

Miss ETTA AVERY, of Alexandra College, has made a brilliant impression as an Organist and Pianist in Belleville. She is a graduate of Boston College or Conservatory of Music, and a teacher of 5 or 6 years' experience.

THE GAME LAWS.—In tinkering the Game Laws last session, the Ontario Legislature bungled the matter, as is usual with that body under the lead of Mowat & Co. This is especially the case with regard to the extension of the close season for partridge from September 1st, as it formerly was, until October 1st. The young birds are now fit for shooting, and the consequence is that whilst the law-abiding sportsman is compelled to wait until October 1st. the partridges are meanwhile being slaughtered by thousand of pot-hunters, number of whom throng the woods in the vicinity of cities, towns and villages every day. The law is practically a dead letter, as there is no one to enforce it, and the sooner it is changed the better.

Miss ETTA AVERY will preside at the fine organ of the Methodist Episcopal Church to-morrow morning.

THE MARKET.—As the season advances farmers have more leisure, and as a consequence our market becomes more crowded on what are called market days. To-day the large inside market was thronged with sellers, so much so as to be uncomfortably crowded, and it will be necessary for the Market Committee to provide additional accommodation. The basement of the building might be utilized, and something should be done at once to make it fit for use. The square was fully occupied with farmer's teams, an additional row being placed on the side next the weigh scales, and Pinnacle street for some distance being used. Everything seasonable was in fair supply, and the demand appeared to be good for most products. Potatoes averaged 75c per bag. Apples ranged from 35cts to 75cts per bushel. Melons were very plentiful, and very fine ones could be had from five to twenty cents. There were large quantities of plums and gages of all kinds from the common green gage and blue plum to the large lombard, peach and pear plum, and sold from 70c to $2.00 per bushel. Tomatoes were a drug, selling at from 25 to 30 cents per bushel. Beets, carrots, turnips, and, in fact, all kinds of vegetables were in abundance.

This is the time when shrewd merchants begin to plant advertisements. And as they plant, so they will reap.

Just received at the INTELLIGENCER office a large stock of bags of all size, which will be printed on and sold as low as can be obtained at the manufactors.

Now is the time to advertise, and the best medium to make known your business is the INTELLIGENCER.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7.—Collector Smith received a communication which states that St. Vincent's Infant Asylum is in a very sad condition. The Sisters of Charity have two hundred infants in charge, and are badly in need of food, clothing, and especially blankets. Fever has gained an entrance into the institution, and forty inmates are suffering. It appeals to the Collector to correspond at once with the authorities at Washington, and to beseech them to authorize the quartermasters to issue suitable rations for 30 days, and necessary blankets. The collector promptly telegraphed to Secretary Mc. rary.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt., Sept. 7.—Election returns show that the Senate and House are strongly Republican, though elected by a diminished majority. Greenbackers elected to the House are mostly Democrats. Rutland, St. Albans, and Burlington, the three largest towns in the state, are represented by Democrats.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Specials report the weather mild and clear at Vicksburg. Fever is increasing in malignity among the whites. There is but little fever among the blacks; brown and light colored ones suffer severely. At New Orleans the physicians look forward with apprehension to a fearful increase in the mortality; there is no hope of abatement this month; a speedy seizure of all unacclimated persons is the only prospect. Destitution is hourly increasing, many applying for charity who were believed to be in good circumstances. Business is utterly at a stand-still. Many large houses will not resume before November. The sympathy of the north is keenly appreciated, and the bitterness of the past has been changed to such a feeling as years of statesmanship could never have brought about.

At Grenada the air is impregnated with a peculiar and unmistakable fever odor. At Memphis there seems no longer any possibility of checking the fever. Weather uncomfortably warm and moist. Five cases are reported at Dresden, Tennessee. On the advice of physicians, the entire population is leaving town.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—The Relief Committee declined Rose Etyinges' offer to play for the benefit of the fever sufferers, saying they did not care to deal with play people. Rose sent a sharp reply.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The United States garrison is there, and they are being transferred from the fever districts to more healthy localities, all unacclimated officers being permitted to come north while the fever rages.

From January 1st to August 31st the State Department granted 3,438 passports at five dollars each; for the same period last year 370 were issued.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 7.—The Superintendent of Longview Insane Asylum, a state institution at Carthage, is charged with establishing a dissecting room in the building, where unclaimed bodies of patients had been cut up.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The car-drivers' strike was ended, all lines running and the police relieved from extra duty.

A gange of forgers defrauded the Gallatin Bank of $1,000, Bank of New York $2,900, Merchants Bank $700, and other banks of different amounts during the past month. No arrests yet. Patrolman Maguire while attempting to arrest Henry Young, negro, last night, was attacked by a gang and his skull fractured. The Board of Managers of the Produce Exchange, adopted resolutions yesterday, looking to the erection of a new building in view of a general revival of trade. Health officer Vanderpool says, he has never felt so confident for the last six weeks that he has the yellow fever under control as he does now, he has no apprehensions of epidemic in this city.

Much excitement occurred in the produce exchange yesterday by a rough and tumble fight between two brokers on the floor.

Several deaths from typhoid fever have occurred at Mont Clair N. J., and a number are still sick. The fever has been traced to the use of impure milk.

Six transatlantic steamers leave to-day; aggregate shipments of liberal proportions; exports of grain and cheese heavy, the former footing up to 200,000 bushels. A noticeable feature is the shipment of the first lot of oysters this season, also two dredging machines manufactured by a New York firm under contract with the Russian Government, probably to be used for deepening the channel at Cronstadt.

Arrived, the S. S. Britannic from Liverpool; the Calend from Rotterdam, and the Wickliffe from Cardiff.

OMAHA, Sept. 7.—Four men perished in a recent hotel fire, and one injured fireman has since died. Others are missing.

SOUTH AMBER, N. J., Sept. 7.—A tramp was thrown out of a saloon into the street yesterday. James Fitzgerald went to assist the fallen man, when the latter plunged a knife into Fitzgerald's throat, inflicting a mortal wound.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Manchester Guardian reports the market very dull and unsatisfactory to buyers and sellers. The movement for curtailing production has become considerable. No improvement is perceptible in advices from the leading foreign markets. Scarcely any description of cloth or yarn can be shipped at current rates without loss.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 7.—Jno. Richmond, arrested for horse thieving at Chetopa, Kansas, was taken from the train upon arrival at Chetopa, and hung under a bridge close to the town by masked men.

BUCHAREST, Sept. 7th.—The rinderpest is rapidly extending throughout Roumania; the authorities neglect taking precautions.

PARIS, Sept. 7.—To meet the wishes of several Chambers of Commerce, the French and American delegations to the Conference on the Commercial treaty will hold public meetings at Macon, Lyons, St. Etienne, Nenis, Montpellier, Avignon, and Marseilles. First meeting at Macon to-day.

The cotton spinners of northern France have resolved not to work by gas light, in order to lessen the accumulation of stock.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Abstract of sanitary reports received during the past week under the National Quarantine Act.

New Orleans.—During the week ending yesterday noon, 1732 cases of yellow fever, 525 deaths, making in all 4699 cases, 1395 deaths. During the 24 hours to noon yesterday, 289 new cases, 61 deaths.

Port Eads.—During the week one death but no new cases.

Morgan City.—During the week to yesterday noon, 14 cases, 2 death, in all 22 cases, 6 deaths.

Vicksburg, Miss.—During the week ended yesterday evening, 181 deaths, 41 of which occurred in the last 24 hours; in all 366 deaths, about 2,500 cases since the outbreak. Surgeon Keys telegraphs fever is on the increase. It is impossible to obtain accurate data.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 7.—A prominent business man just returned from New Orleans describes the situation as sorrowful in the extreme. On the trip down, at Arkansas City, men stood on the bank with guns, threatening to shoot if an attempt was made to land.

At Memphis, which was reached as evening was approaching, a most depressing scene presented itself, not a dog, mule nor negro could be seen. Houses did not seem inhabited. Every place seemed deserted.

Vicksburg was almost as bad as Memphis. Terror reigns all along the Mississippi; if a boat load of freight for any town it was taken on to New Orleans the inhabitants refusing to receive it.

At Holly Springs about 200 came aboard. Fever had broken out the night before. The scenes at the depot were heart-rending,—wives leaving husbands, mothers leaving sons, bidding them farewell. At one place a mother with three children got on the train; the husband had died half an hour before that, and before death, had made her promise to leave on the next train, to save the lives of herself and children. She left her husband unconfined and unburied.

The Howard Association is accomplishing great good.

At New Orleans things looked much better. Men were at work on the levee, business houses open but little business transacted. The return trip was made by rail.

At Grenada not a white man is visible and only a few negroes.

HICKMAN, Ky., Sept. 7.—Three new cases and two deaths this morning.

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—A woman found outraged on Tuesday in Milldam basin, was identified as Mrs. Annie Curtis, alias Ryan, widow, and a cook.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Weekly Bank Statement: loans increase 40,012,000; specie decrease 47,105; legal tenders decrease 3,265,000; deposits increase 547,100; circulation decrease 376,400; reserve decrease 3,448,975.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Sept. 7.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region, fresh to brisk northeasterly to southeasterly winds, and partly cloudy weather, with rain towards evening. For the St. Lawrence, fresh to brisk northeasterly to southeasterly winds and partly cloudy weather. For the Maritime Provinces, moderate to fresh winds, and partly cloudy weather.

INTELLIGENCER OFFICE,
Belleville, Sept. 7, 1878.

GRAIN.—The grain market can be said to be opened for the season, which promises to be a short one, as the high price of barley is bringing it in unprecedentedly fast for this time of year and promises that in another month, if present prices are sustained, all the barley in the district will be marketed.

JOB PRINTING, in all its branches executed at THE INTELLIGENCER Office

Daily Intelligencer.

THE FORECLOSURE OF THE MORTGAGE.

BY MRS. E. T. CORBETT.

We'd right into the settin'-room, Deacon; it's all in a muddle, you see,
But I hadn't no heart to right it, so I've jest left everything be.
Besides, I'm to work to-morrow, I calk'late to stan' with the dawn—
And the house won't seem so home-like if it's a' upset and forlorn.

I sent off the children this mornin'; they both on 'em begged to stay,
But I thought 'twould be easier, mebbe, if I was a-mindin' you myself.

For this was the very day, Deacon, jest twenty years ago,
That Caleb and me moved in; so I couldn't forgit it, you know.
We was so busy a-fixin' we'd been married a month before—
And Caleb would clear the table and wash up the kitchen floor,
He said I was tired, and he'd help me; but, law! that was always his way—
Always handy and helpful, and kind, to the very last day.

Don't you remember, Deacon, that winter I broke my arm?
Why, Caleb nearly left me, not even to tend to the farm.
There night and mornin' I saw him, a-settin' so sad and so white by my bed,
And I knew him in spite of the fever that made me so wild in my head.

He never did nothin' to achieve me until he left me behind—
Yes, I know, there's no use in talk'n', but somehow it eases my mind.
And he sot such store by you, Deacon, I needn't tell you now,
But unless he had your judgment, he never would buy a cow.

Well, our cows is gone, and the horse too—poor Caleb was fond of Jack,
And I could like about his mournin' when I looked at the empty rack.

I hope he'll be kindly treated,—'twould worry poor Caleb so
If them Joneses should whip the critter—but I s'pose he ain't like to know.
I've been thinkin' it over lately, that when Mary sickened and died,
Her father's spirit was broken, for she was all to his pride.

He wasn't never so chesty; he'd smile, but the smile warn't bright,
And he didn't care for the cattle, though once they was his delight.

The neighbors all said he was a-fool, and they tried to speak to me;
They'd "Caleb's a-churn-yard couch; but, oh, the bl'ad are those that won't see.

I never he'ed he was gon'in'" I says him a-leav'n here dead.

There, there! don't be nervous, Deacon, I have—n't to tell you what I said.

I've tried to keep things together—I've been shavin' early and late—
But I can't pay the int'rest, nor git the farm-work straight,
So of course I've gone behind hand, and if the fa—n should go,
I'm enough to pay the mortgage, I s'pose 'tw—be doin' well.

I've prayed all about all hard feel'n's, and to we'k as a Christian ought,
But it's hard to see Caleb's children turned out of the place he bought;
And read'n that text in the Bible 'bout widows and orphans, you know,
I can't think the Lord's will prosper who are willin' to see us go.

But there! I'm a-keepin' you, Deacon, and it's nigh your time for tea.
Won't I come over? No, thank you; I feel better alone, you see.
Besides, I couldn't eat nothin'; whenever I've tried it to-day
There's somethin' here that chokes me. I'm nervous, I s'pose you'll say.

"I've worked too hard." No, I haven't. Why it's work that keeps me strong;
If I set here intr'vin', I'm sartain my heart would break before long.

Not that I care about t'nin'. I'd rather be laid away,
In the place I've marked beside Caleb, to rest till the judgment day.

But there's the children to think of—that makes my doubt clear.
And I'll try to be ther thankful if they're tired of this life some day.

Good-bye, then, I shan't forgit you, nor all the kin ness you've showed;
The Lord help to cheer me to-morrow, a-I go on my lonely road.

For—What are you say'n', Deacon? I needn't—I won't go?
You've bought the mortgage, and I can stay? Stop! say it over slow.—

Jest wait now—jest wait a minute—I'm take it in bime-by
That I can stay. Why, Deacon, I don't know what makes me cry!

I haven't no words to thank you. If Caleb was only here,
He'd such a head for speak'n', he'd make my feelin's clear.

There's a picter in our Bible of an angel from the skies,
And though he hasn't no great coat, and no specktacles on his eyes,
He looks jest like you, Deacon, with your smile so good and true,
And wherever I see that picter, it'll make me think of you.

The children will be so happy! Why, Debby will scurcely be child,
She fretted so much at leav'n her darling behind, poor child!
And, law! I'm as glad as Debby, if only for jest one thing—
Now I can tend the posies I planted there last spring
On Caleb's grave; he loved the flowers, and it seems as if they They're a-bloomin' all around him while he's sleep'n there below.

His Business.

In these days of tramps a man with a charitable heart soon becomes known, and as such the good Father Caraher has an extended acquaintance among the wandering fraternity. The other day a seedy old fellow called on him and asked for money.

"Oh, no" said the good Father, "I will give you no money, but I will give you plenty to eat."

The tramp thought for a moment and accepted the proposition. After watching him stow away the good things for some time the reverend gentleman asked:

"Where did you come from, my good man?"

The tramp looked up for a second, took another mouthful and replied:

"New Jersey."

"Oh," said Mr. Caraher, "I presume you were thrown out of employment. Is there no work there for you?"

"No," replied the knight of the highway, heaving a sigh, "my business is all played out now. I can find no work at my profession in that State anywhere."

"What is too bad, too bad," sympathized the liberal old gentleman. "By the way, what is your profession?"

The tramp looked at him for a moment, while a sarcastic yet pitying glitter played in his eyes, as he said:

"Snow shovelling."

Irish Compliments.

The following compliments were paid to Sheridan, in Norfolk, by an Irish servant belonging to Mr. Coke, who attended him on his shooting excursion, and which Sheridan told with great glee. Shot the 1st (the birds all getting away)—"More power to your honor! Did you see one little fellow drop his leg as he went off? He'll never stand on his tin toes again." Shot 2nd (ditto)—"Tare an' agers, there they go! But didn't your honor hear the shot rattle among them like pase agin a windey! They'll pray never to see your honor again on this side of the country." Shot 3rd (birds all off again)—"Thunder an' 'ouns, but they've cotched it!" After watching them awhile—"There's three wounded anyhow, for they had hardly strength to fly over yonder hedge; the devil a wink of sleep they'll get this blessed night!" Shot 4th (a pheasant gets away)—"Well, I never seen a poor gentleman taken like him, he'll remember your honor many a long day for that. The spalpeen is carrying away more shot than would set up an ironmonger at Skibbereen." Shot 5th (a snipe gets off) "Bother! You may cry crake, my fine fellow—you may take yourself right into the other world. You'll wake to morrow morning with a lumbago in your soft head." Poor Sheridan could stand this no longer, but gave his countryman a fee for his ingenuity, and proceeded on his boat alone.

One of Life's Shadows.

At 8 o'clock the other morning a Second street wife followed her husband down to the gate, as he was starting for down town and kindly said to him:

"William, you know how sadly I needa blue bunting dress."

"Yes dear," he remarked, "but you know how hard up I am. As soon as I can see my way clear you shall have the dress, and a new hat to boot. Be patient, be good and your reward shall be great."

Forty minutes after that he emerged from a restaurant with a big basket and a fishpole, bound up the river. In the basket was a chicken, pickles, cake, fruit, pie, and a bottle not void of a rich color, and he was just lighting a twenty cent cigar when his wife came along.

"What! you here!" he exclaimed.

"Why, I'm going to the market. Where are you going—what is in that basket?"

"I was going to carry this fishpole around to a friend on Jefferson avenue," he modestly answered.

"And that basket?"

"This basket—well, I was going to take it to the orphan asylum as a present to the children. It is a donation from a few leading citizens."

"William, I dont believe it!"

"Sh! Don't talk so loud!"

"William I shall talk louder yet!" she exclaimed. "I'll bet you are going fishing!"

"May, have I ever deceived you?" he plaintively asked. "I never have! As a proof of my sincerity you can take this basket to the asylum yourself."

"And I'll do it!" she promptly replied as she relieved him of it.

"May, hadn't you——"

"No, sir, I hadn't! You'd better hurry up with that fish pole or the man may wait it, and be careful how you stand around in the hot sun!"

She left him there. He watched her take the cars for home, and then he returned the pole and crossed the street and said to an acquaintance:

"Tom, I'm suffering with neuralgia, and the excursion is off till next week. Too bad, but we can never tell what a day may bring forth."

There was chicken and pickles and other good things on the table at dinner, but he never smiled. Even when his wife stood his saw in the woodshed and told him why they were fed he never betrayed the gloom in his heart. It was only when she handed him the bottle he had so carefully tucked into the basket, and he saw it labeled: "Good for Little children," that he said:

"Mary, it is an awful thing for a wife to get the impression that her husband is a cool-blooded liar!"

"It was bad, bad," she replied as she took the other chicken leg.—Detroit Free Press.

One Leg Blue and the Other Gray.

[New York Sun.]

MAX ISAACS, a pale-faced Hebrew, applied to Justice Otterbourg yesterday for a warrant for the arrest of Moss Abrahams, a tailor.

"Why?" asked Justice Otterbourg.

"Vel, your Honor, it is for a pair of pants," began Isaacs. "You see I go to Abrahams two weeks ago and I ask him to make me a pair of pants. He says: 'I will, Vill, make you a pair for four dollars.' Vel, I pay him two dollars in advance, and last Saturday I pay him two more. Then I take the pants Sunday morning and I open the bundle, and I takes out the pants, and I find one leg blue and the other leg gray. I go to Abrahams and I say: 'What for you make me two different colored legs?' 'I Vel,' he says, 'you paid me two dollars and I made one leg, you paid me two other dollars and I make you another leg. You come for the pants, you take the bundle, you go home. I have nothing more to say.' Vel, I tell Abrahams what shall I do? I lose my money and lose the pants. He says: 'I paint the leg gray for fifty cents.' Vel, I pay him fifty cents, and he paint the leg blue. But, Judge, the blue painted leg don't match the other leg, and I want a warrant for Mose Abrahams."

Justice Otterbourg advised Isaacs to begin a civil suit.

A lazy physician, who had been out hunting, on coming home complained that his luck had been very bad, and wound up by saying: "I didn't kill anything." "That's because you didn't stay at home and attend to your legitimate business!" spitefully retorted his wife.

Student in botany to the professor—"What tree is that which never blossoms? I can't think of its name just now." Professor (with a mingled tone of surprise and curiosity)—"I'm sure I don't know. Are you not mistaken, Mr. Jones?" Jones—"Oh, I have it now. It's the whiffle tree!"

—The country of Kilkarry, Ireland, when the jury found that the dead man came to his death through being gored by a bull, called up the owner of the animal and said to him sternly: "I must ask you to part with that animal. Ship him. He is not fit to have about the place. If you sell him here you will likely have some more Irishmen killed. Ship him, and if he is to kill any person let it be an Englishman."

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and labored breathing, the demulcent properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime manifest their curative healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided reasserts herself, and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health.

Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00.

AN UNDENIABLE TRUTH.

You deserve to suffer, and if you lead a miserable, unsatisfactory life in this beautiful world, it is entirely your own fault and there is only one excuse for you,—your unreasonable prejudice and skepticism, which has killed thousands. Personal knowledge and common sense reasoning will soon show you that Green's August Flower will cure you of Liver Complaint, or Dyspepsia, with all its miserable effects, such as sick headache, palpitation of the heart, sour stomach, habitual costiveness, dizziness of the head, nervous prostration, low spirits, &c. Its sales now reach every town on the Western Continent and not a druggist but will tell you of its wonderful cures. You can buy a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Three doses will relieve you. d&w.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE For CATARRH

INSTANTLY relieves and permanently cures this loathsome disease in its varying stages. It possesses the soothing and healing properties of balm, herbs and barks in the purest form, free from every noxious combination, and in this respect alone is far superior to any other remedy. Its absorbent principle finds its way from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, and wherever known has become the standard remedy for the treatment of Catarrh. The proprietors have been waited upon by hundreds of national reputation who have been cured by this remedy, and who have, at considerable expense, had their names placed on the good cures throughout the circle in which they move. When you hear a wealthy gentleman of intelligence and refinement say, "I owe my life to Sanford's Radical Cure," you may feel assured that it is an article of great value, and worthy to be classed among the standard medical specties of the day.

THE benefit I derive from its daily use is to me priceless.
HENRY WELLS, of WELLS, Fargo & Co.

IT has proved me after twelve years of unintermitted suffering.
GEO. W. BRIGHTON, Waltham, Mass.

I FOLLOWED the directions to the letter and am happy to say I have had a permanent cure.
Dr. W. GRAY, M. D., Hennepin, Iowa.

I HAVE recommended it to quite a number of my friends, and every one that has used it says their high estimate of its value and good effects still there.
WM. BOWEN, 23 Pine St., St. Louis.

AFTER using two bottles I find myself permanently cured. I have since recommended it over one hundred, with the greatest success.
H. HANSCOM & CO., Boston.

WE have sold SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE for nearly one year and can say candidly that we never sold a medicine that gave such universal satisfaction. We have yet to learn of the first complaint.
B. D. BALDWIN & CO., Washington, Ind.

THE effect on my daughter of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE was so remarkable that it seemed to me that a miracle had been performed. None of the usual remedies that it could not be true. I therefore make affidavit to it before Seth B. Thomas, Esq., Justice of the Peace, Boston.
GEORGE W. DINSMORE, Dorchester, Boston.

Each package of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE contains Dr. Sanford's Improved Inhaling Tube, and full directions for its use in all cases. Price, $1.00. For sale by all wholesale and retail druggists and dealers throughout the United States and Canada.

THROUGH THE DARK CONTINENT.

THE Sources of the Nile; around the Great Lake of Equatorial Africa and down the Livingstone River to the Atlantic Ocean.

BY HENRY M. STANLEY,

With portraits of the author, two large route maps and eight smaller ones, and 147 illustrations from photographs and sketches by Mr. Stanley, prepared expressly for this book. In one volume, demy 8vo., over 1,000 pages, cloth, $4.75.

The magnificent maps, two being 26 x 32 inches, enable the reader to follow every step of Mr. Stanley's wonderful journey.

THE PUBLIC ARE CAUTIONED

that the only book giving the complete history of the travels, explorations, important discoveries, and thrilling adventures of Mr. Stanley in Africa during 1874-1877 is now published, under the title which appears at the head of this advertisement as the Canadian COPYRIGHT EDITION.

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Career, Explorations and Adventures of Stanley" have been advertised. They are a rehash of Livingstone and other old books of African travel and of Stanley's letters. The first is the Original spurious book published in Philadelphia, written by T. J. Headley. The second is an inferior copy of the first. Both have mostly old illustrations. See that you get the genuine work written by Mr. Stanley. Each copy is cloth bound, of the eminent and the world "Africa" stamped on side.

THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

Presentation of the Joint Address of the Ontario Municipalities.

HIS EXCELLENCY'S REPLY.

The delegation of municipal representatives of Ontario, appointed to present Lord Dufferin the joint address of the Ontario municipalities, arrived at Quebec on the 5th. Amongst them were Alex. Robertson, Mayor of Belleville, and Charles Francis, Esq., Reeve of Trenton. Mayor Daly, of Stratford, was elected Chairman, and Mr. Biscoe, Guelph, secretary. Seventy-four Mayors, Wardens, Reeves and Councillors, had signed the address, which had been beautifully illuminated. It was presented in the afternoon on the terrace in rear of the Governor's quarters in the citadel, under brilliant auspices both as to weather and attendance. The band of "B" Battery was stationed on the parade ground in front of the building and played some fine music at intervals.

Mayor Daly, of Stratford, introduced the deputation, the members of which were severally presented to his Excellency.

The title-page of the address was framed and beautifully illuminated. The text was supported on each side by scroll work, capped by the arms of the Governor-General. At the head of the engraving was the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa and a copy of the royal arms. At the foot a beaver and maple leaves formed the centre, and supported to the right by a view of Niagara Falls and Goat Island lighthouse, and to the left, a view of Lachine Rapids. The title page read thus:—

JOINT ADDRESS OF THE
MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS
OF ONTARIO TO THE
RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF DUFFERIN
Upon his departure from Canada,
1878.

To His Excellency the Right Honorable Sir Frederick Temple, Earl of Dufferin, Viscount and Baron Clandeboye of Clandeboye in the County Down, in the Peerage of the United Kingdom, Baron Dufferin and Clandeboye, of Ballyleidy and Killeaghy in the County Down in the Peerage of Ireland, and a Baronet-Knight of the most Illustrious Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, and Knight Commander of the most Honorable Order of the Bath, Governor-General of Canada and Vice-Admiral of the same, etc.

The address itself was engrossed on separate leaves suitable for binding, and was handsomely got up. It read as follows:—

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY:

We, the delegates from the various municipal Corporations of Ontario, loyal subjects of Her Majesty, charged with the agreeable duty of conveying to your Excellency and the Countess of Dufferin a parting memorial of the affection in which you are held by the people of Ontario, crave audience of your Excellency.

Permit us to assure you that our mission is a sad, but also a pleasing one; sad, inasmuch as we are mindful that the ties which have linked you in affectionate union with us for the past six years are about to be severed; and pleasing, in that we have the opportunity ere you leave of placing in your hands the evidence that those whom we represent people towards the Victory whose rule has been signalized by so many examples of enlightened statesmanship and executive ability. To indulge in expressions of fulsome adulation, or address you in terms capable of being construed as meaningless flattery, would be but a doubtful compliment to your superior intelligence. We desire rather in the simple but eloquent language of the heart to tender your Excellency, on behalf of the people of Ontario, their unqualified approval of your career as Governor-General of Canada, accompanied with the warmest personal regard for your Excellency and the amiable Countess of Dufferin.

While admiring the tact, firmness, and efficiency displayed in the discharge of your important State duties, we have not failed also to appreciate the lively interest you have taken in whatever was calculated to promote the prosperity of the several Provinces or aid in the material and intellectual improvement of the people. It has been your study to become thoroughly acquainted with the character and the resources of the country and the requirements of all classes therein, and kindness of heart which you have manifested in visiting the habitations of the poor, even in the most remote territories, has won for you golden opinions.

Our scientific and educational institutions, encouraged by your generous bounty, have acquired fresh vigor from the impetus which a liberal appreciation of their merit is always sure to impart, and we cannot but advert to the fact that innocent amusement, so essential to the preservation of "a sound mind in a sound body," has received your Excellency's endorsation.

We feel convinced that many real blessings to our country will be the outgrowth of your zeal, eloquence, and administrative talent.

Be pleased to bear with you our sentiments of profound attachment to the Throne and person of Her Majesty the Queen, and our best wishes for the continued health and happiness of yourself and your distinguished consort.

Although about to be deprived of the advantage of your great mind in future guidance of Canada's destiny, yet we shall always feel that in your Excellency our Dominion will have a friend and powerful advocate, and Britain a statesman worthy of her incomparable renown.

With feelings of unfeigned regret we bid your Excellencies farewell.

The address was read by Mr. J. S. McMillan, of Guelph.

His Excellency in his reply spoke as follows, and was frequently and heartily applauded:—

GENTLEMEN:—I hardly know in what terms I am to reply to the address I have just listened to. So signal is the honour which you have conferred upon me that a whole Province, as large, as important, as flourishing as many a European kingdom, should erect into an embassy the Mayors of its cities, the delegates of its urban and and rural municipalities, and despatch them on a journey of several hundred miles to convey to a humble individual like myself an expression of the personal good-will of the constituencies they represent, is a circumstance unparalleled in the history of Canada or of any other country. (Loud applause.) To stand as I now do in the presence of so many distinguished persons who must have put themselves to so great personal inconvenience on my account, adds to my confusion. And yet, gentlemen, I cannot pretend not to be delighted with such a genuine demonstration of regard on the part of the large-hearted inhabitants of the great Province in whose name you have addressed me. (Loud applause.) For quite apart from the personal gratification I experience, you are laying up for future administrators of your affairs a lesson which you may be sure they will gladly lay to heart, since it will show them with how rich a reward they can repay whatever slight exertions it may be within their power to make on your behalf. (Applause.) And when, in the history of your Dominion, could such a proof of your generosity be more opportunely shown? A few weeks ago the heart of every man and woman in Canada was profoundly moved by the intelligence, not only that the Government of Great Britain was about to send out as England's representative to this country one of the most promising amongst the younger generation of our public men, but that the Queen herself was about to entrust to the keeping of the people of Canada one of her own daughters. (Great applause.) If you desired any illustration of the respect, the affection, the confidence with which you are regarded by your fellow-subjects and by your Sovereign, at home, what greater proof could you require, than this, or what more gratifying one could delicate, more touching recognition could have rewarded your never-failing love and devotion for the Mother Country and her ruler? (Cheers.) But, though the Parliament and the citizens of Canada may well be proud of the confidence thus reposed in them, believe me when I tell you that, quite apart from these especial considerations, you may well be congratulated on the happy choice which has been made in the person of Lord Lorne for the future Governor-General of Canada. It has been my good fortune to be connected all my life long with his family, by ties of the closest personal friendship. Himself I have known, I may say from his boyhood, and a more conscientious, high-minded or better qualified Viceroy could not have been selected. (Great applause.) Brought up under exceptionally fortunate conditions it is needless to say he has profited to the utmost by the advantages placed within his reach, many of which will have fitted him in an especial degree for his present post. His public school and college education, his experience in the House of Commons, his large personal acquaintance with the representatives of all that is most distinguished in the intellectual world of the United States, his literary and artistic tastes, his foreign travel will all combine to render him intelligently sympathetic with every phase and aspect of your national life. (Great applause.) And last, he comes of a good Whig stock, that is to say, of a family whose prominence in history is founded upon the sacrifices they have made in the cause of constitutional liberty. (Cheers.) When a couple of a man's ancestors have perished on the scaffold as martyrs to the cause of political and religious freedom, you may be sure there is little likelihood of their descendants seeking to encroach, when acting as the representatives of the Crown, upon the privileges of Parliament or the independence of the people. (Loud cheers.) As for your future Princess it would not become me to enlarge upon her merits. She will soon be amongst you, taking all hearts by storm by the grace, the suavity, the sweet simplicity of her manners, life, and conversation. (Tremendous applause.) Gentlemen, if ever there was a lady who in her earliest youth had formed a high ideal of what a noble life should be; if ever of what a noble life should be; if ever there was a human being who tried to make the most of the opportunities within her reach, and to create for herself, in spite of every possible trammel and impediment, a useful career and occasions of benefitting her fellow creatures, it is the Princess Louise, whose unpretending exertions in a hundred different directions, to be of service to her country and generation, have already won for her an extraordinary amount of popularity at home. (Applause.) When to this add an artistic genius of the highest order and innumerable other personal gifts and accomplishments, all combined with manners and an address so gentle, so unpretending as to put every one who comes within reach of her influence at perfect ease, you cannot fail to understand that England is not merely sending you a Royal Princess of majestic lineage, but a good and noble woman in whom the humblest settler and mechanic in Canada will find an intelligent and sympathetic friend. (Cheers.) So that, gentlemen, I hardly know which pleases me most—the thought that the superintendence of your destinies is to be confided to persons so worthy of the trust or that so dear a friend of mine as Lord Lorne, and a persuasive for whom I entertain so much respectful admiration as I do for the Princess Louise should commence their future labors in the midst of a community so indulgent, so friendly, so ready to take the will for the deed, so generous in their recognition of any efforts to serve them as you have proved yourselves.

And yet alas, gentlemen, pleasant and agreeable as is the prospect for you and them, we must acknowledge there is one drawback to the picture. Lord Lorne has, as I have said, a multitude of merits. But even spots will be discovered on the sun, and unfortunately an irreparable one, as I may call it, a congenital defect, attaches to this appointment. Lord Lorne is not an Irishman. (Laughter.) It is not his fault. He did the best he could for himself. (Renewed laughter.) He came as near the right thing as possible by being born a Celtic Highlander. (Continued laughter.) There is no doubt about it the world is best administered by Irishmen. (Hear, hear,) Things never went better with us, either at home or abroad, than when Lord Palmerston ruled Great Britain—(cheers—Lord Mayo governed India (cheers) Lord Monck directed the destinies of Canada—(cheers) and the Robinsons, the Kennedys, the Laffans, the Callaghans, the Gores, the Hennessys administered the affairs of our Australian Colonies and West Indian possessions. (Loud applause.) Have not even the French at last made the same discovery in the person of MacMahon ? (Laughter and applause.) But still we must be generous, and it is right that Scothmen should have a turn. (Laughter.) After all Scotland only got her name because she was conquered by the Irish(great laughter), and if the real truth were known it is probable the house of Inverary owes most of its glory to an Irish original. (Applause.) Nay, I will go a step farther. I would even let the poor Englishman take an occasional turn at the helm, (great laughter),if for no better reason to make him aware how much better we manage the business. (Renewed laughter.) But you have not come to that yet, and though you have been a little spoiled by having been given three Irish Governor Generals in succession I am sure you will find your new viceroy by personal and acquired qualifications will more than counterbalance his ethnological disadvantages. And now gentlemen, I must bid you farewell. Never shall I forget the welcome you extended to me in every town, village and hamlet of Ontario. When I first came amongst you it was in going through your beautiful Province that I first learnt to appreciate and understand the nature and character of your destinies. (Applause.) It was there I first learnt to believe in Canada, and from that day to this my faith has never wavered. Nay, the further I extended my travels through the other Provinces the more deeply my initial impressions were confirmed. But it was amongst your smiling happy hamlets my brightest reminiscences are intertwined. (Great applause.) And what transaction could better illustrate the mighty changes your energies have wrought than the one in which we are at this moment engaged. Standing as we do upon this lofty platform, surrounded by antique and historical fortifications so closely connected with the infant fortunes of the colony, one can't help contrasting the present scene with others of an analogous character, which have been frequently enacted upon this very spot. Often and often have the early Governors of Canada received in Quebec deputies from the very districts from which each of you have come. But in those days the sites now occupied by your prosperous towns, the fields you till, the rose-clad towers and trim lawns where your children sport in peace, were then dense wildernesses of primeval forest. Those who came from thence on any errand here were merciless savages seeking the presence of the Viceroy either to threaten war and vengeance, or at best to proffer a treacherous and uncertain peace. How little could Montmagny, or Tracy, or Vaudreuil, or Frontenac, have ever imagined on such occasions that for the lank, dusky forms of the Iroquois for Ottawa emissaries would one day be substituted the beaming countenances and burly proportions of English-speaking Mayors, Aldermen and Reeves. (Applause.) And now, gentlemen, again good-bye. I cannot tell you how deeply I regret that Lady Dufferin should not be present to share the gratification I have experienced by your presence. (Great applause.) Tell your friends at home how deeply I have been moved by the last and signal proof of their good will ; that their kindness shall never be forgotten, and that as long as I live it will be one of the chief ambitions of my life to render them faithful and effectual service. (Tremendous applause.)

The group was then photographed on the terrace from which the finest views in the district of Quebec is obtained. Lord Dufferin invited the delegates immediately afterwards to partake of light refreshment in his dining room, and then escorted them to the steamboat City, and entertained them with a trip down the river to Montmorency Falls and back, returning to town at 7 p. m. The delegates were accompanied by the three pipers brought with them from Ontario. A few of them returned West by rail this evening, but the majority remain over here till to-morrow.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, SEPT. 9.

THE MASS MEETING.

We hope to see a large attendance at the mass meeting called by Mr. Brown to-night. All shades of opinion ought to be represented, as all are invited. The candidates and some of their prominent supporters will deliver addresses, and we hope to see the best of order preserved.

"Independent" Candidates.

In his reply to a requisition signed by 2,500 electors of his constituency, asking him to be again a candidate for election to the House of Commons, Mr. Alonzo Wright for many years the able representative of the County of Ottawa, Quebec, in the House of Commons, thus happily defines the position of an "independent" candidate :

"In accepting the candidatnre, gentlemen, I cannot too earnestly call your attention to the fact that the Government of the day, having failed to induce anyone to face the electors of the County of Ottawa as a declared supporter, have induced a kindly and genial gentleman to accept a nomination as an "Independent" candidate. You know, electors of Ottawa ! that an "Independent" is usually a man who fights for a losing cause, and only hopes to secure support by deceiving, cajoling and misleading electors. Your intelligence must have taught you this."

Is there not a close parallel between the position of the Government candidates in the County of Ottawa and in West Hastings ?

A Lumberman on the Tariff.

It is stated by the Grits that lumbermen are adverse to a readjustment of the tariff, as a duty on United States corn and oats would be prejudicial to their interests. As is well known, the Hon. Billa Flint favors the National policy. So does Mr. J. M. Currier, of Ottawa, who is extensively engaged in the business, together with many others. Mr. Alonzo Wright, of Ottawa County, now a candidate for re-election to the House of Commons, one of the most extensive operators in Canada in lumber and timber, thus expresses himself on the subject :

"I am in favor of a readjustment of the existing tariff—that is, as you all know, the great issue now dividing the parties in this country.

"I favor a change in the fiscal policy of the Dominion. Under wise fiscal provisions, France, Russia, Germany and the United States have made rapid strides in the race of human progress. Under a wise protective policy other countries have built up and strengthened their infant industries, and I therefore feel that no man who desires to further the welfare of the people, or who desires to promote the general prosperity of our common country should hesitate to cast in his lot with those who have determined to secure a public endorsation of a national policy for Canada ; a policy that will develop our mineral, agricultural, lumbering and industrial pursuits, a policy that will ensure a fair day's pay for a fair day's labor ; a policy that will materially aid us in paying off our national debt and in developing all the resources of our common country."

PROVING TOO MUCH.

According to the Globe's report, Mr. Mackenzie said at the Glengarry Reform demonstration :—

"In 1873-4 there were $10,000,000 worth of cotton goods imported into this country. In 1874 we increased the duties, in order to obtain more revenue, from 15 to 17½ per cent., the result of which was that the importation of cottons declined, and last year we imported very little over three-quarters of the amount we imported in 1873-4. The rest was supplied by the Hochelaga, the Valleyfield, and other cotton mills in the country, and you have been paying them."

Well, does not that illustrate the very principles the application of which the Liberal-Conservatives contend for ! Could there be any stronger evidence of the benefits of protection when judiciously applied than is thus given by an unwilling witness ? If it be true that the increase in the tariff by 2½ per cent. resulted in a gain to Canada of $3,000,000 worth of manufactures in cotton goods, why not try a similar experiment in the case of other industries! But it does not follow that the same measure of protection will apply successfully to industries alike. Cotton may get along very well under a duty of 17½ per cent., yet other articles would not. Each industry requires to be dealt with upon its own merits, in order to secure for it the greatest measure of developement. The Grits can't listen to that, and wish to treat every industry alike. This is the theory of a revenue tariff. It is a crude, indigested, unscientific plan, treating all industries as if they were subjected to the same conditions. But then it is called "Reform," and should not that be enough to satisfy the average Grit ?

At the East Hastings nomination in 1872, Mr. Thomas Holden, in addressing the electors, said : "The first thing that should be done at Ottawa was to put a duty on American produce." See report in Weekly Intelligencer, August 16th, 1872.

Gazetted.—Mr. Jette, late M. P. for East Montreal, has been gazetted Judge of the Superior Court of Quebec in place of Hon. V. P. W. Dorion, deceased.

Conservative Demonstration. — The Conservative demonstration at Amherst Island on the 6th inst., was very largely attended,and was in every respect successful. About two thousand persons were present.

The Orange Prosecution.—A Montreal despatch says :—" The Orange proceedings this morning came to a temporary conclusion, owing to a disagreement between the counsel on the subject of the absence of certain of the accused,who were not present. Several witnesses protested against the unwarrantable delays to which they were subjected."

NORTH HASTINGS.

Splendid Meeting at the Allan Settlement.

A meeting called by Mr. O'Flynn in the Allan Settlement, Madoc township, on Saturday evening, the 7th inst., proved to be a most enthusiastic demonstration for Mr. Bowell. Mr. O'Flynn had hoped, as Mr. Bowell had returned to Belleville, that he would have had the meeting to himself, but some of Mr. Bowell's supporters had telegraphed for Mr. J.W. Johnson, and, in response to the message that gentleman was present, accompanied by a representative of the Intelligencer.

The chair was occupied by John Caskey, Esq., and among other prominent residents of the township present were W. J. Allan, Esq., John McCoy, Esq., Mr. Haven, and others.

Mr. O'Flynn began his speech by relating a pumpkin story and telling very pathetically an unfortunate circumstance that befel a goose, after which he informed the audience he was no orator. He declared himself an independent candidate in one breath and in the next he said "as I am connected with the Government I shall enquire into the charges brought against them." He declared regarding the Steel Rails that it would have been better for the country if the rails hadn't been purchased, but the blame he laid upon the shoulders of Mr. Mackenzie's Engineer. He mentioned the Goderich Harbor Job, but said he wouldn't go into it. He treated the Neebing Hotel very delicately and claimed it was only a small matter. He said of the valuators that fixed the price upon it that one was a Tory and the other a Grit and hence Mr. Mackenzie had done the fair thing. After quoting a great many figures that were incomprehensible to the audience, and which were evidently clear as mud to himself, as he changed millions to thousands and thousands to millions without the least difficulty, he concluded that the present Government is more economical than its predecessor was. He next proceeded to discuss the question of Protection, declaring that it couldn't be understood, and certainly he demonstrated the truth of the proposition so far as he was concerned most effectually. He here pitched into the press of both political parties at a vigorous rate,and declared that he could place no confidence in the newspapers of either side. As he proceeded to speak on protection it was evident he was either free trade or protectionist, with the Government or against it, anything of the kind, if he could only secure votes. He declared that if pork and corn were prohibited from coming into the country it would be an advantage, and immediately after began to read Globe editorials, the opinion of the Times and Economist, and the American poet Bryant that there should be absolute free trade. Mr. O'Flynn concluded with an appeal to the electors, claiming that as a local man he should receive their votes, and asked what Mr. Bowell had done.

Mr. Johnson replied to Mr. O'Flynn in a speech of two hours, in which he took up the various points touched by the latter, after which he went fully into the issues before the country. Mr. O'Flynn's speech reminded him of what is said regarding sailors,—that they have sweethearts in every port, and they were quite happy with one when the other dear charmers were gone. Mr. O'Flynn would be quite contented with either Sir John Macdonald or Mr. Mackenzie, according to his speech, if the electors would only give him a seat in Parliament ; but a candidate who sought their suffrages as the nominee of a party should not be allowed to shirk the responsibilities attached to the acceptance of the nomination by resorting to the independence cry. If elected his course would be just the same as that pursued by professedly independent candidates elected by other ridings in this county—which has been strong support of the Government. The Reform candidates in this county and those who speak for them are aware that protection to native industries is desired by the people of this section, and hence they don't dare to advocate free trade, but say the issue is between a revenue tariff and protection. He (Mr. Johnson) preferred to regard the views enunciated by the responsible leaders of the party as the party's policy and that which they desire to carry out rather than what local Reformers, owing to party exigencies, claim is their policy. We find Mr. Cartwright declaring, "that no other consideration than the bare question of revenue should determine the mode of raising revenue," and that protection is "legalized robbery." Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. George Brown are advocates of free trade, and both belong to the Cobden Club, which exists to propagate free trade doctrines. Mr. Mackenzie at Paisley declared his desire to carry these doctrines out in practice. Last session Mr. Dymond, the editor of the Globe, said : "The motto he proposed to substitute for the word 'Reform,' and around which Reformers should hereafter rally was the word 'Free Trade.' "In the face of these declarations it is absurd for local Reformers to say that their party's policy is not free trade. Mr. O'Flynn had confessed that the steel rails purchase was a mistake, he (Mr. Johnson) was willing that Mr. O'Flynn should choose this horn of the dilemma, but a man that could make a mistake involving a loss of two millions to the country should not be allowed the opportunity of repeating such a blunder. Mr. O'Flynn had mentioned the Goderich harbor job, but immediately dropped the subject. He then showed that Moore,a suporter of Mr. Blake's, was given the contract to deepen the Goderich harbor at $30,000 higher than Tolton tendered at, and that the plea set up that the latter was not a responsible man is disproved by telegrams from the manager of the Merchants Bank at Walkerton to Mr. Mackenzie that he was financially sound. The Neebing Hotel matter, which Mr. O'Flynn treated so lightly, he showed was a part of the Kaministiquia Job, and that gentleman's assertion that disinterested parties were the valuators was shown to be a misstatement, as the valuators were Robert Reid, a bookseller in London, and the other one of the partners in the very firm from which the land was purchased. He next showed how unreliable were Mr. O'Flynn's figures, and proved that the controllable expenditure of the present Government is largely in excess of that of the former. The question of Protection was next discussed by Mr. Johnson and as he went on to prove that it is desirable that a policy of protection that would benefit every Canadian industry, should be carried out, the cheers of the audience indicated that his arguments were convincing. Mr. O'Flynn's own illustrations were used and turned against him. His conclusion Mr. Johnson replied to Mr. O'Flynn's question, what has Mr. Bowell done in Parliament ? in a way that convinced the electors that Mr. Bowell's parliamentary career is one which not only the North Riding of Hastings but the Province of Ontario may be proud. He instanced his many services,and the cheers for Mr. Bowell which followed were sufficient to dismay even a bolder man than his opponent.

Mr. O'Flynn replied to Mr. Johnson. He went back to 1859 to prove that there was a deficit under a Conservative Government, but the audience wouldn't listen to anything referring that year, as it was from 1867, the year of confederation, that they desired to be informed. Mr. O'Flynn made many rash statements, among them that the present Government had done away with the North-West Police force, and finally got so excited that he stated Mr. Mackenzie had brought California into the Dominion.

It now being almost Sunday morning, Mr. O'Flynn proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman, which Mr. Johnson seconded, and which was carried unanimously.

The audience separated after giving three cheers for the Queen, Mr. Bowell, Mr. O'Flynn and Mr. Johnson.

EAST HASTINGS.

Successful Meeting at Canifton in Favor of Mr. White.

A large and influential meeting of the electors of East Hastings was held at the Town Hall, Canifton, on Saturday evening, the 7th inst, in pursuance of the announcement that Mr. Bowell and others would address the electors of East Hastings at Canifton in the interest of Mr. White. Owing to other arrangements Mr. Bowell was not able to be present, but the Hon. L. Wallbridge, G.D. Dickson, Capt. W.C. Nunn, Wm. Johnson, W. J. Diamond, Alderman Sherwood and others, fyled an appearance on behalf of Mr. White, and Mr. J.J. B. Flint represented Mr. Aylsworth.

Mr. James H. Peck, Deputy Reeve of Thurlow, was appointed chairman, and on assuming the chair stated that the objects of the meeting were well known to the electors, and as the Hon. L. Wallbridge, was present in the interest of Mr. White, he would now introduce that Hon. gentleman, and he asked the electors to give the representatives of Mr. White and Mr. Aylsworth a fair and impartial hearing.

Mr. Wallbridge came forward, and was received with applause. He first dwelt for some time on the constitution and formation of our Government, clearly indicating the authority and duty of the electors in establishing and maintaining good government,and declared that the present Government were perfectly imbecile, and were entirely at the mercy and under the influence and control of the Globe newspaper, consequently in practice we at present had no responsible Government. It was the Globe newspaper that ruled the destinies of Canada. Even the Hon. E. Blake became so enraged at the paper that he started another Reform paper, and spent some $5,000, but the Globe killed the Liberal, and whipped Mr. Blake into the political traces ; but eventually he became so thoroughly disgusted that he resigned his portfolio as Minister of Justice, and finally resigned his seat in the Cabinet altogether. It was said he was ill,and probably he was sick of such base and unparalleled corruption. Mr. Wallbridge next took up the subject of Protection, and showed conclusively that the present Government were working in the interest of the United States, and what Canada needed was a readjustment of our tariff, so our manufacturers might be able to re-open business, which would give employment to the unemployed. The hon. gentleman was listened to very attentively, and concluded a speech of one hour and three quarters, amid rounds of applause.

The Chairman introduced Mr. J. J. B. Flint and asked that he receive a patient hearing.

Mr. Flint on coming forward, said he appeared in the interest of Mr. Aylsworth, and proceeded to charge the Hon. L. Wallbridge with changing his politics. He asserted that he himself had supported Mr. White on a former occasion, which proved conclusively that Mr. Flint was himself inconsistent, as Mr. White had not changed his political creed. Mr. Flint told the electors that we were a happy and prosperous people, but this statement could be contradicted by every elector present. Mr. Flint said very little in favor of Mr. Aylsworth, whom he came to support. His whole argument was in favor of the United States, and against Canada, and if he had been employed as counsel for the United States he could not have done better for that country than he did. The electors became dissatisfied with his arguments, and contradicted his statements. Mr. Flint therefore saw that it was about time to thank the electors for the patient hearing he received and he retired.

Mr. W. C. Nunn, was next introduced by the Chairman, and showed conclusively by the manner in which he handled the subject of Free Trade and Protection, that it was not all theory with him. He contended that all our railroad cars, car wheels,steel rails, and locomotive engines,should be made in Canada, by which millions of dollars would remain in Canada that were now by the Free Trade policy of the present Government, thrown into the hands of the United States, to build up that country at the expense of Canada. Mr. Nunn was frequently applauded during his address. He said he would not detain them longer, as it was so late, and resume of his seat amid applause.

Mr. G. D. Dickson was next introduced. He said that as it was so late he would not detain them more than ten minutes, and he at once proceeded to show up the fallacies of the arguments of Mr. Flint, which he did in a very eloquent manner. Mr. Dickson, received a very attentive hearing, and had it not been Saturday evening he would have spoken much longer. He concluded his address a few minutes before 12 o'clock.

Three cheers were given for the Queen, Sir John, and the candidates.

Grand Conservative Demonstration. —Sir John A. Macdonald addressed a meeting at which 10,000 people attended at Montreal on Saturday evening. Some Grit rowdies attempted to create a disturbance, but their voices were drowned by counter cheers. The meeting was an immense success and shows that the city is safe for the Opposition candidates.

The Southern Plague.—It is stated that 27,000 workingmen, representing a population of 108,000, have been rendered destitute by the plague in the South. An earnest appeal is made in their behalf. Nurses are paid $10 per day at Memphis, and yet it is impossible to get enough to care for the sick. There are not enough men available to bury the dead. It is proposed to fumigate the whole city, and also to try the "concussion" expedient. There are 2,500 people sick from fever in Vicksburg.

HEAVY BARLEY.—Mr. Samuel Fisher, of Hungerford, sold one hundred bushels of barley to Messrs. Corby & Sons, which averages 52 lbs. to the bushel.

PRETTY HEAVY.—The License Commissioners of Prince Edward County have demanded from the County Council $2,673.86, being two-thirds of the amount of expenses in working the Temperance Act.

NAPANEE GAS WORKS.—The Beaver says that at the postponed sale of the Napanee Gas Works on Thursday last, the entire concern was knocked down to Judge Day, of Montreal, for the seemingly small sum of $5,300.

GRAIN NOTE.—The steamer Kincardine left here on Saturday evening with 8,000 bushels of No. 1 barley, which was loaded at Lee & Vandervoort's for C. E. Hall & Co., and forwarded to Oswego. This is the second cargo forwarded from this port this season.

THE NOMINATIONS.—The nomination of candidates for the House of Commons will take place to-morrow, between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock. That for West Hastings will take place at the City Hall, Belleville; for East Hastings at the Agricultural Hall, Roslin; and for North Hastings at the Town Hall, Madoc Village.

A GUN ACCIDENT.—The Picton Gazette says: "On Saturday morning last, as Mr. Wm. Gordon was in the act of putting the covering over his gun, the hammer was caught in such a way as to cause a discharge of the same. A portion of the contents entered one of Mrs. Gordon's limbs and came very nearly striking an infant in the cradle. She will, in a short time, recover from the effects of the same."

For sleeplessness, with cold extremities SANDFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER.

OBITUARY.—Died at his brother's residence in Hungerford on August 26th, Mr. William Stokes, in the 37th year of his age. Stokes was very widely known in this part of the country, and we believe that with every acquaintance he was a friend; so kind and obliging in disposition, he could only be known to be esteemed. Six years ago he became allured by enticing stories, from a happy and comfortable home to try his luck in Uncle Sam's green but malignant fields; he went to Michigan, where he soon obtained a lucrative situation as bookkeeper in a lumber yard, which situation he filled for over five years, with credit to himself and satisfaction to his employer. Last April he was taken with one of those deadly fevers which infest that unhealthy region, which, after a long illness of twelve weeks culminated in that fatal disease consumption. He was then taken by his employer to his brother-in-law's and sister's residence in Detroit, where his mother met him and brought him home in July last, to die in the old home and among his friends. He was visited by all his numerous friends and relatives before he died, all expressing their heartfelt sympathy with him, while he was glad to see them all. He bore his long illness with great resignation and calmness and expressed himself reconciled to his fate.

DROWNED IN THE MOIRA.

THE BODY OF EDWARD MCGURN FOUND FLOATING IN THE RIVER.

A MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

Shortly after the noon hour yesterday, Frederick Gokey went out on Lazier's dam a short distance, in order to get perfectly clear water in which to bathe one of his fingers, on which there is a bone felon. He accomplished his object and remained on the dam for a few minutes, but was startled to see floating towards him the corpse of a drowned man. The body floated face downward, and only a part of the hair was visible above the surface of the water. Recovering from his fright, Gokey secured the body, which had nearly reached the edge of the dam, and it was hauled to the shore and taken out of the water. It was at once seen that life could not have been extinct for many days, as there was no sign whatever of decay. Constable Downs was summoned and had the body conveyed to the City building, where it was viewed by many people and recognized as that of Edward McGurn, a man of from 55 to 60 years of age, who had lived a short distance above the railroad bridge. Coroner Dr. Farley was notified, a jury was summoned, and an inquest was begun on the remains. It was shown that deceased had lived entirely alone in a small house on the west side of the river, a little distance north of the railroad bridge, where he had purchased a plot of ground which he cultivated as a garden. On Friday morning he had visited Richard Malee's, on the east side of the river, on Bleecker Street, and had there disposed of some small articles of garden produce, leaving for home at about 7 o'clock. Hence it is supposed that in re-crossing the railroad bridge, he had fallen into the water. It having been stated that some persons had said that deceased had been seen by them on Saturday morning, and it having been deemed advisable that a post-mortem examination of the body should be held, the inquest was adjourned for those purposes, and will meet again this evening. The examination was held by Drs. Burdett and Murphy, and its result will be given to the jury to-night.

Deceased was an industrious man, who had resided in this County for many years. He was a widower, and leaves a family of grown up sons and daughters.

M. E. General Conference.

LAST DAY.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 7.

The ladies of the congregation gave a tea last night in the basement of the Tabernacle to the General Conference and the kind friends who have so hospitably entertained its members. The tables were abundantly and richly supplied with good things, to which ample justice was done by the large number present. After tea there was an adjournment to the audience room of the Church, when brief addresses were given by Revds. Card, Gardiner, Burdett and Campbell and Prof. Wright, which were interspersed with vocal and instrumental music. The voluntaries on the organ rendered by Miss Avery, of Syracuse, the recently appointed music teacher in Alexandria, were very fine, and altogether the affair was most enjoyable.

Conference met this morning at nine o'clock, the religious services being conducted by Rev. J. T. Davies.

On reports being called for by the Bishop, the Committee on Obituaries presented theirs, embodying a brief memoir of the lamented Bishop Richardson.

Rev. G. Miller conducted the devotional exercises.

It was ordered that the Missionary Board be composed of thirteen members, consisiting of the presiding Bishop, nine ministers, three from each annual Conference, and three laymen to be appointed by the General Conference. A change of time in holding the annual meeting was made, fixing it for the 1st of June, instead of the 1st of March, as formerly. The Board was filled up as follows:—J. Gardiner, Vice-President; Dr. Stone, Treasurer; T. Argue, Secretary; E. Lounsbury, W. Firritte, A. D. Traveller, W. G. Brown, Geo. Abbs, J. Young; laymen, G. H. Kennedy, W. Moril, and J. C. Huffman.

Conference then adjourned to meet at two o'clock. The benediction was given by Dr. Aylsworth.

Several reports were adopted.

On calling the roll it was ascertained that a number of delegates had already left the seat of the Conference.

It was ordered that the next Conference be held in the new Methodist Episcopal Church in the city of Hamilton.

The Bishop called for nominations for lay members of the Book Committee, which resulted in the election of G. R. Sheppard, A. Hardy, D. Graham and Geo. Arcy, corresponding secretary of the Church Extension Society.

Other matters were disposed of, the usual resolutions conveying the hearty thanks of the Conference to the friends of Belleville for their hospitality, and to the railroad Companies for allowing its members to travel at reduced rates, and the Session was brought to a close.

SECOND GENERAL CONFERENCE.

(From the Montreal Star.)

SIXTH DAY.

The Conference continued its labors this morning at the usual hour, Rev. Dr. Douglas in the chair.

A large number of additional Committees were appointed.

A memorial from Toronto Conference relating to a proposed change of the Christian Guardian from an 8 to a 16 page paper, &c., was referred to the Publishing Committee.

It was moved to leave the reading of the Stations to the last day of the sitting of the session, but objection was made, because that would allow no time for receiving the report of the Contingent Fund, which had to be received before the said reading of Stations.

Another interminable discussion followed this proposition, which was finally voted down on an amendment.

The Committee on Discipline submitted a memorial asking for a definition of the law regarding the length of time a minister should be absent from his circuit before returing to it.

The Committee was of opinion that it was not expedient to recommend any action in the Constitution.

It was moved by Rev. Mr. Gray that the matter be recommitted to the Committee with instructions to reconsider with a view to fixing the law on the subject.

Rev. Mr. Henderson moved in amendment that a minister should not be eligible to return till after an absence of six years.

Dr. Rice moved in amendment to the amendment that the lapse of time allowed to run before a minister could return to his circuit be within an interval of three years.

The resignation of a veteran missionary, the Rev. Enoch Wood, was read. It was left over until next Monday for consideration.

Before adjourning the announcement was made that it was decided to have a picture of the Conference sitting in session taken by Notman.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

GRENADA, Miss., 9.—A number of patients in the Chamberlain House are convalescing rapidly. We are almost without communication otherwise than telegraphic. The mails are irregular as the Postmaster is dead. The Mayor died weeks ago. The illness of the express agent will prove a great calamity unless his place be supplied.

Specials state that Bishop Leroy, Catholic, has arrived at Vicksburg, to relieve Bishop Elder, who is dying. At New Orleans, of the 77 dead on Saturday, 28 of them were children under 12 years. Such mortality among children was never known before.

A number of prominent ladies publish notice to reduced gentlewomen that they will be privately assisted on application. In one Orphan Asylum there are 57 sick, and 23 sick in another.

NEW YORK, 9.—Saturday's contributions for the fever sufferers amounted to $15,000, making a total of $150,000.

Rev. Mr. Vosburg, recently accused of wife murder, yesterday resigned his pastorate in Jersey City.

On Saturday night two tramps dying of fever were found on the street. Much uneasiness is felt lest the fever takes a new start to-day. If it does not it is hoped the climax has been reached. The general opinion is that the maximum of deaths will not be reached before the 15th inst., and will then be double what it now is. Suffering among the lower classes beggars description. In one hovel 13 huddled together, five raving with the fever and the rest idly waiting their turn.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.—Interest in the Russian cruisers is revived by news that the Cymbria, with sailors, will arrive next week.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—Yesterday a train on the Boston & Albany Railroad near Wellesly, cut off the legs of an unknown man, who it is thought had been murdered, robbed and placed upon the track.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Arrived out, the Baltic and Alsatia from New York.

CHATTANOGA, Tenn., Sept. 9.—A bricklayer named Griffin, from Memphis, died on Friday from the fever, being the second case reported this season. Not another case in this city.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—The name of the woman murdered and drowned on Tuesday is still unknown, as Mrs. Annie Curtis, supposed to have been the deceased, has been found alive.

BERLIN, Sept. 9.—The Reichstag, which meets to-day, will be pretty full at the opening. Herr Forkenbeck will probably be re-elected President with two Conservative Vice Presidents. The Ultramontanes have not succeeded in forming any combination. No attention will be paid to their claims.

PARIS, Sept. 9.—The rumor that Krantz, Director General of the Exposition, has resigned is denied.

A grand fete is being held at Bolougne-sur-mer to-day in honor of the passage of the law appropriating 17,000,000 francs for the construction of a deep sea harbor at that place.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 9.—Eight nurses left for Memphis this morning.

BERLIN, Sept. 9.—The speech from the Throne was read at the opening of the Reichstag to-day. The Emperor expresses the hope that the Anti-Socialists Bill will be adopted. The spread of the pernicious Socialist movement is arrested, and those who have been misled by it will be brought back to the right path.

GLASGOW, Sept. 9.—Arrived, the State of Georgia from New York.

VIENNA, Sept. 9.—The occupation of Trebringe by the Austrians has given the coup de grace to the insurrection in Herzegovina. The Turks have commenced to dismantle the fortifications of Podgorvitzta, preliminary to surrender to the Montenegrins.

BERLIN, Sept. 9.—The German Government recently sent circulars to signatories of the Treaty of Berlin, asking them to take common steps with a view to bringing the Porte to execute the stipulations of the treaty. Austria, France and Russia replied affirmatively. Italy and England will doubtless reply affimatively soon.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The Graphic says the order of Secretary Sherman to begin on 11.90th exchange of standard dollars for legal tenders, is considered on Wall Street as a virtual redemption of legal tenders in gold, as the silver reserved will take the place of gold in payment to the treasurer; the premium on gold will therefore probably disappear entirely before the 20th inst.

OXFORD, N. J., Sept. 9.—The liabilities of the Oxford Iron Co'y will not exceed $1,000,000, of which $200,000 is due the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 9.—New cases, 144; deaths, 87.

—The grain crop of Cape Breton is said to be one of the finest harvested for years.

—The Rinderpest is spreading in Roumania, and the authorities are doing nothing to check it.

—The Hon. Mr. Tilley has sufficiently recovered from the effects of his recent accident to leave the house.

—Stormy weather has been experienced of late at the Magdalen Islands, and little has been done by the fishermen.

—Henry M. Stanley still suffers from his African fever, and at times despairs of getting rid of them.

—A stage was captured by Indians on Friday near Birch Creek Station, Idaho. The mail and everything else was burned. The driver escaped.

—An artesian well 3,350 feet deep has been bored in Pesth, Hungary. It is the deepest in the world, being nearly twice the depth of that in Paris. It sends up a jet of nearly boiling water forty-two feet high.

—Westward ho! seems to be the watchword of the great squirrel host. To accomplish this they swim rivers and lakes, and great numbers yield up their lives to the treacherous waters, their bodies being washed to the shores. "Lo, the poor Indian," predicts from this strange emigration a hard winter.

—The consumption of coal in London is steadily augmenting, both in arithmetical and in geometrical ratio. Thus in 1681 the consumption was within 200,000 tons; in 1851 it increased to 3,500,000 tons, in 1861 to 5,073,275 tons, and in 1877 to 9,000,700 tons. For manufacturing purposes alone 1,500,000 tons are used up annually in the huge city.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Sept. 9.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region, increasing southerly to easterly winds, and increased cloudiness and rain. For the St. Lawrence, increasing southeasterly to northeasterly winds and partly cloudy to cloudy weather with rain to-morrow. For the Maritime Provinces, moderate to fresh winds, and partly cloudy weather; cautionary storm signals have been ordered up for all lake stations.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Indications:—clear or partly cloudy, cold veering to warmer winds.

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and labored breathing, the demulcent properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime manifest itself in its healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided reasserts herself, and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health.

Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00.

BANK NOTE BOOKS

FOR any Bank, in different sizes, for sale at the INTELLIGENCER Office

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with large, Town and Township maps, of each street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. As abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. In addition to map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Milton.

While this greatly increases the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to connect more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURGH, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half-page, $6.00; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

Hints for September Work.

(From the American Agriculturist for September.)

WHEAT AND RYE.—Sowing the fall crop is the principal work for this month. It is useless to expect a good harvest unless the sowing of the seed is well done. There are several points to be studied.

THE FITTING OF THE SOIL is of the greatest importance. Wheat requires a fine mellow soil for the seed, and a light soil to be well compacted about the sowed grains. If any vacancies are left, as would be were the soil cloddy, the rootlets being exposed to air, will dry and perish. Therefore, after plowing, cultivate, or harrow repeatedly until all the clods are made fine.

THE SURFACE SOIL may be lumpy and somewhat rough, but the lumps should not be so large as to prevent the spires of wheat reaching the surface.

THE ROLLER should be used immediately after the plow to break up the lumps; then the cultivator and harrow will finish the work. This is the proper use of the roller. Its misuse is to roll the ground after the seed has been sown, thus leaving the surface packed down close and solid, in which state it will crust over after the first showers.

AN OAT OR BARLEY STUBBLE should be well cultivated to destroy the sprouted seed which has been shelled in harvesting. We have heard it said that this volunteer growth protects the sown crop, which is a great mistake: it is really weeds, and crowds the young wheat or rye, prevents it from occupying the ground, and seriously injures it.

THE YOUNG PLANTS SHOULD BE WELL FED.—A plant will fall unless it has plenty of the right kind of food, and in such a condition as to be readily absorbed, digested, and assimilated. Thoroughly decomposed stable manure furnishes much food, and is a good stand-by for the entire growth of the crop. Properly prepared fertilizers—rich in nitrate (containing nitrogen) of potash or soda, and especially in soluble phosphoric acid, which is known to have a remarkable effect on the development of the young rootlets—may be used with safety and comparatively certainly.

THE HESSIAN FLY has done much damage, especially to barley. The spring brood seems to have been the most injurious. Late sowing, that is after the 10th to the 15th of September, will tend to prevent the effective deposit of eggs, and thus greatly lessen the number and vigor of the spring brood. Although by forcing the early sown wheat to a strong growth, it can be secured against the fly, yet we thereby furnish breeding places for insects whose progeny will attack the oats, barley, and wheat next spring.

SELECTING SEED.—When it is inconvenient to attend to the selection of good seed, it is profitable to pay double or treble the market price for grain to a farmer who will take pains to grow nice, clean seed of the best varieties, than for a farmer to go to his own bin and take the seed as it comes, good and poor, with many foul seeds in it. A farmer who sows poor seed may save a dollar per acre, but he will lose ten for every one saved.

HARROWING DISTURBS THE HESSIAN FLY.—Doubtless this is because the wheat is pushed forward by the stirring of the soil, and many maggots are certainly destroyed.

STEEPING THE SEED.—For at least the partial prevention of rust and smut in wheat the seed should be steeped in a strong solution of common salt, or in a solution of 4 ounces of sulphate of copper (blue vitriol, or copperas) in a gallon of water, for one hour. The seed is then drained and sprinkled with dry lime, when it may be sown immediately.

CULTIVATING THE FALL-SOWN CROPS.—It will be found decidedly beneficial to use a sloping-tooth harrow soon after sowing, and before the spire shows above ground, and again as soon as it has become well rooted. A harrow of this kind was described in the American Agriculturist for August. After having tested this harrow, we find it to do excellent work, however, when used with straight teeth. It is light and passes easily over the loose ground, disturbing only the surface and killing only the shallow-rooted weeds, leaving the wheat uninjured. The loosening of the soil benefits the wheat, and prepares the ground for the timothy seed.

Seeding Fall Wheat.

There are special reasons why farmers should be more than generally cautious about the seeding of their fall wheat this year. The experience of the past season has proved our anticipation of the spread of the Hessian fly to have been correct. We doubt if the crop in a single county in Ontario altogether escaped injury. The unusual vigor of the plant, however, enabled the crop to recover in a great measure from the injury inflicted. What the situation would have been if the season had only been an average one is more than we can guess. There is no reason why the Hessian fly should be allowed to assume the dimensions of a national plague, as it threatens to do. No insect is so easily annihilated. All that is necessary is late sowing in the district where it is known to exist. But this late sowing must be done in concert. It will be useless for nineteen farmers to sow late and thereby incur the danger of attacks of rust, if a twentieth obstinate man persists in putting in his wheat early, and thus furnishing young plants on which the Hessian fly may lay the eggs. Though the insects are so delicately framed, and in their wings form are so short-lived as to be incapable of migrations, but still they are easily able to travel a few miles, and it is useless to expect that a wheat field can be concealed from them.

For the last dozen years there has been an increasing tendency towards early sowing of fall wheat. Many farmers now strive to get their seed in before the end of August, and many more during the first week of September. This is the exact conditions necessary for the perpetuation of the Hessian fly. That insect, as it comes from the chrysalis, finds the young wheat above ground in just the stage of growth to receive eggs, furnish food for the larvae, and allow them to get into the chrysalis form again before the advent of severe frost. Now, if the sowing be delayed till after the middle of September, and the season thereafter should be of the normal character, frost will catch either the mature insect, or the larvae and, in either of those stages is fatal to them. These eggs which, in the absence of wheat, have been laid upon native grasses allied to the cereals, may be left to furnish food for the parasites which prey upon the Hessians.

Another but a less effectual way of fighting the Hessians is to pasture sheep repeatedly upon the growing wheat, and never allowing the surface of the field to remain green for more than a week.

Of late years another wheat pest of a somewhat similar nature to the Hessian fly is increasing unpleasantly. It is the joint-worm, Isosoma hordei. It is less formidable than the Hessian fly in that it has but one brood in a year. The perfect insect appears in June and lays its eggs in the growing straw near the first or second joint. A tiny, footless maggot, about an eighth of an inch long, and of a pale yellow color, is the result. This feeds upon the sap of the plant, and deprives the grain of nutriment. Infested stalks may be known by the swollen joints. The insect continues in the larval or grub stage all winter, in which it differs from the Hessian fly. In the spring it goes into the chrysalis form and emerges from it in June, when the egg-laying goes on as before. There is but one remedy against the joint-worm, and that is to burn all the straw of the infested field.—Globe.

LIVER IS KING.

The Liver is the imperial organ of the whole human system, as it controls the life, health and happiness of man. When it is disturbed in its proper action, all kinds of ailments are the natural result. The digestion of food, the movements of the heart and blood, the action of the brain and nervous system, are all immediately connected with the workings of the Liver. It has been successfully proved that Green's August Flower is unequalled in curing all persons afflicted with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint, and all the numerous symptoms that result from an unhealthy condition of the Liver and Stomach. Sample bottles to try, 10 cents. Positively sold in all towns on the Western Continent. Three doses will prove that it is just what you want. Sold by all Druggists in America.

A Slight Cough that we are so apt to consider a mere nuisance and treat with corresponding neglect, too often proves to be the seed sown for an inevitable harvest—CONSUMPTION. Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. A teaspoonful of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto Phosphate of Lime given whenever the Cough is troublesome, will afford immediate relief, and if perseverred in will effect a cure even in the most obstinate cases.

Prepared solely by J. H. ROBINSON, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six for $5.00. d&w-1m

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly, "Deny it who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Sore Throat, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.

The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person no matter what it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get gratuitous proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price, 25 cents per Bottle.

The Trade supplied through the Wholesale Drug and Patent Medicine Houses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

Daily Intelligencer.

A TOUR IN THE NORTH.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer,

DEAR SIR,—We left your City one fine morning for a tour back north, and as we proceeded on our journey, saw nothing very particular until coming to that hill overlooking the thriving village of Madoc. The first thing that attracted attention was the beautiful building for the Model School, which is a very great credit to the people of the village, as well as to the contractors, Messrs. Northcott & Alford, of your city. Proceeding into the village, fine brick buildings were noticed as business places and private residences. Then we came to our stopping place, which happened to be Mr. Simmons's, and found him to be a very obliging host, and keeping a very good house.

Then we started from Madoc for the Hastings Road; proceeding onward, the farmers were seen to be very busy getting in their grain crops. At Bannockburn there was seen quite a large building, and well built, but there looked to be something wanting,—so on enquiry it was found that the inside had been taken out, as there was not any gold to crush, it having been used as a crushing-mill. There was nothing very interesting thence to Millbridge, with the exception of the rough road. At Millbridge we put up at Mr. Golding's, and found him a very accommodating landlord, both for man and beast.

On reaching what is called Snow's road, gangs of men were repairing the road under the supervision of the Hon. B. Flint, and found it quite a help. But $400 is not enough to repair fourteen miles of road such as this is. The county might be a little more liberal with their poorer neighbors, but the money has been well spent on the road. Arriving at McGuire's we fed our team and ourselves, and found it to be a very clean nice place, poor looking outside but very much different inside.

After leaving McGuire's we soon came to where gangs of men were repairing the Hastings road, and were informed that the Government were laying out $1,500 on this road. Mr. Kavanagh, the Reeve of Dungannon and Faraday, is managing the work and the money, and we believe he is putting the money on the road and making good use of it. Be that as it may, where the repairs had been done we could travel three miles to one, and a great deal easier to man and beast. It surprised us to see what man can do on such a place as that with so small an amount as $1,500. They ought to have more, but it is an exceptionally good job. After traveling eight or ten miles of this road, there began to be a better class of settler out from those lands which would make them good homes and good livings, for they must have good nerve to face it. But it would be better if the Government were a little more liberal with their money (where it is wanted) and intrust it with men who are interested in the road.

Then we got to L'Amable, where Mr. Jarman has a saw and grist mill, and some lady keeps a store. The Post Office is kept there, also the Agencies for Government lands. There we went off the road into the woods and found some large farms all cleared and well cultivated and good crops.

At one farmers they told us he had 300 bushels of wheat, 250 bushels of oats, 50 bushels of rye, 300 bushels of peas and from 15 to 20 tons of hay, and there are others that have quite as much on their farms. Proceeding onward, we found that most of the settlers were doing well. Their potatoes are of the best quality. There is another crop that we did not know about, namely millet, which almost every farmer has growing. It looks very fine, and makes a great yield. One man stated that he had one and a half acres sown and that he judged he would have one hundred bushels off it. We found that those that would work were doing well and were comfortable and that peace and plenty reigned around. The howling of the wolves was heard, but anything more dangerous than a garter snake was seen. After spending a week or two amongst the settlers, we started for the road again and came to a place called the Branch (York Branch.) There we found a grist mill with two run of stones which is under the charge of a miller and will be running by the middle of the week. A saw mill is in operation, to which a new addition is to be put with a circular saw in it. A new blacksmith shop is in course of erection and a carding mill is in contemplation, so that it is intended to be quite a manufacturing place; a store is kept here also, where everything can be had for money, and here again we heard of the Hon. B. Flint, he being the proprietor. We would have liked to have seen him there as we heard of such a man that when he came the very tea fell down from 25 to 30 cents a pound, sugar from 5 to 7 cents, calicoes and prints 6 or 7 cents per yard, shirts one dollar to one fifty a barrel, all for cash, and we were told this man even brought the mails up to time, so that you may not wonder why we should have liked to have seen him there, and the settlers like to see him too. There is a first-class water privilege and almost natural dam.

We saw a very beautiful flower garden well filled with choice flowers, the fragrance ascending abroad and perfuming the air. Canoes made by the Indians with very much taste and skill were also viewed with interest, and we were shown one that had capsized two ministers, and the people think they had not better try it again but follow their ministerial duties. In the mill were a great many oats stored, and some other grains ready for grinding. All seems to be for the good of the settler.

The people told us they were going to have an election that way very soon, and that one Mr. Bowell of your city was running as the Conservative candidate and Mr. O'Flynn as the Reform candidate. The prospects as far as we could see, is very bright for the Conservative candidate. The people think he is smart and honest, and is capable of helping them with their roads. If he can help them in that way, then we would say with them ten times, "More power to your elbow," for roads are what are most wanted by the people.

Political Notes.

ANOMALOUS.

The men who have enormously increased the expenditure of the Government call their opponents Taxationists; the allies of the Manchester School, whose avowed objects is to cut adrift the colonies, call the opponents disloyal, and thus does a certain party assert its claim to the title of the organized hypocrisy.—National.

GROWING RECKLESS.

They grow more reckless as their doom draws near; Mr. Cartwright now asserts that Canada has been more prosperous for the last four years than ever before.

WHICH IS TRUE?

The Napanee Express says Canada exports more wool than she imports. And Mr. Mills says we import double as much as we export. Who are we to believe?

DON'T UNDERSTAND THEIR OWN "POLICY."

The Rev. Alfred J. Bray writes as follows in the Montreal Spectator, of which he is the editor:—"The Premier and his seconds are stumping the country in order to offer the people a continuance of political and economical salvation. To say that the thing is not well defined in their speeches, is to speak simple truth. But how can it be otherwise? The matter is not clear of their minds, so how can it be in their speech? They are not Free Traders, as that is understood in England, for they have put on the tariff here and a duty there, and in other instances have taken them off—sometimes, as it seems to many, especially to those who have lost trade by it, not very wisely. Still, the Liberals have a policy—it is to get in."

CAUSE AND EFFECT.

In the year 1876 the so-called "Reform" Government expended nearly half a million dollars bringing emigrants into Canada. In the same year 21,000 CANADIANS LEFT THE COUNTRY OF THEIR NATIVITY AND WENT TO THE UNITED STATES in order to gain the livelihood denied them at home, and it is estimated that last year the number thus expatriated was largely in excess of that number. At the time of the last census there was no less than 487,000 CANADIAN-BORN RESIDENTS IN THE STATES. The cause of this exodus was the lack of protection to our home industries, which have been ruined thereby and their prospectors in many cases, and in nearly all cases two-thirds of their operatives, driven into exile.

It was a terrible thing according to the Globe, for Senator D. L. Macpherson to discuss politics in the old Saugeen Division, which he represents, but it is all right for Senator George Brown to go up to the county of Victoria—with which he never had any connection whatever—and speak on politics. The great sin probably of the Saugeen Senator is that he discusses the live issues of the day, while the Bons of the Pairty of purity discusses the questions which were before our fathers and grand fathers twenty and thirty years ago. The great and good man seems to live entirely in the past. His speech at Oakwood, South Victoria, would probably have made a pretty good effect fifteen years ago, but the present age is not, and we are afraid that such about Van Winkleism as he trots out.

The American Cultivator, (Boston) says:—"A Clarenceville man thought he could sell his potatoes to a better advantage in Vermont than on his side of the line; so he took a load to Alburgh, and sold 100 bushels for $25. When he got home, after paying United States duties, and charges, he had $8 of his $25, or 8 cents per bushel, just about enough to pay for the cartage. American produce is admitted into Canada free, but Canada has to pay a duty of about 66 per cent. on all they send to the States."

We are often pointed to Great Britain as a Free Trade country. But was she never under protective conditions? Above all other countries she strictly protected herself even so far as to prevent the exportation of improved machinery, lest rival nations might be placed in a condition to do her trade injury. Sir Robert Peel himself, at the time of the passage of the Corn laws, said "I do not intend to remove all the duties that are protective; nay, to the contrary, I intend some to remain that are strictly protective in their character."

In reply to the Finance Minister's pretensions that Protection encourages monopolies and enriches a few only at the expense of the masses, there need only be cited the Premier's admission at St. John, N.B., that the average dividend paid by the factories in the United States was not over four per cent. Where is the monopoly, and to what extent have the few been enriched at the expense of the many?

Is it anything in the empty pot of the hungry workingman to be told that he is starving according to the principles of Bastiat?

To prove his consistency and firm adhesion to the old Grit principle of complete separation between the Dominion and Provincial Governments, Mr. Pardee has called public meetings in Mr. Mackenzie's interest in the Township of Moore. Are the Sitvationists becoming nervous about their banner township in the constituency of Lambton?

The Mail says:—"As sure as we are of anything human we are sure that the general election is going to reverse the state of parties in the Dominion, and we base this certainty on assurance on the testimony of shrewd men and experienced politicians in every province of the Confederation, as well as our own observation."

A COMPARISON.

The Montreal Evening Post (Independent) says:—"The condition of England and Canada are as much asunder as the Poles. England had made her manufactures may be cheaper to pay eight dollars for your beaver, than in bad times, it might be to pay four dollars for the same article. So to pay four dollars for the same article. All over the world famine prices mean good times, low prices mean bad times. Five years ago it was cheaper to pay $500 for a dwelling house than it is to day to pay $300 for it. High prices should alarm no one; on the contrary, they indicate prosperity, and that is what we all are aiming at.

[illegible] 188 INTELLIGENCER Office

THE COMING STRUGGLE.

Our Battle Cry: "Protection to Home Industries."

The Opposition Policy.

The commercial policy of the Opposition is represented in the following resolution moved by Sir John Macdonald in the House of Commons :—

"That this House is of opinion that the welfare of Canada requires the adoption of a National Policy, which by a judicious readjustment of the Tariff will benefit and foster the Agricultural, the Mining, the Manufacturing and other interests of the Dominion; that such a policy will retain in Canada thousands of our fellow-countrymen, now obliged to expatriate themselves in search of employment denied them at home; will restore prosperity to our struggling industries, now so sadly depressed; will prevent Canada from being made a sacrifice market; will encourage and develop an active interprovincial trade; and moving (as it ought to do) in the direction of the reciprocity of Tariffs with our neighbors, so far as the varied interests of Canada may demand, will greatly tend to procure for this Country, eventually, a reciprocity of Trade."

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, SEPT. 10.

MEETING TO-NIGHT.

A general meeting of Mr. Wallbridge's Committees—Central and Ward—will be held to-night at the usual hour. A full attendance is requested.

VOLUNTEERS WANTED.

All who intend to volunteer the use of their horses and vehicles for service on election day are requested to leave their names with the Secretary of Mr. Wallbridge's Central Committee at the meeting this evening. We repeat, for general information, that the law does not allow the hiring of horses and vehicles for the conveyance of voters to or from the polls.

A CONTRADICTION.

In its last night's issue, Mr. Brown's organ appeals to its readers to support him as an opponent of the National Policy. A few hours later, Mr. Brown gave the lie to his mendacious puffer by stating that he is and will remain a Protectionist, and will support that policy irrespective of any Government. It was mean of the organ to slander Mr. Brown by asserting that he had deserted the one principle to which he has clung (except in the case of barley, oats, and coarse grains); but Col. Brown has had his revenge. Still, Mr. Brown's contradiction will not prevent the slanders being repeated in the weekly edition of the organ of the party whose mandate is as daggers drawn with them on the most important issue before the country. Mr. Brown needs sadly to be saved from his friends.

What a "Liberal Catholic" Thinks of the Government.

Mr. John O'Donohoe, of Toronto, was the originator of the Catholic League. He was elected to Parliament for East Toronto, but on being unseated he was defeated, the second election taking place under the ballot. Mr. O'Donohoe now becomes disgusted with the party which he formerly supported, just as Mr. J. L. P. O'Hanly, of Ottawa, and others of his fellow-Liberal compatriots have become, and at a meeting of Liberal Catholics, held in Toronto recently, he moved a series of resolutions containing a powerful indictment of the Government. The third and last of these resolutions is as follows :—

"And whereas, after five years trial, with the most ample opportunity of giving effect to the professions and proving their own sincerity, backed by a majority in the House of Commons, unexampled in the Parliamentary history of this country, all the principles, professions and promises of the Reform party have either been broken, forgotten or broken a coalition taking the place of pure party Government, the independence of Parliament violated, members contracting with Government, wide spread corruption of members of Parliament, which required a white-washing Act to shield the delinquents; members from the first Government Province tempted by several Government; the Speaker, a Minister of the Crown, and several other members compelled to vacate their seats, while others, fearing the ordeal, absented themselves for a whole session; control of Parliament set at naught in giving contracts without being submitted for its approval; moneys expended without being appropriated; the cost of administration in every department of the public services increased notwithstanding the cry for economy of the people and an unusually severe commercial depression; pledges of retrenchment disregarded; and while pretending to be the custodians of popular liberty defending the violation of the principles of responsible Government by sustaining the Lieut-Governor of Quebec in dismissing a Ministry possessing the confidence of the people's representatives."

"It therefore resolved that the Mackenzie Administration has, in the opinion of this meeting, forfeited the confidence reposed in it in 1874; that it is justly chargeable with much of the distress to-day prevailing in the country, that any further lease of power would augment the destruction brought on by incapacity and extravagance, and that it is the duty of the electorate, irrespective of party bias to unite in displacing a Government whose record is made of broken pledges, abnegation of principles and unblushing hypocrisy."

CAMPAIGN MEETINGS.

Mr. Wallbridge and friends will address a meeting of electors of Trenton to-morrow (Wednesday) night. A mass meeting of the electors of Belleville will be held in the Opera House on Friday night. The meeting has been called by Mr. Wallbridge, and Mr. Brown has been invited. A full attendance of the electors is requested.

THE MASS MEETING IN THE METROPOLITAN HALL.

A GREAT TRIUMPH FOR MR. WALLBRIDGE.

The attendance at Mr. Brown's mass meeting in the Metropolitan Hall last night was quite as large as was ever seen at any public meeting in Belleville, the number of persons present being probably about seven hundred and fifty. Although the meeting was called by Mr. Brown, yet the fact was patent to every one that a considerable majority of those present were supporters of the Opposition candidate, whose canvass shows that he will sweep the city by a large majority.

The speech of the Chairman, Mr. J. J. B. Flint, calls for remark upon one point only, namely, the reference to the duty on lumber, and that was so clearly and cleverly answered by Mr. Wallbridge that we refer to the summary of his remarks upon that point. The incident shows, however, that some at least of the Grit party are content to bend their necks to the yoke of commercial supremacy which the United States have prepared for us under the tutorship of Mr. David A. Wells, and which will force us, if not shaken off, to become politically as well as commercially dependent on our neighbors.

Mr. Brown's speech contained "next door to nothing" politically speaking. His only remark worthy of note was that there is plenty of work in this country for all who are willing to labor, and that those men who are idle are "lazy hounds" who are unwilling to work. Such a statement coming from a gentleman who, as a large employer of labor, ought to be aware of the facts, who in his daily walk sees scores of men able and willing to work going about unable to obtain employment is to speak mildly, extraordinary. It is a shameful insult to many a worthy man whose family is in a state of semi-starvation and we have no doubt that every "lazy hound" who heard Mr. Brown will resent the epithet unworthily bestowed upon them at the polls.

Of Mr. Wallbridge's reception and of his speech it is not necessary to speak at length. Suffice to say that it was one of the very best campaign addresses we have ever listened to. It abounded with unanswerable argument, sharp hits, logical reasoning and unquestionable facts, the whole delivered in an excellent manner, which carried the audience completely with him, as testified by their outbursts of applause and cheers, and left his opponents literally not a leg to stand upon.

Mr. Thomas Holden, who held a brief for Mr. Brown, was very angry because one-half of the audience left the hall when he was announced, and in consequence made some of the boldest misstatements ever heard in a public address. For instance, he said that at the very time the present Government were paying $45 per ton for steel rails, they were paying $85 for the same quality of rails purchased by their predecessors. Now was no the inference that the present Government had saved $40 per ton on steel rails. If Mr. Holden does not know better, he ought to do so, and we believe he does. The fact is that in 1873 the Macdonald Government paid $85 for steel rails, and in 1874 the great fall in the iron market took place, and Mr. Mackenzie was then enabled, by no cleverness or economy of his own, to buy the same quality of rails at $54—not $45, though a small matter of $9 per ton is nothing to a Grit stump speaker who is intent on making a point. The same rails could be bought lately for $36 per ton, or $18 less than Mr. Mackenzie paid for them. Let his bosom friend Cartwright, whom he so warmly defended last night, answer him on this point. We quote from the Globe's report of Mr. Cartwright's speech at Strathroy a few weeks ago :—

"Only those who have looked closely into the matter are aware of the extent of that shrinkage. Many, however, all of you have heard of steel rails (hear, hear and laughter), and I will exemplify the shrinkage of which I have been speaking by stating that though you have heard that we paid $54 for goods which might be purchased to-day for $36, you have not heard, perhaps, that two months before Mr. Mackenzie came into office the late Government were paying $85 for rails which he bought for $54, and which—if what our opponents say be true—can now be purchase for $36. Now, suppose that the late Government made that purchase honestly—admitting that the rails were worth $85—just consider for yourself what an extraordinary shrinkage in value must have taken place by a fall from $85 to $36. (Hear, hear.) I had lately occasion to enquire of one of the largest iron importers in Canada what the range in prices was in his particular trade. He informed me that a ton of ordinary Scotch pig iron which could be bought five years ago for £7 6d was to-day to be purchased for 53s 6d; that bar iron which he purchased for £12 10s per ton could now be obtained for £5 17s 6d; that Scotch iron which was then £14 per ton was now £6 per ton; and that boiler plates which were then £26 per ton were now £10 10s."

This ought to be sufficient to dispose of Mr. Holden's dishonest statement.

He also stated that to protect sugar refineries would cause Canadians to pay a cent a pound more for their sugar. On this point Mr. Alexander McGibbon, of Montreal, an eminent merchant, says :—

The price of this (cane sugar) is now 8¼c to 8¾c. Raw sugar, 8¼c. In Robjohn's time, when raw sugar was 7 cts., he supplied the best yellows at 7¼ and 8 cents, showing a difference in favor of Redpath of fully 1 cent a pound. Canadian customers are, therefore, paying 1 to 1¼ cts. on white, and ½ to 1 cents on yellow sugars more now, in proportion to the raw article, than they did when it was manufactured by ourselves, besides retaining the direct trade. * * * But, then, the Hon. Mr. Mills says all this is an advantage to the country, and when these direst descendants of the wee men of the East speak, even on the sugar question, common people are supposed to take all in as gospel and be silent."

But then we suppose that Mr. Holden knows more of the matter than all the merchants and manufacturers in Canada—in his own estimation, that is.

Another misstatement was that Sir John Macdonald and other Conservatives repealed the National Policy in 1871, when the fact is that this was done by the united Grit party, who merely did so in order to embarrass the Government; and who found a few Conservatives free-traders (at that time the question had not been made a party one) willing to assist them.

Mr. Holden also roundly abused the National Policy (which his candidate, Mr. Brown, supports), denouncing it as a humbug. He did not think so, or at least he did not profess to think so in 1872, when a candidate in East Hastings, for he then said : "The first thing that should be done at Ottawa was to put a duty on "American produce." This is quoted from the report in the INTELLIGENCER, whose testimony we have that our reports are accurate, by his frequent quotations from them.

Other equally glaring misstatements occur in Mr. Holden's speech, but it is unnecessary to refer to them, as enough has been shown to make clear the character of his address. He talked against time in order to prevent reply, otherwise it would have been unnecessary to refer to his misstatements at such length as we have here done. Such tactics are a disgrace to any party, but they will not avail. Mr. Holden's support has proved fatal to every one whose cause he has espoused in West Hastings, and a like result will follow on Tuesday next.

WEST HASTINGS.

MASS MEETING IN THE METROPOLITAN HALL.

A mass meeting of the electors of the city, called by Mr. Brown, was held last night in the Metropolitan Hall. The seating capacity of the hall is 650, and this was almost filled, if not crowded, and a large number of he rers stood at the head of the stairway. Mr. Wallbridge entered the hall shortly before 8 o'clock, and was loudly applauded on making his way to the platform. Mr. Brown, who followed a few minutes later, was similarly received.

On motion of Mr. Brown, Mr. J. J. B. Flint was appointed to the chair.

The CHAIRMAN, in opening the proceedings expressed the hope that good order would be maintained, as he saw that a large number of the supporters of both candidates were present, and some things might be said by some of the speakers which would prove obnoxious to the one side or the other. He proceeded to say that he supported Mr. Brown as a practical man, as a manufacturer and as an honest man, without any reflection upon Mr. Wallbridge, whose character was without a blot upon it. He also eulogized Mr. Brown as a liberal citizen, as a military man, and as a public man whose record had not been challenged, and who occupied an independent position, free to vote against the Government of the day. Mr. Flint spoke at considerable length, and drew a lively picture of the awful things which would happen if the United States imposed an increase of duty upon lumber, and advocated the present cowardly policy of "masterly inactivity," saying they have their clutch on our throats and we are at their mercy. Mr. Flint concluded by reading Sir John Macdonald's views on Protection, which were very loudly applauded.

Mr. Brown then come forward and was received with applause. He would not defend this one government or the other, but would be responsible for his own acts. He claimed support on the ground that he had been a manufacturer thirty years, and stated that the present depression is due to extravagance on the part of the people. There was no depression amongst the farming community, and these men who were not working now were a set of lazy hounds who would not work, for there was work enough for all. Whilst other countries were starving, we were blessed with abundance and every man could make a living if he were willing to work. He was a Protectionist, and would vote for it again irrespective of any Government. We do not suffer in Belleville from competition with the United States, but if there was any grievance he would do his best to remedy it. He contended that iron can be produced in Canada cheaper than in the United States, and that if Mr. Wallbridge had not burked Mr. Flint's Marmora railway bill fourteen years ago, we should have had a railway to the Seymour iron mine in Madoc. He went on to claim that he and the late Mr. Levesconte had been the means of taking the tolls off the roads in the County. He admired Mr. Wallbridge as an able lawyer (loud applause) and as an honest and talented man he was proud of him (renewed applause), but he had never done anything for the city. He did not blame him for asking a large price for his property when the Grand Trunk wanted it—(laughter) but it would have been much better had he taken a low price. Mr. Brown then eulogized himself strongly (as he said no one else would do so) as never having oppressed any one, which statement was applauded. He claimed to be an independent man, bound to no party leader, but would gladly accept the votes of the Reform Association or of any individual. Of Sir John A. Macdonald he said he never pocketed a dollar of Sir Hugh Allan's money, and Sir George Cartier when he died, scarcely left enough money to bury him. (Loud applause.) He went on to say that it was in his power to select the site of the public building in Belleville, but he would leave it to the citizens in public meeting. Mr. Brown said he considered Sir John A. Macdonald and his Government as pure as Mr. Mackenzie and his Government.

A letter from Mr. John Bell was here read, describing Mr. Wallbridge as a political acrobat, and stating that he had labored to bring the present Government into power, but was now dissatisfied with them.

Mr. WALLBRIDGE who was then introduced, was received with cheers and thunderous applause, again and again renewed. He expressed his satisfaction at seeing so many young men present, as it showed that if the National Policy failed now it would not fail in the future. These young men who are now growing up would carry it. He had opposed Sir John Macdonald on representation by population, and he appealed to Reformers if he did not carry out his pledges. (Mr. Wesley—"You did.") When that principle was carried out, he returned to his party. Mr. James Brown professed to be an Independent, but he supported Sir John from the first day he set foot in Parliament (applause) but when Sir John fell he turned around and supported the Mackenzie Government. (Applause and cheers.) Mr. Brown had not the courage to contend for a principle in the cold shades of opposition. (Applause and cheers.) It was a nice thing to be an independent member, so that one could always be on the side of the Government. So if the Reformers elect Mr. Brown they would elect a supporter of Sir John Macdonald, (applause) and they might better vote for him. (Applause.) Mr. Wallbridge continued to enlarge upon this topic, his remarks were received with cheers, laughter and applause. He regretted that the policy of the Government had not been brought forward by the previous speakers, as he wished to discuss it with them. With regard to Mr. Flint's remarks concerning the duty on lumber, he said that such a position was altogether too humiliating to stand in, and he would fight, if necessary, to get out of it, (Loud applause.) He would, however, help him out of that difficulty. (Laughter.) He would repeal the duty on raw sugar so that it could be manufactured here, and in return would send to the West Indies and other sugar growing countries our lumber and sash, doors, blinds and other articles manufactured from lumber. Thus there would be freight both ways and a consequently profitable trade. (Applause.) Mr. Wallbridge then proceeded to illustrate the effects of protection on boots and shoes, leather, cheese and other articles, showing that their price had been lessened by protection, his illustrations being well received. He proceeded to show that Mr. Brown had voted against a duty on coarse grains, during which not a little good natured interruption took place, Mr. Brown at first denying the charge, but finally admitting that the fact was as stated by Mr Wallbridge, who read from the journals of the House of Commons the vote on the question, amidst the cheers of the audience. Mr. Wallbridge then proceeded, amidst the most enthusiastic applause, to show how the Reform leaders had been gobbled one after the other by the Globe, and how many of them are now acting with the Opposition. He concluded an hour and three-quarters speech, which was received with close attention and very frequent applause, amidst loud and continued cheers.

Mr. THOMAS HOLDEN, who was next introduced, received a very cool reception, nearly or quite one half of the audience rising and leaving the hall. He proceeded to speak for about two hours, attacking Mr. Wallbridge personally, defending Mr. Cartwright, the Government generally and all their pilfering, and concluding long after the hour of midnight.

The gathering dispersed after cheers had been given for the Queen and for the candidates.

THE NOMIMATION.

Messrs Wallbridge and Brown in the Field.

The nomination of candidates for the representation of the electoral division of West Hastings in the House of Commons took place to-day between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock before W. H. Ponton, Esq., Registrar, the Returning officer, at the City Hall.

The North-West.

It is expected that the new Mounted Police barracks at Shoal Lake will be completed before winter.

The water is so low in Red Lake River that passengers for the rest of the season will be conveyed by stage between Grand Forks and Fisher's Landing, and freight by a light draught boat.

Owing to the railway dispute, passengers and freight between Winnipeg and Duluth will be conveyed via St. Paul, instead of over the Northern Pacific Railway.

A Grit organ informs its readers that "protection starts from the idea that" "to give laborers a fair chance to gain good "wages a certain tax must be imposed upon the "product of the labor of others," Certainly. A tariff system for Canada should be so arranged as to remove the taxes from the Canadian people and to place them on the productions of foreign labor. This is what the national policy proposes to do, to impose a duty on such goods as can be produced here, and that why it is so popular with the masses of the people.

Manitoba—Prince Edward Island.

The Toronto Mail of to-day says:—"A GENTLEMAN in Prince Edward Island, whose means of information are unsurpassed, writes, in a letter received here yesterday: "You may "depend upon our carrying every one "of the six seats in this Island."

A telegram from Manitoba just received says: "Have little hesitation in "saying that all Manitoba will go with "the Opposition."

And yet there is no reaction!

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half-page, $6.00; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

An Unwelcomed Guest.

A FROG IN A MAN'S STOMACH.

The other day a man employed in the water works near Byron drank out of a spring near by after dark, and thought he swallowed a blade of grass, a piece of moss or something else whilst drinking. He took no further notice of it at the time. After a day or two, however, he commenced to feel unwell and sick at his stomach, and concluded he would take a glass of brandy in the village and see if it would settle it, thinking probably it was a fit of indigestion. The brandy was no sooner down than the man experienced the most violent contortions, and thought he was poisoned. The frog (as such it was) appeared as quick as the liquor touched him, to have commenced a series of jumps and somersaults in his stomach. The man, after the most excruciating retchings, vomited a decomposed frog, which is now perfectly healthy and doing well, and may be seen at Mr. Jonas Fortner's hotel, Byron.—London Free Press.

A Black Woman Turning White.

Cincinnati, Sept. 6.—A physiological phenomenon has just been discovered in this city by one of the district physicians. It is nothing less than a colored woman turning white. Her name is Luella Smith, aged 30 years, who is living at 60 Gano alley. She is not a mulatto. She is black in the face, but her body is gradually beginning to turn as white as any Caucasian. This changing process has been about five years ago, and now her body is fully two-fifths white. On her breast there is a white spot about eight inches long and six inches wide. Her limbs, too, are white in the same appearance, and if the change keeps on she will in a few years be as white as anybody. At present she is being treated for consumption. The only white spots about her face are directly behind either ear and inside the ears. The doctors call this transformation an absorption of pigment, but, whatever it is, it is extraordinary, and will elicit a good deal of attention from the medical profession.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Don't it who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your preju ice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

THE NOMINATIONS.

West Hastings.

Messrs. Wallbridge and Brown in the Field.

CONTINUED.

The meeting was organized by the appointment of the Hon. Robert Read as Chairman.

On taking the chair, Mr. Read made a few remarks, and it being agreed that only the candidates should speak, he called upon

HON. LEWIS WALLBRIDGE, who was received with applause. He proceeded to say that under constitutional government revolutions are effected by change of administration, which in despotic countries are effected by the bayonet. When a Government came before the country they should have a policy, but the present Government had no policy and were merely keeping their seats warm. Therefore the opposition presented a policy, namely that of protection to home industries, which they held would relieve the depression which undeniably exists, and which the present Government declared they were unable to mitigate. The time was coming, however, when they would be turned out of office and more able men put into power. (Applause.) The Opposition did not propose to put a high duty upon everything, but only where an increase of duty is required. He was a free trader in the fullest sense of the word, but he deemed it necessary that our manufactures should be protected until they are established, and he gave several instances of the benefits of protection in Canada. If the United States would take off the duty he would be willing that Canada should do likewise, but as they shut us out from their markets we should keep out markets for our own people, and prevent their destruction by foreign manufacturers. He proceeded at some length to explain the policy of the Opposition, giving examples of where the present tariff affects us unfavorably. He also argued forcibly that the English system of free trade will not suit us, as our circumstances are entirely different from theirs. Passing thence, he showed that the Globe newspaper is the leader of the Reform party; that the former leaders of the Reformers are now acting with the Opposition; and that the bad, impure men of the Conservative party who were formerly shunned by decent men are now or lately were in their Government. Sir John Macdonald had done what had been adjudged to be a wrong, he had suffered the constitutional penalty, and now as the opposite party could not properly govern the country, he asked to be reinstated in the position which he had forfeited. But then there was the "big push" (applause) which in point of morality stood exactly on the same level. The Conservative party allowed Sir John to go down, and the Reformers ought to allow their leaders to go down. (Applause.) The man who had no opinion of his own was not fit for a representative of the public, and his was in favor of protection. Now it was held that free trade cheapened articles, but he would show them that such was not the case. Five years ago we imported from free trade England $10,000,000 worth of goods more than from the protected United States, but last year we imported from the United States $11,000,000 worth more of goods than we did from England. Would any one tell him in the face of that, that protection increased prices? No, protection only steadied the market, and competition regulated the prices. He proceeded to treat upon sugar manufacturing, showing that the effect of the miserable policy of the Government is to make us poor and keep us poor. (Applause.) He would oppose the Government, as he could not support them otherwise and be sincere in favor of protection, and he asked those who favored protection to vote with him and assist in carrying out the principle. Voting for an independent candidate, they would be as likely to secure protection as to have wings grow on them before to-morrow morning. (Laughter and applause.) He asked them to be honest to themselves, and was loudly applauded on resuming his seat, having spoken an hour.

MR. BROWN was loudly applauded on coming forward. He spoke briefly in favor of his record and that of Mr. Wallbridge, who he said had vilified Mr. Read when that gentleman ran for the Legislative Council, but who was now supporting his opponent. Mr. Wallbridge supported Dr. Hope, who was now supporting him (Mr. Brown). (Laughter.) They were to decide who was the best friend of Parliament them and with the most influence. Mr. Brown proceeded to repeat his appeal of the night before, for support as a business man, and also his statement that there was no depression in manufactures here. He was a protectionist, and would put a protective duty on anything that required it, (applause), but he wanted Mr. Wallbridge to explain what he considered was necessary to be done in the matter and define his policy. He would not say he would not go for a retaliatory policy if he got in. (Applause.) He referred to the Grand Trunk fighting move (applause) but he preferred to conciliate the Americans, if possible. He believed that his ideas and Mr. Wallbridge's ran in the same groove, and that it was a wrong vote he had given when in the House, and he appealed to the people to place him again in his former position.

A VOICE—"You'll get it."

He advocated reciprocity of trade with the United States if we can get it, and if not, a retaliatory policy, for he considered it was just, if the Americans imposed a duty on our grain entering their country, that we should impose a duty on their grain entering ours. He referred to the remarks of Mr. Aylsworth respecting corn, and showed that if American corn was not used for the manufacture of spirits here, a home market would be made for our own rye at an advanced price, to be used for the same purpose. He referred to Mr. Aylsworth's remarks as to the flourishing condition of our factories, and referred him as a refutation of his assertion to the factories at Lonsdale, Belleville, and other places, and said he believed in making Canada for Canadians, and if elected would stand true to the interests of the country. He then took his seat amid loud cheers.

MR. AYLSWORTH in reply said that in calling himself an independent candidate he meant that he was not pledged to any party. He referred to Mr. White's remarks respecting the steel rails, and said that he (Mr. White) nor Dr. Tupper never raised their voices in the House against the purchase, as the House considered it a good one at time, but which had since proved a mistake of judgment. He himself was not one that looked to Washington, as he said in the States protection had made wealthy manufacturers, who, when their shops were full of manufactured goods, turned their men in the streets to beg and become tramps.

A VOICE—"That's not so. I have been there, and can get all the work I want at two dollars and a quarter a day at the carpentering trade, whilst here they only offer 50 cents a foot to build barns. I left here fifteen weeks ago, and have come back for my family with two hundred dollars in my pocket."

MR. AYLSWORTH then referred to the lobbying at Washington, and took his seat amid profound silence.

MR. WHITE rose to reply to Mr. Aylsworth's attack with respect to the steel rails, and said that if Mr. Aylsworth had read the records of the House he would have found that upon a motion of Mr. Bowell's, he with some 50 or 60 others, voted to condemn the purchase.

MR. WHITE then asked for a show of hands, when fully nine-tenths of the electors present raised their hands in his favor.

A vote of thanks was then given the Chairman, who suitably replied, and three cheers were given for the Queen and the respective candidates, and the audience quietly dispersed.

East Hastings.

Messrs. White and Aylsworth in the Field.

The nomination of candidates for the House of Commons for East Hastings was held at Roslin on the 10th.

Hiram Holden Esq., Returning Officer, called upon Robt. M. Smith, Esq., Election Clerk, who read the writ for holding the election. He then expressed himself ready to receive nominations.

Mr. White and Mr. Aylsworth having handed in their nomination papers, the Election Clerk at 2 o'clock declared a poll granted.

The Clerk stated that Mr. Aylsworth had appointed Mr. Thos. Holden his financial agent, and Mr. White had appointed Mr. Hudson.

The nominations being closed, Mr. P. R. Daly was called to the chair upon the retirement of the Returning Officer.

MR. AYLSWORTH being called upon said he was the son of a U. E. Loyalist and a Canadian by birth and that he was not the man of leisure he was reported as being. That he belonged to no party but was independent and would give the present administration his support, as he considered they managed the affairs of the country well. He referred to the expenditures of the late Government and considered that the present Government could well to have only a small deficit. (A voice "a pretty big one you mean.") He said the present contest was between Mr. Mackenzie and Sir John Macdonald who he believed was no better now than when he was out of office. (A voice "He's lots of friends here.") He considered it was not to the interest of this country to advocate a retaliatory tariff against the United States and their much larger population would prevent our doing so if we wished. Our produce and cattle he said we need not sell to the Americans if we did not find it profitable to do so. (A voice "we give them turkey and they return to us buzzard.") The importation of corn he considered beneficial to the country, as the greater portion went into to the manufacture of spirits, which returned a revenue to the country. He also referred them to the importation of salt and coal. All the manufactories in the country, were in a flourishing condition, and if elected he would uphold a revenue tariff of as low a nature as would carry on the affairs of the country. His speech of half an hour was listened to with attention, although he spoke under the difficulty of feeling that his hearers were not in accord with his views.

MR. WHITE being called upon was greeted with loud cheers. He said that if he was not a son of a U.E. Loyalist it was not his fault, but he was an Irishman by birth, and had endeavored to conduct himself in such a manner as not to be a disgrace to the country of his birth or adoption. He considered that Mr. Aylsworth was a man of ease, as he thought a position like that he occupied a position of comparative ease, when he had a man of business at his back. In expressing himself as an Independent candidate he considered Mr. Aylsworth was trimming his sails for the coming breeze. As for his part he was a Liberal Conservative, and he would say to his Grit friends "God speed you!" to your independent candidate. He accused the present Government of not having administered the affairs of the country in an economical manner. The Pacific Railroad was not practicable on the plan of water stretches as proposed by Mr. Mackenzie, as an all-rail route was the only one worthy of adoption. (A voice, "They have the rails for it now.") Ontario was the trunk of the great tree of the Dominion whose duty it was to nourish the branches, and it was our duty of the country to build the Pacific Railroad if we wished to be a great and united people. He opposed the present Government because of their gross mismanagement, which was injurious to the country. Mr. Mackenzie when in opposition had opposed coalitions, but one of his first acts when placed in power was to form a coalition Government, taking into the Cabinet Cartwright, who was a Tory, and Cauchon, who had been ousted from the Conservative party for robbing poor lunatics, and whom he had now placed in the responsible position of Governor of Manitoba. He then referred to the steel rail transaction, which he said was a direct loss of a million and a half to the country, and was a transaction that no man could defend. He referred to the Pembina Branch road, which he said Mr. Mackenzie had asked the House to lease to a company, which they had refused to do; but since then one of Parliament Mr. Mackenzie had leased the road for two years without the consent of Parliament. He then referred to the great loss to the country by the Fort Frances Lock, the Neebing Hotel, and the building of the telegraph line for the Pacific Road before the road was built, which were would in some places be twenty miles from the road when built. Since his canvass began he had been opposed on the stump by Mr. Rathbun and men from Belleville, and they had even imported a wise man from the east, Mr. Deroche, to speak against him, but not one of them had pointed out a wrong vote he had given when in the House, and he appealed to the people to place him again in his former position.

He advocated reciprocity of trade with the United States if we can get it, and if not, a retaliatory policy, for he considered it was just, if the Americans imposed a duty on our grain entering their country, that we should impose a duty on their grain entering ours. He referred to the remarks of Mr. Aylsworth respecting corn, and showed that if American corn was not used for the manufacture of spirits here, a home market would be made for our own rye at an advanced price, to be used for the same purpose. He referred to Mr. Aylsworth's remarks as to the flourishing condition of our factories, and referred him as a refutation of his assertion to the factories at Lonsdale, Belleville, and other places, and said he believed in making Canada for Canadians, and if elected would stand true to the interests of the country. He then took his seat amid loud cheers.

MR. AYLSWORTH in reply said that in calling himself an independent candidate he meant that he was not pledged to any party. He referred to Mr. White's remarks respecting the steel rails, and said that he (Mr. White) nor Dr. Tupper never raised their voices in the House against the purchase, as the House considered it a good one at time, but which had since proved a mistake of judgment. He himself was not one that looked to Washington, as he said in the States protection had made wealthy manufacturers, who, when their shops were full of manufactured goods, turned their men in the streets to beg and become tramps.

A VOICE—"That's not so. I have been there, and can get all the work I want at two dollars and a quarter a day at the carpentering trade, whilst here they only offer 50 cents a foot to build barns. I left here fifteen weeks ago, and have come back for my family with two hundred dollars in my pocket."

MR. AYLSWORTH then referred to the lobbying at Washington, and took his seat amid profound silence.

MR. WHITE rose to reply to Mr. Aylsworth's attack with respect to the steel rails, and said that if Mr. Aylsworth had read the records of the House he would have found that upon a motion of Mr. Bowell's, he with some 50 or 60 others, voted to condemn the purchase.

MR. WHITE then asked for a show of hands, when fully nine-tenths of the electors present raised their hands in his favor.

A vote of thanks was then given the Chairman, who suitably replied, and three cheers were given for the Queen and the respective candidates, and the audience quietly dispersed.

North Hastings.

Messrs. Bowell and O'Flynn in the Field.

The nominations for North Hastings took place in the Town Hall, Madoc, between the hours of 12 noon and 2 p. m., on the 17th inst., the returning officer, Mr. Sheriff Taylor, presiding. The candidates nominated were Mackenzie Bowell, Esq., and E. D. O'Flynn, Esq. The following are some of the names attached to Mr. Bowell's nomination paper:—

Jas. Bateman, John Robertson, Robt. Maynes, S.D. Ross, Pat'k Gillen, G. D. Rawe, John Gillen, Wm. Moore, Stephen Reed, Malcolm Bristol, W. J. White, Sami. Rowlands, Joseph White, Arch. Harvey, Henry Bell, J. Driscoll, W. Bristol, J. Harper, A. Finley, John Christie, L. S. Griffin, Robt. Rollins, Chas. Kirk, G.B. Johnson, Geo. W. Smith, Thos. Wiggins, Edward Tanner, M. Haggarty, John D. Breeze, Jos. Tuttle, J. H. Roberts, S. L. Nash, Wm. Goodfellow, Wm. Kerr, John Bentley, A. S. Robertson, Francis Burns, Antoine Duyea, John S. Hagerman, David White, Adam Adams, John Ackers, John Robinson, Robt. J. Craig, John Doak, John C. Wilson, Geo. F. Bell, John Graham, Robt. Roy, W. S. Martin, Jas. Martin, Jesse Barlow, Jas. Biddle, Jas. W. A. Williams, W. Vouker, R.M. Pennick, R. C. Gilbert, G. E. Cryer, Thos. Campion, Stephen Hamilton, Jas. Lawrence, J.W. Fearce, Chas. Hales, W. E. Gladney, John Downey, Wm. Downey, J.R. Outwater, D. Bentley, Royal Mason, A. Outwater, J.W. Payne, G. W. Bleecker, A. Airhart, Alex. Boyd, Geo. Loucks, Robt. Horton, Joseph Hogle, J. R. Hamilton, Jas. Hazlitt, Jas. Knox, Q.D. Wiggins, Dan'l Holcomb, Peter Welch, W.H. Thompson, David McQuigg, Dan'l McIlroy, John Gilmour, Sam'l Best, Jas. Moore, Wm. Best, John Richardson, F. Conlin.—And many others.

After the hour for the nomination had expired the Sheriff left the Court House, and a general meeting of the electors was formed by appointing J. R. KETCHESON, Esq., Chairman.

An arrangement was made that none but the candidates should speak and that they should have two hours each, and Mr. Bowell half an hour to reply. Speaking began in the hall, but an adjournment was made to the common, as the hall was too small. Rain came on, however, and the hall had to be resorted to again.

MR. BOWELL thanked the electors for having returned him three times to Parliament and stated that he was again the candidate at the the request of the most influential men in the Riding. He had in the present contest to combat side issues raised by his opponents, but he had the proud satisfaction of knowing that not a single vote he had given during the 11 years he had sat in Parliament had been challenged. Instead of discussing the great political issues, his opponents, in places where he had no opportunity of replying, attacked him personally regarding the Hastings Mutual Insurance Company and other matters. This Company like many others at present, had decided to close business. He was willing to bear the responsibility attached to the office he held in the Company, but he would state that he never received one cent of salary from it. The village branch was a loss, but the farm branch, he believed, is perfectly solvent. The property of the Company is composed of premium notes. Every insurer is a member of the Company. It had been stated by Mr. O'Flynn that a certain prejudice against him that the notes held by the Company will be sued after the election. This is false. The Company hold's his (Mr. Bo.) premium notes, the balance of which he will have to pay, and it has $200 of his which he paid on guarantee stock. The Beaver Insurance Company, in which the Hastings had re-insured, went down. Many other Canadian companies—even stock companies—had to shut up during the great depression, and English companies had lost large sums in this country over and above the premiums they had received. When he retired from the Presidency he did not expect the present trouble, but simply retired because he had not time, with all his other duties, to attend to it. Other reasons for opposing him are in connection with the Railway. One man blames him for not opposing the bonus, another for not building the road. If the deputation that went to Toronto regarding the Railway had been more desirous of promoting the interests of the county than making political capital they could have accomplished far greater results for the people. Their petition was not given to their own member, and Dr. Boulter was not consulted, but in spite of them the Dr. had devoted himself to the matter, and restricted the by-law to the 1st November. He, Mr. Bowell, who understood Parliamentary practice, had not been asked to accompany the delegation, and the people lost what he could by his influence have obtained for them —the agreement to put rolling stock on the road before getting the bonus. He believed that another prominent gentleman in the north had not been consulted either regarding this matter, the desire of those who got it up being to make political capital in favor of the Grit party. He had lived in the county since 1833, was known to every one, and had been always in the front rank in assisting every local enterprise. His opponents had stated that he had not procured public money to be expended in their riding; this was absurd and deceitful, as the Dominion Government doesn't expend money for local purposes. It is the Ontario Government alone that can do this. He did his best to aid the proposed Railway that Sir Hugh Allan was willing to build through the northern part of Ontario, but the Globe and the present party in power, by casting discredit upon the enterprise prevented it from being carried to a financial success in the London money market, and it had in consequence to be abandoned. The northern townships would now have a through line of railway, and all the wealth and enterprise attendant upon it, had the scheme of Sir Hugh Allan not been barked by the Globe and its party for political purposes. He would continue to aid any and every enterprise that would be for the welfare of North Hastings. (Cheers.) Mr. Bowell now dealt with the great political issues of the country. He showed how prominent Reformers were quitting Mr. Mackenzie in disgust because of his violation of every principle that he contended for in Opposition, and the utter lack of statesmanship in his Government. He referred to the independent role assumed by Mr. O'Flynn and other candidates who are afraid to shoulder the responsibility of defending the Government and its want of policy. Mr. O'Flynn is anything to everybody, and everything to anybody, but the electors at such a grave crisis in the history of the country don't want to elect men who have no political principles. Mr. O'Flynn stated in reply to him at a meeting recently that he was not in favor of reciprocity with the United States, but was in favor of a revenue tariff. He really didn't believe Mr. O'Flynn understood what reciprocity meant, for no man having any knowledge of our country's affairs would make such a statement. If he is not in favor of a reciprocity treaty to what party does he belong? He must be a party in himself. Such ignorance on the part of a man seeking a seat in Parliament, was an insult to intelligent electors. Why, Geo. Brown offered to throw open our ports, to give the right of our fisheries for ten years (which have been adjudged worth five and a half millions) and other concessions in order to obtain reciprocal trade. But Mr. O'Flynn says he is not in favor of reciprocity at all. What do farmers think of that? when they are under the present unfair state of things, paying 15c. a bushel on every bushel of barley going over to the States and contributing annually millions in this way to pay off the American war debt. The Americans must either give us reciprocity or we should protect our farmers' and other interests. Americans like Mr. Rathbun desire that our markets shall be open to their friends, and that they may bring corn and other coarse grains here free of duty, to compete against home production. Mr. Bowell now showed the violations of the principle of which Mr. Mackenzie and his party are guilty; claiming in opposition that coalitions are immoral and on gaining power forming them with Scott, Cartwright, Cauchon and others; in claiming that economy and retrenchment would mark their administration and when in office increasing the controllable expenditure, and contrary to their declared intention, refusing to decrease the number and salaries of cabinet Ministers; in claiming that even without salary additional offices in the Cabinet should not be created, and appointing Blake to a portion in the Cabinet without portfolio; in claiming that Dominion and Provincial Ministers should not act together, and Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Mowat now "hunting in couples" through Ontario; in claiming that the Independence of Parliament Act should be enforced and giving the Speaker $18,000 and other members large sums, which when proved against them caused their resignation, even ministers of the Crown Vail and Jones being in receipt of $24,000 for printing. Mr. Bowell further referred to their many violations of principle, instancing the giving out of contracts without their being submitted to Parliament, among them the purchase of the Steel rails. He showed the reckless way in which the public money is squandered, and how utterly incapable the men are who now hold the reins to govern the country. The trade question was now discussed by Mr. Bowell and his clear and convincing arguments, which for want of space we are obliged to admit, carried conviction to the audience, as evinced by the cheers which greeted him. He concluded a two hours speech amid the greatest enthusiasm.

Mr. O'FLYNN followed in a lengthy speech. The proceedings terminated with three cheers for the Queen and the candidates.

Protection Benefits Yet Cheapens.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce gives in a recent article the following reasons why Protection benefits the manufacturer yet cheapens his productions to the consumer, viz:—

1st. Because it secures our ports of entry from being flooded with surpluses forced upon us by foreigners to relieve their own superabundance and to sustain their home prices.

2nd. Because it affords the home manufacturer a large aggregate gain, although the rate of profit is decreased.

3rd. Because it fosters the invention of labour saving machinery.

Three good reasons why we should protect and foster our manufacturing industries, are they not?

Dominion Revenue—Cost of Collecting—Then and Now.

Cost of collecting $12,954,164 in 1873... $567,765
Cost of collecting $16,351,013 in 1875... 662,673
Cost of collecting $12,823,837 in 1876... 721,008
Cost of collecting $12,546,987 in 1877... 721,604
Cost of collecting $5,011,154 in Montreal, 1873..... 87,733
Cost of collecting $3,365,410 in Montreal, 1877..... 117,989
Cost of collecting $1,246,238 in New Brunswick, 1872..... 73,353
Cost of collecting $1,091,018 in New Brunswick, 1878..... 96,171

If in 1873 it cost $567,765 to collect $12,954,164 of Customs revenue, why if there was no extravagance did it take $721,604 to collect $12,546,987 in 1877? M. Laurier has only on his hands this conundrum: Inasmuch as a Tory Government in 1873 collected $4,406,391 of excise revenue for $171,704, how is it that Reformers spent $211,157 in collecting $4,341,897?

"HERALD" OFFICE BURNED.—We regret to learn by a telegram from London that the Herald printing office has been destroyed. The following is the despatch:—"This evening at 6.30 o'clock a fire broke out in Herald newspaper office, Dundas street, which resulted in the total destruction of the building and its contents. The flames broke out with extraordinary suddenness in the cellar, sounding like an explosion. They spread with terrible rapidity, and before the fire brigade arrived had completes control. Only one small press was saved, and that in a broken condition. The loss on plant will be about $8,000 or $10,000, and on building about $3,000. Insurance between $3,000 and $4,000."

—The Mail of Tuesday contains another long letter from the Hon. D. L. Macpherson. He states that the Globe refused to publish his replies to Hon. George Brown's attacks, although he offered to pay for them as advertisements.

THE COMING STRUGGLE.

Our Battle Cry: "Protection to Home Industries."

The Opposition Policy.

The commercial policy of the Opposition is represented in the following resolution moved by Sir John Macdonald in the House of Commons:—

"That this House is of opinion that the welfare of Canada requires the adoption of a National Policy, which by a judicious readjustment of the Tariff will benefit and foster the Agricultural, the Mining, the Manufacturing and other interests of the Dominion; that such a policy will retain in Canada thousands of our fellow-countrymen, now child, to expatriate themselves in search of employment denied them at home; will restore prosperity to our struggling industries, now so sadly depressed; will prevent Canada from being made a sacrifice market; will encourage and develop an active interprovincial trade; and moving (as it ought to do) in the direction of the reciprocity of Tariffs with our neighbors, so far as the varied interests of Canada may demand, will greatly tend to procure for this Country, eventually, a reciprocity of Trade."

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 11.

WORK! WORK!

In a few days the Electoral Battle for the Dominion will be ended. From all parts of the country the tidings are hopeful for the triumph of the Liberal Conservative party. No doubt there will disappointments and surprises to both parties when the ballots come to be counted throughout the country. However, the present is the time for work, and no stone should be left unturned to make the final triumph of Opposition principles as sure as it can be made before the final returns from the Returning Officers are published.

We trust that every member of the Liberal Conservative party in the North, East, and West Ridings of this County, will make this election his own personal matter, and spend the remaining few days before the polling day, in perfecting the organization and getting everything ready to poll the entire vote. If this be done we can confidently predict the election of Messrs. Bowell, White and Wallbridge by very large majorities.

NO TIME TO LOSE.

Five days from to-day the great contest for the triumph of good Government will take place. On that day the momentous question whether this country shall enter upon an era of prosperity, or remain in its depressed, ruinous condition, will be decided. We have no fears of the result if the Opposition party but do its simple duty. Every Liberal Conservative elector should make this election his own personal business—should make up his mind, first to poll his own vote at all hazards—and second, see that a thorough organization exists in every school section, and every preparation be made to secure the polling of the entire strength of the party.

We urge upon our friends in the North, East and West Ridings of this County, to be up and doing. There is no time to lose.

VOLUNTEER TEAMS.

As the Election law very properly prohibits the hiring of teams for the conveyance of voters to and from the polls, such service must necessarily be performed free of charge. As it is of the greatest import, ance that a full vote be brought out, we ask those friends of the Opposition cause in the three Ridings of this County owning horses and vehicles to place them at the disposal of the Committees on the day of election, and to turn out themselves, wherever it be possible, to assist in bringing up the voters. Let those having horses and vehicles for use notify the Chairman or Secretary of the respective Committees at once, that it may be known how many vehicles can be relied on. Victory is assured in every division of the County if the voters can but be brought out, and we are confident that the friends of good government will not be lacking in this regard.

A Knowi Candidate.

Mr. Brown informed his auditors at the meeting subsequent to the nomination that the Neebing Hotel had been built under contract given out by the Chief Engineer of the Pacific Railway. Surely Mr. Brown must think his auditors were ignoramuses not to know that the hotel was built of culls and slabs by a company, of whom Oliver, Davidson & Co. were the principal ingredients, before the land had been acquired by the Government, and solely by the owners, as they themselves said, as a means of "making a good thing out of the Government." Which they did, by the aid of their friends who valued it when the Government were about to purchase the land on which it stood. This is, we suppose, an exemplification of that "practical" acquaintance with public affairs which Mr. Brown's friends allege he possesses.

WHO KILLED COCK ROBIN?—The Grit press now accuse Sir John of killing out Redpath's refinery in Montreal.—Next!

TOO THIN.

Mr. Holden's organ tries to let him down by saying that in 1872 the duty on American produce was 15 per cent, and that Mr. Mackenzie's Government raised it to 17½ per cent. Such an assertion shows either the ignorance or recklessness of the organist. It will be news to the farmers to learn that there is a duty of 17½ per cent on American, produce, when they are fighting against the admission of corn, oats, and other articles of produce into Canada free of duty, whilst they are very well aware of a duty of 17½ per cent. duty on American manufactures. Mr. Holden's defence is too thin. He was a candidate in a rural constituency in 1872. Now he holds a brief for an "independent candidate" in an urban riding, hence the diversity between his utterances in 1872 and 1878. The hole which the organ tried to make was a small one, but we have here closed it so that even so small a man as Mr. Holden cannot crawl through it.

The Duty of the Hour.

But a few more days will elapse before the electors will be called upon to exercise their constitutional privilege of casting their votes to elect gentlemen to represent them in the counsels of the Dominion. The campaign which is about to close has been short, but at the same time it has been sharp, and as the issues have been so fully laid before the public through the columns of the newspapers and by means of addresses delivered by the candidates and their supporters, there can scarcely be an intelligent man who has not made up his mind as to how he will cast his vote.

We look forward to the issue with confidence, satisfied that the intelligent yeomen of Hastings, as well as the mechanics and property holders of Belleville, Trenton, Madoc, Stirling, Marmora, Tweed, and the various other villages in the County will once more, as they have so often done in the past, range themselves on the side of good government, which the experience of the past five years shows that they cannot expect from the men who now mal-administer the affairs of the country, and who refuse to raise their hands to aid our various industries, which have, owing to their fatal policy, been stricken down by the unfair competition of the manufacturers of the United States. That the three ridings of Hastings will return Messrs. Bowell, White and Wallbridge, we have not, therefore, any doubt, as the two gentlemen first named are well known by their record, and Mr. Wallbridge has so well defined his position as a supporter of the National Policy that there cannot be a doubt about it. And we have equally strong grounds for believing that the country at large will pronounce against the incompetent, practically disloyal Government of Mr. Mackenzie.

These desirable results cannot, however, be attained without work, and it is therefore incumbent upon all who desire to see a change of Government brought about, to put forth strenuous and united efforts on behalf of the Opposition candidates, and not to cease their labors until the polls have been closed on the night of the 17th of September — Tuesday next. Nothing that is legitimate and within the law should be left undone; no personal differences should be allowed to have weight; no indifference should be permitted to slacken the energies of any supporter of the Opposition policy. A vote given to a Government candidate on personal grounds, or a vote not cast from some personal disagreement may endanger the safety of a constituency. Our cause is above all such considerations, and every one of our candidates should receive a cordial, hearty, energetic and above all united support. Let, then, our friends close up their ranks, present a solid front, and with their good cause to sustain them, go forward to the polls themselves, and see that their friends and neighbors record their votes, and there can be no doubt that success will attend their efforts. Let no man think that he is too little known or too uninfluential, as though all cannot be leaders, yet every man has an influence, which he can exert if he will but try to do so. Therefore, as we ask our friends that they organize thoroughly for the day of election and turn out with their teams and their single horses and vehicles in aid of their candidates, we trust that they will respond to this appeal made to them in the interest of the country. If they fall in with and accept the counsel here given—as we have firm confidence they will—then Tuesday, September 17th, will long be memorable in the annals of Hastings, as the day on which it unanimously, in all all its divisions, repudiated misrule which had well-nigh wrought the ruin of the country under the spurious cry of "Reform."

Bluster and Bravado.

Elections are not carried by blustering and bravado. It is only by hard work, earnest labor, and active personal effort, that any great object is accomplished. Let ur opponents bluster and rave, and misrepresent. That is their stock-in-trade, and it serves their purpose temporarily, but does the Conservative party no harm. Declamation is not fact, nor abuse argument. Let them indulge in that warfare to their heart's content. Conscious of the purity of our principles, the rectitude of our purpose, and the stength and righteousness of our cause, let us each and every one devote the remaining few days between the present and the 17th to perfecting the organization of the party, and making arrangements by which the entire vote of the party will be secured for Messrs. Bowell, White, and Wallbridge, and their triumphant election is certain.

STRAWS SHOW, &c.—It was a significant fact that at the nomination yesterday in East Hastings, of the two or three hundred electors present there were not over twenty or twenty-five at most in favor of Mr. Aylsworth. This is not much of a year for Grit straws.

—Over six hundred bodies have been recovered from the excursion steamer Princess Alice. Eighty-three unrecognised bodies were buried on Monday.

READ AND REFLECT.

The most conclusive clincher to the many falsehoods which have appeared in Mr. O'Flynn's organ regarding certain prominent Reform supporters of Mr. Bowell, will be found in the list of names attached to that gentleman's nomination papers. Let the author of these falsehoods read the list and reflect. It may afford him and the party some brief consolation.

STEEL OR STEAL.

The Montreal Witness says: "We imagine the writers for the Gazette have actually, by this time, brought themselves to believe that steel and steal mean the same thing." Such belief would not be very far astray if applied to Grit practice; for instance take steel rails, through which certain parties were enabled to steal the public funds, to the extent of a public loss of two millions of dollars. The Witness will vainly attempt to steel the understanding of its readers against the numerous exposures which are stealing thousand of votes from the party of hypocrisy pure and simple.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

At the meeting of Mr. Wallbridge's committees last night, the canvass, which is now well advanced towards completion, was again gone over. The showing in the city was most satisfactory, even more so than the most sanguine had hoped, and the returns of three wards in Sidney, which were placed before the meeting, were also favorable beyond anticipation. With continued exertion up to the close of the polls on Tuesday next, the redemption of West Hastings is beyond question.

"Cowards, Knaves, and Cravens."

Such are the polite epithets which the organ of Mr. Thos Holden uses towards those respectable citizens who left Metropolitan Hall when he commenced to speak, because they did not wish to be bored with his stale platitudes. We say the organ of Mr. Thos. Holden, for we have too much respect for Mr. Brown to believe that he would countenance the use of such vile epithets and scandalous accusations towards any of his fellow citizens. The fact is Mr. Thos. Holden is soured beyond description because he was not a candidate for either the West or East, and he must find vent for the bile that has been so long accumulating. But does not Mr. Holden know, and does not his organ know, that such scandalous accusations as are made daily against opponents of Mr. Brown, are doing that gentleman more harm than good? If they do not realize it now they will find it out when the 17th of September arrives. It was only last night we heard a prominent citizen say that he had intended leaving Belleville on Friday and would not be back until after the election, but when he read these attacks, he had about made up his mind to remain and vote at the election for Mr. Wallbridge.

Parliamentary Control—Mr. Mackenzie's Latest Idea of it.

Mr. Donald A. Smith publicly declared the other day that Mr. Mackenzie had executed a ten year's lease of the Pembina Branch railway to himself and Company, which means the perpetuation of the grinding monopoly of Kittson & Company for that period, in defiance of the positive interdict of the Senate on the transaction. And this by the man the leading plank of whose political platform used to be the absolute parliamentary control over all contracts. Oh! but that was when he was in opposition, you know!

Vote for Prosperity.

There should be no doubt upon any man's mind as to how he should vote at the coming elections. For Mr. Cartwright himself has announced the following proposition:—

"THAT PROTECTION WOULD, IN THIS COUNTRY FOR A "FEW BRIEF YEARS," ENABLE MANUFACTURERS TO MAKE "ENORMOUS PROFITS," AND WOULD CREATE A TEMPORARY GENERAL PROSPERITY."

Vote for Bowell, Wallbridge and White, and a few years of Protection and Prosperity.

The Dominion Elections.

The following members of the House of Commons were elected by acclamation:

LAVAL—Ouimet, Opposition, by acclamation.

HUNTINGDON—Scriver, Government, by acclamation.

RESTIGOUCHE. N.B—Haddow, Independent, by acclamation.

SHERBROOK—Mr. E. T. Brookes, conservative.

GLOUCESTER N. B—Hon. Mr. Anglin, Government.

QUEBEC WEST—Mr. McGreevy, Conservative.

MR. BROWN'S MASS MEETING.—The "mass meeting" of Mr. Brown's supporters in the Metropolitan Hall last night was attended by, we are informed, about 150 to 200 people. Some of the ambitious orators had a glorious time, they having failed to invite any of Mr. Wallbridge's supporters to oppose them. One of these over-sanguine individuals promised Mr. Brown a majority in every Ward in the city, in Trenton and in Sidney! A cause which needs such blustor must be desperate indeed.

—Mr. Canavan has retired from the contest in West Toronto.

—On the 9th inst., Mr. Davis, of Lanark, was attacked and killed by a ram.

—The jewellery store of Messrs. R. Sharpley & Sons, Montreal, was robbed of $2,000 worth of diamonds a few nights ago.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 11.

City and Vicinity.

BIG APPLES.—Mr. Thos. Kelly, of the rear of Hungerford, exhibits an apple which weighs 14 lbs., and measures 14⅜ inches in circumference.

OYSTERS.—The soul of the gourmand will be satisfied when he learns that oysters promise to be unusually abundant and of superior quality this season.

The fact is conceded by all that J. C. Moynes is giving the greatest bargains in Dry Goods, at his clearing sale; give him a call. 2t.

TEACHERS' SALARIES.—The salaries of the teachers have at length been settled for the year. A considerable number of increases and two decreases have been made in the salaries.

TRANSFERRED.—In consequence of the resolution of the Board of Education, passed last night, Mr. McKeown and the pupils whom he had been teaching in the fourth book, were transferred from the Octavia Street School to the Central School.

CRICKET.—The Belleville Cricket Club went to Brighton to-day to play the return match with the Club of that village, which was defeated on its visit here. They returned, however, on the noon train as the rain prevented the playing of the game.

Genuine clearing sales are going on at J. C. Moynes'—the people were highly pleased with the bargains given on Saturday—go and see him 2t

PERSONAL.—We are glad to notice the arrival of Mr. W. R. BARBER, of the firm of Barber, Brignall & Co., who was a passenger by the steamship Britannic. Mr. Barber reached Belleville on Monday evening, and looks exceedingly well after his trans-atlantic trip.

MEETING AT SPENCER'S SCHOOL HOUSE.—Mr. Aylsworth held a meeting, at which the attendance was small, at Spencer's School House last night. Mr. Aylsworth was the first speaker. He was followed by Mr. G. D. Dickson, who made an able speech, lasting about one hour and a half. Mr. P. J. M. Anderson spoke on behalf of Mr. Aylsworth, and Mr. White spoke ably as usual. The meeting was closed with cheers for the Queen and for the candidates.

Moynes is closing business so there are cheap goods to be had in his line. Public Opinion. 2t

For sleeplessness, with cold extremities, SANDFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER.

BETTING AT ELECTIONS.—We would call the attention of our readers to the fact that taking a bet on the election kills their vote and leaves them liable to be proceeded against for corrupt practices. We would impress on all Liberal Conservatives that betting on the elections is illegal and any approach made to them for that purpose they should look upon as a trap laid for them. We should caution all those who have made any bets on the elections to have them cancelled at once and so prevent injury to the cause.

COUNTERFEIT BANK NOTES.—The Montreal Star says:—"Look out for $5 counterfeit notes on the Canadian Bank of Commerce, as a spurious and very dangerous bill of that description has been discovered in circulation. It is difficult to distinguish the bad bills from the genuine, so cleverly has the simulation been executed. One bill was detected this morning at the Bank, and another this afternoon. Both were of the "C" series, one number 231,437, and the other 231,278, and signed E. J. Smith. Upon close examination the vignette work on their backs were rather too darkly shaded and somewhat blurred, but the counterfeit is more perceptible to the touch than sight. Another note of which complaint has been made is No. 231,267, dated May 1, 1871, and signed E. J. Smith, cashier, instead of pro cashier. It also contains at the foot the words "Canada Bank Note," instead of "Canada Bank Note." One prominent defect is the ring on the hand of the Queen's portrait, which is scarcely discernible in the forged bill, but is very clearly seen in the genuine."

FIGHTING ON THE STREET.

FALL ASSIZES.

TUESDAY, Sept. 10.

In charging the Grand Jury, His Lordship said:—The fact of Court opening on the day appointed for nominating members of the House of Commons, is a misfortune; but it is not the fault of the Court, as they had appointed the day long prior to the issue of the writs for the election.

The fact of your County Town having become a City, is a matter of congratulation; it shows the country at large is prospering, and while it may not be for the interest of the immediate ratepayers that the town has assumed the position of a city—a city generally causes an increase of taxes—but the fact of towns growing so as to be sufficiently populous to be entitled by law to take the position of a City, is a matter of congratulation to the country at large.

I congratulate you on the fact that there are no prisoners in gaol for trial, and the Sheriff has, in conformity with the long established custom, presented me with a pair of white gloves.

The Judge then explained that two or three were out on bail for offences—one for larceny, another for false pretences—and explained fully the nature of these offences.

The Judge then fully discussed the question of abolishing Grand Juries, and explained the nature of the duties of a Grand Jury,—and fully set forth the hardship and inconvenience which would necessarily arise from abolishing the Grand Jury system. The Judge also discussed very fully the trial of cases by Petit Jury, and expressed himself strongly in favor of trial by Jury, because on the whole more satisfactory.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

TUESDAY, Sept. 10.

The Board met at 8 p. m.

PRESENT.—Messrs. Shepard (Chairman), Glass, Peck, Peterson, Jas. Macoun, Tennant, McGinnis, Tracy, Newbery, Burke, I. Diamond, Johnson, Jno. Macoun, Rev. J. W. Burke, and Doctor.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A communication was read from Jas. Smith, Inspector, regarding the supply of pure air to the furnaces in No. 2 school.

From the Department respecting the compendium of school law.

From Smart & Shepherd, Brockville, regarding ink wells.

From Rolph & Hutchinson, Toronto, regarding the same.

The above were referred to their appropriate committees.

The Finance Committee reported recommending the payment of salaries and accounts amounting to $3,478.56.

The Committee on School Management reported to the effect that they do not agree with the High School Inspector that the present accommodation is inconvenient and unsuitable, but that a separate building should be provided when it is deemed possible; and that another teacher, recommended by the Inspector, be not engaged at present. That no further addition to the staff of officers be made at present. That teachers should read the best works pertaining to their profession, as recommended by Inspector Johnston, and that his instructions as to teaching all subjects on the limit table must be attended to. That the number of pupils who have passed from the 3rd to the 4th book is unprecedented in the history of the schools. That Head Masters should hold meetings with their assistants to advise with them as to their duties. That of 132 applicants for promotion from the 3rd to the 4th book, 111 passed, and nearly all these sought admission to the Central School, of which classes 70 pupils remained in that school. Mr. Irwin and Miss Templeton took 80 pupils each, but there still remaining 20 or 25 who could not be accommodated in their divisions, and as many of these refused to go to any other school, the Committee recommend that the 4th book be discontinued in No. 2, and Mr. McKeown transferred to the Central School, Miss Jack being appointed Head Teacher of No. 2. This to be a temporary and experimental measure. All the pupils who passed the High School entrance examination elected to go there except two, who remain in Mr. Irwin's division of the Central School. Nine pupils of Mr. Dawson's division in the High School passed the intermediate examination, and the school has in consequence received an increased grant from the Government.

The report was received and referred to Committee on the whole.

The Board went into Committee on the report of the Finance Committee. The report was adopted, and the Committee rose and reported.—Adopted.

The Board went into Committee on the report of the Committee on School Management dated August 6th, which had not been adopted.

On motions made, the salary of Miss Martin was left as it stood, and those of Mr. Armistead and Miss Urquhart increased $50 each.

The Committee rose and reported,

Mr. Peck moved to refer the report back to strike out the increase of salaries to Miss Urquhart and Mr. Armistead.

The amendment was lost on the following vote:

YEAS.—Messrs. Burke, I. Diamond, Glass, Peck, Peterson and the Chairman.—6.

NAYS.—Messrs. Doctor, Johnson, James Macoun, Jno. Macoun, McGinnis, Newbery, Tennant and Tracy.—8.

The report was adopted, and Dr. Tracy withdrew his notice for reconsideration of the report.

The Board adjourned.

At the East Hastings nomination in 1872, Mr. Thomas Holden, in addressing the electors, said: "The first thing that should be done at Ottawa was to put a duty on American produce." See report in Weekly Intelligencer, August 16th, 1872.

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and labored breathing, the demulcent properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lactic Phosphate of Lime manifest itself in healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided reasserts herself, and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health.

Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00.

HEART-RENDING SCENES.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—A Canadian schooner with 17,000 bushels wheat sailed for Glasgow yesterday. This is the first grain ever taken at Chicago for that port.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The Times Boston special says the result in Maine has stirred both parties in Massachusetts to sudden activity, has cheered Butler amazingly and rendered greenbackers boisterously boastful. Butler's strength is now admitted to be formidable.

The World's Worcester, Mass., special says Kearney claims that the victory in Maine is largely due to his eastern visit.

DINGMAN'S FERRY, Pa., Sept. 11.—A beautiful daughter of Geo. Compton, hotel keeper, while visiting Big Buskkill Falls on Saturday with a party, peered over a ledge of rocks to see the seething water 120 feet below, suddenly lost her balance and fell headlong into the rocky abyss. She was fatally injured.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 11.—James Cannahan and Tom Spratt, both whites, quarrelled while unloading a schooner at Atlantic city yesterday. Cannahan struck Spratt fatally with an adze.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept 11.—The President and vice-President of the First National Bank, and cashier of the suspended Mastin Bank have been arrested on indictments, charging them with having received funds in a failing bank.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—A New Orleans despatch reports, a cool north wind sprang up last evening with a beneficial effect upon the sick. Changing weather has given impetus to fever.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—A travelling agent from Memphis is sick with yellow at Gloster, N. J., 19 miles from New York.

The number of emigrants arriving here from January to September was 54,000, an increase of 9,000 over arrivals during the corresponding period last year.

James Teeber threw himself in front of a train yesterday; when rescued he stated his four children had died, the last one recently and his dying request had been to meet him in heaven. Teeber said he gave his promise and now wished to keep it.

Washington specials:—

The Tribune reports that Secretary Sherman says the Maine election indicates a probability that the greenback party will take the place of the Democratic in national politics. It might not be surprising if greenbackers hold the balance of power in several States, and in Congress soon.

The Herald says, the belief is entertained that Sherman's chief motive in paying out silver for greenbacks on Monday, is his apprehension that his currency balance is inadequate for October's demands.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—Later advices from Constantinople give details of the death of Mehemet Ali Pasha at Gusinje Plava and Kolasir. Even before the arrival of Mehemet Ali complete anarchy prevailed, and upon his arrival in Jackoka he was violently upbraided with having come to hand over land to the Servians. The house selected by Mehemet Ali for lodgings was fired by Albanians of Jackova and Ipek. A fight began between the incendiaries and Mehemet Ali's escort, twenty of the latter fell. Towards evening, through the intervention of Ulemas, the conflict was appeased, the insurgents promising a peaceful attitude. About six in the evening, however, in Jackova, where Mehemet Ali still remained, the struggle broke out afresh, result g in the death of Mehemet's Adjutant with several officers of his escort. The house in which they took refuge was fired, Mehemet Ali escaped and concealed himself in a shed, but was discovered and mercilessly killed.

The Albanian league, said to number forty-five thousand men, well armed, are determined to resist the occupation of their territory by any Christian power. There is much talk of Servia and Montenegro co-operating with Austria. It is thought possible that anarchy in Albania may compel Austria to occupy that province also. 36,000 insurgents with 40 cannon are in old Bosnia with an advance guard 6,000 strong between Graesnitza and Han Karenovac. They have fortified Belina, Zwornik, Tuhla, and Tolsey.

LONDON Sept. 11.—The Times states there is not a single encouraging feature in the cotton trade of North Lancashire. The condition of the markets is worse than ever. Goods are being piled up in Manchester ware. houses and last accumulating in mill store. rooms. Small manufacturers must succumb.

ALEXANDRIA, Sept. 11.—An unusually heavy rise in the White and Blue Niles is reported. The Government is adopting measures of prevention against floods.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—At Doncaster races, the St. Leger stakes were won by Lord Falmouth's Jannette.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—A despatch from Howard gives particulars of his conference with chief Moses, previously reported. The Indians promise to deliver up the murderers of the Perkins family, also the property that the Columbians stole. The Indians ask for a reservation lying within the big bend of the Columbia. Howard says this proposition, coming from so many Indians, will, he thinks, lead to the solution of matters here satisfactorily to the Indians an dcitizens. Moses and the Indians pledge themselves to maintain the peace, except forced upon a reservation far from their homes.

CINCINNATTI, O., Sept. 11.—Another death from fever at Gallipolis yesterday, Joseph Martin, watchman on steamer Porter. He was taken sick last Saturday. The corpse was not permitted to be removed from the house. The neighbors would not allow his wife to leave the house. Physicians will make an effort to bury him to day.

Three new cases reported. Public schools closed yesterday.

Fires of coal tar are burning at the terminus of every street opening on the river. Many citizens are leaving, business almost suspended.

CINCINNATTI, O., Sept. 11.—Gupay clans throughout the country are assembling in large numbers at Dayton to attend the funeral of the late Queen, Matilda Stanley, on Sunday. The Queen died at Vicksburg several months ago.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 11.—The House now stands 69 Republicans, 21 Democrats, and 48 Greenbackers, with 14 to hear from, being one Opposition majority. Fraud is alleged in ward four, Portland. The aldermen will hear the case, and it may change four Democratic representatives to Republicans, and that may change the Legislature.

RAHWAY, N. J., Sept. 11.—The Union National Bank has suspended, caused by shrinking of real estate, it is thought all creditors will be paid.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Arrived, the S. S. Utopia from London, the France from Havre, and the Parthia from Liverpool.

ELLSWORTH, Me., Sept. 11.—The Republicans concede that the elections of March, Greenback, in the 5th congress district, by 600 plurality.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 11.—Cloudy, cool and windy. New cases 213; deaths 90.

CANTON, Miss., Sept. 11.—New cases 15; deaths 4; rainy; thermometer 62.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Indications:—

—Lord Salisbury has gone to visit Earl Beaconsfield.

—Both coaches were stopped on Monday night between Lightning Creek and Cheyenne river, Wyoming, by three armed men. It is thought they got less than $100 from the passengers, from whom they also took jewelery and watches. They also tried the Treasury boxes. One of the thieves, who was not masked, was recognised as James E. Johnson, commonly known as "Lenghty."

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to bring a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories,but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with age, Town and Township in the County, with age, Town and Township in the County, with age, street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increases the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to connect more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Township, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz. : One page, $10.00 ; half-page, $6.00 ; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as at the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE For CATARRH

INSTANTLY relieves and permanently cures this loathsome disease in all its varying stages. It possesses the soothing and healing properties of plants, herbs and barks in their essential form, free from every deleterious contamination, and in this respect differs from every other known remedy. In one short year it has found its way from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, and wherever known has become the standard remedy for the treatment of Catarrh. The proprietors have been wished upon by the thousands of grateful people who have been cured by its wonderful agency, and who have, at considerable expense and personal trouble, spread the good news throughout the circles in which they move. When you hear a wealthy gentleman of intelligence and refinement say, "I owe my life to Sanford's Radical Cure," you may feel assured that it is an article of great value, and justly to be classed among the standard medical specifics of the day.

THE benefit I derive from its daily use is to me priceless.
HENRY WELLS, of WELLS, FARGO & Co.

IT has cured me after twelve years of uninterrupted suffering.
GEO. W. HOUGHTON, WALTHAM, MASS.

I FOLLOWED the directions to the letter and am entirely cured. I have had a permanent cure.
D. W. GRAY, M. D., MUSCATINE, IOWA.

I HAVE recommended it to quite a number of my friends, all of whom have expressed to me their high estimate of its value and good effects with them.
WM. BOWEN, 225 FIFTH ST., ST. LOUIS.

AFTER using two bottles I find myself permanently cured. I have since recommended over one hundred bottles with the greatest success.
WM. W. ARMSTRONG,
139 HARRISON AVE., BOSTON.

WE have sold SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE for over a year and can say candidly that we never sold a similar preparation that gave such universal satisfaction. We have put to test of the first complaint.
E. D. BALDWIN & CO., WASHINGTON, IND.

THE cure effected in my case by SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE was so remarkable that it seemed to me I should be recreant without relief from any of the usual remedies that it could not be true. I therefore made affidavit to it before Seth J. Thomas, Esq., Justice of the Peace, Boston.
GEORGE F. DEMOREST, BOSTON.

Each package of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE contains Dr. Sanford's Improved Inhaling Tube, and full directions for its use in all cases. Price, $1.00. For sale by all wholesale and retail druggists and dealers throughout the United States and Canada.
WEEKS & POTTER, Wholesale Agents and Whole sale Druggists, Boston, Mass.

LIVER IS KING.

The Liver is the imperial organ of the whole human system, as it controls the life, health and happiness of man. When it is disturbed in its proper action, all kinds of ailments are the natural result. The digestion of food, the movement of the heart and blood, the action of the brain and nervous system, are all immediately connected with the workings of the Liver. It has been successfully proved that Green's August Flower is unequalled in curing all persons afflicted with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint, and all the numerous symptoms that result from an unhealthy condition of the Liver and Stomach. Sample bottles to try, 10 cents. Positively sold in all towns on the Western Continent. Three doses will prove that it is just what you want. Sold by all Druggists in America

A Slight Cough that we are so apt to consider a mere annoyance and treat with corresponding neglect, too often proves to be the seed sown for an inevitable harvest—CONSUMPTION. Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. A teaspoonful of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime given whenever the Cough is troublesom , will afford immediate relief, and if persevered in, will effect a cure even in the most obstinate cases.

Prepared solely by J. H. ROBINSON, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B. ; and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle ; six for $5.00. 34w-lm

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Deny it who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success than any preparation, which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for the astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price, 25 cents per Bottle.

The Trade supplied through the Wholesale Drug and Patent Medicine Houses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

SOLD BY ALL ENTERPRISING DRUGGISTS.

OUR PARIS LETTER.

THE KINGDOM OF DENMARK—ITS PARTICIPATION AT THE FRENCH SHOW—INTERESTING EXHIBITS OF A THRIFTY PEOPLE.

(From a Regular Correspondent.)

HOTEL DU LOUVRE, Paris, Aug. 30, 1878.

Amongst the nations who have responded to the appeal of France, the exhibition of her ancient ally, Denmark, is received with much sympathy. During the great wars following the French revolution, and in the coalition of the European states resulting from the conquest of Napoleon I, Denmark steadfastly remained a friend to France, and putting herself at the head of the neutral maritime Powers suffered losses which have not yet been repaired. Copenhagen was bombarded and half destroyed in August and September 1807, and the Danish fleet was captured and conveyed to England. By the treaties of 1815, the Peninsular kingdom was reduced to a state of the third order, although the energetic character of her people, her advanced civilization and naval importance, ensured her a certain amount of influence throughout Europe—even when the events of 1864-5 deprived her of half her territory, and more than a third of her inhabitants. At present the population of Denmark does not exceed 1,800,000 souls. But the spirit of Christian IX. so distinguished for loyalty, courage, perseverence, love of family, and studious and meditative habits. Having reaped nothing but mortification from politics, they have taken refuge in labor, where they know that activity and probity ever bear the palm. From these causes the Danish exhibition is not the least interesting in the Palace of the Champ de Mars, representing as it does the vitality and skill of this little country in peaceful arts.

The facade of the Danish section, in the street of the Nations, is copied from the Bourse of Copenhagen. It is a small building of brick and sculpured white stone, lacking neither elegance nor originality of design. On each side of the entrance rise two stucco columns, imitating marble. Between each pair is a niche, at present empty. The columns nearest the entrance support projecting pilasters, above which are two other columns of lesser proportions, which form a frame for the curious mullioned window of the first floor. The gable is ornamented with two beautiful Caryatides, between which the royal scutcheon is sculptured. A truncated pyramid surrounded by a sphere crowns the pediment. Within, Denmark occupies but one half of the transverse triforium; the right is occupied by Greece, and the piquant contrast between the products of the country and the period of Bericles, and those of the cold and foggy Baltic Islands, is continued through the galleries appertaining to the facade. Throughout, and even in the vestibule of the Danish house, we meet with the Exhibition of the Direction of the Communal Schools of Copenhagen. Education is greatly considered in this kingdom, especially primary instruction, which is gratuitous, and compulsory. Plans of the little used in the school are shown the productions of the pupils, drawing albums and copy books. A glass case contains various objects of needle-work, cleverly done by little girls. There is, however, nothing relating to the method of secondary instruction nor to the system adopted in the lycees and technical institutions, which are said to be admirably adapted to suit their special needs.

The show-cases of the first room contains specimens of printing and Danish book-making, ships, rigging, and perfumery. More worthy of note are the beautiful ceramic collections of Madame Ipsen and Peter E. Schou, of Copenhagen. Several of the specimens have been bought by the Vienna Museum. A little further on, a large show case verging upon the longitudinal gallery also attracts notice. The adjoining room is principally filled with furniture, for the making of which Copenhagen enjoys a certain reputation, which is certainly justified by the present exhibition. The fine buffet-sideboards are the prizes of a lottery formed on behalf of the Copenhagen Museum of Arts and Crafts. The centre of the hall is in the form of a semi-circular rotunda, at the upper part of which is a kind of fresco representing the different types of the country in national costume. Shopkeepers, sailors, fishermen, workmen, and peasants follow each other hand in hand, and carrying garlands. Perhaps it is the neighborhood of Greece which has inspired the reminiscence of the Panathenaic procession. On entering the third hall which is devoted to clothing, the skin of the formidable white bear contrasts in its vividness with the soft shading of the elder down.

Denmark possesses towards the North Pole several islands, one of which, Iceland, is three times as large as herself. Unfortunately its name is but too significant of the nature of the country, and, with the exception of some scanty beaches and valleys in which a savory herb grows, the island consists of jokel (mountains), glaciers, sterile and dreary plains (fields of short moss, mousse for marshes), lakes, torrents, rapids and cataracts, long and large volcanic flows. It is not, therefore, to be wondered at that the island contains only 37,000 inhabitants, whereas, were it populated in proportion as is France, it should nourish 7,000,000. It is only represented at the Exhibition by some furs prepared by the furriers of Copenhagen.

In this same hall is a large collection of tapestries, woven embroideries and other objects, the work of the Danish women; various products of textile industry, nearly all of which are still manufactured by the country people, with the exception of the cloth, linen, and cotton tissues made at Copenhagen, and exhibited here. Remark being an essentially agricultural country, most of the machines exhibited in the gallery reserved to mechanics, are instruments of aericulture. The western part of Jutland is almost entirely composed of flat land and somewhat poor, but the eastern part, the soil of which is chalk or clay, and perfectly irrigated, is both rich and well cultivated. Zealand and the southern islands are still more fertile, possessing an undulating surface, and alluvial or sandy soils admirably adapted for culture.

In the hall of alimentary products are numerous samples of the cereals of the country. Oats and barley rank first as in all northern climates Rye and wheat follow. Lapland wheat is justly celebrated, and known to all agriculturists. The Danish agricultural exhibition is completed by interesting meteorological and statistical tables, which enable visitors to arrive at the exact condition and progress of the rural economy of Denmark, by maps, plans, models of farms, and drawings of the different types of the equine and bovine races of the country.

LOUIS.

Vote for the National Policy.

The prosperity of Canada depends on how her people will vote at the coming election and if they are true to their country they must vote for the National Policy. Men of Canada, do not be misled and deceived by Free Trade theorists. Do not allow foreign rivals to get all the profits from the Canadian buyers. Do not allow foreign banks to absorb all the money that should be kept at home to foster the progress and maintain the future prosperity of the Dominion. "Fair play is bonnie play." Let us insist upon having it at the hands of our Legislators.

The present policy allows American wheat to come into Canada free of duty, thereby lessening the price of every bushel sold by our farmers and inflicting a loss of many countless thousands of dollars.

It allows American corn to come into Canada free of duty and has reduced the price of our corn twenty cents per bushel.

It allows American oats to come into Canada free of duty, thereby lessening the price of every bushel raised by our farmers.

It allows American garden stuffs to come into Canada, while our own market gardeners find it impossible to sell their produce at a living price and are prevented by the Americans from sending anything to the States.

It has deprived the Canadian farmer of a home market for his wool and compels him to sell to the Americans at a price little more than half what the same wool brings in the States.

It compelled the Canadian farmers pay into the treasury of the United States last year nearly three million dollars in duties.

It has driven one half a million Canadians to seek homes in the United States and build up, by their intelligence and industry, a foreign land.

It has closed up many of our manufacturing industries, and compelled others to run at a loss, and on half and on three quarter time.

It has allowed American machinery, marble-ware, waggons, buggies, parlor furniture, pianos, sofas, tables, lounge frames, chairs, &c., &c., to come into Canada on a low tariff while our own mechanics are walking the streets without employment.

It has closed up our sugar refineries and is compelling our people to pay a million dollars a year more for their sugar, than they would do, did we refine for ourselves.

It is killing off our interprovincial trade and thereby sowing seeds which will cause the disruption of the union, besides depriving our farmers and millers of their most profitable market.

It is driving our trade away from the motherland and into the arms of the United States.

It has ruined our West India trade and thereby deprived our farmers of their most profitable foreign market.

Men of Canada, do you wish to see your country, despite all her magnificent resources, sink to the degrading level of the commercial vassal, the hewer of wood, and the drawer of water for the neighboring Republic. If so, supports the opponents of the National Policy.

Do you wish to see our glorious Dominion developing her splendid resources and rising to be true position as the leading nation of the Western Hemisphere. The ally of the great British Empire, populated by teeming millions of happy, contented and prosperous people, showing her gratitude to that Providence, which has blessed her among the nations by the gift of untold natural wealth, by developing and utilizing its bounteous gifts! If so vote for the National Policy.

The American Corn Question.

No one article of import more seriously affects the interests of our agriculturists than that which forms the subject of this article. The importations of corn last year reached the enormous amount of considerably over eight millions of bushels. It is allowed to enter into this country free of duty, and thus a tremendous competition is created against Canadian coarse grains in the Canadian market, without even the compensation of causing an increase of competition, by compelling the producers to pay a share of our tax, in return for our market.

The first item to be considered in the matter of competition is the large proportion that enters into the manufacture of whiskey. Nearly 6,000,000 bushels of this American product is consumed in the manufacture of intoxicating drinks. It is a fact that our farmers know well, that if it were not for this competition, they would supply the demand for these purposes with their own barley and rye, and while they would enjoyed a large home market, the article of whiskey would be robbed of a portion of its poison, as it is admitted by analysts that corn whiskey contains more fusil oil than either rye or malt whiskey. Here then in this competition is a matter of great importance to our farmers, that must not be lost sight of. The removal of the importation enters largely into competition with farmers' coarse grains for feeding purposes, being mostly consumed by lumbermen, contractors, carriers and others keeping a large number of horses, and very little of it is consumed by farmers themselves, as they have sufficient of such crops to meet their own demands and something to spare.

The second competition that the farmers meet on this question is in the matter of beef. The distilleries extracting the spirits from the corn turn it out as the cattle for fattening purposes, and after being fattened on this swill from corn, imported free of duty, the beeves are put into market in competition with the farmer's stall fed cattle. There is no small item of consideration for the farmer.

The next point of competition is that of the whiskey against beer. In comparing the production of these two articles for 1876 and 1877, we find that whiskey made from American corn increased over 400,000 gallons, and beer made from Canadian barley decreased over 200,000 gallons. Hence this American corn is rapidly driving our barley out of our own market, while the American demand for Canadian barley is decreasing yearly. Farmers must wake up to these stern facts and act as wise men in the promises if they would not find themselves robbed of their markets, shut out from their neighbor's and left in a much worse condition than they are to-day; which all know is bad enough.

The next invention Edison is to attempt is a machine that will keep a woman's eyes closed during prayer time in church when a friend in the pew in front has on a new frock.

Political Notes.

"TACTICS."

The Globe acknowledges Sir Alexander T. Galt to be a mighty authority on Canadian fiscal affairs, and quotes as his opinion his utterances of 1866, twelve years ago. But in doing so it neglects (an omission which the Mail very fully supplies) to state that since that time the opinions of the gentleman in question had, owing to the entire change in our circumstances, undergone a complete reversal, and he last year addressed to the Hon. Mr. Mills a lengthy letter, declaring himself in favor of protection to home industries. Such "tactics" are peculiar to the Globe, and at the same time strongly indicative of a failing cause.

THE GRIT PLATFORM.

"NO POLICY" POLICY.—The sturdy little Moncton Times says of the "no-policy" policy of the Grits:—"The same dead and hollow cry of "Pacific Scandal" is being used by the Grits in the Maritime Provinces, who, like their brethren Ontario, have no policy, and are determined to avoid the real issue of the contest, well knowing that they cannot justify the jug-handled, starvation system of the Government, or get the people to approve of the serious scandals of the past five years. They confess, by their silence, all the boldness of desperation, stimulated by the certainty with which defeat stared them in the face. The honest and impartial electors of Westmoreland and of New Brunswick know full well that a Government whose supporters dare not attempt a defence of its acts, but relies on the real or fancied faults of their opponents as a defence, is in no way deserving of a new lease of power. An overwhelming majority will so decide on the 17th September, now instant."

Senator McPherson, in a lengthy and able letter on public affairs, thus sketches the platform upon which the Grit Government are appealing to the county for support:

First. Misrepresentation and persecution of Sir John Macdonald.

Second. Commercial policy unchanged, notwithstanding the universal cry ascending against it complaining of undiminished depression and increasing poverty.

Third. Contempt for home industries, except law and oil.

Fourth. Indifference to the exodus of the youth of the country.

Fifth. Unimproved administration, it being perfect in every department.

Sixth. Expenditure to continue unchecked so long as loans can be negotiated to cover deficits and extravagance.

Seventh. Continued "elevation of the standard of morality," in the Reform sense, as heretofore.

Last. Misrepresentation and persecution of Sir John Macdonald.

In the year 1876 the so-called "Reform" Government expended nearly half a million dollars bringing emigrants into Canada. In the same year 21,000 CANADIANS LEFT THE COUNTRY OUR OWN NATIVE BORN WENT TO THE UNITED STATES in order to gain the livelihood denied them at home, and it is estimated that last year the number thus expatriated was largely in excess of that number. At the time of the last census there was no less than 487,000 CANADIAN-BORN RESIDENTS IN THE STATES. The cause of this exodus was the lack of protection to our home industries, which have been ruined thereby and their proprietors in many cases, and in nearly all cases two-thirds of their operatives, driven into exile.

The Montreal Evening Post (Independent) says:—"The condition of England and Canada are as much asunder as the Poles. England had made her manufacturers when she joined the Free Trade policy. No country in the world could compete with her in iron works and ship building. She had her markets full and she wanted Free Trade to enable her to dispose of her goods. So it would be in Canada if our manufacturers were protected for a few years. But we must make a child stand before it can walk, and Canadian industries can never compete with similar industries, already established and in working order, without protecting them long enough to give them vitality. That Protection would injure the farmer is another fallacy. It would increase the price of many commodities the farmer would require, but in good times it will be cheaper to pay eight dollars for your beaver, than in bad times, it might be to pay four dollars for the same article. All over the world famine prices mean good times, low prices mean bad times. Five years ago it was cheaper to pay $600 for a dwelling house than it is to-day to pay $300 for it. High prices should alarm no one; on the contrary, they indicate prosperity, and that is what we all are aiming at.

CHEERING ACCOUNTS.—The Mail publishes a card from the Hon. Frank Smith and two other Roman Catholic gentlemen, stating that they, having investigated the Archbishop of Toronto's charge that there were rumors of a serious difference and misunderstanding between himself and Sir John A. Macdonald, were assured that there was no dondall, were assured that there was no foundation for the rumor for them. The same journal says cheering accounts of success are coming from all parts of the Dominion, and although the Ministerialists are making a most determined fight, they will be utterly routed all along the line.

HOW MUCH WE LOSE.—As an instance of the extent to which we are compelled to rely upon the United States market for articles, many of which, had we a proper system, we could ourselves produce, it may not be out of place to state that, while, in 1875, Spain, Italy, Russia, Turkey, the Netherlands, Portugal, Sweeden and Norway with a population of 144,980,377 imported from the United States $46,272,407, the Dominion of Canada, with her small population of about four millions purchased in the same market no less an amount than $50,805,890. This is a large sum for us to be paying annually for items it is in our power to go to swell the wealth of a rapacious rival and to be abstracted from the pockets of our own people, who could, were they allowed to earn it, retain a considerable portion of it among themselves.

The American Cultivator, (Boston) says:—"A Clarenceville man thought he could sell his potatoes to a better advantage in Vermont than on his side of the line; so he took a load to Alburgh, and sold 100 bushels for $25. When he got home, after paying United States duties, and tolls, he had $8 of his $25, or 8 cents per bushel, just about enough to pay for the cartage. American produce is admitted into Canada free, but Canadians have to pay a duty of about 66 per cent. on all they send to the States."

It is only within the past six years that the Japanese have attempted to make use of the petroleum wells existing within their dominions. Now several refining establishments are in operation, and making kerosene oil has become an important industry.

THE COMING STRUGGLE.

Our Battle Cry: "Protection to Home Industries."

The Opposition Policy.

The commercial policy of the Opposition is represented in the following resolution moved by Sir John Macdonald in the House of Commons :—

"That this House is of opinion that the welfare of Canada requires the adoption of a National Policy, which by a judicious readjustment of the Tariff will benefit and foster the Agricultural, the Mining, the Manufacturing and other interests of the Dominion; that such a policy will retain in Canada thousands of our fellow-countrymen, now obliged to expatriate themselves in search of employment denied them at home; will restore prosperity to our struggling industries, now so sadly depressed; will prevent Canada from being made a sacrifice market; will encourage and develop an active interprovincial trade; and moving (as it ought to do) in the direction of the reciprocity of Tariffs with the neighbour, so far as the varied interests of Canada may demand, will greatly tend to procure for this Country, eventually, a reciprocity of Trade."

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, SEPT. 12.

THE NOMINATIONS.

The result of the nominations cannot but be regarded as highly favorable to the Opposition. Although no candidate was returned by acclamation in Ontario, yet in four of the constituencies the Ministerial party dare not put a candidate of their own in the field, namely, in North Leeds, where two Conservatives are opposing each other; in South Simcoe, where a temperance independent is opposing a Conservative; in Cardwell, where another gentleman of the same stripe opposes Mr. Thomas White; and in West Hastings, where an Independent Protectionist is opposed to a Conservative. Then in Frontenac, West Toronto and Niagara, the Ministerial Party only placed candidates in the field at the eleventh hour to prevent the elections going by default, as they have neither hope nor prospect of success. On the part of the Opposition, not one constituency is without a strong candidate, and success will be won in some places where those unacquainted with the tremendous change in the feelings of the people in those localities scarcely look for it. Thus in the greatest of the Provinces the Government has confessed in advance to defeat in four constituencies, and in three others they have only set up men of straw to be knocked down.

In Quebec the prospect is equally favorable, three Conservatives and but one Grit, and he (Mr. Scriver) of a very moderate character have been returned, whilst in Montreal Centre Mr. Devlin appears as an Independent, as does also Mr. Frechette in Levis, there being no "straight" Government candidate in either of those constituencies.

In Nova Scotia both parties are fully represented, as they are also in Prince Edward Island and Manitoba.

In New Brunswick two Government candidates have been elected without Opposition.

In British Columbia only one candidate has dared to offer for one of the six seats.

We congratulate the Conservative party on this encouraging prospect, which foreshadows a brilliant victory on Tuesday next.

THE CABINET.

Grit platform orators deny that the present Government increased the number of Cabinet officers. Under the late Government these numbered thirteen, but Mr. Mackenzie took office with fourteen Cabinet Ministers, Mr. Blake, without portfolio, being the fourteenth. He resigned three months afterwards, in February, 1874, after acting the "decoy duck" during elections. Mr. Mackenzie contended, when in opposition, that seven heads of departments were sufficient. They also created a Railway Department, which is virtually a Cabinet Office, to which they appointed their old-time opponent Mr. C.J. Brydges, and gave him a salary of $8,000 a year, equal to that of the Premier.

Meeting at Trenton.

The meeting held in Trenton in Mr. Wallbridge's interest last night was an immense success, the Town Hall being crowded to the door with an audience which was at least three to one for Wallbridge. Mr. Francis, Roove, occupied the chair, and made a neat speech in introducing Mr. Wallbridge, who spoke for nearly two hours. Mr. Clute made a wildly reckless speech in favor of Mr. Brown, and left soon after its conclusion, but not before receiving a severe retort from Mr. J. W. Johnson, whom he had attacked. Mr. E. B. Fraleck followed with an able address. The meeting closed with cheers for the Queen, Sir John Macdonald and Mr. Wallbridge, not a voice being raised Mr. Brown.

The workingman who votes for Brown, Aylsworth, or O'Flynn votes to take away his own employment.

Don't Understand.

Mr. Brown professes not to understand the National Policy. Yet in Parliament he voted for three successive years for resolutions in favor of such a policy. The last of these resolutions will be found at the head of our editorial columns. What is the use of a representative who does not understand what he votes for, and has been unable to learn in three years! Let us leave him at home to attend to such business as he does understand, and return to Parliament a gentleman whom the Mail includes in its list of thirty of the ablest candidates now before the people for election to Parliament. In North and East Hastings Brown the Grit Candidates professes to be in the dark as to the National Policy. They also should be left to keep company with Mr. Brown, as men will be needed in the next Parliament who know what they vote for; and who have the courage, the ability and the consistency to support and maintain their views and those of their constituents.

THE CANDIDATE and his NEW FRIENDS.

LOOK ON THIS PICTURE. AND ON THAT.

If he was a protectionist PROTECTION IS LEGALIST, and would put a protective duty ROBBERY.—R. J. Wallbridge tectively on anything Cartwright, Finance Minister that required it. He voted for the Administration would not say he would from which Mr. Brown not go for a retaliatory supports. policy if he got in a fighting mood. He believed You are told that Prothat his ideas and his tection (for this is really Wallbridge's ran in the the only solid plank in same groove, and it was the Opposition platform) therefore a question as to the thing needed, and to which of the two men make you happy and they would prefer.—Mr. prosperous. — Belleville Brown at the Nomina- organ of the Grits, Sept. tion. 11, 1878.

Let Mr. Brown, the Finance Minister, and the Belleville organ, reconcile their direct opposition to each other on this vital question. Honest men see in the support of Mr. Brown by the Grits an unholy alliance, and will crush it out of existence on Tuesday.

A Clear View of the Situation.

Some little time since the Hon. Billa Flint, of this city, wrote a letter on the trade question, which appeared in the Madoc Review, and from which we make the following extracts :—

"If we have fair play with our American cousins, we ought to have reciprocity, but as we have not, is there any good reason why they should put a tax of 15 cents per bushel on our barley and rye, and 20 cents on our wheat, while we allow their wheat to come into Canada duty free? Let us examine the parallel cases. It is said the consumer pays the duty. So he does, but if barley is worth $1 a bushel in Oswego, it ought fairly to be worth 95 cents in Belleville, allowing 5 cents for storage and freight, providing we had reciprocity. But now, while the American consumer pays the duty, the Canadian farmer gets 15 cents less for his bushel of barley. If Belleville, Trenton, Shannonville and Mill Point, the four shipping places in this county, ship two million bushels in the season, the loss to this county for the want of a reciprocal Free Trade at 15 cents per bushel would be $ 300,000, and the lower the price of barley the harder it presses on the farmer.

"Suppose a farmer with 400 bushels of barley worth $1 per bushel in Oswego—he only gets $320 for his crop, but if he could save the 15 cents per bushel he would have $380, or $60 more by saving the duty; or if his 400 bushels were worth only 75 cents in Oswego, he would get $ 25 here, or $220—or without duty $60 more, making $280; and the lower the grain goes the harder it comes on the farmer to submit to the deduction of 15 cents per bushel to meet the buyer of the Oswego market. Hence, while the consumer really pays the duty, the Canadian farmer is deprived of the benefit of the extra 15 cents per bushel by the illiberal action of our American neighbors—while in Canada we admit their corn, wheat, oats, &c., duty free, which must, under all circumstances, except in a short crop or famine, work against the interest of our farmers.

"Suppose our Government puts the same duty on corn, wheat, &c., coming from the States, as is put on barley, wheat, &c., going from Canada; supposing we meet them on their own grounds as to manufactures, and thereby enlighten us as they do us, from making a slaughter market of their country, as they do of Canada, to the injury of our young and struggling factories, would we not be more likely to get Reciprocal Free Trade in the farming products, not only of grain, but of cattle, horses, sheep, &c.? I believe we would."

Considering that Mr. Flint is a man of well-known ability and has had a business experience in Canada of half a century; that he has sat in Parliament for many years, first as a member of the Legislative Assembly, next as a Legislative Councillor, and now as a Senator; that he is now and always has been a Reformer, though refusing to bow to the Brown dictatorship; and that he is and has been in the lumber business, which is supposed to profit by the importation of corn and oats from the United States free of duty, his capacity as a critic of the Government policy cannot but be acknowledged, whilst his independence of motives of self-interest is above suspicion. We therefore feel justified in asking our readers in this and adjoining counties to read carefully and ponder well the words of the venerable Senator for the Trent Division.

We urge upon every Liberal Conservative elector in the three Ridings of this County to be at their respective polling places early on the morning of the 17th and record their votes for the Liberal Conservative candidates.

Above are represented the forms of ballot papers which will be used in the elections for the three Ridings of this County, and in which the voter has marked his ballot for Messrs. Bowell, White and Wallbridge respectively. In order that all may fully understand how to vote, we give herewith the directions, as contained in the statute :

"The elector, on receiving the ballot-paper, shall forthwith proceed into one of the compartments of the polling station, and there mark his ballot paper, making a cross with a pencil, on any part of the ballot-paper within the division containing the name of the candidate for whom he intends to vote, and shall then fold up such ballot-paper, so that the initials on the back can be seen without opening it, and hand it to the Deputy-Returning officer, who shall, without unfolding it, ascertain, by examining his initials, and the number upon the counterfoil, that it is the same that he furnished to the elector, and shall first detach and destroy the counterfoil, and shall then immediately, and in the presence of the elector, place the ballot-paper in the ballot-box."

Thus the ballot is absolutely secret, and it being impossible to ascertain how any man voted by subsequent examination.

Each Elector shall vote at the Polling Station of the Polling District in which he is qualified to vote and no other.

No Candidate is allowed to pay for conveying voters to the Poll, and no Agent or other person is allowed to pay for such service. This does not, however, debar neighbors and friends from assisting each other in getting to the poll.

Friends, be very careful in marking your ballots for

BOWELL in North Hastings.
WHITE in East Hastings, and
WALLBRIDGE in West Hastings.

The best Legislative policy is that which will most effectually develop all the natural advantages of a country, whether natural or material. Such a policy will receive the hearty support of the Opposition candidates, Messrs. White, Wallbridge, and Bowell.

What a "Liberal Catholic" Thinks of the Government.

Mr. John O'Donohoe, of Toronto, was the originator of the Catholic League. He was elected to Parliament for East Toronto, but on being unseated he was defeated, the second election taking place under the ballot. Mr. O'Donohoe has now become disgusted with the party which he former ly supported, just as Mr. J. L. P. O'Hanly, of Ottawa, and others of his fellow-Liberal compatriots have become, and at a meeting of Liberal Catholics, held in Toronto recently, he moved a series of resolutions containing a powerful indictment of the Government. The third and last of these resolutions is as follows :—

"And whereas, after five years trial, with the most ample opportunity of giving effect to the professions and proving their own sincerity, backed by a majority in the House of Commons, unexampled in the constitutional history of this country, all the principles, professions and promises of the Reform party have either been ignored, forgotten or broken, a coalition taking the place of pure party Government, the independence of Parliament violated, members contracting with Government, wide spread corruption of members of Parliament, which required a white-washing Act to shield the delinquents; members from the first Commoner downward, tempted by a venal Government; the Speaker, a Minister of the Crown, and several other members compelled to vacate their seats, while others, fearing the ordeal, absented themselves for a whole session; control of Parliament set at naught in giving contracts without being submitted for its approval; moneys expended without being appropriated; the cost of administration in every department of the public services increased notwithstanding the crippled resources of the people and an unusually severe commercial depression; pledges of retrenchment disregarded, and while pretending to be the custodians of popular liberty defending the violation of the principles of responsible Government by sustaining the Lieut-Governor of Quebec in dismissing a Ministry possessing the confidence of the people's representatives."

"B it therefore resolved that the Mackenzie Administration has, in the opinion of this meeting, forfeited the confidence reposed in it in 1874; that it is justly chargeable with much of the distress to-day prevailing in the country, that any further lease of power would augment the destitution brought on by incapacity and extravagance, and that it is the duty of the electors, irrespective of party bias to unite in displacing a Government whose record is made of broken pledges, abnegation of principles and unblushing hypocrisy."

Let no man who is interested in the advancement of any of our manufacturing interests support a Grit candidate. Messrs. White, Bowell, and Wallbridge ask your support.

Wriggling, but Caught.

Mr. Brown's organ wriggles like an eel on a hook in regard to its candidate's position on the "trade question," as it is popularly called; but we have caught it and do not intend to let it get back into deep water again, despite its wriggling and slime. Our assertion that Mr. Brown is a supporter of the National Policy, and that the organ belied its candidate in stating that he is an opponent of that policy, it brands as "false" and "insignificant." Very well, to the proof: During the last session of Parliament Sir John A. Macdonald moved a resolution, the full text of which can be found at the head of our editorial columns, commencing thus: "That this House is "of opinion that the welfare of Canada re-"quires the adoption of a National Policy, "which by a judicious readjustment of the "tariff," &c., and amongst those who voted for that motion was JAMES BROWN. Will that do for the stupid, reckless and angry organist, whose candidate tries in vain to ride two horses at once? We pity Mr. Brown and his organ as well. Their task is a hard one, and they must earnestly long for its ending.

East Hastings.

At Mr. Aylsworth's meeting in Tweed last evening there was a very large attendance. In addition to speeches from Mr. Aylsworth, and Mr. Anderson, of Belleville, stirring addresses were made by Mr. White, and Messrs. G. D. Dickson and Mr. Johnson, of Belleville. The meeting was largely in favor of Mr. White.

A Nut for Grit Platform Orators.

The following, which we extract from the Boston Journal, is so complete an answer to the reckless assertions of Grit platform orators in their speeches to the electors in this locality, that we give it without further comment: "Mr. James M. Swank, Secretary of the American Iron and Steel Association, who has made a tour through Pennsylvania and the West, gives most encouraging reports regarding the present condition and indications for the future of the iron and steel trade. All the Bessemer and crucible steel mills, as far west as the Missouri river, with a single exception in St. Louis, are in operation, and of the pig iron furnaces about two-fifths are in full blast. There is no accumulation even of the common grades of iron, and all that is produced goes upon the market. The demand is now heavier than it has been for a long time, and while the production of pig iron is slightly in excess of last year, that of steel of all descriptions is considerably greater. The prices of iron at this time are very firm with an advancing tendency. The country has never before consumed as much American made iron and steel as at present, the demand for the current quarter being far in excess of that of the quarter before. Producers are firm in the belief that the opening of the fall trade will reveal a much brighter state of affairs and that the improvement will be continuous and substantial."

Protection Benefits Yet Cheapens.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce gives in a recent article the following reasons why Protection benefits the manufacturer yet cheapens his productions to the consumer, viz.:—

1st. Because it secures our ports of entry from being flooded with surpluses forced upon us by foreigners to relieve their own superabundance and to sustain their home prices.

2nd. Because it affords the home manufacturer a large aggregate gain, although the rate of profit is decreased.

3rd. Because it fosters the invention of labour saving machinery.

Three good reasons why we should protect and foster our manufacturing industries, are they not?

We are confident of a victory in North, West and East Hastings for the Conservative party. But it will not do to be too sanguine. The only way to put this confidence beyond doubt is for every Liberal Conservative elector to work to secure that victory. Every man can do something. Vote first and then see that every vote marked for the party is also recorded.

Vote for Prosperity.

There should be no doubt upon any man's mind as to how he should vote at the coming elections. For Mr. Cartwright himself has announced the following proposition :—

"THAT PROTECTION WOULD, IN THIS COUNTRY, FOR A "FEW BRIEF YEARS," ENABLE MANUFACTURERS TO MAKE "ENORMOUS PROFITS," AND WOULD CREATE A "TEMPORARY GENERAL PROSPERITY."

Vote for Bowell, Wallbridge and White, and a few years of Protection and Prosperity.

At the East Hastings nomination in 1872, Mr. Thomas Holden, in addressing the electors, said: "The first thing that should be done at Ottawa was to put a duty on American produce." See report in Weekly Intelligencer, August 16th, 1872.

An easy triumph is certain for the Liberal Conservative candidates of Hastings if each Liberal Conservative elector does his simple duty. Need we urge that this duty be performed? Your interest and your country's interest are at stake. Go and vote early in the morning of the 17th, and Messrs. Bowell, White, and Wallbridge will be elected by a large majority.

WORK! WORK!

In a few days the Electoral Battle for the Dominion will be ended. From all parts of the country the tidings are hopeful for the triumph of the Liberal Conservative party. No doubt there will disappointments and surprises to both parties when the ballots come to be counted throughout the country. However, the present is the time for work, and no stone should be left unturned to make the final triumph of Opposition principles as sure as it can be made before the final returns from the Returning Officers are published.

We trust that every member of the Liberal Conservative party in the North, East, and West Ridings of this County, will make this election his own personal matter, and spend the remaining few days before the polling day, in perfecting the organization and getting everything ready to poll the entire vote. If this be done we can confidently predict the election of Messrs. Bowell, White and Wallbridge by very large majorities.

The Grit party have no sympathy with our unemployed workmen, and if their candidates are sent back to Parliament they will support a Government whose policy is one that would eventually, if persisted in, destroy the best interests of all classes. Vote for Wallbridge, Bowell, and White.

City and Vicinity.

DAIRYMEN'S EXHIBITION.—The Dairymen's Exhibition of Eastern Ontario will be held at Belleville on the 2nd and 3rd of October, in connection with the West Hastings Agricultural Show.

CORRECTION.—In the Police Court report of yesterday, Wm. Carter was mentioned as having been fined for neglecting to register a dog. The name should have been Wm. Curtis.

RALLY TO-MORROW NIGHT.—Electors, remember the mass meeting called by Mr. Wallbridge, to be held in the Opera House to-morrow night. All are invited, and Mr. Brown has been asked to attend and speak on his own behalf.

CENSURED.—The Montreal Police Committee have censured Sergeant Richardson, of the city police force, for his conduct in the matter of the high-handed arrest, a few nights ago, of Messrs. A. Force and N. B. Falkiner, of Belleville.

PRINCE EDWARD RAILWAY.—The vote on the By-law granting a bonus to the Prince Edward Railway took place at Picton on Monday, and resulted in a majority for the by-law of 189. 194 votes were given in its favor and 31 against it. There is great rejoicing at the result. It is to be hoped that the work will now be pushed with vigor and that no delays may be permitted to interfere with its progress.

PRINCE EDWARD.—The Kingston News says:—"We are pleased to hear that the differences among prominent members of the party have been in a great measure healed, and that the prospects of Mr. McCuaig's election are excellent. As there is good reason to believe that the old Midland District will record a solid vote against the corruption of the Government, it is gratifying to learn that Prince Edward will be redeemed next week."

GOT THE WALKING STICK.—Mr. Brown's friends seem to have "lots of money" (wherever it comes from). At the peach festival of the Holloway Street C. M. congregation in the City Hall last night, they "came down handsomely" and secured the walking cane which was put for competition between Messrs. Brown and Wallbridge. The gift will be an appropriate one, as Mr. Brown will find it useful on Tuesday night in walking out of the position which he has occupied of M. P. for West Hastings.

OSWEGO REGATTA.—In the Oswego regatta, sailed on Tuesday, the Ella of Oswego won first prize in the first class; Surprise, of Trenton, second; Fascination of Oswego third. There was about 15 minutes difference in time of arrival between the first and second yachts. In the second class the Comet of Chaumont was first; Mystery of Kingston second; Adiade of Oswego third; and Petrel of Sodus fourth. The wind was fresh from the south, and the Terror and Silver Cloud capsized during the race. There were seven entries in the first class and fourteen in the second class.

A MECHANICAL REPORTER.—To Italy belongs the credit of inventing the first mechanical reporter. A Signor Michela has constructed a small instrument—on exhibition at Paris—by means of which a child, ignorant of stenography, can take down a speech, however rapid the delivery, and read it immediately afterwards as fast as the words can be emitted. A few days' practice is all that is required for this wonderful invention's full acquaintance." What a blessing such a machine would be to hard-worked newspaper men during an election campaign if it could but be made to select and write down such portions of the speeches as contain the points necessary for publication.

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and labored breathing, the demulcent properties of Robinson's Imperial Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime manifests itself in its healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided reasserts herself, and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health.

Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00.

HONORS.—Lord Dufferin yesterday received from Laval University the degrees of L. D. and LL. D., which were conferred upon him with the usual ceremonial by the Rev. Dr. Hamel, rector. In accepting the honor, his Excellency made an eloquent speech.

THE NEW GOVERNOR-GENERAL.—It is thought probable that his Excellency the Earl of Dufferin will remain in Canada to meet the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise on their arrival. Great preparations for the interesting event are in progress at Quebec.

FALL ASSIZES.

WEDNESDAY, Sept. 11.

DENMARK vs. MCCONAGHY et al.—Action of trespass to recover damages for tearing down fence, and try title to part of Lot number one in the 2nd concession of Thurlow. Plaintiff purchased the whole of Lot number one from the estate of Hon. John Ross, and seemed to have a perfect paper title. Defendant claims by paper title and possession. The case was an important one, as the land is valuable. While the plaintiff was putting in papers to prove his title, he, upon what he supposed was consenting Deft's attorney, produced a certificate of patent instead of exemplification, which Deft's Counsel objected to, and certified to copy. The Court, considering it a mere technical objection, dispensed with the Jury, and put the case at the foot of the docket, to be then tried before the Judge without a jury. —Hon. M. Cameron, Counsel for Plff; Fenton & Denmark, Att'y for Deft. A. A. Dixon, Att'y; A. R. Dougall, Counsel for deft.

FLINT vs. BOWERMAN.—Action of trover to recover an engine alleged to have been converted by Deft. Plff advanced the firm of Rankins & Co., $2,000, and took security on the engine. Deft. purchased the engine from M E. Rankins & Co., and removed it to the County of Prince Edward. Plff after he learned of the sale and removal of the engine filed a copy of the chattel mortgage in the County of Prince Edward, under stated. Defence. Mortgage not filed in time required by statute. Verdict for Deft., Dickson for Plff; Clute & Henderson for Deft.

MERCHANTS BANK vs. FLINT & HARRISON.—Action on promissory note. Verdict for plff. for $7,655.55. Bell & Bell for plff.; Snelling for deft.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—The attention of the family and friends of the late Mr. Andrew Wright, of this place, has been called to an editorial article in your paper, in which you stated that Mr. Wright was found dead in his bed, and which statement so obviously reflects upon the manner in which he was cared for by his family—is so painful to his widow—so unjust—not having the slightest resemblance to truth, that I am directed to ask you from whom you obtained your information.

While I am addressing you I may as well state the facts connected with the affliction and consequent illness, and death of Mr. Wright, although it is hardly possible to counteract the mischief that has already been done either, through thoughtlessness or a covert design to injure the family.

Mr. Wright, as is well known, commenced business in Madoc some twenty years ago, and up to the year 1875 was very successful, and known far and near as a man of great probity and worth. In 1875 he manifested a disposition to make extensive purchases, and as wild were some of his schemes that it became evident that his mind was slightly, but it was hoped not permanently unhinged. Acting upon medical advice Mrs. Wright accompanied her husband to Europe. They remained in Scotland some three months with great advantage to Mr. Wright's physical health, but his mind became weaker. A peculiar phase of his malady was his extreme credulity, a simple child-like faith in the wildest schemes of designing men, and an obstinate determination to act upon their suggestions, while a cunning secrecy was manifested as to the schemes themselves. Nearly heart-broken, Mrs. Wright consulted the most eminent medical men in Edinburgh as to her husband's malady, when, after a careful diagnosis, she was advised to return home as quickly as possible, and place her husband in an insane asylum, that there was no hope that he would ever get better, as he was afflicted with softening of the brain. With a sad heart she turned her face homeward, recrossed the Atlantic, and arrived at her home in Madoc afflicted beyond description, and worn out with incessant watching and care of her helpless husband. In the year of 1875 Mr. Wright was admitted into the asylum at Toronto, and remained there about six months. With the assent of the authorities at the Asylum, Mrs. Wright brought her husband home, and from that time until his death she watched over and cared for him as a mother for a dearly beloved child.

In July last Mr. Wright had a severe attack of congestion of the brain, which resulted in extreme physical weakness, and complete mental imbecility with, however, rare lucid intervals. As the instance of the medical gentleman here, joined to a pressure from friends, preparations were made for Mr. Wright's return to the Asylum. When the preparations were almost complete, his mind seemed utterly to collapse—his powerful physical frame tottered, and weakened so that he was unable to rise from his bed. Watched was unable to rise from his bed. Watched with the tenderest solicitude day and night by his faithful wife and kindly assisted at the last by friends of the Masonic Order and last by friends of the Masonic Order and others, and almost wafted to heaven on the prayers of his faithful pastor the Rev. Mr. Wishart, he sank into the arms of death surrounded by his family, and affectionately waited up to the last by her who was truly the partner of his sorrows as well as his joys.

Truly yours,

Madoc, Sept. 9th, 1878.

A Paris despatch reports of American colony contributing to fever sufferers. One anonymous contribution of two thousand dollars was received.

The Tribune says Superintendent Clarke has requested military protection for the Union Pacific mail and express cars, he having knowledge of a contemplated organization of highwaymen to rob them. The War Department is prevented from taking action by a certain clause in the army bill.

The Times says arguments were heard at the Treasury Department yesterday on behalf of Samuel Schuyler, owner of the steam tug Quaker City, recently seized at Albany upon the grounds that she was a British craft under an American flag. It has been found that under her former owner she had two sets of papers, and sailed under the British or American flag as convenience required. Schuyler claims that he was ignorant of this.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—A case of yellow fever at Gloster, N. J., terminated fatally yesterday. There is great consternation in the village.

Over $13,000 was contributed for fever sufferers in this city yesterday.

Fearful Colliery Explosion.

IMMENSE SACRIFICE OF HUMAN LIFE.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—A frightful colliery explosion occurred to-day at Abercorn, near Newport, Monmouthshire. There were 371 in the pit, and only 80 were rescued. It is feared no others have survived, as the pit is burning.

LATER.—Ten more men have been taken out alive from the colliery at Abercorn, but much burned, and the dead body of a boy has been recovered. The fate of the remainder may be judged from the fact that the explorers found fourteen horses dead only a few yards from the foot of the shaft. The air in the mine is very impure.

LATEST.—The loss of life by the disaster is unprecedented in South Wales. The number of the dead is estimated at 280. The pit is still burning.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

PUBLICO, Colorado, Sept. 12.—On Tuesday the first train on the Atcheson, Topeka and Santa Fea Railway reached Trinidad. Work will still be pushed on to Los Vegas, 133 miles. No halt will be made at the tunnel through the Paton mountains, but the road will be carried by a system of switch-backs over the top of the mountains three and a half miles, when the tunnel will be built 2,030 feet long. The intention is to have a locomotive reach Los Vegas by April.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 12.—H. Bleitz, of Memphis, who was taken to the hospital on Sunday with yellow fever, died last evening.

A very malignant fever has broken out at New Richmond, a small place 20 miles from this city up the river. Of six attacked to this time five died. The wife of Rev. Dr. Laws, and a servant girl of a neighbor died on Tuesday. Shortly after, the wife and sister of McAlt, where the servant died, were attacked and died. The patients present symptoms of black vomit. The physicians pronounce the disease bilious fever.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Imports at this port during August were $25,542,000, showing a decline of two millions, compared with the previous August. Exports for August 31½ millions, exclusive of specie, showing a gain of nearly nine millions on the previous August. These figures are without precedent in the history of the trade.

HUNTER'S POINT, L. I., Sept. 12.—A serious accident occurred on the Southern Railroad, 100 miles from here—cause, a broken flange. An engine and three cars went down the embankment. Several were killed and severely wounded.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 12.—Thomas Murray, aged 8, fell from a tree at Passaic Falls and was instantly killed.

THE COTTON TRADE.—The Lancashire cotton trade is very depressed, and there is no immediate prospect of improvement. Stocks are heavy and fast accumulating, and a crash among the smaller manufacturers is predicted.

A TERRIBLE STORY.—The following special from Bismarck was received last night at St. Paul, Minn.:—The terrible story is not credited, though the sender of the despatch is a leading citizen of Bismarck, and generally trust-worthy. A brother of Senator Dorsey, who returned from Keogh by the Custer trail to-day, reports that he reached Keogh about the 5th, that Gen. Miles and an excursion party were surrounded by Bannocks in the Yellow Stone Park, and 27 of the escort killed. A lot of Cheyenne Indians, and two companies of mounted infantry were sent from Keogh to his relief. Mrs. Miles, a daughter of Gen. Sanborne, of St. Paul, and other ladies, were in Miles' party.

There is no fool in the world who cannot criticise others, but it takes a wise man to act as critic of himself.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Sept. 12.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region, brisk to high northeasterly to northerly winds, cloudy to rainy, continued cool weather. For the St. Lawrence, brisk to high northeasterly winds and cloudy to rainy weather. For the Maritime Provinces, increasing easterly to northeasterly winds, and cloudy to rainy weather; cautionary storm signals are up throughout Canada.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Indications:—partly cloudy, frequent rains and stationary temprature.

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine more extensively used by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

ORANGE CERTIFICATES, handsomely got up, for sale at the INTELLIGENCER Office.

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householderin the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half-page, $6.00; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Order for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

SECOND GENERAL CONFERENCE.

(From the Montreal Star.)

EIGHTH DAY.

The Rev. Dr. Douglass took the chair at the usual hour.

Prayer was said by the Rev. D. Savage, of the London Conference.

After the reception of several notices of motion the report of the Committee on Itineracy was read. The following is a synopsis of the same: The Transfer Committee shall be divided into sections, to be called the "Western" and "Eastern" section of the Transfer Committee. The "Western" section to consist of the Presidents of the Newfoundland conference and the President of the General Conference to be chairman. The expenses of these sections to be borne by the Conference within their bounds, each Conference to meet the expenses of its own representatives. Transfers effective by any General Conference not to go into operation till the meeting of the ensuing annual Conference. The annual meeting of these sections to be held in May, the day and place to be appointed by the President of the General Conference. No minister shall be transferred without his consent. The ultimate financial claims of any brother transferred shall not be affected by such transfer. Each minister or preacher transferred shall be subject to the action of the Stationing Committee of the Conference to which he is transferred. Any person transferred from one Conference to another shall be a member of the Conference to which he is transferred; but the report of the District meeting to which he has belonged, regarding his character, shall be sent at once to the President of the Conference to which he removes. The decision of the Transfer Committee shall be final in all cases.

The report was laid over for discussion.

The report of the Hymn Book Committee reported the result of its labors. It is said that a large number of hymns in the present collection are rarely or never sung in any of the Methodist congregations for the reason that some are not suitable to public worship, because their great length deters ministers from using them. To remedy this it was proposed to omit some of the lesser verses, &c. This committee recommended the omission of about 130 entire hymns and verses, amounting in the aggregate to about eighty hymn marks. The report will be further considered.

The Rev. Dr. Upham, from the United States, was introduced.

After the singing of the Doxology the conference adjourned.

Where the People's Money Went.

Starting Facts from the Public Records.

FAVORITISM, WASTE, AND RECKLESSNESS.

The following is the profit and loss account of the Government with reference to the steel rails transaction:—

Cash paid in England for steel rails and fastenings	$2,968,900
The same quantity could have been purchased, delivered in Canada, in the spring of 1877, for	1,800,000
Loss on first cost	$1,138,900
Interest to 30th June, 1877, on ascertained payments	271,365

Ascertained loss to 30th June, 1877	$1,645,385
Interest is running on at the rate of about $13,500 per month and is increasing; I estimate the further loss by interest before the rails are used at	$419,169

Every pound of this flour and meal, every bushel of this grain, and every head of this live stock, forced a corresponding pound, bushel, or head out of Canada to seek a foreign and less profitable market.

The greatest loss of this time is delay and expectation which depends upon the future. We let go the present which we have in our power, and look forward that which depends upon chance, and so relinquish a certainty for an uncertainty.

LIVER IS KING.

The Liver is the imperial organ of the whole human system, as it controls the life, health and happiness of man. When it is disturbed in its proper action, all kinds of ailments are the natural result. The digestion of food, the movements of the heart and blood, the action of the brain and nervous system, are all immediately connected with the workings of the Liver. It has been successfully proved that Green's August Flower is unequalled in curing all persons afflicted with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint, and all the numerous symptoms that result from an unhealthy condition of the Liver and Stomach. Sample bottles to try, 10 cents. Positively sold in all towns on the Western Continent. Three doses will prove that it is just what you want. Sold by all Druggists in America.

A Slight Cough that we are so apt to consider a mere annoyance and treat with corresponding neglect, too often proves to be the seed sown for an inevitable harvest—Consumption. Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. A teaspoonful of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime given whenever the Cough is troublesome, will afford immediate relief, and if persevered in will effect a cure even in the most obstinate cases.

Prepared solely by J. H. ROBINSON, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B.; and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six for $5.00. d&w-1m

BY HENRY M. STANLEY.

With portraits of the author, two large route maps and eight smaller ones, and 147 illustrations from photographs and sketches by Mr. Stanley, prepared expressly for this book. In one volume, demy 8vo., over 1,000 pages, cloth, $4.75.

The magnificent maps, two being 26 x 32 inches, enable the reader to follow every step of Mr. Stanley's wonderful journey.

THE PUBLIC ARE CAUTIONED

that the only book giving the complete history of the travels, explorations, important discoveries, and thrilling adventures of Mr. Stanley in Africa during 1874-1877 is now published, under the title which appears at the head of this advertisement as the CANADIAN COPYRIGHT EDITION.

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Explorations and Adventures of Stanley" have been advertised. They are catch-penny frauds and other old books of African travel and of Stanley's letters. The first is the Original spurious book published in Philadelphia, written by T. J. Headley. The second is an inferior copy of the first. Both have mostly old illustrations. See that you get the genuine work written by Mr. Stanley. Each copy in cloth has a cut of the continent and the world "Africa" stamped on side.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Denyitwho can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, and can be applied to any under ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in our application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Daily Intelligencer.

A Clear View of the Situation.

Some little time since the Hon. Billa Flint, of this city, wrote a letter on the trade question, which appeared in the Madoc Review, and from which we make the following extracts :—

"If we have fair play with our American cousins, we ought to have reciprocity, but as we have not, is there any good reason why they should put a tax of 15 cents per bushel on our barley and rye, and 20 cents on our wheat, while we allow their wheat to come into Canada duty free ? Let us examine the parallel cases. It is said the consumer pays the duty. So he does, but if barley is worth $ 1 a bushel in Oswego, it ought fairly to be worth 85 cents in Belleville, allowing 5 cents for storage and freight, providing we had reciprocity. But now, while the American consumer pays the duty, the Canadian farmer gets 15 cents less for his bushel of barley. If Belleville, Trenton, Shannonville and Mill Point, the four shipping places in this county, ship two million bushels in the season, the loss to this county for the want of a reciprocal Free Trade at 15 cents per bushel would be $ 300,000, and the lower the price of barley the harder it presses on the farmer.

"Suppose a farmer with 400 bushels of barley worth $1 per bushel in Oswego—he only gets $320 for his crop, but if he could save the 15 cents per bushel he would have $360, or $60 more in his pocket. Or if his 400 bushels were worth only 75 cents in Oswego, he would get $ 55 here, or $220—or without duty $60 more, making $280 ; and the lower the grain goes the harder it comes on the farmer to submit to the deduction of 15 cents per bushel to meet the buyer of the Oswego market. Hence, while the country really pays the duty, the Canadian farmer is deprived of the benefit of the extra 15 cents per bushel by the illiberal action of our American neighbors—while in Canada we admit their corn, wheat, oats, &c., duty free, which must, under all circumstances, except in a short crop or famine, work against the interest of our farmers.

"Suppose our Government puts the same duty on corn, wheat, &c., coming from the States, as is put on barley, wheat, &c., going from Canada ; supposing we meet them on their own grounds as to measures, and so throw abut them out as they do us, from making a slaughter market of their country, as they do of Canada, to the injury of our young and struggling factories, would we not be more likely to get Reciprocal Free Trade in the farming products, not only of grain, but of cattle, horses, sheep, &c. ? I believe we would."

Considering that Mr. Flint is a man of well-known ability and has had a business experience in Canada of half a century ; that he has sat in Parliament for many years, first as a member of the Legislative Assembly, next as a Legislative Councillor, and now as a Senator ; that he is now and always has been a Reformer, though refusing to bow to the Brown dictatorship ; and that he is and has been in the lumber business, which is supposed to profit by the importation of corn and oats from the United States free of duty, his opinion as a critic of the Government policy cannot but be acknowledged, whilst his independence of motives of self-interest is above suspicion. We therefore feel justified in asking our readers in this and adjoining counties to read carefully and ponder well the words of the venerable Senator for the Trent Division.

Let no man who is interested in the advancement of any of our manufacturing interests support a Grit candidate. Messrs. White, Bowell, and Wallbridge ask your support.

What a "Liberal Catholic" Thinks of the Government.

Mr. John O'Donohoe, of Toronto, was the originator of the Catholic League. He was elected to Parliament for East Toronto, but on being unseated he was defeated, the second election taking place under the ballot. Mr. O'Donohoe has now become disgusted with the party which he formerly supported, just as Mr. J. L. F. O'Hanly, of Ottawa, and others of his fellow-Liberal compatriots have become, and at a meeting of Liberal Catholics, held in Toronto recently, he moved a series of resolutions containing a powerful indictment of the Government. The third and last of these resolutions is as follows :—

"And whereas, after five years trial, with the most ample opportunity of giving effect to the professions and proving their own sincerity, backed by a majority in the House of Commons, unexampled in the constitutional history of this country, all the principles, professions and promises of the Reform party have either been ignored, forgotten or broken a condition taking the place of pure party Government, the independence of Parliament violated, members contracting with Government, wide spread corruption of members of Parliament, which required a white washing Act to shield the delinquents ; members from the first Commoner down ward, tempted by a penal Government ; the Speaker, a Minister of the Crown, and several other members compelled to vacate their seats, while others have deserted themselves for a whole session ; control of Parliament set at naught in giving contracts without being submitted for its approval ; unwise expenditure of money being appropriated ; the cost of administration in every department of the public services increased notwithstanding the crippled resources of the people and an unusually severe commercial depression ; pledges of retrenchment disregarded ; and while pretending to be the custodians of popular liberty defending the violation of the principles of responsible Government by sustaining the Lieut Governor of Quebec in the unseating a Ministry possessing the confidence of the people's representatives."

"Be it, therefore resolved that the Mackenzie Administration has, in the opinion of this meeting, forfeited the confidence reposed in it in 1874 ; that it is justly chargeable with much of the distress to-day prevailing in the country, that any further lease of power would augment the destitution brought on by incompetency and extravagance, and that it is the duty of the electorate, irrespective of party bias to unite in displacing a Government whose record is made of broken pledges, abnegation of principles and unblushing hypocrisy."

Thrice ! and once the hedge pig whined."

"When Shall We Three Meet Again."

A Lament, respectfully dedicated to the Reform Association.

Three members of the Commons sat
In hotel parlor talking o'er
Their prospects, and the best way that Could send them to the House once more.
The burthen of their mournful strain
Was, " When shall we three meet again ?"

Each melancholy visage long
Proclaimed the all-important fact,
That their " Pacific Scandal " song
Essential truth and justice lacked.
" All our old cries we use in vain,
Oh, when shall we three meet again ?"

Why did old Sandy coalesce
With Tories of the Cauchon stripe ?
And Scott ! and Glass ! and what a mess
Our books are kept in by Carswright ;
And yet it seems we get the blame,
" Oh, when shall we three meet again ?"

The stalwart yeomanry, alas !
Who erstwhile " took our stories in,"
Seem to have left us all en masse ;
They only say, " Now that's too thin,
Your Government has proved a bane—
I hardly think you'll meet again."

The artisan, with factry closed,
Regards us with a sour grin ;
And seems to think he's been " bull-dozed,"
And stultified by " reform" cry.
For now he shouts with might and main—
" I hope you'll never meet again !"

Oh, sad to think ! that we'll ne'er more
Sit by the Speaker's dexter hand,
As we have sat in days of yore
On Ministerial benches grand
As mute as "melancholy Dane"—
Oh shall we never meet again ?

The clock proclaimed the hour of ten,
The hour of closing our debate ;
The landlord asked—oh, best of men ! —[start;
" Would they take something ?" e'er they'd
And said, " Your meeting seems quite tame,
But I trust we all may meet again."

" Bring me old rye !" said number one,
" Lemon in mine," said number two ;
" Bring hither, boy, a bowl of rum,"
Said number three, " I'll have a Hier ;
Although the parting gives us pain
Let's drink that we may meet again !"

Disloyalty.

AS VIEWED BY A CONSERVATIVE.

Following is an extract from a speech recently delivered at St. John, N. B., by Mr. King, one of the Conservative candidates for that city :—

"It is charged that our policy is contrary to that of the empire. We contend that we are discharging our duties to the empire when we endeavor to strengthen ourselves as a part of the empire. The interests of the empire would be in Canada becoming a mere territory of the United States, commercially annexed to it, a market for surplus American produce, lying at the mercy of an American fiscal and trade policy with no power to influence it. The time is rapidly coming under the present policy when England will have but little interest in our trade, for under it our trade with England is fast declining and our trade with the United States fast increasing. Four years ago we imported from England about twenty-five millions more than we imported from the United States. Now we import from the United States five or six millions more than we import from England, or a difference in favor of the foreign over the mother country of thirty millions. If this be so, is it or is it not a matter of importance ! If it be so does it or does it not furnish a reason for doing nothing but drift, and is it not clear that unless something is done it will soon make little difference to England what our trade policy is ! Under the present state of things the higher classes of importation, including freight, shipping charges and insurance, constitute a discrimination in favor of the United States as against England in our dealings with them. The policy of the Government is an American one. It is Canada for the Americans. But the national policy conserves the interest of the Empire. It is said we are un-English. If to try to keep our resources from being drained off into a country that will only trade with us on one sided terms—that will sell us all we want freely, but will take nothing in fair exchange—that taxes everything we send there except our gold ; if our resistance to lop-sided free trade is unEnglish, then we are so ; but to make a treaty that gives our trade rights, to strengthen the things that remain and are ready to die, to build up our industries and make a market for our farmer and so infuse strength and manliness, and self-dependence into our national system, this is eminently in the interest of the empire, because eminently in the interest of Canada. (Loud applause.)

Protection Benefits Yet Cheapens.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce gives in a recent article the following reasons why Protection benefits the manufacturer yet cheapens his productions to the consumer, viz :—

1st. Because it secures our ports of entry from being flooded with surpluses forced upon us by foreigners to relieve their own superabundance and to sustain their home prices.

2nd. Because it affords the home manufacturer a large aggregate gain, although the rate of profit is decreased.

3rd. Because it fosters the invention of labour saving machinery.

Three good reasons why we should protect and foster our manufacturing industries, are they not ?

FARMERS OF HASTINGS.—Do not be misled and DECEIVED BY FREE TRADE THEORISTS. DO NOT ALLOW FOREIGN RIVALS TO GET ALL THE PROFITS FROM THE CANADIAN BUYERS. DO NOT ALLOW FOREIGN BANKS TO ABSORB THE MONEY THAT SHOULD BE KEPT AT HOME TO FOSTER THE PROGRESS, AND MAINTAIN THE FUTURE PROSPERITY OF THE DOMINION. "FAIR PLAY IS BONNIE PLAY." LET US INSIST UPON HAVING IT AT THE HANDS OF OUR LEGISLATORS. VOTE AGAINST EVERY GOVERNMENT CANDIDATE, AND PROVE THAT MEN WHO ARE RECREANT TO THEIR TRUST WILL NOT BE ENDORSED BY INTELLIGENT ELECTORS.

CHEERING ACCOUNTS.—The Mail publishes a card from the Hon. Frank Smith and two other Roman Catholic gentleman, stating that they, having represented to Archbishop Lynch that there were rumors of a serious difference and misunderstanding between himself and Sir John A. Macdonald, were assured that there was no foundation whatever for them. The same journal says cheering accounts of success are coming from all parts of the Dominion, and although the Ministerialists are making a most determined fight, they will be utterly routed all along the line.

The Colliery Explosion in Wales.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

Two Hundred and Fifty-one Lives Lost.

LONDON, Sept. 12.

The full extent of the mine disaster at Abercorne is now known. This morning the flooding of the pit commenced. The fire was within a short distance of the bottom of the shaft, and all hope abandoned. When this decision was announced to the relations of the 251 men still in the pit, the scene was terrible. Thirteen additional bodies were recovered before flooding. The Abercorne colliery is the property of the Ebbow Vale Steel, Iron and Coal Company, one of the largest in South Wales. The pit is 330 yards deep, one of the largest and best worked in the district, yielding a thousand tons of steam coal daily. The machinery was the best kind in use. Safety lamps were rigidly enforced and the cause of the explosion of the pit cannot be surmised. Three detonations was heard. The frame work and castings of the pit were thrown three hundred feet above the mouth of the shaft. The colliery employs upwards of 1,000 hands ; 373 taking their turn went down at eleven in the morning. Twenty-one came up at noon.

At 12:10 a loud rumbling was heard followed by a flash of flame from the pit's mouth, and a column of smoke, dust and debris ascending. The explosion damaged the winding gear, destroying the only means of communication with the men in the pit. As soon as the gearing was repaired working parties were sent down the shaft, and 82 men and boys, working within a few hundred yards of the shaft, were rescued, but it became evident, as attempts were made to advance, that little hope could be entertained of any life surviving. About four hundred yards from the bottom are the stables. Here fourteen horses were found dead. Beyond this the explorers could not go, on account of choke damp. Volunteer explorers succeeded in bringing out ten or twelve men, very much burnt, and also seven dead bodies. It is feared no others can be for the present got at in consequence of the fire extending, and there remains no reasonable hope that any further lives will be saved.

The Methodist Church of Canada.

SECOND GENERAL CONFERENCE.

(From the Montreal Star.)

NINTH DAY.

After the usual routine business and reading of some reports, Judge Jones presented a report upon the Book property, of which the following are extracts :—

It is recommended that a Committee be appointed to procure for the Methodist Church the required Act of Parliament in Manitoba, and the appointment of another to procure the necessary legislation in the Bermuda Islands.

The report was adopted.

Mr. W. Kennedy read the Quadrennial Reports of the Western and Eastern Sections of the Methodist Book Committee. Below is a summary of the former : The financial statement, ending 31st March, 1878, shows the total assets to be $149,429.41 compared with $95,418.52 for 1874. Total liabilities 1878, $70,142,66 ; 1874, $30,142.30. Deducting the total liabilities from the total assets, there is a balance of assets over liabilities of $79,065.75 ; an increase as compared with 31st March, 1874. In 1874, percentage of liabilities to assets 42 ; in 1873, liabilities to assets 47. Total gross profits for quadrennial period ending 1878, $92,771.13 ; total expenses, $59,769.46 ; increase over 1874, $19,977.33. The Christian Guardian, the chief periodical of the Church, is now in the 49th year of its existence, and has a weekly circulation of 10,157. A decrease of gross profits for the term ending 1878 indicates a decrease of $1,189.45 over 1874. This is accounted for because of the Postal Loan that came into force in 1875, &c. The Sunday School Banner has been enlarged, and its monthly circulation is 5,766, and the gross profits show an increase of $2,321.12. The Sunday School Advocate has a semi-monthly circulation of 13,336, and shows an increase in gross profits of $1,356.66. The aggregate of all the Sunday-school periodicals issued by the Western Book Room during the last quadrennial period is 3,403,196 ; the moral benefit of this circulation, and the vast effusion of religious teachings, is beyond calculation. The Methodist Magazine, first published by order of the General Conference in January, 1875, has attained a circulation of 2,388.

Vote for Prosperity.

There should be no doubt upon any man's mind as to how he should vote at the coming elections. For Mr. Cartwright himself has announced the following proposition :—

"THAT PROTECTION WOULD IN THIS COUNTRY FOR A " FEW BRIEF YEARS " ENABLE MANUFACTURERS TO MAKE "ENORMOUS PROFITS," AND WOULD CREATE A "TEMPORARY GENERAL PROSPERITY."

Vote for Bowell, Wallbridge and White, and a few years of Protection and Prosperity.

The Globe acknowledges Sir Alexander T. Galt to be a mighty authority on Canadian fiscal affairs, and quotes as his opinion his utterances of 1866, twelve years ago. But in doing so it neglects (an omission which the Mail very fully supplies) to state that since that time the opinions of the gentleman in question have, owing to the entire change in our circumstances, undergone a complete reversal, and he last year addressed to the Hon. Mr. Mills a lengthy letter, declaring himself in favor of protection to home industries. Such "tactics" are peculiar to the Globe, and at the same time strongly indicative of a failing cause.

In the year 1876 the so-called "Reform" Government expended nearly half a million dollars bringing emigrants into Canada. In the same year 21,000 CANADIANS LEFT THE COUNTRY OF THEIR NATIVITY AND WENT TO THE UNITED STATES in order to gain the livelihood denied them at home, and it is estimated that last year the number thus exscntricked was largely in excess of that number. At the time of the last census there was no less than 487,000 CANADIAN-BORN RESIDENTS IN THE STATES. The cause DOES RESIDENTS IN THE STATES. of this exodus was the lack of protection to our home industries, which have been ruined thereby and their proprietors in many cases, and in nearly all cases two-thirds of their operatives, driven into exile.

THE COMING STRUGGLE.

Our Battle Cry: "Protection to Home Industries."

The Opposition Policy.

The commercial policy of the Opposition is represented in the following resolution moved by Sir John Macdonald in the House of Commons :—

"That this House is of opinion that the welfare of Canada requires the adoption of a National Policy, which by a judicious readjustment of the Tariff will benefit and foster the Agricultural, the Mining, the Manufacturing and other interests of the Dominion ; that such a policy will retain in Canada thousands of our fellow-countrymen, now obliged to expatriate themselves in search of employment denied them at home ; will restore prosperity to our struggling industries, now so sadly depressed ; will prevent Canada from being made a sacrifice market ; will encourage and develop an active interprovincial trade ; and moving (as it ought to do) in the direction of the reciprocity of Tariffs with our neighbors, so far as the varied interests of Canada may demand, will greatly tend to procure for this Country, eventually, a reciprocity of Trade."

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, SEPT. 13.

POLITICAL RASCALITY.

It is proverbially true that "envy loveth a shining mark," hence it is that the Grit organ of this city, unable to find anything in the political record of the member for North Hastings which it could attack, and angered by his high position in the Conservative party, has poured forth upon him the contents of its vials of slander, abuse and falsehood. Having escaped so far almost without notice, the conductors of that sheet have at length written and published a defamatory libel, which they, with characteristic cowardice, refrained from publishing until the last issue of their weekly previous to the election, when it was too late to take decisive measures to prevent the poison from having such effect as it could before the polling took place. The same thing is repeated in their daily issue of yesterday. It is as follows : "Mr. M. "Bowell has been a party to fraudulent "transactions which should drive him from "North Hastings."

This is a cold-blooded, cruel lie, without the shadow of a foundation in truth, and we have no doubt that Mr. Bowell, who is at present in the North Riding, will on his return take immediate steps to bring the libeller to justice.

We have no doubt that the numerous friends of Mr. Bowell in North Hastings, who know that he is not capable of the crime with which the foul libeller charges him, will by redoubled exertions on Tuesday give a substantial evidence of their confidence by rolling up his majority, and thus prove to the country that the reputation of their representative is as dear to them as the apple of their eye.

We have received the following letter respecting this foul charge from one of the most prominent and influential residents of North Hastings, who was in Belleville today :—

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—What does the Ontario mean in yesterday's issue with its insinuation in large type, that "Mr. M. Bowell has been a party to fraudulent transactions which should drive him from North Hastings."

Is there any depth too low for that sheet to stoop? The editor knew well in penning the paragraph for his readers that he was stating what he dare not state in our two before. He sends it to his readers knowing well that before another week that the struggle will be over, and that if the poison can do any harm it will have done so. He knew that the Member for North Hastings was absent with his constituents, and in all probability would not see the paper before the election. But I much mistake the man if he does not give the Ontario man opportunity to make good his cause before a jury of our country. No one will object to a fair fight, but it is evident that the Ontario don't know what fair play means. What does he take the electors of North Hastings for ? I can tell him there are hundreds of men in that Riding that would not support Mr. Bowell nor any other man in fraudulent transactions, but where is the man that will get up on a public platform face to face with the Member for North Hastings with the proof of fraud ? Mr. O'Flynn and his spokesmen have been challenged to do so, but has any person yet attempted it ? Not one. The Ontario will find out on the 17th inst. what the electors of that riding think of their representative, when he is again placed at the head of the poll.

AN ELECTOR OF NORTH HASTINGS.

RALLY TO-NIGHT.

A mass meeting of the electors is to be held in the Opera House to-night. The meeting, which has been called by Mr. Wallbridge, will be addressed by that gentleman and by the Hon. M.C. CAMERON, leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, who we have no doubt will receive a hearty welcome from the people of Belleville. His Worship the Mayor will preside. Mr. Brown has been invited, and a fair hearing will be given to him. Let all turn out and make this the greatest, as it will be the last meeting in Belleville of the campaign. Ladies are invited to attend.

The Neebing Hotel.

Mr. Brown justifies the Neebing hotel swindle in a unique way, as we have before shown, but in a manner which is entirely contrary to the facts and revolting to the minds of people who read and think for themselves. He also says it is so small a matter that it is not worthy of mention. Well, it is a small matter, but the swindle is of so gross a nature that every honest man, be he Conservative, Reformer, Independent or Grit must condemn it. The evidence taken before the Senate Committee established the following facts :—

Good lumber charged for (ft)	65,775
Slabs, culls actually used (ft)	45,000
Doors charged for	44
Doors actually used	14
Value of doors (each)	$1.25
Price charged for doors	$2.25
Panes of glass charged for	225
Panes actually used	48
Paint charged for (tins)	16
Paint actually used (tins)	14
Tin charged for (cases)	16
Tin actually used	nil
Shingles charged for	45,000
Shingles actually used	15,000
Builder's valuation of hotel	$3,650
Price paid for it	$5,029

And the land on which the rookery stood was paid for twice over, which "picking" had to be refunded when the fact was established before the Senate Committee.

The Committee reported furthermore, that no means was taken by the Government to verify the items :—Oliver, Davidson & Co. stated that so much had been used and their word was taken for it. And Mr. Davidson, one of the engineers of this infamous job, gave J. D. Henderson, who built the "hotel" $100 as "hush money," but Henderson exposed the whole affair.

The Latest Nonsense.

Commend us to the "free trade, revenue tariff" advocates for first-class nonsense. The latest specimen of utter twaddle is to be found in the local Grit organ of yesterday in a report of a suppositious conversation between a free trader and a Conservative, in which the former is represented as closing the debate triumphantly as follows :—

"The United States have lots of protection, and grain is lower there than in Canada. Where is your argument now ?

"Protection collapsed."

We should think so, indeed, as Protectionists do not care to argue with people who have heard of nothing but corn and oats. But by way of query, why do our farmers export their barley, rye and peas to the United States, and pay heavy duties for the privilege of entering the market of that country ?

Another Grit Dodge Exposed.

Of late the following paragraph, originating in the St. John Telegraph, has appeared either wholly or in substance in a number of Grit journals in this Province :

"Senator Howlan lately made a telling speech at Alberton, P. E. I., in favor of a revenue tariff for the Maritime Provinces ; in favor of the Government also, and against the return to power of the corrupt chiefs of the Opposition. Mr. Howlan is a strong and able man."

All that the Telegraph has said in praise of Mr. Howlan's ability is correct, and more can be said with propriety. The gentleman in question is an Irishman of distinguished ability. He is a Liberal, but like many others of the honest men of his party he became disgusted with the Mackenzie Government's corruption, incompetence and jobbery, and had of late opposed them in the Senate. Hence the return of such a man to the support of the Government would be an event of considerable importance to the Grit party. But unfortunately for them their congratulations on the occurrence have proved to be premature, and the "speech in favor of the Government" must have existed only in the imagination of some individual politically distraught ; for Senator Howlan personally informed the editor of the Charlottetown Examiner that his views had undergone no change, and that he stood politically just where he had been previously, namely in the position of an opponent of the Government. Now as the opinions of a "strong and able man" are worthy of being made widely known, we have no hesitation in asking the journals which have alluded to Senator Howlan's alleged conversion to Gritism to correct their misstatement and also to reproduce the following paragraph, which concludes one of his latest speeches in the Senate :

"I would like to call attention to a statement of the trade between this country and Great Britain, to show where the channels of trade are. In 1872-3 the imports from Great Britain were $62,000,000 ; in 1876-7 they had fallen to $48,000,000, showing a decrease of $22,000,000. Now, let us look at the trade between this country and the United States. In 1872-3 we imported from the United States $35,000,000 ; in 1876-7, $51,000,000, showing an increase of $16,000,000. And while our imports from that country have been increasing, our exports to them have been diminishing, SHOWING CLEARLY THERE IS SOMETHING MATERIALLY WRONG SO FAR AS THE MERCANTILE AND INTERNAL NATIONAL INTERESTS OF THIS COUNTRY ARE CONCERNED. IF WE ARE GOING TO BUILD UP A NATION HERE, WE MUST TAKE A NATIONAL WAY OF DOING IT."

The above facts are of the utmost importance, and the concluding paragraph especially is worthy of a "strong and able man," such as Senator Howlan undoubtedly is. The Conservative party has the support of many such men. Reformers on principle, but who are disgusted with the "organized hypocrisy."

How They Do It.

The Grits of Canada are the greatest experts in the world at manufacturing majorities. Their latest effort in that line is the classification of the Hon. Thomas McGreevy, who was returned by acclamation for Quebec West, which he has represented for many years, as a Ministerialist, and thus they foot up, immensely to their satisfaction, the return of four Grits to two Conservatives by acclamation. The fact is that Mr. McGreevy is, and always has been a staunch Conservative, and now holds the same views that he has always done, though stating that he will not factiously oppose Mr. Mackenzie. Thus the return stands three Conservatives and three Grits.

Above are represented the forms of ballot papers which will be used in the elections for the three Ridings of this County, and in which the voter has marked his ballot for Messrs. Bowell, White and Wallbridge respectively. In order that all may fully understand how to vote, we give herewith the directions, as contained in the statute :

"The elector, on receiving the ballot-paper, shall forthwith proceed into one of the compartments of the polling station, and there mark his ballot paper, making a cross with a pencil, on any part of the ballot-paper within the division containing the name of the candidate for whom he intends to vote, and shall then fold up such ballot-paper, so that the initials on the back can be seen without opening it, and hand it to the Deputy-Returning officer, who shall, without unfolding it, ascertain, by examining his initials, and the number upon the counterfoil, that it is the same that he furnished to the elector, and shall first detach and destroy the counterfeil, and shall then immediately, and in the presence of the elector, place the ballot-paper in the ballot-box."

Thus the ballot is absolutely secret, and it being impossible to ascertain how any man voted by subsequent examination.

Each Elector shall vote at the Polling Station of the Polling District in which he is qualified to vote and no other.

No Candidate is allowed to pay for conveying voters to the Poll, and no Agent or other person is allowed to pay for such service. This does not, however, debar neighbors and friends from assisting each other in getting to the poll.

Friends, be very careful in marking your ballots for

BOWELL in North Hastings.
WHITE in East Hastings, and
WALLBRIDGE in West Hastings.

The best Legislative policy is that which will most effectually develop all the natural advantages of a country, whether natural or material. Such a policy will receive the hearty support of the Opposition candidates, Messrs. White, Wallbridge, and Bowell.

THE CANDIDATE and his NEW FRIENDS.

LOOK ON THIS PICTURE.	AND ON THAT.
He was a protectionist, and would put a protective duty on anything Cartwright, Finance Minister required it. He was	PROTECTION IS LEGALIZED.—R. J. Cartwright, Finance Minister would not say he would join which Mr. Brown

ing mood. He believed	You are told that Protection is legalized and Mr. tection (for this is really therefore a question as is the thing needed to to which of the two men make you happy and they would prefer.—Mr. prosperous.	—Belleville Brown at the Nominating organ of the Grits, Sept. 11, 1878.

Let Mr. BROWN, the Finance Minister, and the Belleville organ, reconcile their direct opposition to each other on this vital question. Honest men see in the support of Mr. Brown by the Grits an unholy alliance, and will crush it out of existence on Tuesday.

At the East Hastings nomination in 1872, Mr. Thomas Holden, in addressing the electors, said :— "The first thing that should be done at Ottawa was to put a duty on American produce." See report in Weekly Intelligencer, August 16th, 1872.

THE CABINET.

Grit platform orators deny that the present Government increased the number of Cabinet officers. Under the late Government these numbered thirteen, but Mr. Mackenzie took office with fourteen Cabinet Ministers, Mr. Blake, without portfolio, being the fourteenth. He resigned three months afterwards, in February, 1874, after acting the "decoy duck" during election. Mr. Mackenzie contended, when in opposition, that seven heads of departments were sufficient. They also created a Railway Department, which is virtually a Cabinet Office, to which they appointed their old-time opponent Mr. C.J. Brydges, and gave him a salary of $8,000 a year, equal to that of the Premier.

Only three days more before the political fate of these three Ridings is decided. Let every friend of Messrs. Bowell, Wallbridge and White be at the polls early on the 17th and record their votes for the Liberal Conservative candidate.

North Hastings.

MEETING IN RAWDON.

Mr. O'Flynn and His Lieutenant afraid to attend their Own Meeting.

A meeting of the electors, called by Mr. O'Flynn, was held at the Town Hall, Rawdon, last night. Mr. O'Flynn, who was in Stirling during the evening, remained there all night, did not attend, having doubtless learned that Messrs. Bowell, Dickson and Wm. Johnson were to confront him. However, he deputed his Lieutenant, Mr. T. W. Casey, Grand Secretary of the Independent Order of Good Templars, (whose attempt in 1874 to mix temperance with politics nearly cost him his situation) to represent him. He also learning by whom he was to be met, refused to leave the hotel where he was stopping. Messrs. Bowell, Dickson and Johnson proceeded to the place of meeting and delivered addresses, which were well received. The meeting closed with cheers for the Queen, Sir John A. Macdonald and Mr. Bowell, no one honoring Mr. O'Flynn with even an attempt at a cheer, although the meeting was his own.

What in "Produce."

Mr. Holden's organ says the words "produce" and "manufactures" are synonymous. Worcester's Dictionary, the great standard authority, defines "Produce" thus : "Produce and produce denote the thing produced, and are applicable chiefly, but not exclusively, to the productions of nature. Productions of nature or art ; produce of the fields ; products of the country." Again : "Manufacture : The process of making anything by art, or of reducing materials into a form fit for use by the hand, or machinery." Thus, when Mr. Holden in 1872 said "The first thing that should be done at Ottawa was to put a duty on American produce," he incontestably meant the products of the field entering Canada from the United States. He now opposes the proposition to place a duty on that class of articles. Beautiful consistency !

The Two Votes.

Vote for the present Vote for the Opposition Government and renew and renew the experience the experience of the of the 1863-73 period, to past five years, that is wit: to say :

2. WANT. 2. PEACE AND PLENTY.
3. NO WORK. 3. BRISK LABOR MARKET.

VOLUNTEER TEAMS.

As the Election law very properly prohibits the hiring of teams for the conveyance of voters to and from the polls, such service must necessarily be performed free of charge. As it is of the greatest importance that a full vote be brought out, we ask those friends of the Opposition cause in the three Ridings of this County owning horses and vehicles to place them at the disposal of the Committees on the day of election, and to turn out themselves, wherever it be possible, to assist in bringing up the voters. Let those having horses and vehicles for use notify the Chairman or Secretary of the respective Committees at once, that it may be known how many vehicles can be relied on. Victory is assured in every division of the County if the voters can but be brought out, and we are confident that the friends of good government will not be lacking in this regard.

The Grit party have no sympathy with our unemployed workmen, and if their candidates are sent back to Parliament they will support a Government whose policy is one that would eventually, if persisted in, destroy the best interests of all classes. Vote for Wallbridge, Bowell, and White.

A Nut for Grit Platform Orators.

The following, which we extract from the Boston Journal, is so complete an answer to the reckless assertions of Grit platform orators in their speeches to the electors in this locality, that we give it without further comment : "Mr. James M. Swank, Secretary of the American Iron and Steel Association, who has made a tour through Pennsylvania and the West, gives most encouraging reports regarding the present condition and indications for the future of the iron and steel trade. All the Bessemer and crucible steel mills, as far west as the Missouri river, with a single exception in St. Louis, are in operation, and of the pig iron furnaces about two-fifths are in full blast. There is no accumulation even of the common grades of iron, and all that is produced goes upon the market. The demand is now heavier than it has been for a long time, and while the production of pig iron is slightly in excess of last year, that of steel of all descriptions is considerably greater. The prices of iron at this time are very firm with an advancing tendency. The country has never before consumed as much American made iron and steel as at present, the demand for the current quarter being far in excess of that of the quarter before. Producers are firm in the belief that the opening of the fall trade will reveal a much brighter state of affairs and that the improvement will be continuous and substantial."

WORK! WORK!

In a few days the Electoral Battle for the Dominion will be ended. From all parts of the country the tidings are hopeful for the triumph of the Liberal Conservative party. No doubt there will disappointments and surprises to both parties when the ballots come to be counted throughout the country. However, the present is the time for work, and no stone should be left unturned to make the final triumph of Opposition principles as sure as it can be made before the final returns from the Returning Officers are published.

We trust that every member of the Liberal Conservative party in the North, East, and West Ridings of this County, will make this election his own personal matter, and spend the remaining few days before the polling day, in perfecting the organization and getting everything ready to poll the entire vote. If this be done we can confidently predict the election of Messrs. Bowell, White and Wallbridge by very large majorities.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, SEPT. 13

City and Vicinity.

DISCHARGED.—The grand and petit juries were yesterday relieved of further attendance at the Assizes, the jury list of causes being exhausted.

GENERAL MEETING.—Mr. Wallbridge's Committee will meet to-morrow night at 7:30. Let all attend in order that a final report on the result of the canvass may be made.

NEW BOAT.—The Rowing Club received yesterday their second double scull skiff from Wharin of Toronto. It is in every respect similar to that which the same builders furnished to them a short time ago.

ARRIVED.—Mr. Chas. Cluthe, surgical operator, has arrived, and is stopping at the Anglo-American Hotel. Mr. Cluthe has a capital reputation and a large practice. He remains here to-morrow.

METEOROLOGICAL.—The weather is decidedly unpleasant and unseasonable. Cold rains have fallen for two days, the roads are very heavy, and the weather is chilly and uncomfortable. As the fall rains have come thus early, the season will probably be more favorable later on.

THE MEETING TO-NIGHT.—We ask a large turn-out of the electors at Mr. Wallbridge's meeting in the Opera House to-night. Mr. Brown has been invited, and without doubt will receive a fair hearing. The Mayor will preside. The Hon. M. C. Cameron of Toronto, will address the meeting.

CLEVER CAPTURE.—County Constable Joseph Holmes captured very cleverly on Tuesday, a man named George Coons, who had stolen a horse and buggy from a party living near Napanee, who was telegraphed to and has recovered the stolen property. There are other charges against Coons, who will in a few days be brought before the Police Magistrate on remand to answer.

THE DEAF AND DUMB.—The ninth term of the Ontario Institution for the Deaf and Dumb opened on Wednesday. The number of pupils arrived to this date is about 170. It is expected that this number will be largely increased during the next week. The improvements in the system of steam heating, water supply, &c., are nearly completed. The institution can now accommodate comfortably more than 250 pupils.

RECOVERED.—Warkworth, says the Campbellford Herald, has recovered almost entirely from its recent loss of fire. Its business centre, instead of being composed of old frame and irregularly constructed buildings, is now decorated by many handsome brick structures,—private residences and business houses of modern architecture. Some new brick and frame buildings are here and there growing in dimensions, and from the small number of unoccupied houses, it would seem that the ambitious village feels inclined to retain whatever step it made its progression upwards.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING!—This is the question which should be addressed to every Conservative. There are but two days remaining of the campaign, and sharp, earnest work is wanted. Success is within our reach, but no over-confidence should produce apathy. Every one who is interested in the success of the National Policy should put his shoulder to the wheel and make a "big push." Get your voters' lists ready, your volunteer teams provided, agents and scrutineers appointed, and all the election machinery in good working order for the morning of the election, and the return of Messrs. Bowell, White and Wallbridge is secured beyond peradventure.

THE OUTRAGE ON MESSRS. FORCE AND FALKINER.—The following are the resolutions passed by the Montreal Police Committee in relation to the outrage on Messrs. Force and Falkiner: "That, having heard the verbal explanation of Mr. A. Force, commission merchant of this city, and of N. B. Falkiner, Esquire, Barrister-at-Law, and Alderman of the City of Belleville, who were arrested by Sergeant Richardson on the 31st day of August last, at the hour of one o'clock, one for alleged insulting language and interference with the police, and having taken communication of the sworn affidavit fyled by the said parties; having also heard Sergeant Richardson's personal explanations as to the circumstances of the arrest, the Committee, after due deliberation, are of opinion that Sergeant Richardson's interference on that occasion was unjustifiable, uncalled for, and therefore deserving the unqualified censure of this Committee. This Committee deeply regret the trouble and annoyance to which these gentlemen have so unnecessarily been subjected, and as a mark of their disapproval of Sergeant Richardson's conduct on the occasion referred to, do order that he be removed from the Guy street Station to such other station as may hereafter be determined on by this Committee."

FALL ASSIZES.

THURSDAY, Sept. 12.

FOY VS. WOODCOCK.—Action of seduction. Parties reside in Hungerford. Plff's daughter resided with grandfather of deft. as hired servant. Deft visited her and under promise of marriage, as she alleges, seduced her. Defence: deft. swore most positively that he never at any time had anything to do with Mary Ann Woodcock, and only visited his grandfather a few times while she was there. Other evidence was given to contradict the girl. Jury believed the girl. Verdict for plff. for $300. Diamond & Diamond for plff. Hon. L. Wallbridge for deft.

QUEEN VS. MICHAEL MAHONEY.—Larceny from the person. Prisoner was indicted for larceny from the person, stealing from the pocket of Miss Sarah S. Cadman, in the City of Belleville, on the first of July last, a pocket book and handkerchief. (Prisoner was tried for stealing another pocket in July last before Hon. Geo. Sherwood and convicted, and is now undergoing sentence in common gaol for that offence.) Verdict guilty. C. L. Coleman for the Crown; Thos. Holden for the prisoner. Sentenced to fifteen months' imprisonment in the Central Prison to commence after the sentence which the prisoner is now undergoing has ended.

QUEEN VS. MICHAEL MAHONEY.—Stealing from the pocket of Mary Lithgow. Pleaded guilty. C. L. Coleman for the Crown. No sentence passed on the second indictment.

The Grand Junction Railway.

The Campbellford Herald says:—"We learn on the best authority that a provisional contract has been signed with Messrs. Bickford and Cowan, of Toronto, and McDougal, of the Grand Trunk Car Works, of Montreal, to build the Grand Junction Railway to Peterborough for $520,000. This sum is made payable as follows: $100,000 when the road is completed to Campbellford; $120,000 when finished to Hastings; and $300,000 when completed to Peterborough. The contract to Hastings is absolute, if the City of Belleville give the $50,000 bonus when the road is completed to Hastings, and it is expected that the Township of Seymour will give a portion of its bonus when the road is in running order to Campbellford, which is to be at furthest, by the end of November next. The contractors say, however, they will have it finished previous to that date. The road from Campbellford to Hastings is to be completed by the 1st August, 1879, and from the latter place to Peterborough by December 31st, 1879, provided the town of Peterborough and the townships in Peterborough County, through which the road passes, give aid to the extent of $70,000. The contract also provides that when the road is built, the Contractors are to pay off the floating debts which the Company always promised to pay, which includes the old debts due here. The Grand Trunk Railway Company, we also learn, are prepared to operate it as soon as the Grand Junction is opened to Campbellford. The road is to be laid with steel rails."

—In a speech last night, Mr. Wm. Darling, Government candidate for Montreal West, characterized Mr. Mackenzie's conduct in the steel rails affair as not creditable to him. Yet Messrs. O'Flynn, Aylsworth and Brown defend that transaction.

THE EASTERN TROUBLES.—Forty-six thousand Russian troops have left Turkey for home. Midhat Pasha has received permission to reside with his family in a provincial Turkish town. Constantinople is threatened with starvation, the bakers being unable to furnish bread on account of the high price of wheat and the depreciation of currency. The redemption of the paper currency has been undertaken by a syndicate of bankers. The Porte has been informed that England will not accede to the German proposal that the signatory powers should co-operate in enforcing the fulfilment of the terms of the Treaty of Berlin. The Austro-Turkish Convention has not yet been signed. The agitation in Albania is increasing, and fresh outrages are imminent; the Christians are seeking safety in Montenegro. Mr. Layard has refused to entertain the request of the Porte for an advance of £6,060,000 to enable Turkey to carry out the reforms in Asia Minor. The Austrians will not attempt to advance to Novi Bazar this year.

The workingman who votes for Brown, Aylsworth, or O'Flynn votes to take away his own employment.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle free, and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and the wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

Obituary.

Amongst us, a "stranger amongst strangers" in a sense, has just died, somewhat suddenly, but in full ripeness of our allotted span, at the age of 78, one who, from her character and life, can scarcely be well suffered to pass from us to the world beyond, without a passing notice.

Yesterday (19th inst.,) we attended the funeral of the late ARIOLA FRANCES GIBSON, relict of the late Mr. Benson, barrister of Belleville, Ontario, and niece and ward of the late Sir John Harvey, Lieut.-Governor of Nova Scotia. Her earlier life, as we had occasion to gather from the conversations we had with her, was in that circle of society which in earlier times of Halifax included the leading public men of the day. Here was a mind of singular vitality, quick, keen, and in its expression very brilliant, and the soul of "the woman" was one of the noblest—unselfish, high-toned, and, as Rural Dean Robinson, in his special address (besides the ordinary service of the Church of England,) so touchingly said, a "Christian sister, pure and good, and, so far as we could see, and felt, one who had died the death of the righteous."

During the few months she had, with her affectionate and devoted son, Mr. Martin Benson, been with us, she had, by that electric light and glow of higher, better life, that was, even to her last moment, in her, endeared herself to all about her, and at her death all mourned for "The dear old lady." With a noble generosity Mrs. Conroy spontaneously offered a resting place for the "stranger" in her beautiful burial lot—the finest in the Ottawa valley. Sympathetic sisterhood—an extended one—in a manner to honor royalty itself, met in evening attendance, its tear dewed floral. Her funeral was attended by the leading men of all creeds in the neighborhood—Catholic and Protestant, Jew and Gentile, all, in a common respect, for one who thy, and, in our own appointed way, an honor to our humanity. The pall bearers were Sheriff Coutlee, Mr. Prentiss, Mayor of Aylmer, Mr. Woods, Postmaster, and Mr. McLeod, barrister. In the funeral train—a long one of carriages—we remarked Prothonotary Driscoll, Colonel Chamberlain, C. M. G., and a number of gentlemen connected with Government Staff in Ottawa, and all of the first respectability.

In the singularly apt words of the "lesson of the day" (Sunday last) and so impressively preached by God's minister on the occasion, we would, in all sincerity say,

BLESSED IS THE DEATH OF THE RIGHTEOUS—THE TRULY NOBLE.

Linguistic Knowledge of the Premiers of England and Austria.

(From the London World.)

Count Andrassy is able to transact business in four different languages at least, and therefore he may well be excused an occasional mistake in English, which he certainly speaks better than any member of the Queen's Cabinet can French, although of late years he has had little practice. Some one was congratulating him upon the successful line he had taken about Roumelia. "Well," he said, "I thought the time was come to take the bull by the corns."

Lord Beaconsfield asked Lord Odo Russell what was the French for a sole. "Une ame," he answered, supposing, of course, that his eloquent chief was intending to perorate in eloquent language, and never thinking of the humble fish so familiar in our domestic life. Late in the day he heard with consternation that the Premier had repaired to a well-known restaurant and ordered for his luncheon, "une ame frite."

Wonderful Carrier Pigeons.

More of the great pigeon-flying match from Rome to Belgium and Germany. Two Liege birds have come in, but the winner in the Belgian class of the prize of 2,000 francs is a six-year old male cird called Le Petit Creil, bred in Brussels, but owned by Messrs. Roy, of Anderlecht. He came home a little after noon on the eleventh day, and was enthusiastically received: cannons were fired to announce his victory; an open air fete and ball were organized, and the proud owners at once ordered the winner's portrait to be painted by the artist, Taelemand. The distance in an air line is some 700 miles, and contrary winds prevailed for a whole week. There is a subject for a poem in the bird's journey from Rome back to his mate across the Apennines and Alps and the whole extent of France.

Effect of Different Manures on Grass Land.

A Yorkshire correspondent of the London Agricultural Gazette gives the following bit of experience, which shows that one should not be too hasty in judging of the comparative effects of different kinds of manure: "Last January I dressed a very poor plain, or sheep run (21 acres), with about 14 loads of farmyard manure (not very rotten) on 4 acres. The rest of the pasture was sown about three weeks later with special dissolved bones, at the rate of 4 cwt. per acre. The effect of the first dressing was soon visible, and the 4 acres were distinctly marked out from the rest, showing where the manure was applied. As this result remained unchanged till the beginning of April, and the artificial manure then appeared to have been used in vain, judgment was given in favor of the yard manure. After this, however, we had some warm weather, with fine growing showers, which soon altered matters, and the line of demarcation became each day less distinct, till at length the superiority of the bones became manifest. I have now (June 19th) got a most luxuriant mixture of grass (chiefly red and white clover) from the portions sown with artificial manure. On the 4 acre piece there is scarcely any clover, and only a poor share of rye-grass and other common varieties. I have used dissolved bones on a good deal of grass this year, and the result in each case is astonishing. My land is a strong loamy clay."

Sewage as Manure.

The total amount paid by our farmers for manure must be something enormous. How much of this amount might be saved by a judicious application of the sewage now wasted, it is impossible to say. The Chinese are noted as agriculturists, and they never bring manure from "the ends of the earth." In China, in Flanders, Europe and in other places, everything not wanted in the house, and which can be made available, is used on the farm. "In the West India sugar plantations," Johnson says, "the cane after having had its saccharine juice pressed out at the mill, serves as fuel in boiling down the syrup. The ash thus produced is rich in those mineral ingredients necessary to the prosperity of the plant, and the neglect to return this valuable ash to the soil has not only occasioned a large importation of foreign manures, but also a serious deterioration of the soil." In our time we persist in buying manure while we poison the rivers by allowing the sewage to flow into them; whereas a little chemical knowledge, combined with judgment, would convince all concerned that if the sewage was deodorized and used on the farm, money would be saved and the rivers would be pure.—N. Y. Observer.

SUMMER PRUNING.—It is very useful to give a little attention, at the proper season, to the Summer pruning of fruit trees and bushes. The too rampant growth should be pinched back, and the too crowded branches thinned, which will give increased strength to what is allowed to remain. Raspberry bushes have been sending up their sprouts, which are to bear the fruit of next year; only as many should be allowed to grow as are wanted for next year's crop, and these should be pinched back at the ends to ensure ripening of the wood. Pear trees can also be pruned in summer, and apple trees, and will suffer much less than if the limbs are allowed to grow large and then sawed off, leaving a large wound to be healed. Stone fruit will not bear the saw so well as the apple and pear, and will be especially benefitted by judicious pinching of the green wood.—Mass. Ploughman.

HOW MUCH WE LOSE.—As an instance of the extent to which we are compelled to rely upon the United States for articles, many of which, had we a proper system, we could ourselves produce, it may not be out of place to state that, while, in 1875, Spain, Italy, Russia, Turkey, the Netherlands, Portugal, Sweden and Norway with a population of 144,989,377 imported from the United States $46,272,407, the Dominion alone, with her small population of about four millions purchased in the same market no less an amount than $50,807,820. This is a large sum of money to be taken from us in one year to go to swell the wealth of a rapacious rival and to be abstracted from the pockets of our own people, who could, were they allowed to earn it, retain a considerable portion of it among themselves.

The American Cultivator, (Boston) says: —"A Clarenceville man thought he could sell his potatoes to a better advantage in Vermont than on his side of the line; so he took a load to Alburgh, and sold 100 bushels for $25. When he got home, after paying United States duties, and charges, he had $8 of his $25, or 8 cents per bushel, just about enough to pay for the cartage. American produce is admitted into Canada free, but Canadians have to pay a duty of about 66 per cent. on all they send to the States."

Where the People's Money Went.

Starting Facts from the Public Records.

FAVORITISM, WASTE AND RECKLESSNESS.

The following is the profit and loss account of the Government with reference to the steel rails transaction:—

Cash paid in England for steel rails and fastenings	$2,938,900
The same quantity could have been purchased, delivered in Canada, in the spring of 1877, for	1,800,000
Loss on first cost	$1,138,900
Interest to 30th June, 1877, on ascertained payments	271,365
To this must be added the cost of 4,000 tons laid upon the Pictou and Truro Railway, a line that would not have been steded had not the rails been on hand	235,120
(The Government has taken authority to transfer this Railway in Nova Scotia to a private company)
Ascertained loss to 30th June, 1877	$1,645,385
Interest is running on at the rate of about $13,500 per month and is increasing; I estimate the further loss by interest before the rails are used at	$419,169
Total loss	$2,064,554

FURTHER ITEMS OF Public Money Lost through Reckless Extravagance of Mr. Mackenzie's Government, brought to light last Session.

Loss on these five transactions	$109,338
Grand total on the above transactions	$2,173,892

Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. A teaspoonful of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime given whenever the Cough is troublesome, will afford immediate relief, and if perservered in will effect a cure even in the most obstinate cases.

...INGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 12. ...NTARIO, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1878. NO. 115.

NO TIME TO LOSE.

Two days from to-day the great contest for the triumph of good Government will take place. On that day the momentous question whether this country shall enter upon an era of prosperity, or remain in its depressed, ruinous condition, will be decided. We have no fears of the result if the Opposition party but do its simple duty. Every Liberal Conservative elector should make this election his own personal business—should make up his mind, first to poll his own vote at all hazards—and second, see that a thorough organization exists in every school section, and every preparation be made to secure the polling of the entire strength of the party.

We urge upon our friends in the North, East and West Ridings of this County, to be up and doing. There is no time to lose.

Goldwin Smith's Opinion.

Professor Goldwin Smith has written a letter to the Toronto Telegram, in which he gives it as his opinion that the only chance for the country is the restoration to power of Sir John A. Macdonald. Prof. Smith, as is well known, is an English Radical of the most pronounced type, but at the same time he is one of the most eminent thinkers of the day, honest and fearless in the opinions he holds, and seeing that the country has been placed on the high road to ruin by the Mackenzie Government, he does not hesitate to express his preference for prosperity under Conservative rule to starvation under Grit auspices. The opinion of such a man is worthy of record, especially under the circumstances.

THE CANDIDATE and his NEW FRIENDS.

LOOK ON THIS PICTURE.	AND ON THAT.
He was a protectionist, and would put a protective duty on anything that required it. He would not say he would not go for a retaliatory policy if he got in a fighting mood. He believed that his ideas and Mr. Wallbridge's ran in the same groove, and it was therefore a question as to which of the two men they would prefer.—Mr. Brown at the Nomination.	PROTECTION IS LEGALIZED ROBBERY.—R. J. Cartwright, Finance Minister in the Administration which Mr. Brown supports. You are told that Protection (for this is really the only solid plank in the Opposition platform) is the thing needed to make you happy and prosperous. — Belleville organ of the Grits, Sept. 11, 1878.

Let Mr. Brown, the Finance Minister, and the Belleville organ, reconcile their direct opposition to each other on this vital question. Honest men see in the support of Mr. Brown by the Grits an unholy alliance, and will crush it out of existence on Tuesday.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.
EMPRESS RELIEF.
THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.
AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.
BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly, "Deny it who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

George Gilfillan's Last Hymn.

11TH AUGUST, 1878.

With tearful eyes I look around;
Life seems a dark and stormy sea!
Yet midst the gloom I hear a sound,
A heavenly whisper—"Come to Me!"

It tells me of a place of rest;
It tells me where my soul may flee;
Oh! to the weary, faint, opprest,
How sweet the bidding—"Come to Me!"

When the poor heart with anguish learns
That earthly props resigned must be,
And from each broken cistern turns,
It hears the accents—"Come to Me!"

When against sin I strive in vain,
And cannot from its yoke get free,
Sinking beneath its heavy chain,
The words arrest me—"Come to Me!"

When nature shudders, loth to part
From all I love, enjoy and see;
When a faint chill comes o'er my heart,
A sweet voice utters—"Come to Me!"

"Come, for all else must fail and die;
Earth is no resting-place for thee,
Heavenward direct the weeping eye;
I am thy portion—"Come to Me!"

O voice of mercy! voice of love!
In death's last fearful agony,
Support me—cheer me—from above,
And gently whisper—"Come to Me!"

Sunday Reading.

A Mother's Love.

BY MAPLE LEAF.

A mother's love! Oh, how lightly do we often value, and how little do we appreciate a kind, loving mother! What a fountain of pure, unselfish love rises up from her generous, loving heart. Who will love us as a mother does? And who will suffer, work and toil for us, depriving themselves of every comfort, in order that we may be well cared for, and spared all anxieties and cares of life! No one but mother.

We may have a kind father, gentle and loving brothers and sisters,—and when we grow older and leave the paternal roof, we may be fortunate in securing a kind husband or gentle wife, and may be blessed with dutiful and happy children; but no one will ever exercise toward us the same kind, patient love and gentle forbearance as a mother.

How kind we should be to her. We should share her anxieties, lighten the burden of her cares, and strive to make her declining years happy. It is a debt as well as a duty we owe to her, and it is, happily, in the power of all to pay it. Think of the many days of weary toil, and the years of unselfish love and patient devotion she has given to us, and then let us ask ourselves if we can do too much for mother.

A great many young people, especially girls, look on mother as a household machine to grind out everything necessary to comfort and welfare, exempting them from all the duties of the household, while they occupy the "best room," deeply interested in "how to improve the complexion," or meditating on the regular Sunday visits of John or Adolphus. Such a girl we do not think worthy of the mother we have described.

Ah, girls, help your mother! A time may come when you will have no mother. If you have never known how to appreciate her before you will know then; and when you miss her pleasant, smiling face from the table, and her gentle presence from the fire-side; when you miss the soft touch of her lips upon your cheek, or her cool hand upon your forehead, in the house of sickness and pain, and when you miss the hand that smooths the pillow that is so hard, and that none could render so comfortable and easy as mother—when you have thought of all these and numberless other acts of her kindness, you will ask yourself "What have I done to repay her for this life long devotion to me? Have I been kind and obedient, doing all in my power to lessen the cares and anxieties of my devoted mother?" If you have, how much will your great sorrow be softened; but if not, how many tears of bitter regret will be shed upon your poor mother's grave!

Girls, think of this, and remember that in all the wide world no love can be found like a mother's.

"You may sound the depth of yonder sea,
And count the sands that under it be;
You may measure the heights of Heaven above,
But thou mayst not mete out a mother's love."

The Home.

True society begins in the home. When two young people love each other and marry, they restore the picture of the apostolic church. They are of one heart and one soul. Neither do they say that anything they possess is their own, but they have all things in common. Their mutual trust in each other, their entire confidence in each other, draws out all that is best in both. Love is the angel who rolls away the stone from the grave in which we bury our better nature, and it comes forth. Love makes all things new; makes a new heaven and a new earth; makes all cares light, all pain easy, which realizes Fortunio's purse and Aladdin's palace, and turns the "Arabian Nights" into mere prose in comparison.

Think how this old story of love is repeated forever in all the novels and romances and poems, and how we never tire of reading about it; and how if there is to be a wedding in a church all mankind go, just to have one look at the two persons who are supposed, at least, to be in love, and so supremely happy. But this, also, is not perfect society. It is too narrow, too exclusive. It shows the power of devotion, trust, self-surrender, that there is in the human heart; and it is also a prophecy of something larger that is to come. But it is at least a home, and before real society can come, true homes must come. As in a sheltered nook in the midst of the great sea of ice which rolls down from the summit of Mount Blanc is found a little green spot full of tender flowers, so, in the shelter of home, in the warm atmosphere of household love, spring up the pure affections of parent and child; father, mother, son, daughter; of brothers and sisters. Whatever makes this insecure, and divorce frequent, makes of marriage not a union for life, but an experiment which may be tried as often as we choose, and abandoned when we like. And this cuts up by the roots all the dearest affections of home; leaves children orphaned, destroys fatherly and motherly love, and is a virtual dissolution of society.

I know the great difficulties of this question, and how much wisdom is required to solve them. But whatever weakens the permanence of marriage tends to dissolve society; for permanent homes are to the social state what the little cells are to the body. They are the commencement of organic life, the centres from which all organization proceeds. —The Rev. James Freeman Clarke.

The Benefits of a Birthplace.

BY REV. JOHN HALL, D. D., N. Y.

Of course, every one has been born somewhere. But the place is sometimes indefinite. Suppose you were born at sea? What distinct notion can you have of your birthplace, on the Mediterranean or on the Atlantic? Or even—what is quite improbable—if the spot has been identified on the ship's log, who thinks of a birthplace in the "degrees" and "minutes" of latitude? Next—in the disadvantage of vagueness—is being born in the woods, or on the prairie, where for whole days' travelling every square mile is exactly like every other. But there is this gain here as compared with the sea, that the woods and the prairie become populous, that houses grow up, that homes and churches and towns supplant the loneliness, so that you can say, "I was born here before the town was built, and where the school-house now stands." Next to this is being born in the dull street of a great city, where every house is like its fellow, and one dingy brick is the type of piled-up millions. Yet even then one can name the town, even the street, and perhaps something memorable comes to stand at, or near, the place, so that one can say, "I was born near where the Exchange, or the Court House, is now." And finally, next to that infelicity of birthplace is being the child of wandering parents, rich or poor, and having no links of memory binding one to a birth spot. "Where is your birth-place?" it was asked of a lady. "Have none," was the laconic reply; "I am the daughter of an itinerant minister."

As every mother thinks her own baby the handsomest, as every crow thinks its own the blackest, so every one—not born in exceptionally objectionable places—thinks his own birthplace the most interesting. Here now is a particular birthplace—no matter in what county of Ireland—thought of, remembered, loved, and being revisited after absences more or less lengthened, for five and thirty years. We should not wonder if a traveller passing through the region would ignore it, or only remember it by the long tunnels through which he entered and quitted it, yet how full it is of variety and beauty. Let it be described.

Stand here now at this gate at the head of the lane, beech-shaded, and look eastward. Over the worn-out "moss," as the peat-bog is called, and the rising hilly ground, your eye rests on the old Danish fort, round, strong, commanding, and entirely earth-built. That is "Lis-Summon Forth," as it is called. No profane spade disturbs it. Whose cattle would escape, who desecrated its soil, consecrated by mystery and age? How many romances it suggests? What hands reared, assailed, defended it? Round it the land is poor, and the native Irish till it. The rule of many generations somehow drove them to the lest fertile spots; but to their credit, through Ulster, they have turned the barrenness into fertility, and if you ask the honest Scottish settler, whose fathers came as strangers two hundred years ago, of his Roman Catholic neighbors, he will tell you that though there is hardly any social intercourse with them, yet in all neighborly ways they are as kind, honest and friendly as any one. It is immensely to their credit, for they had much to forgive.

Now look to the north. Downward your eye is carried till it rests on "The Lough," I am afraid it would be called a marsh in America; the railroad embankment has sorely trenched upon its eastern end. But what fish that lake held to fishermen of eight and ten years old! How grand was the one boat on it! How splendid was its one wooded isle! Call it a marsh indeed! Thirty-five years ago that lake was bottomless in some places.

Now turn to the opposite bank crowned with handsome trees surrounding a rectory of no mean dimensions—laid out in the good old departed days when it was thought wise to support the clergy as a valuable county gentry. Ah me! Disendowment is telling on the place. The land has been sold in part; the trees are being cut down; the house and the great walled garden look like a diminishing income to the occupant; and it is not the railway train alone that you see enter the tunnel in the hillside with a shriek that reminds you that Ireland is being changed.

But now look west and south—your eye may make its widest sweep. Over the meadows there—a mile and half away—is the pretty village of one long street, leaning against the gentle incline of the hill. That is the school-house at the upper end. That is "the meeting house" among the trees, and around its old cruciform walls sleep the dead who used to worship within them; and away, away till the sky touches the land, ten miles from you, in ever-rising slope, with intervales, which of course you do not see, is a noble stretch of farm land with white houses, with trim, hedges with rich crops, and with enough of pine and beech and the fragrant sycamore intermingled to give variety and beauty. At one side of this expanse you see the castle and domain of a nobleman, and on the other, closing up the view to the south, is the blue Slieve-Gulliyn, fitly rounding out a horizon which this present writer once firmly believed to be the boundary of the world.

Now how much better to be born in one of those houses in the fields, with pines and beeches and sycamores enough around to be identified and remembered, with the Forth, and the Lough, and the mountain, and the wide stretch of farms, each with its smoking house, photographed on the memory wherever one may go, than in any wilderness of trees, or brick-houses, or sea-waves, or prairie like the sea turned into pasture land!

Why, my dear sir, had you been so fortunate, you could have known nearly everybody about you. You would have gone to school with these men and women. The older ones would now talk kindly to you, and tell you how they knew you as a little boy, and what your father looked like. As you walked along the roads—and they can be walked upon—you would say: "Is not that a Henry, a Wilson, a Quinn?" for you would know them by their likeness to your old school-fellows. And if there is the least goodness in you, it would be harder to you to be mean and bad among them than in any other place, for you would remember how they always knew you, and all about you, and how they know your father, and your grand-father, and how dreadful it would be to have them compare you unfavorably with the "old stock."

Yes; there is great benefit in having a birth place. The world is very large to a man, and much of it strange and unattractive. He cannot know it all; but it helps him to feel kindly to it all to have known well and loved this little bit of it. The race is very numerous—thirteen hundred millions, more or less—and most of them are abstractions to us; but it helps us to sympathy with them to have been close to one set of them from one's infancy onward, and to have narrow watched their struggles and trials. And the God that is over all, alas! often seems remote and unreal, especially as we look at seething, shifting masses of men in the waves and billows of our great cities; but he is more real to us, as we mark the seperate individual and family histories of our fellows, known all their lives, in their work, in their trials, in their worship, where the quiet, simple lives began with "Man's chief end is to glorify God," and ended here with "Into Thy hands I commend my spirit." Blessings on the hills and vales of this old-world Ulster, the birth-place of many a man and woman now fighting their seperate battles East or West, and far away from its once familiar features! Duty or necessity, hope or fear, may have turned their steps and fixed their lot elsewhere, but they will always carry with them the memorials of the land of their childhood.

And what is true of them is true in its degree all round. Sunny France, "bonnie" Scotland, sturdy England, fair, free, wide America—all tell upon the lives they nourish at the beginning; all send a stream of memories and influences with them till they close. The place which any man of healthy nature owns as that of his birth is something to him that no other place can be, and happy is he if a part of his life can, now and then at least, be submitted to its best and purest influences.

Miscellaneous.

It is the duty of every one to take active part as actor on the stage of life. Some seem to think that they can vegetate, as it were, without being anything in particular. Man was not made to rust out his life. It is expected he should "act well his part," He must be something. He has a work to perform, which it is his duty to attend to. We are not placed here to grow up, pass through the various stages of life, and then die without having done anything for the benefit of the human race. It is a principle in the creed of the Mahometans that everyone should have a trade. No Christian doctrine could be better than that. Is a man to be brought up in idleness? Is he to live upon the wealth which his ancestors have acquired by frugal industry? Is he placed here to pass through life like an automaton? Has he nothing to perform as a citizen of the world? A man who does nothing is useless to his country as an inhabitant. A man who does nothing is a mere cipher. He does not fulfil the obligations for which he was sent into the world, and when he dies, he has not finished the work that was given him to do. He is a mere blank in creation. Some are born with riches and honors upon their heads. But does it follow that they have nothing to do in their career through life? There are certain duties for everyone to perform. Be something. Don't live like a hermit, and die unregretted.

REMEDY FOR TROUBLE.—Work is your true remedy. If misfortune hits you hard, you hit something else hard; pitch into something with a will. There's nothing like good, solid exhausting work to cure trouble. If you have met with losses you don't want to lie awake and think about them; you want sleep—calm, sound sleep—and eat your dinner with an appetite. But you can't unless you work. If you say you don't feel like work and go loafing all day to tell Tom, Dick and Harry the story of your woes, you'll lie awake and keep your wife awake by your tossing, spoil your temper and your breakfast next morning, and begin to-morrow feeling ten times worse than you do to-day. There are some troubles that only time can heal, and perhaps some that cannot be healed at all; but all can be helped by the great panacea, work. Try it, you who are afflicted; it is not a patent medicine; it has proved its efficiency since first Adam and Eve left behind them, with weeping, their beautiful Eden. All good physicians in regular standing prescribe it in cases of mental and moral disease. It operates kindly, as well as leaving no disagreeable sequiex, and we assure you that we have taken a large quantity of it with the most beneficent results. It will cure more complaints than any nostrum in the materia medica, and comes nearer to being a "cure all" than any drug or compound of drugs in the market. And it will not hurt you if you do not take it sugar-coated.

WOMEN are perpetually exhorted to make home comfortable; the wife must greet her husband with a kiss, for a cross word might send him to the billiard saloon, or a bar-room, for entertainment and relaxation; of course baby has been troublesome; babies always are; but women have nothing else to do, so why should she complain if she does have to hold him in her arms all day. The mother must always speak gently to the children, no matter how aggravating they may be—and even one's own children are sometimes a trifle annoying. And so on. But what of men's part in this home-making! Oh, their duty in the house is to "raise a breeze" in it. They are too busy, too much pre-occupied, too impatient and thoughtless, and—it must be said of some of them—too selfish to do their fair share of the pre-eminently millennial work, the creating of a happy home. They will fight for their homes, and make slaves of themselves to their business to maintain them; but, like the proverbial man who would die for a woman, but would never bring up a scuttle of coal, they can't tell what their children are studying at school, who their mates are, what they are learning of good or evil, nor hardly anything else that a father ought to know concerning his offspring. It is so sad a fact as to spoil the satire, when it is said that many a father finds his Sundays and holidays too few to enable him to "become acquainted with his boys." A father can contribute in many ways to a happy home life, for it takes little to make children happy. Five minutes' romp with them renders them happy for an hour. We hardly need say that a man should set the example for the family in patience, cheerfulness, courtesy, forbearance, and all the amiable moods and graces that are the soul of home happiness. The sort of men who display all their suavity and politeness on the street or at their business places, and save the storms, and sulks, and sourness, and all the evil brood of devilish dispositions that they characterize by the convenient euphemism of "moods"—well, they don't deserve home, wife or children.

THE COMING STRUGGLE.

Our Battle Cry: "Protection to Home Industries."

The Opposition Policy.

The commercial policy of the Opposition is represented in the following resolution moved by Sir John Macdonald in the House of Commons:—

"That this House is of opinion that the welfare of Canada requires the adoption of a National Policy, which by a judicious readjustment of the Tariff will benefit and foster the Agricultural, the Mining, the Manufacturing and other interests of the Dominion; that such a policy will retain in Canada thousands of our fellow-countrymen, now obliged to expatriate themselves in search of employment denied them at home; will restore prosperity to our struggling industries, now so sadly depressed; will prevent Canada from being made a sacrifice market; will encourage and develop an active interprovincial trade; and moving (as it ought to do) in the direction of the reciprocity of Tariffs with our neighbors, so far as the varied interests of Canada may demand, will greatly tend to procure for this Country, eventually, a reciprocity of Trade."

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, SEPT. 14.

THAT LIBEL.

Instructions have been received by telegraph from Mr. Bowell to enter a criminal prosecution against the publisher of the Ontario for the defamatory libel published in that paper, and to which we alluded in yesterday's issue.

No man who values his reputation could permit such a foul libel to go unchallenged, and the public will learn with satisfaction that Mr. Bowell, whose character has been so wantonly and grossly assailed, has taken this means to punish the slanderer.

Election Returns.

Arrangements have been made to run a wire to the Liberal Conservative Association rooms, in connection with the Montreal Telegraph Company, so that the election returns from all parts of the Dominion can be obtained on Tuesday evening. The rooms will be open till after midnight, to members of the Association, and returns will be read as fast as received.

WEST HASTINGS.

A meeting of Mr. Wallbridge's Committees will be held to-night in the Central Committee Rooms, INTELLIGENCER building. A full attendance is requested, as the business to be transacted is of importance. It is also requested that those who intend to volunteer the use of their horses and vehicles for polling day will make the fact known to-night.

On Monday evening a mass meeting of all the Committees for the Riding will be held in the City Hall, to which a cordial invitation is given to all the friends and supporters of the Opposition candidate. Mr. Wallbridge and other gentlemen will deliver addresses after the business of the evening has been disposed of. Let there be a large attendance.

NORTH HASTINGS.

Electors of North Hastings, you have to choose between your honest, faithful and able representative, and a man who is a very tyro in politics, and who, though professing to be "independent," is a Grit of the most unmistakable character. Do not be deceived by false cries and slanders, but show your detestation of such infamous tactics as Mr. O'Flynn's organ has resorted to by giving Mr. Bowell a larger majority than he ever before received.

EAST HASTINGS.

Mr. John White, who has been the representative of East Hastings for seven years past, is now opposed by a gentleman of amiable personal characteristics, but whose friends cannot claim that he would be in any respect an improvement on the gentleman who has so ably and intelligently represented them. Moreover, Mr. Aylsworth's political opinions (though he does not profess to know much about politics) are not such as are acceptable to the great majority of the people of the constituency, who are strongly Conservative. We have no doubt of Mr. White's return by a considerable majority, as his services to his constituents entitle him to their gratitude.

Vote for Prosperity.

There should be no doubt upon any man's mind as to how he should vote at the coming elections. For Mr. Cartwright himself has announced the following proposition:—

"THAT PROTECTION WOULD, IN THIS COUNTRY, FOR A "FEW BRIEF YEARS," ENABLE MANUFACTURERS TO MAKE "ENORMOUS PROFITS," AND WOULD CREATE A TEMPORARY GENERAL PROSPERITY."

Vote for Bowell, Wallbridge and White, and a few years of Protection and Prosperity.

All who desire to see Canada a prosperous country with abundant and thriving manufactures will vote for Messrs. Bowell, Wallbridge and White.

CONSIDER WELL!

We ask every one of the few Conservatives who have promised to support Mr. Brown from personal preference and with the hope that he will support Sir John A. Macdonald if returned to power, to turn over the matter in their minds with great care before carrying out their present intention. Let them bear in mind that Mr. Brown supported by his vote much that they have strongly condemned during the past five years—such matters, for instance, as the steel rails "indiscretion," the Kamlnistiquia swindle, the Fort Francis Lock job, &c., and that he voted against a duty on American corn and oats. He also promises to support the Mackenzie Government (if it be sustained) so long as their acts are in accordance with his judgment, and what that "judgment" is, let his past support of the men now in power answer. It will be well also to remember that the bitter opponents of Mr. Brown in the past—the men who have tried to hound him down, and who are to-day the earnest opponents of Conservatism, the followers of George Brown—placed him in nomination as their candidate, their leaders having informed the head of the party here that they were "satisfied with his course in Parliament," and are now actively championing his cause. Calm reflection on these facts cannot fail to convince any Conservative that there is bad faith somewhere, that Mr. Brown is not to be trusted by either party, and that his political record has been too inconsistent for condonation. Therefore we ask them to go to the polls and mark their ballots for the nominee of their party, the Hon. Lewis Wallbridge.

The Conservative Mass Meeting.

The mass meeting in the interest of the Conservative candidate for West Hastings, held in the Opera House last night, was the largest gathering of the kind ever held in a public hall in Belleville, the attendance numbering not less than eleven hundred people, whilst a considerable number turned away, unable to find even standing room. This large attendance, which is estimated by the lessee of the Opera House, was all the more gratifying, as the weather was inclement and threatening, and it demonstrated the enthusiasm of the Conservatives of West Hastings, as not more, we should think, than one hundred of Mr. Brown's supporters were present. The speeches were worthy of an audience so large and intelligent, the addresses of Messrs. Fralick, Nunn and McMahon being forcible and eloquent. The speech of the evening was that of the Hon. M. C. Cameron, of Toronto, the honored leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature. Mr. Cameron's address was not an appeal to the passions or the prejudices of his audience. On the contrary, it was a cool, dispassionate appeal to the reason of his hearers, every word being clearly and distinctly uttered and the arguments marshalled in such a fair, manly and honest way that no room was left for doubt in the minds of those who were privileged to listen to him. Mr. Wallbridge closed with an able address on the political topics of the day, one such as few other men are capable of delivering. The very best of order was preserved throughout, there being only a few impudent interruptions from some of Mr. Brown's supporters. The solid men of the city were present—the large property owners, the professional men, the merchants, and the intelligent and industrious mechanics and workingmen generally being represented—and the meeting was a credit to Belleville and an excellent indication of victory at the polls for the Opposition on Tuesday next.

Workingmen of Belleville! Mr. Brown stigmatized those of you who are out of employment as "lazy hounds," saying that there is work for all who are willing. Avenge the insult at the polls on Tuesday by voting to leave Mr. Brown at home.

Another Grit Lie Exposed.

There seems to be no end to the issue of lies, libels and slanders by the Grit press. As fast as one falsehood is disposed of they coin another, in the hope that some of the mud thrown will hit the object aimed at and stick there. Here is the latest, which is culled from the Toronto Tribune, Mr. C. F. Fraser's Catholic organ, commonly known as the Hook, which the twin Governments of the Dominion and the Province of Ontario established to do their dirty work, and circulate free amongst Irish Roman Catholics (vide Hon. S. C. Wood's letter, lately published). This mercenary, subsidized concern says, speaking of the elections in Hastings:—

"Mr. Wallbridge has been out of politics since 1866. He is, in fact, resurrected, in the political sense, and no one can predict with certainty what he may accomplish. He may, however, if his newly found friends get power do what he did before and help to hang another family of Aylesworths. The reproach that is generally given to the Sandfield Macdonald Government because of the judicial murder of the Aylwards is mainly due to Mr. Wallbridge, who was then Solicitor-General, and SHUT THE GATES OF MERCY AGAINST THEM."

This assertion is utterly and entirely false and without any foundation. The Aylwards were hanged on December 8th, 1862. Mr. Wallbridge was at that time a private member of the House, and did not become Solicitor General until the following year, namely early in May, 1863. The present Judge Adam Wilson, of the Queen's Bench, was Solicitor General when the Aylwards were tried, and conducted the prosecution in person. Thus the charge is shown to be as false as it is malignant, and those whom it is intended to influence should resent such a scandalous attempt to impose on their credulity. This slander has been privately circulated before, and we are glad of this opportunity of its publication to expose and brand it as it deserves.

We caution our readers to beware of another tissue of lies which probably will be issued in fly sheets on Monday night or Tuesday morning, when their authors hope it will be too late to contradict them.

WEST HASTINGS.

Conservative Mass Meeting in the Opera House.

An Immense Success.

The mass meeting of electors, called in the interest of the Conservative candidate, and held in the Opera House last night, was an immense success, the attendance numbering not less than eleven hundred people, despite the unfavorable state of the weather. A number of ladies were present, and occupied seats in the rear of the stage. There were but a few of Mr. Brown's supporters in attendance, the vast majority—at least ten to one—being supporters of Conservative candidate.

The meeting was organized by the appointment of the Mayor as Chairman.

The CHAIRMAN, in opening the proceedings, expressed his regret at having, on account of ill-health, been unable to attend any of the previous meetings. He announced that the Hon. M. C. Cameron would deliver an address (applause), and later in the evening he might make a few remarks himself. He then introduced

Mr. E. B. FRALICK, who said this was the first opportunity he had had of speaking to a Belleville audience during the present campaign. He had been mastered by the "outcounties," making a "big peak" for the Opposition cause, and he felt convinced that on Tuesday next the friends of Messrs. Wallbridge, White, and Bowell would "come down handsomely" with their votes. (Applause.) The friends of Mr. Brown boasted of large majorities in town and country, but that was simply buncombe, for the purpose of securing votes. The contrary would be found to be the case. (Applause.) He went on to say that Mr. Brown claimed support as a manufacturer—that he claimed support as an employer of labor—but he did not employ men for mere love, but because they gave him a fair day's work for a fair day's pay. He (Mr. Brown) called those of them who were out of work "lazy hounds," saying there was plenty of work for all, which showed what his regard for them was, and they could take that to their hearts. (Applause.) But that was not the issue—it was the interests of the country. He then explained in regard to a charge against Mr. Wallbridge as to the land in town said to have been at one time wanting for the Grand Trunk, saying that the Grand Trunk could have taken it by arbitration. (Applause.) Mr. Fralick then turned his attention to Mr. John Bell, and stated that that gentleman had been always on the side of the Government. Mr. Bell had purposed to come and address this meeting, but had deemed discretion the better part of valour. (Applause.) He then took up several points in the record of the Government, and explained the general policy of the Opposition to be a readjustment of the tariff, altering the duties so as to foster the various industries of the country. He also showed that the United States had not been prosperous under a low tariff, but had prospered under protection. He gave a number of instances of the benefits of protection, and closed an able speech of half an hour's duration amidst applause.

Mr. W. C. NUNN, who was next introduced, was received with applause. He said he had visited of late every important railroad centre in the United States, and he was therefore enabled to deny from his own knowledge, the reports in the Grit newspapers that large numbers of mechanics are there unemployed. He showed that there is immense activity in that country in the manufactories of railway material, many of the shops running day and night, and having orders in excess of their capacity at that. Although Mr. Brown said this country was prosperous, and that there was plenty of work for all willing to labor, yet a number of men in the Grand Trunk works here were working on short time, although this was the busiest season of the year, whilst in Kingston the grass was growing in the yard of the locomotive works, and at London the car works had closed. Thus many men were out of work, and now that they were looking for labor, Mr. Brown would doubtless class them as "lazy hounds." (Applause.) He also showed that many shops in Pittsburg were running double gangs, and said that if that is the ruin which there is in United States, as depicted in the Grit newspapers, then he hoped that a share of it would fall upon this country. (Loud applause.) Mr. Nunn then spoke of the use of the steel rails on the branch lines of the Intercolonial Railway, 42 miles of the Pictou branch having been laid with steel and made a gift of to a private Company. Then he touched at some length on the Pacific Railway, showing that very nearly one-half of the amount which was to have been paid by Sir John Macdonald's Government to Sir Hugh Allan's Company for building the road had already been expended on it, and yet we had not even a semblance of a road. He concluded a very spirited address by predicting victory on Tuesday, and sat down amidst loud applause.

Mr. EUGENE MCMAHON was next introduced, and was warmly received. He said he had not given much attention to politics, and after some humorous remarks, which were loudly applauded, he proceeded to say that he was there to answer a question why it was that he a Roman Catholic gave his support to the Conservative party, which was said to consist largely of Orangemen. He did so because the Grit party had opposed Separate Schools, which Sir John A. Macdonald had supported. Of the history of this measure in Parliament he gave a short narrative, and one of the measures of legislation affecting the Roman Catholic population. This showed that the Orangemen had not been opposed to toleration and fair play, and that George Brown and Mackenzie had been opposed to giving Roman Catholics an opportunity to educate themselves to rise in the world. (Applause.) He then condemned Mr. James Brown for his votes on the New Brunswick School question and in the case of Professor W. B. O'Donoghue, of Manitoba. Mr. McMahon was listened to with careful attention, and was loudly applauded on resuming his seat.

Hon. M. C. CAMERON, who was next introduced, was received with cheers and applause. Having briefly reviewed the history of the country just previous to Confederation in a very clear and interesting manner, he showed what was done for Ontario by the Sandfield Macdonald Government. That Government was destroyed because it was composed of two Conservatives and three Reformers, and in a mean and cowardly manner, when six of the representatives of the people were not occupying their seats. The first act of Mr. Blake on taking office was to seduce Mr. Scott, the Conservative Speaker, and form what he had condemned in his opponents, namely a coalition. Mr. Mackenzie had done the same thing. It seemed to him that in political matters the minds of many men were turned as they held that what was wrong in Sir John A. Macdonald was right in Mr. Mackenzie. (Applause.) Mr. George Brown had succeeded in indoctrinating a great many people with the idea that the Conservatives, whether alone as a party or united with others, could not govern the country without seeking its ruin. He then showed that a surplus of $10,000,000 had been rolled up by Sir John A. Macdonald's Government during its term of office. Mr. Mackenzie, promising great measures of economy, did not decrease the Cabinet salaries when he came into power, although he had previously declared them excessive, and instead of a surplus each year he had a deficit. If it was wrong for Sir John Macdonald to spend $23,000,000 a year, was it not wrong for Mr. Mackenzie to spend $23,-200,000? (Applause.) Reviewing the Pacific Scandal, Mr. Cameron said Sir Hugh Allan has sworn that he is worth about $6,000,000. He wished the railway built, and to forward the election of gentlemen favorable to it he gave what seemed to men of ordinary means large sums of money, but what to him was a small amount. Had he not been opposed on the London money market by false cries raised by the Grits, the road would in all probability have been running now. (Applause.) He then reviewed the corrupt record of the Government in a masterly manner, being frequently applauded enthusiastically. He urged that the Government be opposed on account of its corruption and incapacity, and asked his hearers to return for West Hastings a supporter of Sir John A. Macdonald, who is the ablest statesman, not only in Canada but on the whole Continent of America. (Cheers.) He argued with indisputable logic that a country to be great must possess all the elements of greatness. By encouraging manufactures we create a market for the farmer, and there was no earthly reason why if our grain paid a duty on entering the markets of the United States, their grain should not pay a duty on entering this country. (Applause.) The only object of the people should be to secure the good government of the country. If the Mackenzie Government had done its duty it should be supported, if not, it should be condemned, because the man who deceived them in public life in regard to his course should be cast out. Mr. Cameron spoke for a little upwards of an hour, and concluded amidst enthusiastic applause.

Mr. WALLBRIDGE, who was the next speaker, was warmly received. He proffered the platform to Mr. Brown or to Mr. John Bell, but neither of the gentlemen named responded. He commented in courteous terms, yet with severity, on the non-appearance of Mr. Bell, after he had been offered, in response to an inquiry of his own, a fair hearing. Mr. Wallbridge read the correspondence, connected with the matter. He then proceeded to state how it was that he had joined the Reform party, and how it was that he had left them when the object for which he united with them was accomplished. Mr. Brown professed to be an independent, that was to say that he would support the party which was in power, just as he had done in the past. There was no principle in that. (Loud applause.) Mr. Wallbridge then proceeded to treat of the commercial policy, there being of necessity much that in substance has previously reported, and making some excellent points, which the audience showed their appreciation of by frequent applause.

The CHAIRMAN, at the close of Mr. Wallbridge's address, asked for three cheers for the Queen, which were heartily given, also cheers for Messrs. Wallbridge and Cameron, and the audience dispersed at 11:30.

Artizans of Ontario! Who befriended the printers of Toronto and released several of them from the prison into which George Brown thrust them because they had struck for higher wages? SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD! Vote, then, for the Liberal Conservative candidates, who will support the man who gave you the right which you now enjoy to sell your labor to the highest bidder.

Who is the Friend of the Workingmen?

A Grit meeting was recently held at Campbellford, which was addressed by Mr. A. F. Jury, of Toronto, a so-called workingman, who spoke of the benefits conferred upon the artizans of this country, by the Grit party and the Government, and said that the Hon. George Brown took compassion on the printers in his employment who were imprisoned by him in 1872 for going on strike, and had them released. Mr. Jury doubtless thought that in a small place remote from Toronto as Campbellford is, he could make such a false assertion with impunity, but it turns out that he has "caught a Tartar." The proprietor of the Campbellford Herald, who was himself one of the strikers, thus exposes the falsehood:

"Before we close this article, we wish to correct a statement made by Mr. A. F. Jury which we should have done at the meeting, but the disorder which prevailed after his speech prevented us from speaking. We are no partyist, but in the interests of truth we cannot pass this by unnoticed. Mr. Jury in speaking of the benefits the workingmen had derived from the present Government, relates the case of the Printers' Strike, in Toronto. He said that through the compassion of the Government on the printers who were under arrest at this time, and had them released. This is an unblushing falsehood. We ourselves were one of the victims of this strike, on June 1st, 1872. The printers' strike was for an increase of wages to eight hours, and the nine hour per day system to work hands. The latter the employers refused to grant. A Vigilance Committee among the printers was formed, who met the "Master Printers," as the employers improperly termed themselves, daily. A few of the offices acceded to the printers' demands, but George Brown and some others refused positively to grant the laboring man under his employ a half-holiday; and driven to extremity Brown ordered the arrest of the Vigilance Committee, and the arrest of all printers found in groups upon the streets. The Vigilance Committee were arrested and confined, and the reason Geo. Brown did not send them to the Kingston Penitentiary was simply because he could not find a clause on the statute books to commit them. If any man deserves thanks for their release we believe it is Sir John A. Macdonald.

This statement we challenge Mr. A. F. Jury, of Toronto, or any other man, to refute. And if Mr. Jury sees this, we hope he will not be guilty of another deviation from the truth on any future platform.

TO THE PUBLIC,

MUCH IS BEING SAID just now in respect to Free Trade and Protection as affecting the imports of the Country at large: some very wise things and some very absurd are advanced on both sides of the question. One thing, however, is certain beyond a doubt, and that is, whatever may be the individual's opinion, every one will seek to supply his personal wants where he can do so to the best advantage, and will buy where he can get the best article and at the lowest price, be it English, Dutch, Canadian or Chinese.

The greater part of our wearing apparel, especially ladies', comes from Great Britain, where they are masters of the manufacture of such fabrics as are needed, and wherever these goods may be bought in Canada, England is the original source of supply. Now any one can see that the fewer hands these pass through the better it is for the consumer, for, apart from the tariff question, the high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, each having to get his profit. The nearer the consumer and producer are brought together the better it is for both. It is because the public recognize this fact that so many merchants here as elsewhere are anxious to be considered Direct Importers who are not.

And here we beg to reiterate what we have before emphatically stated, that our firm are the only Importers of a general stock of Dry Goods in Belleville not buying through another house in Canada. This is shown conclusively by the Returns at the Custom House here, for all the British Goods entered at this Port have come to our store with the exception of a few packages.

We offer our customers all the advantages which our business connexions in Great Britain enable us to do, both in the price and quality of goods as well as in the style.

City and Vicinity.

DELAYED.—The steamer Alexandra was delayed at Gananoque by the storm.

W. C. T. A.—Women's Temperance meeting on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. All are welcome.

CHRIST CHURCH.—Rev Mr. Austin will preach in Christ Church to-morrow, morning and evening.

POLICE COURT.—There were only two cases in court this morning, namely those of Mary Smith, charged with vagrancy, who was allowed to go, and Alfred Brickman, drunk, discharged.

EARLY CLOSING.—The druggists will commence early closing on Monday evening, on and after which date they will close their respective places of business at 7 o'clock p. m.

SCHOONER CAPSIZED.—The schooner Hibernian, owned by Messrs. Rathbun & Son, and loaded with lumber for Gananoque, capsized one mile west of Bath on Friday morning. All hands were safe.

SERVICES TO-MORROW.—The Rev. Mr. Kerr, of Albert College, will preach in the Holloway Street Church at 11 a. m. to-morrow, and Rev. Prof Bannister will preach in the Bleecker Street Church at 7 p. m.

PICTON AND BELLEVILLE.—It will be seen by advertisement that the steamer City of Belleville will run regularly hereafter between Picton and Belleville, leaving Picton every day at 6 o'clock and return leaving Belleville at 3 p. m.

CITY COUNCIL.—Monday night is the regular night of meeting, but it is not at all probable that a meeting will be held, as the night in question is the eve of the political battle and a number of the Aldermen on both sides of politics are actively engaged in the canvass.

GALES.—So soon as the easterly gale blew itself out yesterday, the wind suddenly veered to south-west, and began to blow hard, soon rising in force to one of the heaviest gales of the season, which continues as we write. The ferry steamer was unable to run during a part of yesterday afternoon, and the bay has seldom or never been more thickly covered with "white caps" than it was this morning.

A DEAF AND DUMB GIANTESS.—The Toronto Telegram says:—"A few days ago a deaf and dumb girl was sent from this city to the Belleville Institute to receive her education. She is but thirteen years of age, is six feet in height, weighs three hundred pounds, has twelve toes and a like number of fingers, and is in a good state of health. Her family are firmly convinced that before she stops growing she will outrival Mrs. Captain Bates."

WELL PLEASED.—The Oswego Palladium is well pleased, as it is entitled to be, at the victory of the Ella of that city over the Surprise. It says: "We hoped that this magnificent victory of the Ella, will stimulate such of our Oswego yachtsmen as have time and means to try and improve upon her, so that next season we can go to Canada and not only win the first, but the second and third also. It can be done." That is the right kind of spirit, and we hope to see our neighbors try, at all events, to beat our larger yachts with the Ella.

FALL REGATTA.—Some little time ago, it was considered unadvisable to hold a regatta this season, owing to the Parliamentary elections taking place at about the date on which the regatta is usually held. As, however one new ten ton yacht has been added to the fleet and another of the same measurement was launched today, and as there seems to be a general desire that these two new craft should be given a chance to compete against their older sisters, a desire has been expressed by many members of the Club that a regatta should take place. Consequently a meeting will be held at Hambly's on Friday evening next, 20th inst., to consider the matter.

BOATING.—The establishment of the Bay of Quinte Rowing Club has already done much to promote an interest in the manly sport of rowing, which had previously been at rather a low ebb here. Two fine practice double scull skiffs have been procured by the Club from Toronto, and Mr. Tisdale has just completed a single scull shell, which is the first craft of the kind to be used on these waters, and which, though neither modelled after the professional shells nor constructed so lightly, will yet be an excellent practice boat. Sliding seats are rapidly coming into vogue, and next season Belleville will be able to boast of some amateur scullers who will be able to make a creditable race in good company.

KINGSTON RIFLE MATCHES.—Following up his successes at Toronto and Ottawa, Corporal Hilton, of the 49th, went to Kingston, in company with a number of other crack shots. In the All-comers' (7 shots at 200 and 300 yards) he stood 4th with a score of 29; in No. 2 match (5 shots at 200 and 300 yards) he was 8th with a score of 36; and in No. 3 match (5 shots at 200, 500 and 600 yards) he stood 1st at 200 yards, scoring 23, and 7th at 500 yards, scoring 21. The completion of this score has not yet been received, but the above is very creditable to Corporal Hilton, especially considering that he was competing with some of the best marksmen in the country.

TERRIBLE STORM.—Rain fell for seventy hours in Toronto, Hamilton, and other places west on the 11th, 12th, and 13th inst. The consequence has been immense damage to property by floods. The Great Western Railway track between Toronto and Hamilton was washed out to such an extent that trains were delayed twelve hours, and much damage has been done to other railways, the Grand Trunk bridge at Port Credit being swept away. In Toronto two bridges over the Don were carried away, and great damage was done to property on the banks of that usually sluggish stream. The effects of the storm were also felt very severely in the western and south western States.

If you are fatigued in mind and body, take SANFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER.

MASONIC GRAND LODGE.—At the session of the Grand Lodge in Toronto the following officers were elected:—M. W. Bro. W. H. Weller, Cobourg, G. M. (re-elected); V. W. Bro. J. A. Henderson, Kingston, D. G. M. (re-elected); V. W. Bro. Bernard Saunders, Toronto, G. S. W.; V. W. Bro. T. H. Tracey, London, G. J. W.; Rev. C. W. Patterson, Aurora, G. Chaplain; V. W. Bro. E. Mitchell, Hamilton, G. Treas.; V. W. Bro. J. Lawson, Picton, G. R.; V. W. Bro. J. J. Mason, Hamilton, G. S. (re-elected); V. W. Bro. E. Ball, G. T. Bro. Allan Maclean was appointed by the Grand Master on the Board of General purposes. The next meeting will be held at Kingston on the second Wednesday in September next year.

VOLUNTEER TEAMS.

As the Election law very properly prohibits the hiring of teams for the conveyance of voters to and from the polls, such service must necessarily be performed free of charge. As it is of the greatest importance that a full vote be brought out, we ask those friends of the Opposition cause in the three Ridings of this County owning horses and vehicles to place them at the disposal of the Committees on the day of election, and to turn out themselves, wherever it be possible, to assist in bringing up the voters. Let those having horses and vehicles for use notify the Chairman or Secretary of the respective Committees at once, that it may be known how many vehicles can be relied on. Victory is assured in every division of the County if the voters can but be brought out, and we are confident that the friends of good government will not be lacking in this regard.

The Grit party have no sympathy with our unemployed workmen, and if their candidates are sent back to Parliament they will support a Government whose policy is one that would eventually, if persisted in, destroy the best interests of all classes. Vote for Wallbridge, Bowell, and White.

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as DOCTOR'S CELEBRATED WISTAR'S BALSAM for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and labored breathing, the demulcent properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime manifests itself in its healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided reasserts herself, and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health.

NO TIME TO LOSE.

Two days from to-day the great contest for the triumph of good Government will take place. On that day the momentous question whether this country shall enter upon an era of prosperity, or remain in its depressed, ruinous condition, will be decided. We have no fears of the result if the Opposition party but do its simple duty. Every Liberal Conservative elector should make this election his own personal business—should make up his mind, first to poll his own vote at all hazards—and second, see that a thorough organization exists in every school section, and every preparation be made to secure the polling of the entire strength of the party.

We urge upon our friends in the North, East and West Ridings of this County, to be up and doing. There is no time to lose.

Goldwin Smith's Opinion.

Professor Goldwin Smith has written a letter to the Toronto Telegram, in which he gives it as his opinion that the only chance for the country is the restoration to power of Sir John A. Macdonald. Prof. Smith, as is well known, is an English Radical of the most pronounced type, but at the same time he is one of the most eminent thinkers of the day, honest and fearless in the opinions he holds, and seeing that the country has been placed on the high road to ruin by the Mackenzie Government, he does not hesitate to express his preference for prosperity under Conservative rule to starvation under Grit auspices. The opinion of such a man is worthy of record, especially under the circumstances.

Let Mr. Brown, the Finance Minister, and the Belleville organ, reconcile their direct opposition to each other on this vital question. Honest men see in the support of Mr. Brown by the Grits an unholy alliance, and will crush it out of existence on Tuesday.

The Two Votes.

Vote for the present Government and renew the experience of the 1863-73 period, to past five years, that is wit:

1. WHOLESALE BANK-RUPTCY.
2. WANT.
3. NO WORK.
4. DEFINITE AND IN-CREASED TAXES.
1. COMMERCIAL PROSPERITY.
2. PEACE AND PLENTY.
3. BRISK LABOR MARKET.
4. SURPLUSES AND LIGHT BURDENS.

Electors, choose the better part.

REGATTA IN TORONTO.—A meeting was held in Toronto on the 12th inst. to arrange for a regatta on 10th, 11th and 12th October. It is likely about $5,000 or $6,000 will be raised for the purpose. The Hanlan Club will guarantee $3,000, and the Licensed Victuallers' Association $2,000.

LORD DUFFERIN'S DEPARTURE.—Quebec despatches state that "His Excellency the Governor General is expected to sail from Quebec on either the 12th or 19th October, most probably the latter date. A short intetrregnum will thus occur between the date of His Excellency's departure from Canada and that of the arrival of his successor, Lord Lorne."

EXPORTS FROM MONTREAL.—The exports for the month of August from Montreal show a total increase of $756,904 over those for the corresponding period in 1877. There is a heavy increase in Grain, Flour, Live Cattle, Tallow, Wool and in the produce of the Mine. In Lumber, preserved Meats, Furs, Lard, Leather and Dairy Produce there is a decrease.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING!—This is the question which should be addressed to every Conservative. There is but one day remaining of the campaign, and sharp, earnest work is wanted. Success is within our reach, but no over-confidence should produce apathy. Every one who is interested in the success of the National Policy should put his shoulder to the wheel and make a "big push." Get your voters' lists ready, your volunteer teams provided, agents and scrutineers appointed, and all the election machinery in good working order for the morning of the election, and the return of Messrs. Bowell, White and Wallbridge is secured beyond peradventure.

WE WANT WORK.—Men cry for work. All they ask is the privilege to work. They are able to take care of themselves if you give them half a chance. They have strong arms and stout hearts, and if they can only work they will hold up their heads and maintain their independence. Nothing debases a man like forcing him to beg. Nothing demoralizes a man like forcing him to lie idle. He cannot afford to remain doing nothing, because his wife and children require bread and clothes and a roof to cover them. He will not steal because his conscience revolts from it. What is the alternative? Work! Give him work. And the only way to get work is to revive our manufactories and other industries. The Conservatives say: "We will do this." The Government people say: "We will not do it." Choose!

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—During a quarrel yesterday between Antonio Langoni and Frank Cardinale, the latter struck the former on the head with a heavy iron cleaver which stunned Langoni. When the latter recovered he seized an old bayonet and dealt Cardinale two fatal blows.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The State Department has prepared the commission of Col. J. S. Mosby as Consul to Hong Kong; salary $4,000.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Boston specials state the old line Democrats have about determined to lead a bolt at Worcester on Tuesday, if they find that the Convention is beyond their control and firmly in the hands of the Butlerites.

OMAHA, Sept. 14.—The Agency at Cheyenne is reported as pushing forward, ravaging the country as they proceed. It is believed they have been communicating with Sitting Bull. Gen. Pope is vigorously conducting pursuit, but far behind.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—One hundred prominent good legislators who had planned an excursion to Niagara Falls, have given up the trip and donated the contemplated expense ($1600) to fever sufferers.

BABYLON DEPOT, La., Sept 14.—John Hendrickson shot his wife and lady friend yesterday, and supposing he had killed them, blew his brains out.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Specials report that at New Orleans the climax of the fever it is believed was reached on Wednesday, which was the 58th day of the epidemic, thus upholding the theory of periodicity. In 1867 the climax was reached on the 58th day, and in 1878 on the 56th day.

Great excitement was caused yesterday by the bursting of a hermetically sealed coffin during the services at the grave. The body had been kept 28 hours. On Thursday night a woman gave birth to an infant which within seven hours died of black vomit, although the mother was apparently healthy.

Dissatisfaction among the negroes concerning rations threatened a riot yesterday.

Dr. Woolfolk, the heroic physician of Paducah, who volunteered help for the fever sufferers, died at Grenada yesterday.

A man named Williams, of Ohio, who recently went to Memphis to join the Howards, was taken with fever on Thursday while on the train en route for Chattanooga. He was placed in a box car and switched off quarter of a mile from Stevenson, Alabama. Doctors, negroes, and everybody refused to go near him, excepting postal clerk Matthews. Dr. Barr has gone to attend him.

Specials concerning the storm say that a material train ran into a wash-out near Cameltown, West Virginia, on Thursday night, and the engineer killed. Near Barbour, West Va., an engine ran into a slide, and fireman Wheeling and a brakesman were scalded to death.

A great number of slides are reported on the Western division of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. The Virginia Midland Road has lost an important bridge across Staunton river. This necessitates an indefinite suspension of travel. Five miles of track of the Ashtabula, Youngstown & Pittsburg Railroad have been washed away. No trains on roads terminating at Ashtabula, Ohio, were running yesterday.

Washington specials:

The Times says, it looks as though Sherman's order last week to exchange silver for greenbacks was blunder, or that his order of yesterday rescinding the first one is surrender to the clamor of the greenback element. Sherman fears the exchange of silver for greenbacks may not be in accordance with the legislation of the congress upon this subject, as redemption is not authorized before the specified day.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Two cargoes of sugar, consigned to two prominent firms were seized yesterday, charged with having been artificially colored to avoid duty.

Diphtheria is ravaging in Paterson, N. J. It is attributed to the filthy condition of the streets.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The race to-day for $500 from Putney, to Mortlake, between Joseph Sadler and John Hawdon, was won by the latter by four lengths. The latter belongs to Newcastle, on the Tyne, he came out in '76, and was winner of the second class sculls in the late International regatta. Hawdon has engagements to row Lumsden and Cannon.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Up to 2 p. m. it was slightly indisposed the past two days. The usual audience has been suspended to-day. He is better.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 14.—The Mussulmans threaten to make a descent on Erzeroum and plunder the Christians when the Russians leave Armenia. The Archbishop of Erzeroum has telegraphed the British and French Ambassadors at Constantinople, asking that steps be taken for protection to the Christian population.

ROME, Sept. 14.—A meeting will be held at Savona to-morrow by members of the Peace Preservation Society, and other Peace Committees of the general Peace Congress, which announced the principles of international arbitration.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 14.—Advices from a great number of points in Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Indiana, states that the storm for the past few days was the most severe experienced for two years. The destruction to railroad property and especially bridges is immense. Bridge at Rodsmill, on the Pan Handle route, washed away. Freight No. 19, coming east plunged into the stream and was badly wrecked. The engineer and fireman it is feared are killed, as they have not since been seen.

No trains passed Steubenville, Ohio, on the Pan Handle railroad, Pittsburg, Wheeling and Kentucky, or Cleveland and Pittsburg roads, and it cannot be stated how soon traffic will be resumed.

The Ohio river at Steubenville rose 16 feet in less than 24 hours. The damage in the surrounding country by floods cannot be estimated.

From Youngstown it is stated that seven inches of rain fell in twenty-four hours. On Mahoning avenue the water is eight feet deep. Several small dwellings were swept away. The loss to the country in ruined bridges reaches $100,000. The following properties are almost totally destroyed: Brown, Bonnell & Co. rolling mill, Mersebridge Works, Dongleby & Co. lumbermen, Killerod Furnace Co., Andrews furnace. No trains arrived or departed from that place yesterday.

At Mechanicsville, near Painesville, Ohio, a dam gave away. A number of houses were inundated. The loss in that vicinity is estimated at $50,000. At Salem, Ohio, a bridge fell with an engine and two cars upon which the engineer and brakemen were severely injured.

Near Alliance, Ohio, Richard Teeters, an engineer upon a coal train, had both legs broken, and the fireman was severely injured, by running into a chasm left by the bridge which was swept away.

At Barnhart Inlet, near North Amherst, Ohio, two two-masted sailing vessels, Sterling and Light, from Canada, were totally wrecked. Loss $18,000.

The Kanawha river is higher than in the flood of '61, and is still rising, overflowing a portion of Charleston, West Va., and the Kanawaha valley, sweeping with it the new steamer Advance, and a number of lumber rafts, etc.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 14.—The Post yesterday published an interview with Dr. Ramsay, physician at Memphis, in which he stated he had been informed that white women have to take negro nurses or go without, and that such negroes have taken advantage of their helpless victims. The editor of the Memphis Appeal pronounces this statement utterly untrue and adds, "No man, white or black, would be allowed to draw a second breath after such a crime became known. No such a crime has been committed. The negroes of Memphis have acted by us nobly as policemen and servants, as well as nurses. They have responded to every call made upon them in proportion to their numbers quite as promptly as the whites."

ST. LOUIS, Mo. 14.—The Executive committee of the South Western Railway Association equalized the rates from Missouri River points, to take effect on Monday. Rates to the seaboard will be 27c. per hundred to Chicago, and 22c. to East St. Louis.

Grayson Ky. 14.—Joseph Dougherty mining Superintendent of the Hunnewell Coal mines, had his back broken yesterday. The miners in one of the rooms reported danger from its shake. Dougherty went into show there was on danger, when about a ton of slate fell upon him.

MORGANTOWN W. V. A. 14.—Wheeler Costello, a student of the university, was overcome by foul air in a well and a man named Mayor attempted to rescue him—Both died.

GRENADA, Miss., Sept 14.—Seven deaths, two new cases; slight frost last night.

THE SAME SONG.

Where was it I heard that song
And why did it ring so sweet—
Its exquisite harmonies, sounding and strong,
Keeping time to my heart as it beat?

Why, indeed! For, as if in a dream,
I remember the blended strains
Caused, one by one, and the wandering theme
Ran on in falsetto refrains—

Till the music grew harsh and thin,
Like the voice of a dying bird,
And never again the beauty could win
That first in the notes I had heard.

Even now, as it drifts to my ear,
Dread echoings only emerge
Of wind and snow and the falling tear,
Or the plaint of the spent sea surge.

Ah! is it the same old song?
Yes; some one says it began
With the days of my life, and will last as long,
To measure in music life's plan.

But the tones that wrought its old spell—
Youth, hope and joy—took wing
And the tune of my life sounds hardly so well
When played on a single string!

A Wicked Old Gentleman.

HOW HE SANG BASS AND BASELY TOOK IN THE BOYS.

(From the Boston Commercial Bulletin.)

Nice old gentleman he was; big white waistcoat, low-cut shoes, bald head and silver bowed spectacles. He had been singing on Sunday evening in the hotel parlor, and sung that old fashioned bass in "Coronation" and "China" in that sonorous up-and-down style which country choristers used to practice in accompanying the big fiddle, and withal had the bland benevolent look of a good old up-country deacon.

He was "looking round the house" next night and stepped in where some of the boys were playing cards—something where they were talk'ng of "calls" and "raises" and "seeing." The boys looked a little disconcerted, but the old man didn't see anything till the hand was played out, and one of the party under pretence of having an engagement, winked to the others and said he must go, intending to break up till the old man had gone away and then resume the game. But he had scarcely turned his back when the aged visitor remarked:

"I wonder he didn't 'raise' yo with the hand he held."

"Do you understand the game?" asked one of the party, taking a cigar from his mouth.

"Wall, a leetle; I've seen 'em playin on it, an sometimes thort that I'd like to take a hand jes' for fun."

"Just so," said another: "suppose you try a game or two with us.

"Wall, I don't mind jes' for the fun er the thing." So the old man sat down and with a good deal of instruction managed to get through with the game and won on the penny ante. "Thar," said he, "if that feller that's gone had been spunky and put in $5 he'd get it instead of these 8 cents, wouldn't he?"

"Why, certainly," said one of the young men, "certainly; it's your deal uncle; now, why don't you go in for a $5 ante.

"Wall," said the old fellow, throwing round the cards, "I done but I will, but I hain't got nothin' but a $20 bill that I drew outen the bank to come here with."

"Well, uncle," said the other, gathering up and glancing at his cards, "I'll go yer twenty, and you can put in the missionary box when you win it if you like."

"Sho! so I ken," said the old man; "I don't think 'twud be gambolin' at all of that's the case."

"Not at all," said the other, winking to his companions.

"Wall, then I don't care of I go yer this 'ere other fifty—but I s'pose you'll think I'm doin' on it to skear yo—but our demonination's tarnal poor, and a big contribution is jest what they're hankerin e'ter."

"Oh, no; I cover your fifty, uncle, we ought to be liberal, you know," and so the game went on till finally the old man remarked, "Well, I'd no idee I had this ere roll o' bills in my pocket—so you call, do ye?—$500 up!—yes, you have got three pictures—three queens and a jack. Well, 'tis kinder queer I got tother queen—haw! haw! haw!

"Yes, I'm sor.y for you, but where are your other cards?" said the young man, triumphantly.

"Wall, three on 'em ez kings—why, darn it, all that ere pot o' money's mine, young feller!" said he, stretching out a pow-ful paw and squeezing the bills out of the hand of the young man, who had already begun to roll them up. "Paps," mister, you'd like to take your hand again," said he to the other who had returned meantime; "they are goin' to sing some sam tunes up stairs before going to bed and I promised I'd jine 'em."

There was a blank look of amazement in that circle as he left, and the thought forced itself into more than one mind of the danger of trusting to appearances.

A peach always gravitates into a dealer's basket with the speckled side down. Now, why is it?

Disinfectants should be in every family, rich or poor, as absolute cleanliness is necessary at present.

Did the prophet Isaiah ever eat at a railroad station? It certainly looks as if how could he have described it so literally if he had not? "And he shall snatch on the right hand and be hungry; and he shall eat on the left hand, and then shall not be satisfied."—Congregationalist.

As two friends were talking about their respective eldest sons, who were very fast wild, one said: "I wish we could find some bit with which we could pull them up short." "Perhaps," responded the other, "if we should bridal them, each might be checked when there was danger going too far, by a bit of his wife's mind."

It is a certain town not more than fifty miles from Glasgow, as a minister was holding forth in his usual drowsy manner, one of the elders, probably influenced by the narcotic qualities of the discourse, fell into a doze. The preacher happened to use words, "What is the price of earthly pleasures?" the elder, who kept a small shop, thinking the enquiry was respecting some kind of merchandize, answered, "seven-and-sixpence a dozen."

—A German oculist rented a cottage at Cape May, and soon found that he was paying an exorbitant price for it. His landlord was also his milkman. One morning the milkman came along the oculist looked him in the face, and asked, "Vat is the matter with your right eye, my frent?" The milkman said he did not know that anything was the matter with it; but he was frightened. Next morning he asked the oculist to examine the eye. The latter pronounced it very bad, and said that in less than six months that eye would be blind. The oculist treated him, and easily cured him, for there was nothing the matter with the eye. Then it was a race between the rent and the oculist's bill; but the oculist won.

Promising Children.

The question is often pertinently asked, "What becomes of all the promising children?" but it is to be hoped that a satisfactory answer is forthcoming. It does appear strange that so many boys and girls who astonish us by their bright sayings, by their early proficiency, by their acute perceptions, and even by their profundity of thought, should grow up into very ordinary men and women, distinguished for nothing in particular, and even by their profundity of thought, should grow up into very ordinary men and women, distinguished for nothing in particular, and certainly fulfilling none of the promises which their early youth so plentifully afforded.

Of course, no single cause is sufficient to explain this phenomenon; but among those which combine to produce it, none is more conducive than the general lack of power to render the faculties obedient to the will. When this power is feeble the most brilliant parts, the most fertile imagination, the most keen perceptions, the greatest fluency of language, will save the possessor from sinking. For a time these qualities will sparkle on the surface and dazzle many eyes.

In childhood, especially, where we do not expect any great strength of will or power of concentration, we are strongly attracted by the marks of what we fondly call genius, and look forward with happy assurance to the time when they will develop into manly and womanly superiority. But when life's exigencies arrive, and the demand is made for accurate knowledge, sound judgment, and steady purpose, these hopes are often sadly disappointed; and by which diminished childhood has faded, and the power which should suppo.. manhood does not take its place.

A Slight Cough that we are so apt to consider a mere annoyance and treat with corresponding neglect, too often proves to be the seed sown for an inevitable harvest—CONSUMPTION. Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. A teaspoonful of Robinson's Phosphodyne—The Great Nerve and Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime given whenever the Cough is troublesome, will afford immediate relief, and if persevered in will effect a cure even in the most obstinate cases.

Prepared solely by J. H. ROBINSON, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B.; and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six for $5.00. d&w-1m

Voters will remember if they want a change of fiscal policy in this country they can only get it by supporting Opposition candidates, as the Government candidates readily admit that their party will make no change, and affirm that the Government can do nothing to relieve the depression. Vote for Bowell, White, and Wallbridge and a Protective tariff.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE For CATARRH

INSTANTLY relieves and permanently cures this loathsome disease in all its varying stages. Its presence is detected by the following symptoms: Stopping of the head, hawking and blowing to clear the throat, offensive breath, nose discharging matter, sometimes ulcerations from every other known remedy, is one short year it has found its way from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, and wherever known has become the standard remedy for the treatment of Catarrh. The proprietors have in their possession letters from gentlemen of national reputation, who have used it in their families, and who have, at considerable expense and personal trouble, spread the good news throughout the circles in which they move. When you hear a wealthy gentleman of intelligence and refinement say, "I owe my life to Sanford's Radical Cure," you may feel assured that it is an article of great value, and worthy a place among the standard medical specialties of the day.

THE benefit I derive from its daily use is to me incalculable.
HENRY WELLS, of Wells, Fargo & Co.

IT has cured me after twelve years of uninterrupted suffering.
GEO. W. HOUGHTON, Waltham, Mass.

I FOLLOWED the directions to the letter and am entirely free from the disease of Catarrh.
D. W. GRAY, M. D., Muscatine, Iowa.

I HAVE recommended it to quite a number of my friends, all of whom have expressed to me their high estimate of its value and good effects with them.
WM. BOWEN, 223 Fifth St., St. Louis.

AFTER using two bottles I feel myself permanently cured. I have since recommended over one hundred bottles. It is the greatest success.
WM. W. ARMSTRONG, 159 Harrison Ave., Boston.

WE have sold SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE for nearly one year and can say candidly that we never sold a similar preparation that gave such universal satisfaction. We have yet to learn of its first complaint.
S. D. BALDWIN & CO., Washington, Ind.

THE cure effected in my case by SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE was so remarkable that it seemed to those who had suffered without relief from any of the usual remedies that it could not be true. I therefore made affidavit to it before Seth J. Thomas, Esq., Justice of the Peace, Boston.
GEORGE F. DISMORE, Druggist, Boston.

Each package of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE contains Dr. Sanford's Improved Inhaling Tube, with full directions for its use in all cases. Price, $1. For sale by all wholesale and retail druggists and dealers throughout the United States and Canada. WEEKS & POTTER, General Agents and Wholesale Druggists, Boston, Mass.

Robbery of the Receiver-General's Office.

Suit at New York for the Recovery of the Stolen Money.

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF TOM BIGELOW.

The following account of the suit for the recovery of the money stolen from the Receiver-General's office, and sketch of the life and doings of Bigelow, who is supposed to be the thief, is taken from the New York Times of the 11th inst. Bigelow arrived in Toronto in the custody of Detective Skeffington on Tuesday night last, and made his appearance in the Police Court on the following morning:—

A suit just begun in the United States Circuit Court is entitled "Victoria, Queen of the United Kingdoms of Great Britain and Ireland, and Empress of India, plaintiff, against Jacob D. Otis, defendant," the "attorneys for the plaintiff" being Messrs. Blatchford, Seward, Griswold, and Da Costa. The papers filed are a summons and complaint, six or seven affidavits, an order of arrest, a warrant of attachment, and two undertakings. The action is brought to recover the sum of $15,000, being the proceeds of a part of the moneys stolen on July 4, 1878, from the office of the Receiver-General of the Dominion of Canada, at Toronto, which matter has recently been the subject of considerable examination before Chief Justice Murray. The complaint sets out that "the plaintiff, by her complaint in writing, herein set fourth, respectfully shows to this court that she is not a resident or a citizen of the United States, and that the defendant herein is a citizen of the United States and a resident of the State of New Jersey; and then follows, with much legal form, the averments which set out the robbery of the moneys which the plaintiff says were her "personal property," and which consisted of 7,400 notes known as the "Toronto issue" of currency of the Dominion of Canada, 5,000 of them being of the denomination of $2 each, and 2,400 of them of the denominated value of $1 each. The complaint is verified by Clarance A. Seward in behalf of the plaintiff, and on information and belief. The affidavits in support of the complaint are made by Detective Robt. A. Pinkerton, and by various bankers' clerks, and these set forth the details of the theft, and the tracing of a portion of the money stolen to the possession of the defendant Otis, who is a banker and broker doing business in Wall street.

Upon these papers Judge Blatchford issued an order of arrest and a warrant of attachment, fixing bail in the sum of $12,000. United States Deputy Marshall Miller, under authority of the warrant, arrested Otis, and he is now in Ludlow-street goal in default of bail. At the time of Otis' arrest by the city authorities a couple of weeks since the officers found on him, and took possession of, 495 notes of the Dominion of Canada, of the denominations of $1 and $2, a cheque of Messrs. Hatch & Foote, bankers, payable to his order at the Bank of Commerce, for $752, and $2,500 in United states currency and national bank notes. These funds were taken charge of and held by the property clerk at police head quarters, but under the attachment issued in the above suit they have been taken and delivered to the plaintiff, a sufficient bond and undertaking having been given to indemnify the defendant if the plaintiff fails to recover judgment. It will probably be a year or two before the trial of the action is reached.

After the robbery of the Receiver General's office at Toronto, Canada, the Pinkerton Detective Agency in Chicago was telegraphed to, and a detective was sent on to work up the case. The detective soon came to the conclusion that the notorious American professional sneak-thief Tom Bigelow, was one of the gang concerned in the theft. Subsequent investigation revealed the fact that Bigelow, with his wife, was living in Toronto under an assumed name. Probing the matter further, the detective was grieved to learn that the man whom he was in search of had disposed of his furniture at private sale, and had sailed for England in one of the Allan line of steamers from Quebec. The detective force at Scotland Yard, London, were communicated with, and informed that Mrs. Bigelow's relatives resided in Manchester, and they were requested to keep a strict watch in case Bigelow eluded them in London. Instead of visiting his wife's relatives, however, as was anticipated, Bigelow made an extended tour of the Continent, but afterward, returning to England, was arrested. Mr. Fraser, the Assistant Receiver-General at Toronto, was notified of Bigelow's arrest, but the fact of Jacob D. Otis' arrest about the same time in this city for the same offence, made Mr. Fraser's presence imperative in New York. Consequently the Assistant Receiver-General, having to attend to the Otis case here, could not reach London in the specified time—15 days—allowed by English law to hold a prisoner, and on his failing to appear against Bigelow within the required time, the latter was discharged.

After Bigelow's release in England, the Pinkerton Detective Agency in this city telegraphed to the Scotland Yard detectives to keep a careful watch on Bigelow's movements. On Aug. 25th a cable despatch was received stating that the fugitive and his wife had sailed in the Allan Line steamer Circassian for Quebec. The Canadian authorities detectives to await the Circassian's arrival. The steamer reached her destination on Sunday morning last, and Bigelow and his wife were taken into custody. The theory advanced for the pair not coming to the United States is that Mrs. Bigelow, who is the notorious Louise Jordan, feared arrest for her participation in the robbery of the Lechmere Bank, Cambridge, Mass.

Bigelow is 35 years of age, and was brought up in this city, began life as a pickpocket in the Eighth Ward, and was not long in attaining the rank of a burglar. He fell in with "Bob" Scott and "Jim" Dunlap, the Northampton Bank burglars, and the results of his acquaintance with these "cracksmen" was that he ceased to work as a sneakthief. He was engaged with Scott and Dunlap in the robbery of the Fall City Tobacco Bank, of Louisville, Ky. Bigelow and his confederates blew open the safe with dynamite, and secured, in bonds and other securities, in the neighborhood of $230,000. Tom Draper, alias "Shang" Draper, who was recently arrested in Brooklyn; John Leary, alias "Red" Leary; Billy Connors, and Dave Cummins, alias "Little Dick," were also concerned in this robbery. Bigelow with his "pals," next turned up at the First National Bank, in Quincy, Ill., when $80,000 in currency, besides railroads bonds, county bonds, and other securities were stolen. After the Quincy robbery Bigelow disappeared from view in a most mysterious manner, and his whereabouts were not known even to his associates. Some persons who professed to know all about him said he was dead; others that he had gone abroad to enjoy his money, and others that he had purchased a farm in the central part of this State, and had settled down as a farmer. All, however, agreed that he had quit the life of a thief, or, in the language of his brethren, had "squared it." After the lapse of about two years he again appeared in New York in his old role of sneak thief. Remaining here for some time, he went to Chicago, and ingratiated himself into the confidence of Billy O'Brien and Parrott, two well-known professionals. While in Chicago, Bigelow made his headquarters at the house of Barney Aaron, and during the latter's absence from home won his wife's affections. He urged Mrs. Aaron to seek a divorce from her husband and marry him. Barney's wife did as Bigelow advised, and, getting a divorce, married him.

Heirs to Cyprus.

There are three heirs to Cyprus, Lomo de Lusignan, a Serene Highness, Prince Royal of Cyprus, Jerusalem and Armenia, who lives in St Petersburg, and seems to be recognized there, and his nephews, Guy de Lusignan, Prince Royal of Cyprus, Jerusalem and Armenia, a man of gentle and distinguished bearing, who lives in a modest mansion in the Avenue d'Eylau, Paris and is preparing his son to enter the French navy, and Korene Nar Bey, Prince of Lusignan, Archbishop of Beshiktash-Constantinople. The last named represented Armenia at Berlin during the Conference. He was rather above the average height and very fine looking, with long black hair, a clear high fore head, large deep eyes, a thick black beard, and a very fascinating smile. His voice was melodious, and his hands and feet betrayed his perfectly aristocratic origin. He had a mild, modest rather melancholy bearing. He wore a dress of blue black or dark moire, with wide sleeves, the hood of which drawn over his head, left only his beard, his mouth and his eyes visible, concealing his long hair and forehead. He wore a star of diamonds representing the Episcopal arms surmounted by a royal crown. These three men are the descendants of the Lusignans, who bought Cyyrus from Richard the Lion-Heart, and reigned there some three centuries, and they claim the "rights which neither the unjust spoilation of the Republic of Venice nor even the Ottoman conquest" have despoiled them of. They have united in a memorandum to Lord Salisbury accepting the new state of things, but with an express reservation of their rights, to be claimed at the proper time. Lord Salisbury, it need hardly be said, has not yet acknowledged the document. The Prince residing at St. Petersburg has made a declaration to the effect that on the 10th of April, 1821, his father's treasure, to wit, 4,800,000 ducats (of Holland), 495,000 doubloons (of Spain), 170,000 Mahmoudies, 200,000 toupies, 3,169,485 Spanish dollars, 600,000 siver roubles (of Russia), was seized by Turkey. He proposes to bring an action against the Porte for the sum with interest.

A Horrible Sight.

The pretty little village of Mount Vernon, near New York, has just been the scene of a bloody tragedy. Isaac Robinson, a negro farm hand, employed by ex-Sherriff Darius Lyon, while in a fit of jealous frenzy, killed his wife Josephine by cutting her throat with a razor. He then blew his brains out with a shot-gun. The crimes were perpetrated in the presence of the three little children of the couple in the shanty where they lived. Robinson, apparently without just cause, suspected his wife of being unchaste, and would not be convinced by her of her innocence. While working on the farm on Monday, Robinson exclaimed to a fellow:—"I can't stand this any longer; I'm going home to get satisfaction." He then went home and committed the double murder. When the officers broke into the house they were "horrified by the sight that met their gaze. Lying on the bed in a pool of blood, with her throat cut from ear to ear, lay the body of Mrs. Robinson. On her breast, and bespattered with blood, was her youngest child, a babe of eighteen months, vainly trying to draw nourishment from the mother's cold breast. On the floor was the husband's body, with the top of the head blown completely off, the brains scattered around the room. The babe was taken from the dead mother and sent to Mr. Lyon's house, where the other children already were. An examination of the premises showed that Robinson had fastened a double-barrelled shot-gun to the jamb of the door by a string, so that it hung suspended on a level with his head when sitting on the floor. It is supposed that he then sat down on the floor, placed the barrel at his head, and fired the gun with his foot. The eldest boy says that he saw his father load the gun on Monday."

A SURE REMEDY FOR THE CABBAGE WORM.—For 200 plants, 8 gallons soap-suds, 3 ounces capsicum, 3 ounces saltpetre, 4 ounces borax, 1 pint kerosene; dissolve the borax water together, and let stand till the borax cuts the oil, then add all to the soap suds, and sprinkle with a fine sprinkler. This will destroy all worms and eggs, and will not injure the cabbage at any stage of its growth.—J. M.

Another Grit Dodge Exposed.

Of late the following paragraph, originating in the St. John Telegraph, has appeared either wholly or in substance in a number of Grit journals in this Province:

"Senator Howlan lately made a telling speech at Alberton, P. E. I., in favor of a revenue tariff for the Maritime Provinces; in favor of the Government also, and against the return to power of the corrupt chiefs of the Opposition. Mr. Howlan is a strong and able man."

All that the Telegraph has said in praise of Mr. Howlan's ability is correct, and more can be said with propriety. The gentleman in question is an Irishman of distinguished ability. He is a Liberal, but like many others of the honest men of his party he became disgusted with the Mackenzie Government's corruption, incompetence and jobbery, and had of late opposed them in the Senate. Hence the return of such a man to the support of the Government would be an event of considerable importance to the Grit party. But unfortunately for them their congratulations on the occurrence have proved to be premature, and the "speech in favor of the Government" must have existed only in the imagination of some individual politically distraught; for Senator Howlan personally informed the editor of the Charlottetown Examiner that his views had undergone no change, and that he stood politically just where he had been previously, namely in the position of an opponent of the Government. Now as the opinions of a "strong and able man" are worthy of being made widely known, we have no hesitation in asking the journals which have alluded to Senator Howlan's alleged conversion to Gritism to correct their misstatement and also to reproduce the following paragraph, which concludes one of his latest speeches in the Senate:

"I would like to call attention to a statement of the trade between this country and Great Britain, to show where the channels of trade are. In 1872-3 the imports from Great Britain were $62,000,000; in 1876-7 they had fallen to $40,000,000, showing a decrease of $22,000,000. Now, let us look at the trade between this country and the United States. In 1872-3 we imported from the United States $35,000,000; in 1876-7, $51,000,000, showing an increase of $16,000,000. And while our imports from that country have been increasing, our exports to them have been diminishing, SHOWING CLEARLY THERE IS SOMETHING MATERIALLY WRONG SO FAR AS THE MERCANTILE AND INTERNAL NATIONAL INTERESTS OF THIS COUNTRY ARE CONCERNED. IF WE ARE GOING TO BUILD UP A NATION HERE, WE MUST TAKE A NATIONAL WAY OF DOING IT."

The above facts are of the utmost importance, and the concluding paragraph especially is worthy of a "strong and able man," such as Senator Howlan undoubtedly is. The Conservative party has the support of many such men, Reformers on principle, but who are disgusted with the "organized hypocrisy."

A Clear View of the Situation.

Some little time since the Hon. Billa Flint, of this city, wrote a letter on the trade question, which appeared in the Madoc Review, and from which we make the following extracts:—

"If we have fair play with our American cousins, we ought to have reciprocity, but as we have not, is there any good reason why they should put a tax of 15 cents per bushel on our barley and rye, and 20 cents on our wheat, while we allow their wheat to come into Canada duty free? Let us examine the parallel cases. It is said the consumer pays the duty. So he does, but if barley is worth $1 a bushel in Oswego, it ought fairly to be worth 95 cents in Belleville, allowing 5 cents for storage and freight, providing we had reciprocity. But now, while the American consumer pays the duty, the Canadian farmer gets 15 cents less for his bushel of barley. If Belleville, Trenton, Shannonville and Mill Point, the four shipping places in this county, ship two million bushels in the season, the loss to this county for the want of a reciprocal Free Trade at 15 cents per bushel would be $300,000, and the lower the price of barley the harder it presses on the farmer.

"Suppose a farmer with 400 bushels of barley worth $1 per bushel in Oswego—he only gets $320 for his crop, but if he could save the 15 cents per bushel he would have $380, or $60 more by saving the duty; or if his 400 bushels were worth only 75 cents in Oswego, he would get $55 here, or $220—or without duty $60 more, making $280; and the lower the grain goes the harder it comes on the farmer to submit to the deduction of 15 cents per bushel to meet the buyer of the Oswego market. Hence, while the consumer really pays the duty, the Canadian farmer is deprived of the benefit of the extra 15 cents per bushel by the illiberal action of our American neighbors—while in Canada we admit their corn, wheat, oats, &c., duty free, which must, under all circumstances, except in a short crop or famine, work against the interest of our farmers.

"Suppose our Government puts the same duty on corn, wheat, &c., coming from the States, as is put on barley, wheat, &c., going from Canada; supposing we meet them on their own grounds as to manufactures, and thereby shut them out as they do us, from making a slaughter market of their country, as they do of Canada, to the injury of our young and struggling factories, would we not be more likely to get Reciprocal Free Trade in the farming products, not only of grain, but of cattle, horses, sheep, &c.? I believe we would."

Considering that Mr. Flint is a man of well-known ability and has had a business experience in Canada of half a century; that he has sat in Parliament for many years, first as a member of the Legislative Assembly, next as a Legislative Councillor, and now as a Senator; that he is now and always has been a Reformer, though refusing to bow to the Brown dictatorship; and that he is and has been in the lumber business, which is supposed to profit by the importation of corn and oats from the United States free of duty, his capacity as a critic of the Government policy cannot but be acknowledged, whilst his independence of motives of self-interest is above suspicion. We therefore feel justified in asking our readers in this and adjoining counties to read carefully and ponder well the words of the venerable Senator for the Trent Division.

THE COMING STRUGGLE.

Our Battle Cry: "Protection to Home Industries."

The Opposition Policy.

The commercial policy of the Opposition is represented in the following resolution moved by Sir John Macdonald in the House of Commons:—

"That this House is of opinion that the welfare of Canada requires the adoption of a National Policy, which by a judicious readjustment of the Tariff will benefit and foster the Agricultural, the Mining, the Manufacturing and other interests of the Dominion; that such a policy will retain in Canada thousands of our fellow-countrymen, now obliged to expatriate themselves in search of employment, denied them at home; will restore prosperity to our struggling industries, now so sadly depressed; will prevent Canada from being made a scrap-iron market; will encourage and develop an active interprovincial trade; and moving (as it ought to do) in the direction of the reciprocity of Tariffs with the our neighbors, so far as the varied interests of Canada may demand, will greatly tend to procure for this Country, eventually, a reciprocity of Trade."

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, SEPT. 16.

The Eve of the Contest.

Before another issue of the INTELLIGENCER greets its readers, the electoral battle will have been fought and the destinies of Canada will have been decided by the voice of the people. The issue to be decided is a momentous one, namely whether this young and naturally great country shall become self-supporting in all things, or whether it shall bend its neck to the yoke of commercial dependency which is offered us by the United States as the first step towards annexation, and which the fatuous and disloyal policy of our rulers is designed to force us to accept. Having firm reliance in the patriotism and spirit of the people of Canada, we believe that the men who have brought the country to the verge of ruin will be defeated utterly and beyond hope, and that the administration of our affairs will once more be placed in the hands of the Conservative party, whose leading members have so well proved their patriotism and ability, and whose policy is that by which alone we can preserve the connection with the mother country, which is so dear to us all.

Success cannot, however, be won without work on the polling day, and we therefore repeat the advice previously given so often to our friends through these columns, namely that they should turn out and vote as early as possible in the day, and then assist in bringing forward those of their friends, neighbors and acquaintances whom they know to be favorable to the Conservative candidates. A great victory awaits us in the country, in which Hastings must be made to share. The return of Messrs. Bowell and White in the North and East Ridings is certain, and so is that of Mr. Wallbridge in the West, provided the voters favorable to them go to the poll, and we rely with confidence upon the energy of their supporters to secure that highly desirable result.

Closing up the Canvass.

The final meeting of Mr. Wallbridge's Committees will be held in the City Hall to-night at 7:30. The Sidney and Trenton Committees will also be present, and the canvassers from every Ward in the city and every division in Trenton and Sidney will report finally. All committeemen and as many of the electors as can conveniently do so are invited, and we hope will give their attendance.

Election Returns.

Arrangements have been made to run a wire to the Liberal Conservative Association rooms, in connection with the Montreal Telegraph Company, so that the election returns from all parts of the Dominion can be obtained on Tuesday evening. The rooms will be open till after midnight, to members of the Association, and returns will be read as fast as received.

VOLUNTEER TEAMS.

As the Election law very properly prohibits the hiring of teams for the conveyance of voters to and from the polls, such service must necessarily be performed free of charge. As it is of the greatest importance that a full vote be brought out, we ask those friends of the Opposition cause in the three Ridings of this County owning horses and vehicles to place them at the disposal of the Committees on the day of election, and to turn out themselves, wherever it be possible, to assist in bringing up the voters. Let those having horses and vehicles for use notify the Chairman or Secretary of the respective Committees at once, that it may be known how many vehicles can be relied on. Victory is assured in every division of the County if the voters can but be brought out, and we are confident that the friends of good government will not be lacking in this regard.

—News comes from Winnipeg that Mr. F. E. Cornish, formerly of London, Ont., is dangerously ill of cancer in the stomach.

THEN AND NOW.

In condemning, as they do, the proposed increase of duty on some articles of American manufacture, Grit platform orators very unfairly leave out of account the fact, that the relative positions of Canada and the United States have changed very much during the past five years. The facts of the case are so clearly and concisely stated in the Chamberlin, Whitmore & Co.'s (New York) Journal for the Stationery Trade—a free trade publication, quoted approvingly in the Globe of the 11th—that we reproduce our contemporary's statement. It will be found at page 99 of the September issue:

"Here, however, the conditions of industrial protection have undergone such a radical change during the past five years, that more than one leading English paper feels compelled to acknowledge that the United States is about to become England's most formidable rival.

"The present low rate of wages here, and the large accumulation of capital, which is obliged to accept a rate of interest about on a par with the English standard, together with our advantages in the way of cheaper raw materials, are enabling us to run a competition formerly impracticable with the older country.

"Our competition will probably be first felt by the mother country in her two leading industries—cotton and iron."

Who, after reading this, will contend that a change of tariff is not necessary in certain articles of manufacture?

An easy triumph is certain for the Liberal Conservative candidates of Hastings if each Liberal Conservative elector does his simple duty. Need we urge that this duty be performed? Your interest and your country's interest are at stake. Go and vote early to-morrow morning, and Messrs. Bowell, White, and Wallbridge will be elected by a large majority.

Which Shall it Be?

Let any thinking man observe the large numbers of children pouring out of the schools at 12 and 4 o'clock each day, and ask himself how are these young people to find employment when they are a few years older, if the present policy, which is that we buy all our manufactured goods from the mother country and from the United States, be continued! The effect of the policy of the Government cannot but be to drive those young people to the United States, to join the half million Canadians already there. Every parent who has sons growing up to manhood ought to vote for a policy which will give work to himself and family in Canada, and such an opportunity is now offered by the Opposition. Shall it be wholesale emigration to the United States? Then vote for the Government supporters! Shall it, on the contrary, be work for all who are able, prosperity, and happy and united families? Then vote for the Opposition candidates!

We are confident of a victory in North, West and East Hastings for the Conservative party. But it will not do to be too sanguine. The only way to put this confidence beyond doubt is for every Liberal Conservative elector to work to secure that victory. Every man can do something. Vote first and then see that every vote marked for the party is also recorded.

THE CABINET.

Grit platform orators deny that the present Government increased the number of Cabinet officers. Under the late Government these numbered thirteen, but Mr. Mackenzie took office with fourteen Cabinet Ministers, Mr. Blake, without portfolio, being the fourteenth. He resigned three months afterwards, in February, 1874, after acting the "decoy duck" during elections. Mr. Mackenzie contended, when in opposition, that seven heads of departments were sufficient. They also created a Railway Department, which is virtually a Cabinet Office, to which they appointed their old-time opponent Mr. C.J. Brydges, and gave him a salary of $8,000 a year, equal to that of the Premier.

Voters will remember if they want a change of fiscal policy in this country they can only get it by supporting Opposition candidates, as the Government candidates readily admit that their party will make no change, and affirm that the Government can do nothing to relieve the depression. Vote for Bowell, White, and Wallbridge and a Protective tariff.

Vote for Prosperity.

There should be no doubt upon any man's mind as to how he should vote at the coming elections. For Mr. Cartwright himself has announced the following proposition:—

"THAT PROTECTION WOULD, IN THIS COUNTRY, FOR A "FEW BRIEF YEARS," ENABLE MANUFACTURERS TO MAKE "ENORMOUS PROFITS," AND WOULD CREATE A TEMPORARY GENERAL PROSPERITY."

Vote for Bowell, Wallbridge and White, and a few years of Protection and Prosperity.

We urge upon every Liberal Conservative elector in the three Ridings of this County to be at their respective polling places early to-morrow morning, the 17th, and record their votes for the Liberal Conservative candidates.

Steel Rails and Spikes.

In a speech in Parliament last session the Premier said:

"When I came into office I found that a gentleman who was a member of Parliament and is a strong supporter of Sir John Macdonald, had a contract for delivering spikes on the railway for $96 per ton. A few months afterwards, I obtained a contract by open competition for the delivery of the same class of spikes at Fort William at $54 per ton. (Hear, hear, and cheers.)"

This assertion was repeated in substance by Mr. Thomas Holden at Mr. Brown's mass meeting in the Metropolitan Hall, despite of the fact that its falsity had been shown in these columns three months ago. Therefore, we reproduce the remarks made in THE INTELLIGENCER in refutation of the Premier's statement, as they directly apply to Mr. Holden's remarks:—"Here again the truth, as shown in official documents confounds our reckless Premier. At page 395 of the report for 1876 of Mr. Sandford Fleming, Chief Engineer of the Pacific Railway, it will be found that the spikes to which Mr. Mackenzie refers cost—not $54 (Mr. Holden said $45) but $57 per ton delivered at Fort William, and that was the price which was paid for them. But the tender for $54 per ton was free on board at Montreal, not delivered at Duluth, and the contract was made, not a few months after he took office, but two years and eight months afterwards, namely on the 28th of July, 1876. (See return to Parliament on the subject, page 29, session 1878.) The objects of these misstatements of the Premier is transparent. He wishes to convey to his auditors and readers the impression that his predecessors in office had been giving to their supporters a bonus of $42 per ton when the fact is that to the decline in the market alone, in the period of upwards of four years which elapsed between the Domville contract of June 15th, 1872, and that of which he spoke, given to his favored firm of Cooper, Fairman & Co., on July 28th, 1876, is the difference in the price of the spikes to be attributed. The market fell in 1873, and prices are still lower now. Had Mr. Mackenzie not seen fit to suppress the truth in connection with this matter, he would have stated that, six-teen months (which is more than he loosely calls "a few months") after taking office, namely on March 5th, 1875, he paid $90.04 per ton, for 30 tons of spikes for the Pacific Railway in British Columbia, which spikes were furnished by his favorite firm Cooper, Fairman & Co. This fact is shown by the report for 1876, of Mr. Sandford Fleming, at page 396."

VOTE EARLY, and then see that your neighbors and friends are brought forward to the support of the Conservative candidates.

Political Notes.

THE BALLOT IS ABSOLUTELY SECRET.

This is what the New York Sun says about reciprocity between Canada and the United States: "Reciprocity with Canada! Why, yes, certainly; we are ready for it. Only, it would be convenient for the several Provinces of the Dominion to be admitted among the United States as a condition precedent."

All who desire to see Canada a prosperous country with abundant and thriving manufactures will vote for Messrs. Bowell, Wallbridge and White.

The Globe says:—"Sir John's tariff will introduce disorder and confusion into all branches of the importing trade, and will utterly destroy some portions of it." Poor importers! Of course it will "disorder" their trade, if we manufacture what we now import, but the "importers" are not the only people in the country—they are only a small portion of them. And we always thought legislation should be for the many, not the few.

"The proposition, I think, can be laid down as a general one that a country the population of which is chiefly or altogether devoted to agricultural pursuits, cannot become wealthy, whatever may be the fertility of its soil or favorableness of its situation.—Bowen.

The Grit party have no sympathy with our unemployed workmen, and if their candidates are sent back to Parliament they will support a Government whose policy is one that would eventually, if persisted in, destroy the best interests of all classes. Vote for Wallbridge, Bowell, and White.

Stratford Herald:—"On Saturday last a Toronto firm published in the Globe a damning advertisement offering for sale five car loads of American furniture; and yet, in its editorial columns, the same journal assures Mr. Hay that he is not subject to competition from American importations. It is only in the financial and advertisement columns of the Globe that we ever find the truth."

We grow a large surplus of oats in Canada. Yet every day you will find American oats sold on the Toronto market. There is no duty to prevent its coming in, while our farmers have met the American frontier with a duty of 10 cents a bushel, which comes out of his pocket before he can cross the line. And our Free Traders say this is fair!

At Mariposa, Hon. George Brown, speaking of the late Sandfield Macdonald, said he was "a man who would neither do wrong, nor allow those around him to do wrong. To put it further into us in the day to talk thus," asks the London Free Press, and then proceeds to flagellate the "Big Push" Senator by reminding the public that "while in life, and doing noble services for Ontario, he, Mr. J. Sandfield Macdonald, was painted in devilish colors by this same Hon. George Brown. Notwithstanding all his services, he was fully acknowledged, the 'Reform' leaders took him out, Blake and Mackenzie among the number, and disposed of him with as little compunction as if he had been an old horse. And now they weep and write epitaphs!"

FARMERS OF HASTINGS.—Do not be misled and DECEIVED BY FREE TRADE THEORIES. DO NOT ALLOW FOREIGN RIVALS TO GET ALL THE PROFITS FROM THE CANADIAN BUYERS. DO NOT ALLOW FOREIGN BANKS TO ABSORB ALL THE MONEY THAT SHOULD BE KEPT AT HOME TO FOSTER THE PROGRESS, AND MAINTAIN THE FUTURE PROSPERITY OF THE DOMINION. "FAIR PLAY IS BONNIE PLAY." LET US INSIST UPON HAVING IT AT THE HANDS OF OUR LEGISLATORS. VOTE AGAINST EVERY GOVERNMENT CANDIDATE, AND PROVE THAT MEN WHO ARE INDIFFERENT TO THEIR TRUST WILL NOT BE REWARDED BY INTELLIGENT ELECTORS.

Let Mr. Brown, the Finance Minister, and the Belleville organ, reconcile their direct opposition to each other on this vital question. Honest men see in the support of Mr. Brown by the Grits an unholy alliance, and will crush it out of existence on Tuesday.

THE ELECTION.

IMPORTANT STATEMENTS OF THE LAW RELATING TO BRIBERY &c.

BRIBERY.

Consists in the lending, or agreeing to give or lend, or the offering or promising money or valuable consideration or procuring for or promising to procure any office, place or employment for any voter, or any one on behalf of a voter, in order to induce any voter to vote or refrain from voting, or on account of such voter having voted or refrained from voting at an election.

TREATING.

Every candidate who corruptly by himself, or by or with any person or by any other ways or means on his behalf at any time either upon or during any election, directly or indirectly, gives or provides or causes to be given, or is accessory to the giving and providing, or pays wholly or in part any expenses incurred for any meat, drink, refreshment or provision to or for any person in order to be elected, or for being elected, or for the purpose of corruptly influencing such person or any other person to give or refrain from giving his vote at such election, shall be deemed guilty of the offence of treating.

UNDUE INFLUENCE.

Is defined as being the making use of or threatening to make use of any force, violence or restraint or threatening the infliction of any injury, damage, harm, or loss, or in any manner practising intimidation upon any person to induce him to vote or refrain from voting or on account of his having voted, or the preventing or interfering with the free exercise of the franchise by abduction, distress, or any fraudulent device or contrivance.

HIRING VEHICLES.

The hiring or promising to pay for any horse, team, carriage, etc., by any candidate or any person on his behalf to convey voters to or from the poll, or the payment of the travelling and other expenses of any voter in going to or returning from any election are declared to be unlawful acts.

PERSONATION.

This is also a corrupt practice, and is defined as follows:—"Every candidate who corruptly by himself or by or with any other person on his behalf compels or induces or endeavors to induce any person to personate any voter, or to take any false oath in any matter wherein an oath is required under the Election Act," and also "any person who at any election applies for a ballot paper in the name of some other person, whether such name be that of a person living or dead or of a fictitious person, or who having voted at the once at any such election applies at the same election for a ballot paper in his own name."

SLANDER.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—In answer to the many enquiries of friends as to the course I intend to pursue in reference to the charge made by the Ontario of the 12th instant, that I "had been a party to fraudulent transactions that should drive me from North Hastings," I have but to state that so soon as I read the article on the morning of the 13th inst. in Stirling, I at once telegraphed to my Solicitor to proceed criminally against the publisher of the journal that contained the libel, and have now to add that no time will be lost in laying the information.

As to the additional charge that the "Hastings Insurance Company was a fraud," I shall leave that to be dealt with by the President, John Row, Esq., and his co-Directors, Dr. Boulter, Lewis Cruickshank, George Cunningham, Robt. Gordon, W. H. Tamsley, Robert E. Graas, Henry Mouck, R. L. Lazier, Wm. Jelfs, Anson H. Jones, Thos. Wills, Thomas Walker, and the Secretary-Treasurer, Jas. H. Peck, Esq. These gentlemen may be willing to lay under the imputation of having perpetrated a "fraud" upon the community and profiting thereby, but I shall not.

Severe, incisive, and pointed criticism of one's political character is not only legitimate, but the duty of an opponent—to which I do not object. But I shall not permit any attack which reflects upon my private or personal reputation, without putting the slanderer in a position to sustain his charges.

I am, your obed't serv't,

Above are represented the forms of ballot papers which will be used in the elections for the three Ridings of this County, and in which the voter has marked his ballot for Messrs. Bowell, White and Wallbridge respectively. In order that all may fully understand how to vote, we give herewith the directions, as contained in the statute:

"The elector, on receiving the ballot-paper, shall forthwith proceed into one of the compartments of the polling station, and there mark his ballot paper, making a cross with a pencil, on any part of the ballot-paper within the division containing the name of the candidate for whom he intends to vote, and shall then fold up such ballot-paper, so that the initials on the back can be seen without opening it, and hand it to the Deputy-Returning officer, who shall, without unfolding it, ascertain, by examining his initials, and the number upon the counterfoil, that it is the same that he furnished to the elector, and shall first detach and destroy the counterfoil, and shall then immediately, and in the presence of the elector, place the ballot-paper in the ballot-box."

Thus the ballot is absolutely secret, and it being impossible to ascertain how any man voted by subsequent examination.

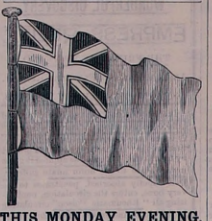

Each Elector shall vote at the Polling Station of the Polling District in which he is qualified to vote and no other.

No Candidate is allowed to pay for conveying voters to the Poll, and no Agent or other person is allowed to pay for such service. This does not, however, debar neighbors and friends from assisting each other in getting to the poll.

Friends, be very careful in marking your ballots for

BOWELL in North Hastings.
WHITE in East Hastings, and
WALLBRIDGE in West Hastings.

TO THE PUBLIC.

MUCH IS BEING SAID just now in respect to Free Trade and Protection as affecting the imports of the Country at large: some very wise things and some very absurd are advanced on both sides of the question. One thing, however, is certain beyond a doubt, and that is, whatever may be the individual's opinion, every one will seek to supply his personal wants where he can do so to the best advantage, and will buy where he can get the best article and at the lowest price, be it English, Dutch, Canadian or Chinese.

The greater part of our wearing apparel, especially ladies', comes from Great Britain, where they are masters of the manufacture of such fabrics as are needed, and wherever these goods may be bought in Canada, England is the original source of supply. Now any one can see that the fewer hands these pass through the better it is for the consumer, for, apart from the tariff question, the high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, each having to get his profit. The nearer the consumer and producer are brought together the better it is for both. It is because the public recognize this fact that so many merchants here as elsewhere are anxious to be considered Direct Importers who are not.

And here we beg to reiterate what we have before emphatically stated, that our firm are the only Importers of a general stock of Dry Goods in Belleville not buying through another house in Canada. This is shown conclusively by the Returns at the Custom House here, for all the British Goods entered at this Port have come to our store with the exception of a few packages.

We offer our customers all the advantages which our business connexions in Great Britain enable us to do, both in the price and quality of goods as well as in the style.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, SEPT. 16.

City and Vicinity.

FOG.—There was a very heavy fog on the bay this morning, but the sun dispersed it before 9 o'clock.

THE "ALEXANDRA."—This steamer was delayed at Gananoque by Saturday's storm, and did not, in consequence, reach here until yesterday afternoon.

BUTCHERS' TOURNAMENT.—The butchers are to hold a grand tournament at the Agricultural Grounds on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The affair promises to be very interesting. Admission 10c.

PERSONAL.—The Rev. Thos. H. Cullen, of Colborne, lately pastor of the Bleecker Street C. M. Church, was in town to-day. The Rev. gentleman was heartily welcomed by many of his old friends.

THE LUMBER TRADE.—An Ottawa paper says:—"There are signs of a revival in the sawn lumber trade, and two or three Ottawa firms are said to have all the orders they can fill. The sales are not large, but numerous."

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.—We are informed that a runaway occurred at or near Rednerseville last night. The driver, who was Mr. William Yott, was thrown from the waggon and very severely cut about the head, one of his ears being almost torn off, and one of his arms broken.

BOAT RACE.—We understand that a match for $50 a side between two of our local knights of the oar has been made. One is to row in one of the Rowing Club's practice boats and the other in the single scull shell lately built by Mr. Tisdale. The course will be from the light house to Ferry Point and back.

AID FROM ABROAD.—A gentleman from Pennsylvania stated in town on Saturday that the Republican State Committee of that State had given $50,000 to aid the Grit party in carrying the elections in Canada. We can readily believe this, as the Mackenzie-Cartwright policy is of immense benefit to the Pennsylvania coal miners and iron masters, and as $360,000 of Cooke's money was spent in Canada in 1874. Will the electors sell themselves for American money? We trow not.

ACCIDENT AT MARMORA.—A telegram from Marmora gives the following particulars of a sad accident:—"On Thursday evening a serious accident befell Mr. Brandon Beddome. While he was driving a heavily loaded team, which from some unknown cause took fright, he fell from the waggon and the wheels passed over him, making a frightful gash in his head and breaking his jaw and one of his legs. He is in a very critical state."

If you are fatigued in mind and body, take SANFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER.

A ROUGH PASSAGE.—On her last trip from Oswego, the Steamer Kincardine had a terribly rough passage. Capt. Pender informs us that the boat left Oswego between 1 and 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon, with the wind at south. She had gone but a few miles when the wind veered to southwest and blew with terrific violence, raising a sea which broke over her continually. The boat was light, but behaved splendidly, proving herself an unsurpassed sea-boat. She reached McDonald's cove and tied up there, finally arriving in Belleville early yesterday morning.

SAD ACCIDENT.—We regret to learn that Mr. Marmaduke Haggerty, an old and respected resident of Huntingdon, met with an untimely death on the 14th inst. On the evening of that day he was returning from Belleville in a democrat, and while descending a hill near Luke's hotel the king bolt broke, letting the front end of the waggon drop to the ground. Mr. Haggerty was thrown out on his head. He was at once conveyed to the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. John Brown, a short distance from where the accident happened, and died immediately after. Mr. Haggerty was one of the oldest inhabitants of North Hastings, and his untimely death will be greatly regretted by a large circle of acquaintances.

THE STARVATION POLICY.—A young Canadian who has been expatriated by the disloyal policy of the Mackenzie Government, but who holds a good situation in Nebraska, returned home on Saturday on a visit to his friends in Prince Edward. He said that if Sir John A. Macdonald is returned to power he will make Canada his home in future, but if not he will return to the United States, as he cannot make a living here under Mackenzie's starvation policy. There are many thousands of young Canadians in the United States who feel just as this gentleman does. Shall not these be given a chance to return to their native land? We believe that the answer of the electors will be that they shall, which answer will be given by the defeat of the "organized hypocrisy."

Marine Disasters.

The Kingston News reports the following marine disasters during the gale on Saturday:—The schooner Richardson, while coming from Oswego, ran for shelter to Amherst Island, and dragging her anchor, she went ashore at the head of the island. Captain Donnelly, with the Hiram Calvin, went up to pull her off this afternoon. The schooner Hibernia, loaded with lumber from Mill Point to Oswego, is reported to be waterlogged and upset off Bath. The scow Pearl is also ashore near Bath. The schr. Starling is also ashore at Black River, Lake Erie, about 30 miles above Cleveland. The mail boat was not able to go out last night, owing to the high wind. The schr. Dundee came into harbor this morning, with a portion of her bulwarks washed off. She is anchored off the ship-yard.

THE $5 BANK OF COMMERCE COUNTERFEITS.—A Montreal paper states that:—"Up to date fifteen of the new counterfeit $5 bills of the Bank of Commerce have been brought to the agency of that institution in this city, and it would be interesting to know how many have been reported at headquarters. It has been stated that the counterfeit can be readily distinguished by there being no ring on the finger of the Queen in the engraving in the centre of the bill, while in the genuine the ring can be readily discerned. However, the counterfeiters, or those interested in passing the worthless papers, can easily remedy that, and our reporter has been shown some counterfeits in which the ring appears quite plainly. The best clue to the counterfeit is the signature "E. J. Smith," which in the genuine bill is written with pale ink and light strokes, while in the counterfeit it is engraved and comes out black and heavy.

Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. A teaspoonful of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime given whenever the Cough is troublesome, will afford immediate relief, and if perservered in will effect a cure even in the most obstinate cases.

The Western Floods.

TORONTO Sept 14.

The heavy rains of the past few days have not been without sad results. The King Street Bridge over the Don River has been carried away and a man named Henry Smith, who was on it at the time was drowned. Several business places were flooded, and thousands of dollar's worth of damage done. The Winchester Street Bridge over the Don was washed away, and the house of a Mr. Cuff was submerged, and a host of other casualities occurred.

An engineer named Richards, belonging to the Midland Road, was killed near Orillia by his train running off the track.

At Port Credit five vessels were driven from their moorings, and sustained damages.

In short, Western Canada has never been visited with such an aqueous infliction. The rainfall has also been something out of the ordinary. It commenced falling at 3.25 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon and continued till 6 o'clock the same evening, during which 2.05 of a rainfall was registered. It began again at 6.30 on the morning of Wednesday and by midnight there had fallen 7.60. The down pour continuing all Thursday, by midnight it registered 9.60. By far the heaviest fall took place between midnight of Thursday and noon yesterday and registered 3.085, making a total of 5.01 inches. From reports received it will be seen that the storm has extended over a large area, although the downfall has been much lighter elsewhere than here.

At Port Dover 4.86 inches are recorded; at Port Stanley 4.05 inches, while at Kingston only 1.16 inches fell.

It seem also to have extended considerably to the north. At Rockliffe, on the Ottawa, 2.40 inches is reported in the same time.

At Smithville a heavy freshet occurred which washed away the bridges. People were working all day with teams to remove the debris and in order to save the village.

At Markham two large bridges have been carried away and a man named Soult was drowned. The Toronto and Nipissing Railway embankment was washed away.

Bridges and dams are giving away in all directions at Elora. The greatest loss occurred at Mr. Patton's Mill. Over a thousand logs are gone. The citizens turned out en masse with teams, digging trenches in various places, and so saved the mill. The loss will be very large.

It commenced raining moderately at Brampton on Tuesday afternoon, and continued until last night, when it incresed in volume to a heavy rainfall, which kept up most of the time until noon to-day, causing the worst flood known here. Nearly all the business part of the town is inundated, the water being a foot deep in most of the stores on the west side of Main street. About 10 o'clock teams were despatched to Little Lake, about four miles distant, for boats with which to rescue the families living in the lower part of the town. Cries of women and children in some of the tenements were pitiful to hear while waiting for help. All are now safe at this time. It is impossible to estimate the damage done. Some say $40,000; others as high as $50,000.

Protection Benefits Yet Cheapens.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce gives in a recent article the following reasons why Protection benefits the manufacturer yet cheapens his productions to the consumer, viz:—

1st. Because it secures our ports of entry from being flooded with surpluses forced upon us by foreigners to relieve their own superabundance and to sustain their home prices.

2nd. Because it affords the home manufacturer a large aggregate gain, although the rate of profit is decreased.

3rd. Because it fosters the invention of labour saving machinery.

Three good reasons why we should protect and foster our manufacturing industries, are they not?

The nomination in Gaspe takes place on the 9th prox. There are already four candidates in the field, namely, Messrs. P. Le Boutellier, J. Short, and M. Trombley, and the Hon. O. Fortin.

Gems of Thought.

Fear always springs from ignorance.

Imitation is the sincerest of flattery.

Rare as is true love, true friendship is rarer.

He only is exempt from failure who makes no efforts.

We are often more agreeable through our faults than through our good qualities.

Our greatest glory consists not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall.

Flowers are the sweetest things that God ever made and did not put a soul into.

Friendship improves happiness and abates misery, by the doubling of our joy and the dividing of our grief.

Men of genius are often dull and inert in society; as the blazing meteor, when it descends to earth, is only a stone.

True friendship is a plant of slow growth, and must undergo and withstand the shocks of adversity before it is entitled to the appellation.

A more glorious victory cannot be gained over another man than this, that when the injury began on his part, the kindness should begin on ours.

If two men are united, the wants of neither are any greater, in some respects, than they would be were they alone, and their strength is superior to the strength of two separate men.

Good words do more than hard speeches; as the sunbeams without any noise will make the traveller cast off his cloak, which all the blustering winds could not do, but only make him bind it closer to him.

Some eyes threaten like a loaded and levelled pistol, and others are insulting as hissing or kicking; some have no more expression than blueberries, while others are as deep as a well which you can fall into.

If we are faultless, we should not be so much annoyed by the defects of those with whom we associate. If we were to acknowledge honestly that we have not virtue enough to bear patiently with our neighbor's weaknesses, we should show our own imperfection, and this alarms our vanity.

Every failure is a step to sucess; every detection of what is false directs us towards what is true; every trial exhausts some tempting form of error. Not only so, but scarcely any attempt is entirely a failure; scarcely any theory, the result of steady thought, is altogether false; no form of error is without some latent charm derived from truth.

How the universal heart of man blesses flowers! They are wreathed round the cradle, the marriage altar, and the tomb. The Persian in the far East delights in their perfume, and writes his love in nosegays; while the Indian child of the Far West claps his hands with glee as he gathers the abundant blossoms—the illuminated scriptures of the prairies. The cupid of the ancient Hindoos tipped his arrows with flowers, and orange flowers are a bridal crown with us, a nation of yesterday.

The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher a while ago went to a hotel in a city of New Jersey for a night's stay. He ordered supper, and after taking a few sips of coffee called for the colored waiter and said: "Can you give me your services this 'evening?' "Yes, sah," said the waiter briskly. "The matter is one of importance," said Mr. Beecher solemnly. "Perhaps I had better speak to the landlord myself about it." "Oh no, sah," said the sable attendant, fearful of losing the thumping fee that the preacher's earnestness foreshadowed; "I can give you, sah, all the time you need." "Well, then, said Mr. Beecher, with added solimnity, "I want you to sit up to-night with this coffee. It is so weak it is going to die before morning." There was a moment of pathetic silence, and the waiter withdrew.

Two French ladies were looking at the pictures in the Paris Saloon. "So I hear," said one, "a celebrated painter has finished a picture for you." "Yes; he has graciously consented to paint the portrait of my husband for my drawing-room." "Indeed!" said the first speaker. "Well, for a room like that I think I should have chosen a gayer subject."

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and labored breathing, the demulcent properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime manifests itself in its healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided reasserts herself, and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w-1m

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

OUR GRAND MOTTO!

RAISE THE QUALITY, AND LOWER THE PRICE.

TO accomplish this we must manufacture our own Clothing, and by doing so we can undersell any Clothing House in Belleville, in quality and price. We employ a large staff of hands all the year round, and superintend the manufacturing ourselves. Remember, if you want a good wearing article, go to BARTMAN & SINTZELL. We are also making some good Overalls at 45c., which will be ready in a few days.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Deny it who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets.

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your pride for one day and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.
The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of complaints every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price, 25 cents per Bottle,
The Trade supplied through the Wholesale Drug and Patent Medicine Houses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

Memphis Horrors.

Life in the Camp—No Women Saved.

The Subtlest Scourge Ever Known—Heartrending and Disgraceful Scenes.

(From the Louisville Courier Journal.)

The following letter from a prominent citizen of Memphis to a commercial house in this city is exceedingly interesting, and contains some facts and topics we have not seen elsewhere:—

Camp Jo Williams, Four and a Half Miles South, Sept. 1, 12 Midnight—Messrs. Cornwall & Bro.:—I have yours of the 31st with check for $25, which will be used for milk for the little ones of this camp. You were exceedingly thoughtful.

We have had a trying and desperate fight with the fever at this camp, but I begin to feel we have conquered. You can form no idea of the distress. Women in childbirth, surrounded by little ones, quartered in tents, see one by one pass from their sight on to the hospital, thence to the grave. Soon the babe is born, yellow as gold; the mother lingers a few days, and then she, the last of the household, is put under the ground. We have no women who are attacked. Yesterday a woman and two pretty daughters of 12 and 10 years walked from the train to my tent, and reported for assignment to quarters. From my familiarity with the disease, I at once remarked:—"Why, woman, your eyes tell me you have the fever." The eldest one said: "No, sir; indeed, I never felt better in my life. I had a little chill yesterday, but am better now." Her pulse showed 125, temperature 104, eyes glassy, skin puffed, and the whole countenance a beautiful pink. In order to quiet and gratify the mother, I put up a tent near me for the night. Next morning I had them examined, and both were sent to the hospital. I was down there this noon. The mother is prostrate with nervous prostration, and the children lie in the potter's field.

Just now I toted a fellow to a tent near the hospital. I have had men hunting him all day. He has been dodging us. He swears nothing is the matter with him. His pulse is 135 and temperature 106. He is literally burning up. He will be dead by noon to-morrow.

There are fresh arrivals. We have four hundred who have been out from the city sufficiently long to be regarded safe. We are building houses and establishing a new camp, to which all who have been beyond the infected districts ten days will be removed. If no more arrive, we will be able to say we have snatched from certain death four hundred and fifty-five souls. The camp is laid out in streets, each tenement is numbered, and a complete register is kept of every inmate. New arrivals occupy a street called Quarantine square. We have quartermaster, commissary, undertaker, physician, purveyor, and military force. We have a large warehouse and brick oven, soup house, and every appointment the emergency suggests.

This disease is yellow fever, or is, in fact, the malarial fever of this coast, intensified by the introduction of the germs of ship or Asiatic fever. It is the most subtile scourge the world has experienced, and baffles all medical experience. A person of intelligence, when first attacked with the malarial symptoms, if he be administered to at once with the usual treatment, wrapped up in blankets and nursed carefully, may pull through. None but the rich can in times like the present command special attention. The masses are treated by the wholesale, and all alike; few recover.

The first symptoms are heaviness and a slight chill, then suppressed urine, puffed face, glassy eye, beautiful flushed skin, pink eyelids, pulse 120, temperature 103 to 106. Soon vomito begins, which is simply a slight hawking sound and spitting of a coffee-ground substance from the stomach, which sinks to the bottom of the vessel. The patient, after each emission, feels well, and wants to get up if allowed. No pain, no evidence of concern, either by look or action. The pulse begins to run down to 90, 80, 70, 50, 40; then comes the pinched nostril and mechanical breathing. They sit up, want to get up; are induced to lie down, and quietly pass away.

Thursday night, as I was making the rounds, I saw a woman returning from the infirmary with a vial of medicine. It was sprinkling a little. She went to her tent, lit a candle, and lay down. In a few moments I heard an alarm. Women and children were running wild about that portion of the camp. I hastened there, when my eyes beheld a heart-rending sight. This woman's babe, nine months old, was crying on its mother's breast, and she was dead. The child was cared for, the mother taken away, and the tent burned with its contents.

No one will do duty about the sick without pay. Nurses, grave-digger, carpenters, men to carry off sick and burn tents, and now the volunteer committee from the different wards demand compensation for their services. The doctors have quarreled among themselves. Each has a theory or plan of guessing at his own. There is no objurgation by the writer is omitted.) They refuse to work under a medical head, and will not report cases; hence we know not the half of the suffering. We offered them $25 a day if they would organize, and they decline. I am urging the committee to appoint a director and telegraph for physicians, and ignore those who stand in the way of organization.

The negroes, five thousand, are still in the city. No appeal will drive them from the certain death which awaits them. The pest has gotten among them, and heaven only knows who will bury their dead. So long as they can draw rations they won't budge. Their leaders demand pay, and if their demands are not acceded to, they threaten to sack the town. I have urged the committee to call upon the Governor to establish martial law, build warehouses at points accessible to railroads, guard them, remove all provisions from the city, and let starvation and disease do their legitimate work. These are no times for sentiment on the part of the brave, worn-out citizens' committee. They must preserve their organization and resources for the deserving and subordinate classes, and let the communistic element work out their own salvation in their own way. In short, let the dead bury the dead. We can look for no relief for six weeks, and intend to shape our plans for long and terrible fight.

Without us, Government attempts something but nothing of what they try to do will succeed against your decision, against your liberty, against your sovereignty. Look on at what they do without uneasiness, always with serenity, sometimes with a smile. The supreme future is with you. All that is done, even against you, will serve you. Continue to march, labor, and think. You are a single people; Europe and you want a single thing—peace." BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, SEPT. 17.

Election Returns.

Arrangements have been made to run a wire to the Liberal Conservative Association rooms, in connection with the Montreal Telegraph Company, so that the election returns from all parts of the Dominion can be obtained this evening. The rooms will be open till after midnight, to members of the Association, and returns will be read as fast as received.

THE ELECTION.

The Parliamentary election to-day was, as is usual under the ballot, conducted very quietly in town. Both sides commenced earnest work so soon as the polls were opened, and the voters were brought forward rapidly. Attempts were made to ascertain the probable state of the poll in the different Wards of the city, but of course nothing could be learned, and any statements that were made were mere guesswork, and as the guesses of the scrutineers and active agents of the respective candidates were as widely asunder as the poles, we deemed it inadvisable to issue any statement of the poll during the day, founded on guesses which were likely to prove incorrect and misleading.

Owing to the activity of the workers on both sides, and the number of vehicles in use, it seems likely that a very large vote has been polled; but in comparing the returns of the vote in town with those of former elections, it must be remembered that owing to the increase in the qualification, a large number—about 400, we believe—of those who were formerly voters, had been struck off the rolls.

From the Township of Sidney, and the other Ridings of the County, no news was received other than that, as in the city, both sides were working with spirit.

We go to press at too early an hour to print the returns even from the city. We will this evening issue extras containing the returns as they are received from the County of Hastings and the different constituencies throughout the country. To expedite this work, a special wire has been placed in the rooms of the Liberal-Conservative Association, which will be kept open until after midnight to members of the Association.

The Stricken South.

One effect of the electoral struggle which has been raging in Canada has been to distract attention from the terrible ravages which have been caused in the Southern States by the dreaded "Yellow Jack"—the yellow fever. The periodical visits of this terrible scourge have in past times been the cause of widespread suffering and of the loss of many hundreds of lives; but its latest visitation has been disastrous beyond precedent—almost beyond belief. Our telegraphic despatches have from day today given an outline of the progress of the plague, which it is therefore unnecessary to speak of more particularly in this place. Universal sympathy has been created for the survivors, and that noble organization the Howard Association has been unremitting in its efforts to aid the sufferers. What this Association is and what it has done in the past is thus told by a contemporary:—"The Howard Association, which leads the heroic but too often unavailing fight against yellow fever in the South, dates from the terrible epidemic of 1853 in New Orleans. It is said to have originated among the clerks of a merchant in that city, who devoted themselves to the care of the sick when fright had so far severed the ties of humanity that members of the same family deserted each other. Rich young men soon joined the first small band of devotees and adopted as the name o their society that of the celebrated English prison philanthropist. At every appearance of the pestilence they met it, as they had mutually bound themselves to do, with physicians, nurses and medicines, establishing agencies in all infected places, and before the breaking out of the rebellion had become a body strong in numbers and in means. The war impoverished the society through its members, and since then it has been forced to accept contributions from without, although it was not obliged to do so before. The Memphis Association was organized in September, 1867, with twenty-five members, and had under its charge in that year, two hundred and forty-four patients, receiving in contributions $4,996.56. It afterwards secured a charter from the Legislature, and began its work in the great pestilence of 1873, in the month of September, with eight members and one hundred and thirty dollars in the treasury. A meeting of citizens furnished it with means by immediate collections, and by call upon other cities and states, and it went on in its work with a full treasury. When this work became too great for the few members of the society to do, a call was made upon the citizens for more members and was promptly responded to. A hospital was established, and nurses and supplies were furnished to more than eight thousand persons. Eight hundred and twenty-five nurses were employed by the society. After paying out in this way nearly one hundred thousand dollars the association had remaining in its treasury more than forty thousand dollars, the entire amount of the country's contributions during that year to the distress of Memphis having been over one hundred and thirty-four thousand dollars."

The efforts of the Howard's have been pecuniarily aided by the charitable people of the North and of a few places in Canada, but the contributions fall far short of the requirements of the situation. Therefore we suggest that Belleville, one of whose sons, Mr. R. M. Potts, has fallen a victim to the scourge, might very appropriately lend such aid as she can by way of contribution to relieve the sufferings of the Southern people. The Chicago sufferers were assisted after the great fire, and no worthy cause has ever been unaided by our people, therefore we suggest that some steps be taken at as early a day as possible to show in a practical manner our sympathy as a community with the sorely distressed inhabitants of the fever smitten South.

DOWN THE GULF.—A correspondent of the McKillop Commercial Agency who resides in the Lower St. Lawrence, and who has just made a trip down the Gulf, reports that prospects are favorable all along the coast. The fisheries are turning out well, cod and mackerel are in abundance, and on the Labrador coast herring are plenty. The crops, too, are good. He reports three total wrecks on Anticosti Island.

SLEIGHING UP THE GATINEAU.—Messrs. Stephen Wilkin and Alex. McLellan have returned to Ottawa from a trip up the Gatineau. About 150 miles from the city the residents were enjoying sleighing at the time, there having been quite a fall of snow. They were exploring for phosphates, and found some valuable streaks. In one place a vein about twelve feet wide, and running up a montain side to the extent of over 100 feet, was found.

NEW GUINEA.—Advices by steamer Australia state that the news from the gold-seekers who went to New Guinea is not favorable. The miners are very reticent. Fighting between the French and the natives is still going on in New Caledonia. An expedition on a large scale against the rebels is now projected. The total number of victims by the recent outbreak was 118. In Fiji shocking excesses on the part of native provisional governors are reported.

OTTAWA NORMAL SCHOOL.—The Normal School in Ottawa was re-opened on the 17th, with the full complement of forty candidates. There were one hundred and eighty candidates in all, and fifty of the number were allotted to the school at Toronto, the balance, with the exception of the forty for Ottawa, being left over for the January term. The candidates were admitted according to their teaching experience, consequently the classes are of a better standing than heretofore.

THE PARIS EXPOSITION.—A cable message to the Globe says, with reference to the Paris Exposition, the returns of jurors' awards in some classes are not yet delivered. The jury of the grain sections are to day re-examining exhibits in consequence of remonstrances. Other juries will also view their decisions. As the matter stands now the Canadian awards number 225: Diplomas of honor, 6; diplomas and gold medals, 6; diplomas and silver medals, 9; gold medals, 13; silver medals, 33; bronze medals, 71; honorable mention, 78.

IRON STATISTICS.—The most remarkable falling off recorded in the statistics lately issued by Mr. Nimmo, Jr., of the United States Bureau of Statistics, is found in the import of railroad bars, which, from $16,750,702 in 1873, has fallen to $530 in six months of 1878. It cannot be that this is altogether accounted for by the abandonment of work on railway construction, or that the excessive imporation and production has been over nineteen millions. We must, they, look for some other explanation; and that we find in the fact that protection has enabled the United States to do all this amount of manufacturing, the demands upon which, for renewals alone, must have amounted to a very large figure. Fancy the amount of home labor which would be employed in the production of that amount of railway material, or, to be moderate, say even half that amount.

PROTECTION.—It is said that Henry Clay thus expressed himself many years ago, before the United States had adopted its present fiscal policy:—"I do not ask what have been the remote causes of the depression and wretchedness of our once glorious and happy country. I will turn my views only on the causes which are proximate, indisputable, and immediately before us. One great—not the sole—cause is to be found in the withdrawal of money from the country to pay debts accrued and accruing abroad for foreign imports, or debts contracted during former periods of prosperity. What then is to be done to check the foreign drain? We have tried free trade. We have had the principles of free trade operating on more than half of our comforts for nine years. That will not do, we see." Well, a protective policy was tried, and the result has been that the United States has become a tremendous nation of manufacturers, who are competing with the free trade European nations, and taking away their trade in foreign markets after driving them out of their own. Besides this, they have paid off an enormous amount of the war debt. Does this look like the bad effects of protection? If so, we would like to know where the true standard of prosperity is to be found.

TREATING AT ELECTIONS.—The practice of treating at elections has caused considerable stir at Dumfries. When examined as a witness before the Select Committee of the House of Lords upon intemperance, Dr. M'Culloch, Dumfries, in support of an assertion that "treating" was largely resorted to at municipal elections, stated that he had heard a publican "boast that he got eighty votes for eighty glasses of whiskey." The official report having lately been issued, it has caused considerable indignation among the trade; and at a meeting of the Local Wine, Spirit and Beer Trade Association, held the other night, it was agreed to ask Dr. M'Culloch to furnish the Association with the name of the person referred to, and, in the event of his refusal, to call a public meeting and request the doctor to attend. Dr. M'Culloch has replied to the secretary in the following terms:—"Dear Sir,—I decline to accede to your request, especially as the case is well known to many who heard the same statement; and if you don't know, you can easily find it out; and I may remark that treating at municipal elections is but too common with candidates, whether publicans or not, and I suppose you will allow that it is both unfair and illegal. With regard to my attendance at the public meeting, I decline that also, for very obvious reasons."

SECOND GENERAL CONFERENCE.

(From the Montreal Star.)

ELEVENTH DAY.

MONTREAL, Sept. 14.—The day's session opened at nine o'clock, and after the usual preliminaries the order of the day was followed, when the election of book stewards and editors was taken up.

Rev. W. Briggs was elected book-steward for the book-room of Toronto. Rev. E. H. Dewart was re-elected editor of the Christian Guardian, and W. H. Withrow, M. A., was re-elected editor of the Magazine. Rev. W. Hoary was appointed book steward for the establishment at Halifax, and A. W. Nicholson editor of the Wesleyan.

Rev. Dr. Stewart, on behalf of the Reception Committee, introduced Rev. Dr. Jaques and William Brown to the President, who presented them to the Conference and welcomed them as the representatives of the M. E. Church of Canada. Their official addresses are to be the close of the day at eleven o'clock on Monday morning.

Rev. E. B. Rickman, M. A., on behalf of the Nominating Committee, recommended the following as the Committee on the Methodist Ecumenical Council:—Revs. Dr. Green, Dr. Nelles, Dr. Jeffers, Dr. Evans, Dr. Pope, W. Scott, J. Taylor, G. S. Milligan, with Hon. J. Ferrier, E. Coatsworth, D. Plewes, W. F. Hall, Dr. Allison, and Dr. Inch.

Rev. A. Andrews read the report of the Sunday School Committee, which suggested certain amendments to the constitution which were not approved of.

Several additional notices of motion and special resolutions were placed on the notice paper, some of which were disposed of, and others laid over until some future session.

Dr. Williams presented No. 4 report of the Committee on Discipline, the first item of which related to supplying the place of the President and the Vice-President of the General Conference, in case of death or disability, which was adopted. The next General Conference is to consist of one member for every ten members of the annual Conferences. An annual Conference is not to locate a minister who has travelled ten years and upwards, and in no case to do so without giving him twelve months notice. A memorial for the introduction of lay delegation into the annual conferences having been referred to the Committee, the Conference was recommended not to grant the prayer of the memorialists.

A discussion took place on the question, when it was found that an overwhelming majority were opposed to the measure.

Some applications for leave of absence were granted and the Conference adjourned.

TWELFTH DAY.

MONTREAL, Sept. 16.—Yesterday the pulpits of the different churches were occupied by ministers attending the Conference. Some also visited the Gaol and the House of Industry and Refuge, and held religious services with the inmates of these places.

To-day was occupied first with notices of motion by Dr. Ryerson, relating to the President being at liberty to travel at large during the next four years, and the means for his support.

Rev. W. H. Hearty was allowed to speak on a question of privilege, and resigned the position assigned him in the last session as Book Steward at Halifax, as he greatly preferred to be solely devoted to the work of the ministry.

Dr. Aylsworth gave notice of a motion that Ministers who should retire after being ten years in the Ministry should have all the rights of the Ministry in respect to administering the sacraments.

Rev. Dr. Williams read the report No. 4 of the Committee on the Discipline. The first recommendation related to the time of holding the annual Conferences, when it was resolved that they should not be held earlier than the third Wednesday in May or the fourth in June. The recommendation of the Committee respecting the constitution of the quarterly meeting was the occasion of a discussion which continued for several hours, but it was ultimately agreed that the laymen should attend all the sessions of the meeting except the examination of character, and purely ministerial business.

At eleven o'clock Dr. Stewart introduced the fraternal delegates from the M. E. Church of Canada. The credentials of the delegation were read and the address of the Conference was presented, after which

Rev. Dr. Jaques and W. Brown addressed the Conference in a most eloquent manner. The sentiments expressed both in the document and addresses called forth repeated cheers from the Conference, especially those which related to the unification of Methodism.

The President responded in his usual felicitous manner.

Dr. Potts presented Dr. Kelly to the President, who informed the Conference that he was about to leave the city and must say a few words of farewell.

Dr. Kelly said that he had been much delighted at the kind manner in which he had been treated from the moment of his arrival in Montreal. He had felt himself perfectly at home and assured the Conference that all who could attend the next General Conference of the Church South should receive a most hearty reception. He would not say good-bye, but would rather use the Chinese sentence which means "we shall meet to-morrow." If they did not meet to-morrow in the literal sence, he hoped that they would all meet in the better world.

The President, in the name of the Conference, said adieu to Mr. Kelly, and assured him that they all felt deeply attached to him and the Church which he represents and expressed the hope that though he was the first delegate sent from the South to Canada he would not be the last.

Further consideration of the disciplinary report was resumed. One part related to the employment of persons by chairmen of districts, when it was decided that in all cases the permission of the annual conference or the special committee shall be obtained, but no person previously rejected by a quarterly meeting or district meeting of Conference shall on any account be so employed.

PARIS, Sept. 16.—It is reported that Lord Salisbury has refused to use his influence to induce the Porte to conclude the convention with Austria, as he considers Turkey is not done behind hand in fulfilling the Treaty of Berlin.

It is reported that the ambassadors of two Powers have informed the Porte that it is possible another Congress might be proposed to expedite the execution of the Treaty of Berlin. The Porte, in consequence of Russian pressure, is intercepting the arms for the Rhodope insurgents.

PERA, Sept. 16.—Midhat Pasha will probably be entrusted with the pacification of Crete.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 16.—It is reported that the British fleet has received orders to remain at Princes Island, as long as possible, and then go to Ismid to remain until the Russian evacuation is complete.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—The Ottoman ambassador has delivered to Midhat Pasha a letter from the Sultan, authoizing him to reside in Crete, where he wishes to live with his family. The pasha will embark at Marseilles during the present week in a Turkish vessel specially ordered to take him. He will be accorded a reception befitting his rank.

VIENNA, Sept. 16.—The Tagblatt says:—The Austrians have captured Samalta, on the Save. The town sent a flag of truce after a short bombardment, but as the Austrians entered they met with resistence, and were compelled to bombard again.

RUSTCHUK, Sept. 16.—It is reported that that the Third Russian Army Corps, which had commenced its homeward march has been ordered to return to Eastern Roumelia.

PESTH, Sept. 16.—Pesther Lloyd says:—The Sultan has definitely decided to cede nothing to Greece.

ALICK'S WILL.

1. This is my last will and testament. Being f sound mind, and ailing, and fearing furthe changes for the worse, I make the following will and testament:

2. To my elder brother John A. I bequeath my office in Ottawa, together with all the furniture, documents, and valuable securities contained therein; and fearing that the premises are losing value on account of the unfaithfulness of my servants, I advise him to make a thorough inspection of their contents as soon after my decease as practicable.

3. In addition to the foregoing I make him sole heir and executor of the finance department, with full power to introduce new rules, and change any or all of its present incumbents whenever he chooses, as I have not realized from the spekulations of my finance minister the prestige of profit I anticipated.

4. To him I also bequeath all my interest in the Pacific Railway, recommending that negotiations be resumed with Sir Hugh Allan, for the completion, offering him as a bonus, all that has been expended in the work up to this date, with such further aid as he may demand.

5. To Sir Hugh I therefore give all the steel rails on condition that he accepts the foregoing preposition.

6. I bequeath the Fishery Award and full power to fish forever in all Canadian waters to the Yankees whenever they agree to give Canada Reciprocity; and the free use of our canals as a further inducement, which I think ought to satisfy even the Feinians.

7. To brother John A. I also bequeath all my interest, direct and otherwise, in the Neebing Herald Company.

8. To Mayor Beaudry, of Montreal, I give perpetual power to regulate party processions in the Province of Quebec.

9. To every tramp and scallawag who treads our free soil, I recommend the free use of the ballot as a sure means of promoting liberalism.

10. To the people of Canada conjointly with the Yankees, I bequeath all my "magnificent watercratches."

11. I furthermore bequeath the franchise to all farmers' wives and daughters of the full age of twenty-one.

Signed sealed and certified, at Haw Tree Park, in the year of our Lord aforesaid, in presence Mericas.

TO THE PUBLIC.

MUCH is BEING SAID just now in respect to Free Trade and Protection as affecting the imports of the Country at large: some very wise things and some very absurd are advanced on both sides of the question. One thing, however, is certain beyond a doubt, and that is, whatever may be the individual's opinion, every one will seek to supply his personal wants where he can do so to the best advantage, and will buy where he can get the best article and at the lowest price, be it English, Dutch, Canadian or Chinese.

The greater part of our wearing apparel, especially ladies', comes from Great Britain, where they are masters of the manufacture of such fabrics as are needed, and wherever these goods may be bought in Canada, England is the original source of supply. Now any one can see that the finer goods these pass through the better it is for the consumer, for, apart from the tariff question, the high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, each having to get his profit. The nearer the consumer and producer are brought together the better it is for both. It is because the public recognize this fact that so many merchants here as elsewhere are anxious to be considered Direct Importers who are not.

And here we beg to reiterate what we have before emphatically stated, that our firm are the only Importers of a general stock of Dry Goods in Belleville not buying through another house in Canada. This is shown conclusively by the Returns at the Custom House here, for all the British Goods entered at this Port have come to our store with the exception of a few packages.

We offer our customers all the advantages which our business connexions in Great Britain enable us to do, both in the price and quality of goods as well as in the style.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, SEPT. 17.

City and Vicinity.

BRAND KILLED.—Mr. George Parks, living a short distance from Bridgewater, on the 7th inst. killed a large bear which had come on his place.

BIG YIELD.—Mr. Thos. Macdonald, living on lot 6, 5th con. of Elzevir, showed in Bridgewater last week, a packet containing over two thousand grains of buckwheat, the product of one grain planted on his farm.

PRINCE EDWARD RAILWAY.—The steamer Empress of India arrived at Picton yesterday with a full load of plant for Mr. Manning, Prince Edward Railroad contractor. Mr. Manning proposes pushing the work on this road vigorously, and to a speedy completion. He expects to have trains running early next summer.

LIBEL SUIT.—We understand that the Hon. Lewis Wallbridge intends to enter a civil action for libel against the Toronto Tribune, which in its issue of the 13th inst. published an atrocious falsehood, charging the hon. gentleman with having been guilty of the judicial murder of the Aylwards. We hope that the matter will be pressed, as it is full time that an example was made of reckless libellers, who gather courage from the immunity which they have enjoyed.

THE GALE AT OSWEGO.—The Times of Saturday says:—"The wind increased to a gale last night and continues to blow hard from the west to-day. During the night about 150 feet of the west arm of the east pier was carried away by the violence of the waves rolling in from the lake. A quantity of lumber was washed from the neighboring lumber docks and is floating around in the harbor. The weight of lumber on other portions of the pier probably prevented more of it from washing out."

FIRE AT NAPANEE.—About half-past three on monday morning the residence of Wm. Hosey, near the railway station, was discovered on fire. The fire took place in the dining-room, and is supposed to have been due to the explosion of a lamp which was left burning in the room. Scarcely anything was saved, the family having a very narrow escape. The house and furniture were insured in the Royal Insurance Company for $1,000, which will not cover the loss.

HARD WINTER PREDICTED.—Bears and squirrels are more numerous this season than they have been for many years past; and from this fact is adduced the belief that an early and severe winter is before us. Those who have made observations in nature, say that the near approach of those animals to the dwelling of man, in early fall, is an almost infallible sign. In the neighborhood of Norwood, they are more numerous than ever before, says the Register, and almost every farmer in the township of Dummer has seen a bear. One followed a farmer who had honey in his buggy some distance, and even approached the door of his house.

SABBATH SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.—The Fifteenth Provincial Convention of the Sabbath School Association of Canada will be held at Peterboro' on the 8th 9th and 10th, of October next, in the George Street Methodist Church. From a circular we have received we are informed that every Sabbath School of 50 scholars or under is entitled to send one delegate, and an additional delegate for every 50 above that number, but no school to send more than four. Sabbath Schools outside of Ontario and Quebec are invited to send deputations. A cordial invitation is also given to pastors and other ordained ministers of Evangelical churches to be present and take part in the proceedings. The different railways will carry delegates at reduced rates.

THE "SYLVIA."—Mr. William Pike's new standing keel sloop yacht, the Sylvia, made her trial trip yesterday and gave good satisfaction, sailing fast although the wind was light and handling very easily, whilst her canvas balances to perfection. As we have previously stated, the Sylvia is handsome in her every part, whilst her hull is the best ever built in this section being constructed of the very best oak and pine, fastened in the best manner, and in fact she is as strong as wood and iron can make her. The standing rigging is of steel wire rope, being this light yet immensely strong, her canvas is of the best material, and her whole outfit is first-class in every respect. The Sylvia was modeled by Mr. William Pike and built by himself and his brother, Mr. Fred Pike, and all who see her will say that she is highly creditable to her designer and builders, who are amateurs in the yacht building line. Her dimensions are as under: Length over all 36ft. 6in.; length for tonnage 31ft.; breadth 9ft. 4in.; draft forward 3ft. 6in.; draft aft 4ft. 9in.; displacement 322 cubic feet; area of load line 175 sq. ft.; area of midship section 18ft. 12in.; area of vertical longitudinal section, 132ft.; midship section from middle of load water line, 2ft. aft. The dimensions of the spars are: Mast, heel to cap, 42ft. 6in.; top mast 25ft.; board 16ft. 6in.; balloon jib boom 26ft. The area of canvas in square feet is as follows: Mainsail 714; jib 346; gaff topsail, 225; jib topsail 250; balloon jib 460. Thus the Sylvia can spread no less than 1995 square feet of canvas, though of course all can seldom, probably never, be used at the same time, though a water sail could main boom 34ft.; gaff 19ft.; how sprit outboom added. We congratulate the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club on this accession to their now magnificent fleet.

THE HARVEST MOON.—The moon which is now on the wane is popularly known as tha Harvest Moon, because, as Ferguson, the Scotch astronomer, quaintly remarks, the farmers of the Old Country "gratefully ascribe the early rising of the full moon at this time of the year to the goodness of God, not doubting that he has ordered it so on purpose to give them an immediately supply of moonlight after sunset for their greater convenience in reaping the fruits of the earth." The peculiarity of the Harvest moon, which is the full moon immediately succeeding the autumnal equinox, is that it rises for three or four evenings—particularly in high Northern latitudes—at almost the same hour, although usually the hour is forty-eight minutes later every evening. This is explained by the fact that near the autumnal equinox the path of the moon is very slightly inclined to the horizon, and consequently her time of rising of appearing above the horizon is not much affected by her ordinary eastward movement. The most favorable Harvest Moon happens about September 21. The full and new moons of this month are also noticeable for causing unusually high tides.

APPLETON'S JOURNAL for October leads off with an illustrated paper under the Shakespearean title of "The Multitudinous Seas," which is accompanied with numerous illustrations, text and pictures treating of the phenomena and wonders of the great deep. The article is written by Mr. S. G. W. Benjamin, who has passed many years of his life at sea, and knows thoroughly that of which he writes, and knows, moreover, how to relate his experience and observations in an effective style. A new American novelette is begun in this number, written by Christian Reid, and bearing the title of "A Hidden Treasure." "A Leap-Year Romance" is concluded. A story by Mrs. Stoddard, entitled "The Swan-Stream Match," and one by Mrs. Amelia E. Barr, the scene of which is laid in the Orkney Islands, are given complete. There is a graphic paper, entitled "A Motley University," descriptive of the consolidated universities of Aberdeen; the Azores are described; so is the Csardas," a Hungarian dance; American and English house-keeping are compared by Mrs. Sheldon; and Dr. Geo. M. Beard, under the title of "Consolation for the Nervous," says that vigorous-bodied folk do not, after all, enjoy all the felicities of life, and that invalidism has its compensations. Junius Henri Browne discusses "French Memoirs," a kind of literature of which France has been very prolific; and, lastly there are poems by Nora Perry, Constance Fenimore Woolson, Edgar Fawcett, and others. The editorial departments are as full as usual.

Seasonable Topics.

The only housework that some girls do is when they begin to dust around after a beau.

One of the most unexpected and spirit-drooping things is to borrow an umbrella and to find the proprietor's name indelibly attached to the handle.

It is now time for the man with a garden in rear of his house to come out with his figures and let the anxious public know that his cucumbers didn't cost him over forty cents apiece, including the twelve nights he was on guard with a shot-gun.

A small boy and a gun are harmless when apart, but they make a terrible combination.

The right kind of a man will always have his life insured. It gives his wife's second husband a start.

A horse can be educated to smoke and carry a cane, but he can't stand on a corner and leer at lady pedestrians.

A woman with seven rings on her finger never reaches across the table to help herself, but she takes great pleasure in stretching her arm to pass the cake.

North Hastings.

(From the Madoc Review)

BELLEVILLE & NORTH HASTINGS RAILWAY.—Work on the railway is progressing satisfactorily, a large force being at work on the lower end and at different points along the route. It was expected that the rails would be laid as far as Luke's last night. The tenor on S. Hollins' place has all been finished. There is every reason to believe that the iron horse will be in Madoc in a very few weeks.

THE FAIR.—The fair yesterday was not a success, only some 20 or 30 head of cattle having been brought in, most of which were in poor condition, and about a dozen sheep. There were plenty of buyers, some being present from Kingston, Belleville, and other places. Would it not be better to abolish one of the fall fairs and have a good one, say in October? Cattle would then be in good order, and on the whole we think it would be better than having too many fairs, and all failures. The attention of the proper authorities is called to this matter.

Does the World Move.

The Rev. John Jasper, of Virginia says, "De sun do move, for in the mornin' it shines on dis side of de hous, whil in de ebenin, on dat side ob de hous. Now, if he don't move, how com he dar?" Notwithstanding Mr. Jasper's logic, we yet beleive the world moves. When Mr. Jasper's ideas constituted the popular belief, people thought that to die of small-pox or cholera was simply fulfilling one of nature's laws. Now, through vaccination, small-pox is averted, while cholera, cholera morbus, dysentery (flux), and diarrhoea; are readily cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Compound Extract of Smart-Weed. Does not such evidence tend to prove that "the world moves"! As an external remedy for cuts, bruises, sprains, swellings, bites and stings of insects, the Compound Extract of Smart-Weed has no equal. Veterinary surgeons have also employed it with marked success.

This action has been rendered necessary from the fact that Butler's friends have secured all available halls in Worcester, and the leaders also take the ground that after the mob proceedings which have taken place here to-day, they can go before the people and lead a movement that will crush Butler.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—Since yesterday the pressure has decreased in the Lower Lake region and on the St. Lawrence but remained nearly stationary in the Maritime Provinces. The lowest pressure now extends over the northern portion of Canada from Manitoba to the Lower St. Lawrence. The winds in the Lower Lake region have been fresh to brisk, with increased cloudiness and light rain on Lake Huron by this morning. On the St. Lawrence and in the Maritime Provinces the weather has been clear to partly cloudy and at the mouth of the St. Lawrence strong winds have been experienced. Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region, moderate to fresh southerly to westerly winds and partly cloudy weather, possibly light rain in some localities. For the St. Lawrence, fresh southerly winds and cloudy weather, with local rain. For the Maritime Provinces, fresh southerly to southwesterly winds and partly cloudy weather.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Indications:—warmer winds, hazy or partly cloudy, possibly rain.

A Slight Cough that we are so apt to consider a mere annoyance and treat with correspondingneglect, too often proves to be the seed sown for an inevitable harvest—CONSUMPTION. Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. A teaspoonful of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime given whenever the Cough is troublesome, will afford immediate relief, and if perservered in will effect a cure even in the most obstinate cases.

Prepared solely by J. H. ROBINSON, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B.; and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six for $5.00. d&w-1m

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, all SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, each Village, Town and Township in the County, with page, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring it out, for the general wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of each of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half-page, $6.00; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interesting them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the utmost care and efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render it a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

The Pleasures of Panther Hunting.

Major Sandwith, Major Barras, and Lieut. Francis, three British officers, recently went out to hunt panthers near Ahmed-Nuggur. They were sitting under the shade of an enormous sabur bush when a panther came to hunt for British officers.

A native went round the bush, when the panther bit his arm. The officer hearing the noise, ran around the bush one way to help their servant, but the panther ran around the bush the other way and grabbed Major Barras by the arm. It got a shelt through the ribs, and straightway bounded back into the bush as rapidly as it had issued thence.

Stones were thrown into the bush to bring it out, but it smoked out at the other side and was a hundred yards ere it was discovered. It was fired upon and knocked down with a bullet through the leg, but got up and reached another bush.

Major Sandwith threw a stone to make it break cover, and was successful, for though at ten yards range he and Lieut. Francis managed to hunt it with two balls in the chest, it knocked him down and began worrying him. Finally, by pinning him to the ground with a spear and firing the bullets into it at so close a range as to burn his skin, the panther was induced to die, with its teeth fast fixed in Major Sandwith's thigh, so that its mouth had to be pried open with a knife.

Major Sandwith was bitten in three places in the leg and in the thigh.

Don't Allow the Cows to Shrink.

The milk yielded by a cow represents the only basis of profit to her owner. When the milk ceases she becomes a ball of expense. The dairyman then should study how to keep a full flow of milk through the whole season. He must remember that if the milk is allowed to shrink in quantity, from poor pasturage, it cannot be again recovered when the feed becomes good. If the dairy man has green food such as green oats, peas or corn—let him feed three ; but, if he has not such green food, he should then resort to grain to make up a full ration. Four to eight quarts of bran or middlings to each cow per day, or four quarts of oats or corn meal, will keep the flow of milk while the grass is short. The extra food will be paid for each day by the milk it produces, besides keeping up the quantity of milk ready to be continued when the grass grows again from fall rains. What we wish to impress upon the minds of all dairymen is, that under all circumstances the only means of profit in a dairy should be from liberal feeding to produce a uniform and abundant flow of milk ; and when a dairyman makes up his mind that he cannot afford to feed liberally he had better sell his cows at once and get out of a losing business. We know a man with twenty cows, who watches the condition of his pasture and the thrift and yield of his cows constantly, and adds extra feed in barn at once on any appearance of falling off in milk. And the consequence is that his annual yield of milk is fifty per cent. more than many of his neighbors ; while the cost of the extra food is not one-third what he receives from the extra yield for the season. Do not be afraid to trust your cows with a few quarts of grain per day. They will pay for it every night.—National Live Stock Journal.

Beware of a woman who sings "Oh ! for a thousand tongues"—to gossip.

—It is not safe to presume too far upon the cultivation of average hearers. A young man presented himself to a quarterly conference of a New England M. E. Church for examination for a license as a local preacher. It was arranged for him to preach a trial sermon, and in the progress of his remarks he uttered the familiar truth, that while the body was material, and thus perishable, the soul was immaterial. At the close of the sermon, the young man's qualifications were thoroughly discussed. One of the official brethren objected, peremptorily, to his license, for the reason that he had uttered the "strangest doctrine he ever listened to." Another of the party declared that "the soul was immaterial—a thing of no value (!), when the Bible says it is worth more than the whole world.

Australia is the servant-girl's paradise. A lady in Melbourne, who had advertised for a domestic aid, received a call from a pretty maid, with unexceptionable references, a pleasing manner, and a willing disposition. The lady was charmed and engaged her on the spot. "But I have always had a whole day's leave of absence every fortnight," the young girl remarked, pausing on the threshold, "and an evening a week besides." "You shall not be deprived of them," was the encouraging reply. "And this is a very lonely place, ma'am," the girl rejoined, "and I could not come home by myself. Would the master mind coming for me?" The lady hesitated a moment, but as a good girl is not to be picked up every day, she finally consented ; and when the damsel returned she informed him that he would have to refuse all invitations for two nights in one week and one in the other in order to go after the new help.

A NEW ENEMY OF VEGETATION.—A correspondent of the Boston Journal, writing from Cambridge, Mass., says :—"This present season I have seen the ravages of an insect on vegetation which is not mentioned in the excellent work of T. W. Harris, M. D., describing insects that injure vegetation. I had for ornament planted a row of large scarlet colored Dahlias near the front fence. The ground being rich they came up rank ; but I found the leaves all cut to shreds as fast as they came on daily. Examined vines daily, early and late, but failed to find any insect that could injure them ; and feeling assured that it must be some nocturnal insect, one night at 10 o'clock I took a light and examined the vines. To my astonishment I found them thickly covered to the height of three feet with a species of worm, that will vary from one and a half inches long down to half an inch, all eagerly eating the bean leaves. I have also found them to eat my dahlias and cucumber plants as soon as out of the ground. Without doubt many have seen their work, not knowing what to attribute it to."

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and laborod breathing, the demulcent properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime manifests itself in its healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages ; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided reasserts herself, and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health.

Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle ; six bottles for $5.00.

Farmer Penniman's Dream.

BY MRS. E. M. STEWAT.

"There's no need of a donation for Mr. Goodman," growled out Mr. Penniman, on his way home from church, after the notice of a proposed donation visit has been given "he has salary enough without—six hundred dollars a year and a parsonage and garden spot—that's enough for any family to live on; why it don't cost us near that, and we have six children, and they have only four. Twas real mean for Mr. Goodman to exchange and get that man to give out the notice." And Mr. Penniman fretted away in the car of his silent wife till they had nearly reached home, quite unmindful of the four children who, with wide open ears, were eagerly listening to every word.

Rev. Mr. Goodman was pastor of a little church in a small village of Mainsuch—a Home Missionary church composed of farmers, with a few members in the village, where two other churches of different denominations were also endeavoring to live and thrive.

Four hundred dollars was the nominal salary of Mr. Goodman from the Home Missionary Society, but only three hundred Mr. Penniman gave twenty-five dollars usually in advance, "to get it off his mind," he said. If all the subscribers had followed his example it would have been better for the minister. But the last years' subscription was two hundred dollars in arrears and the Home Missionary Treasury was empty.

It was mid-winter; the minister's credit and provisions well-nigh exhausted, and nothing had been said of the accustomed donation visit.

Driven almost to desperation, Mr. Goodman rode over to a neighbor city, where one of his classmates was preaching to a large, prosperous church, and laid the case before him.

"Let's exchange," said the sympathizing listener, when the story was told. "I'll give notice of a donation visit on my own responsibility." The exchange was made; and the notice was given, to the astonishment of every one, Mrs. Goodman included.

Mr. Penniman's family went into their large, warm kitchen, laid aside their wrappings, and sat down to a bountiful dinner prepared by the eldest daughter during their absence; and with the appearance of the hot mince pies began the discussion of the coming donation visit.

"Mother, may I go?" from a chorus of little voices, and comments from the older members of the family according to their moods.

"Well, I paid the whole of my subscription down once," said Mr. Penniman, with a satisfied air, "and I'll see if I can't get none the same, there would be no excuse for having a donation visit."

"I don't believe Mr. Jones has paid a cent, and he's rich, too," said Clara, a bright little girl of eleven.

"No, nor Mr. White, nor Mr. Cook, nor even Deacon Slocum," added George, a stout lad of sixteen, who knew more, in his own estimation, than any man in the neighborhood. Mrs. Penniman, and the eldest daughter, Mabel, said nothing.

"Mother, I heard my teacher tell the superintendent that if people would only give tithes now, as the Jews did, there would be no need of donation parties. What are tithes?" said Robert, the nine year old son.

"I will tell you all about it this afternoon. Finish your dinner now," was the reply.

An hour later, according to promise, the mother sat, Bible in hand, explaining to her younger children the Jewish law of benevolence. Clara and Robert were finding the references, and James and Minnie were asking numberless questions. Jacob's vision interested them greatly. Robert read the dreamer's morning vow, "Of all that thou shalt give me, I will surely give the tenth unto thee." "Then tithes means tenths. Does it mean a tenth of everything?" asked Robert.

"Turn to Leviticus, 27 chapter and 30th, 31st, and 32nd verses," was the mother's reply.

"Why, mother, it is cattle, too," exclaimed Robert in astonishment, "and a tenth of all their grain and their fruit! Whew! I guess my teacher was right; but does anybody do that now-a-days?"

"Yes," replied Mrs. Penniman, "I have known several men in the city who conscientiously gave to the Lord one-tenth of their income, and some of them were far from rich."

"Why can't farmers do the same?" asked Clara.

"I suppose they might," replied the mother with a sigh. "Now turn to Malachi iii: 8 10."

"Let me read that," said Clara, and while she read her father said to himself, "That's all right; I am glad my wife is so faithful in teaching the children, especially in teaching them benevolence. I guess I have paid my tithes this year; twenty-five dollars for the minister, and as good as twenty-five for Chicago—fifty dollars. That's a tenth and more too, but I don't begrudge it, not a bit," and with a self-satisfied smile he went out and dreamed.

Half an hour passed, and the sleeper awoke with a groan and a start. Rousing himself, he said to the children. "Run away now and amuse yourselves, I want to talk with your mother a while." The children obeyed, and the mother sat with folded hands, and heart trying to prepare itself to listen patiently to more fault-finding.

"I have had such a fearful dream, Jennie," said Mr. Penniman in a low, troubled voice; "a warning from God, I do believe. You are a better Christian than I am—tell me tell you my dream, and I know you will help me do my duty."

Then, in words often choked with emotion, he told his dream, while tears rained down his wife's cheeks.

The profound silence which followed was broken by the husband's voice solemnly repeating the vow of Jacob, henceforth to be his own vow: "Of all that thou shalt give me I will surely give the tenth unto thee."

"Amen!" was the wife's joyful response.

"Isn't it Sunday work to look over the books? It seems to me I shall feel better to have this matter all arranged to-day," said Mr. Penniman, after a few moments' thought.

Mrs. Penniman brought the books, in which her husband kept a full record of all the farm products.

"Now, Jennie," said he, "take a piece of paper, and as I call off the yield you take out the tenths, and we will estimate the value and see how much we fall short."

a little more than the price of two tons of hay, as we valued it. But we have not tithed our cattle yet; we have ten cows you know—shall they pass under the rod?" asked the husband with a meaning smile.

"Yes, certainly," was the earnest reply.

"Well, then, one cow—you shall say which one—and two tons of hay to feed her on. There are a good many things we cannot tithe this year, so I will take a good large grist, and you may take what you like from the house, and next year we will be more exact," said Mr. Penniman in a tone of great satisfaction.

"A good deal to give away," said Mrs. Penniman, doubtingly, for in her heart she feared her husband would repent his liberality when the excitement of his dream had passed away.

"Why, Jennie, you are not sorry the Lord made the tenths so large, are you?" he said, half reproachfully. "Nine-tenths are left for us to use without doubt or reproach. How blind I have been all my life!" he added, with a sigh.

"Father, George says it is milking time," call out little Clara, looking in at the door.

"Yes, I'll come," answered the father rising. "Jennie, which cow shall I give," he asked, turning to his wife.

"Give the best to the Lord," was her reply.

"Mabel, come here a few minutes," said Mrs. Penniman to her eldest daughter, a young lady of nineteen, when the door had closed on the father and the two boys. In a few words the mother related what had transpired within the last hour, and as the daughter listened with clasped hands and glistening eyes.

"Oh, mother, I am so glad!" she exclaimed. "Giving a tenth has always seemed right since I read God's own law to the Jews. He must know best. If the Jews were commanded to give titles, surely, with our greater blessings, a tenth of our income is the least we ought to think of presenting to the Lord as a thank-offering. It seems a great deal because God gives us so much."

"Well, my dear, you and I must look up our titles to-morrow," said Mrs. Penniman with a smile.

The day of the donation visit came at last.

"George, I guess we'll take over our lords this morning," said Mr. Penniman while they were doing chores at the barn. "You may fasten Brindle's rope to the back of that load of hay, and let her eat while you help me load up the other sleigh; then you may harness the old horses, I will take the colts, and we will go over together."

"Why, father, what are you going to do with old Brindle?" asked the astonished boy.

"Give her to the minister; we have nine cows left," was the reply.

The two went to the house and proceeded to load up the "big sleigh" which stood before the door. A barrel of pork, potatoes, turnips, beans, and "a monstrous grist," the children said; and away the two drove to the parsonage.

"Why, Mr. Penniman haven't you made a mistake? What does all this mean?" exclaimed Mr. Goodman, running out of the house without his hat, as they drove through the great gate. "What does all this mean?"

"Only the tithes," replied Mr. Penniman, laughing.

"Here's your hat, father," said little Henry Goodman, holding up the missing article.

"Thank you, my son, now run into the house."

"Where shall I put your cow?" asked Mr. Penniman.

"My cow! Why Mr. Penniman, you can't afford——"

The little barn was a rickety, old affair, but Brindle was soon tied in one corner of the stable, and Mr. Penniman and his son stowed away the hay as best they could in the bay and shaky loft. The boards on the sides were some of them hanging by one nail, but George said the roof looked as if it would not leak, and he would drive a few nails in those boards before night.

Then came the unloading of the second sleigh, amid exclamations of wonder and delight from Mr. and Mrs. Goodman and the children, and such a time as they all had preparing the little almost unused cellar for such an unexpected supply of vegetables. Then the pork barrel was, with much labor, lifted and pushed and twisted down the narrow stairway and stowed away back as far as possible "to make room for the rest that might come," Mr. Penniman said.

To empty barrels were filled to overflowing with the best of flour, the bran and shorts for the cow found a place in some old barrels in the wood-shed, and Mr. Penniman and George drove home delighted.

"What has happened to Mr. Penniman?" asked Mr. Goodman after they had gone. "Is he going crazy?"

"I asked him what it all meant, and he said he had a dream last Sunday which he would tell me sometime," replied her husband.

"The result of his dreaming will bless us all the year," said Mrs. Goodman gratefully.

"Mother, is that cow to be our own always?" asked one of the children.

"Yes. We all thank Mr. Penniman very much, and I am sure none of us will forget to thank Him who put the thought of this great kindness into Mr. Penniman's heart."

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 18.

CELEBRATING THE VICTORY.

The Conservatives of Belleville are invited to turn out to-night to celebrate the magnificent victory gained by the Opposition throughout the Dominion. A procession will be formed on the Market Square, and will proceed through the principal streets of the city. It is expected that addresses will be delivered by Messrs. M. Bowell, John White, Hon. Lewis Wallbridge and others. Let every patriot turn out and do honor to the occasion.

It is also requested that Conservatives will, so far as possible on such short notice, illuminate their dwellings.

NORTH HASTINGS.

Despite the vigorous opposition of the Grit party and the villainous slanders circulated by their Belleville organ and certain of their "missionaries," Mr. Bowell has been re-elected for North Hastings by a handsome majority,—probably not less than 200 votes. For the third time Mr. E. D. O'Flynn has led the forlorn hope of the Grit party to defeat, and we trust that he is now satisfied that his abilities are not appreciated by the people of the constituency as highly as he himself rates them. In every municipality so far heard from, except Madoc village and Township, Mr. Bowell has a majority, and the gains in Stirling, Huntingdon, Elzevir and Marmora are such as to show that the Conservative cause, strong as it has always been in North Hastings, is still progressing and gathering strength, and that the National Policy has won the favorable consideration of the people.

We congratulate the electors of North Hastings on the return of their faithful representative, whose hands they have strengthened and whose course in the past they have endorsed by largely increasing his majority. To the Conservatives, who have faithfully continued their support of their representative amidst a storm of slander and villification such as few men are called upon to withstand, great credit is due, and also to those Reformers who preferred country to party and voted for the exponent of a patriotic policy. They have nobly aided in the defeat of the corrupt and unpatriotic Mackenzie Government by returning one of the most able and determined opponents of that rotten concern, and their views will be represented with an influence and weight which can be brought to bear by but few other members of the Commons.

It will be some days ere full returns are received, and the official event will not take place until the 24th inst., but at the present time we are able to present the following table of majorities from the municipalities so far heard from:

	Bowell.	O'Flynn.
Rawdon	109
Huntingdon	66
Stirling	16
Elzevir	20
Marmora	72
Madoc village & Tp.		52

Bowell's majority ... 231

with the Hastings Road to hear from, which may give a small majority for Mr. O'Flynn.

On learning that Mr. Bowell would pass through Stirling on his way to Belleville, arrangements were made to meet him a short distance from the village. Shortly after ten o'clock the band, accompanied by a large number of people, met the member for North Hastings and escorted him through the main street. The carriage was drawn by a number of leading citizens, and as the procession passed up the street, cheer after cheer went up from the crowd who thronged the streets. Upon reaching Scott's Hotel Mr. Bowell made a short speech from the balcony, thanking the electors for the great victory they had achieved, and exhorting them to be magnanimous to their opponents. He referred briefly to the gains which the Conservative party had made throughout the country, which presaged the downfall of the Mackenzie Government. Mr. C. W. Bell, of this city, Dr. Boulter, of Stirling, and Rev. Mr. Hallawell, also briefly addressed the audience, after which cheers were given for the Queen and for Mr. Bowell.

EAST HASTINGS.

We very much regret to learn of the defeat of Mr. John White in East Hastings by the insignificant majority of twelve votes. Mr. White had served his constituents faithfully and with ability, and was deserving of better treatment at their hands. The combination formed against him was, however, too formidable for even his indomitable resolution, indefatigability and very great personal popularity to overcome, and we would only refer to the fact that in Mill Point, which gave him 50 majority in 1874, he was on the 17th in a minority of 76, to indicate the nature of the influence which he had to encounter. Although beaten, Mr. White is not disgraced, and we hope and have reason to believe that he will still have an opportunity for re-election, that is if the reports which reach us of bribery and undue influence have not been exaggerated. As full returns have not reached us, we await the result of the official count, which is to take place at Shannonville on Saturday next, 21st inst.

CANADA AT PARIS.—It is gratifying to have to record the handsome manner in which Canada has distinguished herself at the Paris Exhibition. So far no less than 225 prizes having been awarded her. Many of these prizes have been gained for articles of Canadian manufacture, as well as for those of natural production.

WEST HASTINGS.

The returns from the constituency show the surprisingly large majority of 283 for Mr. Brown. That much of this majority was due to the superior organization of Mr. Brown's friends on the polling day there can be no doubt, but that it was in no small measure owing to other means has been freely stated, the correctness or incorrectness of which assertion will doubtless be proved, as it is not at all likely that the election will be allowed to go without protest. Mr. Brown undoubtedly owes his election to Conservative votes, as a number of his former Conservative friends in excess of his majority stuck to him, and labored earnestly in his cause. His Reform supporters also worked hard in his behalf, and we congratulate them on their having elected a gentleman who if not unseated, will support the Government—that is, the Conservative Government which will shortly be formed by Sir John A. Macdonald, and who is a staunch Protectionist.

The victory was duly celebrated by Mr. Brown's supporters, who formed a procession, headed by bands, and escorted the member elect to his home. Mr. Brown heartily thanked his friends for the support which they had given him, and the jubilations ceased at an early hour.

THE RESULT.

The following is the Globe's statement concerning the result of the elections throughout the Dominion:—

"The result of the general elections, so far as it has been reported, may be summed up thus:—

"In Prince Edward Island the Opposition have carried the two members in the chief city, and the other four seats are reported to have gone the same road.

"In Nova Scotia, the Opposition have carried ten, the Government have eight, and three are still in doubt.

"In New Brunswick, the Opposition have carried four, and of these Mr. Tilley's majority of seven in St. John City is disputed. The Government have eleven, and Charlotte is still in doubt.

"In Quebec the Opposition have carried thirty-six, the Government sixteen, and seventeen remain to be heard from.

"In Ontario the Opposition have carried forty-five, the Government twenty-six, and seventeen remain to be heard from.

"The Government have to regret the defeat of Mr. Cartwright, the Minister of Finance, of Mr. Jones, the Minister of Militia, and of Mr. Coffin, the Receiver-General. The Opposition will mourn the rejection of Sir John A. Macdonald, of Mr. T. N. Gibbs, of Mr. Langevin, and of Mr. Peter Mitchell, all members of the Pacific Scandal Cabinet. The Reformers will be also grieved by the loss of many good men and true, whose place in the House of Commons will not easily be supplied.

"Contrary to the anticipations of most persons, the verdict of the electors at the ballot-boxes yesterday was unfavorable to Mr. Mackenzie's Administration. The Opposition has carried a majority of seats in the House of Commons—and the new Parliament will take its tone from this constitutional declaration of the popular will.

"We shall not affect indifference to this event. We cannot regard it otherwise than with the deepest regret as a serious blow to the prosperity of the Dominion. The issue on which the electoral contest mainly turned was the promise of Sir John A. Macdonald and his supporters, if elected, to enforce a system of thorough protection for home manufactures by the imposition of increased duties; and to retaliate upon the United States by the imposition against them of the same prohibitory customs duties they now levy. That a policy so short-sighted and injurious should have been endorsed by the Canadian people at the polls is a national misfortune.

"The causes that contributed to this startling change of public sentiment are not difficult to discover. The commercial depression still existing over the North American Continent, and the restless desire for some undefined change that would bring about "better times," had, no doubt, very much to do with it. The seductive delusion held to the weaker sort of acquiring wealth quickly by shutting out foreign commodities and increasing largely the consumption and price of home manufactures, drew many victims after it. And the thorough party organization of the Tory party for propagating their sentiments and bringing out their men did the rest.

"But whatever the cause of the Liberal defeat may have been, the change of situation is a great fact. We accept it frankly. The electoral contest has been fought fairly enough—our opponents have won the day—and it only remains for the Reform party to close up their ranks, perfect that which may be amiss in their policy and organization, and stand by their time-honored principles more firmly and vigorously than ever."

Our contemporary's confession of defeat is candid, but its logic is halting when it asserts that the verdict of the electors was contrary to the opinion of most persons. Why, had such been the case, the majority of people would have marked their ballots in accordance with their opinions, and the Globe would not now be left to mourn the wreck of its hopes. It is at the same time a sign of better things for the future when the Grit organ advises its readers to perfect that which may be amiss in their policy and organization. Had they moulded their policy in accordance with the popular will, they would not have sustained the disastrous defeat which they now regret, but too late.

VICTORY!

GREAT CONSERVATIVE TRIUMPH.

THE MACKENZIE GOVERNMENT SWEPT OUT OF EXISTENCE.

FOUR MINISTERS DEFEATED.

Cartwright, Laflamme, Jones and Coffin, sent to the Cold Shades.

THE NATIONAL POLICY TRIUMPHANT.

Blake, Young, Dymond, and other Prominent Free Traders beaten.

THE GAINS AND THE LOSSES.

The result of the election which took place yesterday has been to show that the people of Canada have decided by an immense majority in favor of a National Policy, and to return to power the men who are prepared to govern the country honestly and in a patriotic manner. The defeat of the Mackenzie Government is simply overwhelming, at least four of its members, namely Messrs. Cartwright, Laflamme, Jones and Coffin, having been defeated, whilst Messrs. Blake, Young, Dymond and others of the most prominent of Mr. Mackenzie's supporters have suffered disastrous defeats. So terrible a disaster has never before, in fact, befallen a party in Canada when appealing to the country on its legislative and administrative record.

A few unexpected reverses have been sustained by the Opposition, those which are the most regrettable being the defeats of Sir. John A. Macdonald in Kingston, Mr. White in East Hastings, Mr. Plumb in Niagara, and Hon. T. N. Gibbs in Ontario, whilst in West Hastings the failure to win the seat by Mr. Wallbridge is also matter for regret.

The returns so far received showed the following results.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 18.

CITY COUNCIL.—A special meeting of the City Council has been called for Thursday evening, at the usual hour for general business.

PERSONAL.—Mr. H. Tammadge, who has been on a long visit to England, returned home yesterday.—Mr. E. W. Johnson, of Hamilton, the celebrated athlete, was in town to-day.

APPROPRIATE.—A correspondent suggests that the clean sweep of Grits which has been made may be accounted for by the fact that, in anticipation of the arrival of the Princess Louise, it was found necessary to have a general "house cleaning."

RECEIVING THE NEWS.—An enthusiastic gathering of Conservatives was held last night at the L. C. A. rooms, to receive the returns of the general election. The crowd was too large to be accommodated in the rooms, so the large majority adjourned outside and the returns were read to them from the windows. As victory after victory was announced, the enthusiasm manifested itself in sounding cheers, and it was not until the hour of midnight had long passed that the crowd adjourned. At the Metropolitan Hall the Grits assembled prepared to hail with acclamation an anticipated victory, but as the news was disastrous to their hopes and far from being acceptable, they adjourned at a comparatively early hour.

SECOND GENERAL CONFERENCE.

(From the Montreal Star.)

THIRTEENTH DAY.

Montreal, Sept. 16.—There were three sessions to-day. In the first, reports of committees were discussed.

Hon. Mr. Strong read the report of the Finance Committee, which stated that the claims on the treasurer for Conference Committees and Conference expenses amounted to more than $7,000, while the receipts so far were only $2,700. The committee recommended that the circuits which have not made their Conference collections, shall immediately do so; also that the Conference Treasurer shall borrow an amount of money to meet present liabilities and collections shall be taken up annually in all places of worship for the Conference Fund. The report was adopted.

Rev. W. Hansford read the report of the Committee on Missions. It was believed that the formation of ladies' mission societies at the present time would not be productive of so much good as some suppose, and therefore the Conference referred the matter of such societies to the Central Board, who shall take such steps as they may deem proper. No new mission to be formed shall receive any grant unless the consent of the Central Board be previously obtained. The Central Board is not to appropriate more money than the amount of income of the previous year, which has come from the ordinary sources. In respect to the reduction of the debt, $16,000 is to be raised by extra means during the year.

Dr. REID gave notice of a motion for the repeal of the rule which requires a majority of the Conference to from a quorum, and making fifty the proper quorum for the remainder of the term.

Dr. POTTS gave notice of a motion that, in consequence of the present state of the Conference fund, a fraternal letter shall be sent to the sister Conference, instead of delegates.

During the afternoon session it was resolved that the Missionary report shall be of a summary character, and reports of the respective Conferences shall be published in detail. The monthly notices are to be discontinued, and one column of it shall be devoted to the Guardian and Wesleyan missionary intelligence. With a view to increase the liberality of the Sunday School children, a page in the Sunday School Advocate shall be devoted to the missionary intelligence.

The question of the secretaryship occasioned a lengthy discussion, which was brought to a close at ten o'clock, when there was a large majority in favor of only one Missionary Secretary.

Samuel D. Waddy, Esq., M. P., from England, was introduced and was received with great cheering.

The Conference adjourned after 10 o'clock.

THE BRITISH GRAIN TRADE.—A leading Liverpool grain circular of the 30th Sept. says:—"With the continuance of splendid weather the grain trade is completely in abeyance. That wheat trade for on the spot, off coast and arrivals shows a slowly declining tendency, though the weekly imports do not equal the acknowledged average of the necessities of the kingdom at present. The condition of the home crop leaves very much to be decided. The market was firmer this morning, and millers were disposed to purchase wheat more freely. There was a steady consumptive demand at full prices, in some cases with a turn in favor of sellers. In flour there were moderate transactions at previous rates. In corn there was the average sale at last quotations, closing firm."

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17.—Edwin French, an old and respectful citizen of Willoughby, was buried there yesterday.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—John K. Mortimer suicided yesterday. He was formerly a prominent citizen.

General Tremont was banqueted by the pioneers on Tuesday.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The bark Bella Mudge, of Halifax, is detained at the quarantine with small-pox.

J. W. Adams died yesterday afternoon from wounds on the head, received near Canal St., but whether by design or accident no one knows.

An Auburn despatch says Courtney leaves Ensinore to-day for Montreal, taking two shells with him.

A special from New Orleans says the crisis has passed, and the end of the epidemic is approaching.

S. Fraden, of Indianapolis, who carried off all the honors of the English training ship Worcester, arrived here yesterday. He has the gold medal and other prizes presented by the Queen, but he was robbed of a cadetship in England's navy because he would not renounce his allegiance to the United States.

Rev. Louis Schuyler, Episcopal, died at Memphis yesterday of yellow fever. He left his charge at Hoboken on the 8th inst., to take charge of the Episcopal Orphanage at Memphis.

Arrived, State of Pennsylvania, from Glasgow.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

VIENNA, Sept. 18.—The Pesther Lloyd, heretofore a loyal supporter of Andrassy, raises its voice against the reported Austro-Servio-Montenegrin alliance, which that journal declares would be a slap in the face to Hungary. It repudiates Andrassy's Bosnian policy. There are other and increasing reports of Hungarian discontent at the present situation.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The Standard's Vienna despatch gives a very different account of the alleged overtures for alliance. The Standard says Ristich, the Servian Premier, offered the co-operation of Servia, but it was declined, and the Vienna Cabinet have given it to be understood that they never entertained the idea of accepting such an arrangement.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 18.—An envoy from the Ameer of Afghanistan has arrived. The insurgents claim that the Austrians have been defeated near Zwornik and Tuzla.

SENECA, Mich., Sept. 18.—In March last, a log house occupied by Jno. Hurley was burned, and his son perished in the flames. Mrs. Hurley and her infant were fatally burned. Hurley and a boy who slept up stairs escaped. Last night Hurley was arrested on a charge of murder made by his father-in-law. The motive was probably illegitimate intimacy with his wife's unmarried sister, who now charges him with the paternity of her two children.

ELMORE, Mich., Sept. 18.—In the lumber camp of Wells & Co., an epidemic is raging. Doctors pronounce it black jaundice or yellow fever. One of the men was taken, no one would receive him, and the patient was placed under a tree in a drenching rain and soon died. The remains were buried under the tree.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 18.—There is a perceptible increase in activity about the Howard headquarters, and apparently no decrease in the number of cases, although the report of deaths is lighter, only 38 being reported up till noon, making 91 for the past 24 hours. Among the dead are two more volunteer physicians. The supply of coffins is running very low, and with great difficulty anything but rough boxes can be obtained even by people in good circumstances.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Arrived, the France from London.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 18.—Loss by the flood in Ashtabula county is $250,000.

A correspondent of the Paris Figaro describes the home of Victor Hugo, and the habits of the aged poet on the Island of Guernsey. He says he has a passion for photographs, and is constantly having himself taken in a variety of attitudes and dresses. Several of the pictures are described. For a week after reaching his island seclusion, the poet remained shut up and would see nobody. Since then he has been more rested and cheerful, and enjoys life with his family, but does little reading or writing. He rises late, spends some hours in riding in the afternoon, and dines at seven. He lives on a high street in the town of St. Peter, overlooking the sea, his abode being known as Hauteville House.

A Slight Cough that we are so apt to consider a mere annoyance and treat with correspoding neglect, too often proves to be the seed sown for an inevitable harvest—CONSUMPTION. Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. A teaspoonful of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime given whenever the Cough is troublesome, will afford immediate relief, and if perserved in will effect a cure even in the most obstinate cases.

Prepared solely by J. H. ROBINSON, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B.; and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six for $5.00. d&w-1m

TO THE PUBLIC.

MUCH IS BEING SAID just now in respect to Free Trade and Protection as affecting the interests of the country at large; some very wise things and some very absurd are advanced on both sides of the question. One thing, however, is certain beyond a doubt, and that is, whatever may be the individual's opinion, every one will seek to supply his personal wants where he can do so to the best advantage, and will buy where he can get the best article and at the lowest price, be it English, Dutch, Canadian or Chinese.

The greater part of our wearing apparel, especially ladies', comes from Great Britain, where they are masters of the manufacture of such fabrics as are needed, and wherever these goods may be bought in Canada, England is the original source of supply. Now any one can see that the fewer hands these pass through the better it is for the consumer, for, apart from the tariff question, the high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, each having to get his profit. The nearer the consumer and producer are brought together the better it is for both. It is because the public recognize this fact that so many merchants here as elsewhere are anxious to be considered Direct Importers who are not.

And here we beg to reiterate what we have before emphatically stated, that our firm are the only Importers of a general stock of Dry Goods in Belleville not buying through another house in Canada. This is shown conclusively by the Returns at the Custom House here, for all the British Goods entered at this Port have come to our store with the exception of a few packages.

We offer our customers all the advantages which our business connexions in Great Britain enable us to do, both in the price and quality of goods as well as in the style.

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains be taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of each of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the fathers surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially advance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half-page, $6.00; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that no pains or labor or efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

Building Societies Two Thousand Years Old.

Dr. John Henry Gray, in his "History of the Laws, Manners and Customs of the People of China," (London, 1878, page 84 of the second volume), describes certain money-lending societies common in China, which seem to partake in some measure of the character of building associations, at least in their co-operative and equitable features. He tells us that these societies are called Lee Woee, and were instituted by a person named Wong Kwong, an official of great wealth, who flourished 200 years before Christ, during the Hon dynasty. Some say he was a benovelent man, who acted on the principle that it was the duty of the rich to assist the poor, others, that he instituted them to provide a convenient investment of his money at a fair rate of interest. These societies are formed as follows: A person who is anxious to obtain a loan either to satisfy the demands of his creditors, to celebrate the nuptials of his sonf or to do honor to the funeral obsequies of his father, calls upon his relations and friends to form such a society. The first rule is that the company shall consist of a definite number of persons; that each member shall contribute an equal sum to the fund; that a meeting shall be held at the end of each quarter; that at each meeting all members must attend without regard to the state of the weather; that due notice of the meetings shall be given; that each meeting shall be held at the house of the president of the club, and that the sums contributed to the fund shall be carefully weighed by him. In case of the unavoidable absence of a member, he shall send a substitute. The second rule is that the borrower shall at each meeting pay back an instalment of the loan with interest at the rate per month previously agreed upon. The instalment shall be equal to the amount contributed by each individual to the fund in the first instance, the interest to be divided equally among the members of the club.

The third rule is that each member shall at each of the meetings contribute to the fund a sum equal to that which he contributed at the first meeting; that in order to give each an opportunity to borrow the collective amount thus formed, each shall deposit in a lottery box placed on the table a tender or bid, written in a legible hand, setting forth the additional rate of interest which he is disposed to pay on the amount in question; that the tenders or ballots shall be taken out of the box by the president, and the highest bidder takes the loan. Where two make a like bid, the first one bidding takes the loan. The fourth rule provides for a luncheon after the meeting, either at the president's house or at a neighboring tavern, each member contributing to the expense. The fifth rule provides each member with a book containing a copy of the minutes of each meeting, and enforces a fine of two mace per diem on arrears. In further illustration Dr. Gray says, "Should one of these societies consist of thirteen persons and should the loan required by the thirteen person be $36, each of the twelve remaining members is required to contribute $3 to the general fund, and the borrower is required to pay back at each subsequent meeting an instalment of $3, together with the interest, and as these meetings take place but once a quarter, three years must elapse before he can refund the loan. Each remaining member receives a loan re-payable in the same way. These money-lending clubs are sometimes formed by women, the rate of interest bid reaching as high as 25 per cent."

Table Refuse for Poultry.

First, a proper feeding-pail is an absolute necessity to successfully prepare the refuse of the table and kitchen, to make it proper food for fowls. Get a hard-wood pail, or ask your grocer for a hard-wood butter-firkin shaped like a pail. Cut a board to fit into the chine firmly on the bottom of of the pail, and thick enough to project an inch or more beyond the ends of the staves so that the pail may rest firmly on the bottom, instead of on the ends of the staves. Fasten it in place by a few nails driven through the staves into this false bottom, which may be of pine, as it is only to keep from bursting out the bottom of the pail by chopping in it. If you cannot get a hard-wood pail, put another false bottom of hard-wood inside of a pine pail, nicely fitted and secured like the under one. Grind the edge of a common spade sharp and you have an admirable chopping-knife, and will be surprised to see how quickly you can chop fine all scraps and waste of every kind, cooked or raw vegetables, chicken bones, and everything except beef, pork or mutton bones. These save by themselves and put into a stock soup-kettle, with all pieces of raw meat, or cheap meat from the market, and keep it on the kitchen stove as much of the day as you can induce your "better half" to let it remain. After boiling several days, some of these large bones will chop up fine with the other waste, and can be used as fast as they become soft. Chop up the waste each morning, adding meal and shorts enough for a breakfast for the flock. Scald the whole with the soup from the stock-kettle, adding one each week one of the following articles for each twenty-five hens: One teaspoonful pepper, six onions, one-half pint charcoal, one teaspoonful pure vinegar, and two teaspoonfuls of sulphur, etc. The above will produce a breakfast that will make your poultry-house and its occupants as lively and musical as a first class opera house.—American Poultry Yard.

In the Parliamentary Companion, Mr. McGreevy, claimed by the Globe as a Ministerialist, thus describes himself :—"A Conservative but perfectly independent of any Government, his policy being now what it has ever been—to do what he believes is most for the interests of the Dominion, and he will not bind himself to any person, nor ever did."

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and labored breathing, the demulcent properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime, manifests itself in its healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided reasserts herself, and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health.

Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00.

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

THROUGH THE DARK CONTINENT.

THE Sources of the Nile; around the Great Lake of Equatorial Africa and down the Livingstone River to the Atlantic Ocean.

BY HENRY M. STANLEY.

With portraits of the author, two large route maps and eight smaller ones, and 147 illustrations from photographs and sketches by Mr. Stanley, prepared expressly for the book. In one volume, demy 8vo., over 1,000 pages, cloth, $4 75.

The magnificent maps, two being 26 x 32 inches, enable the reader to follow every step of Mr. Stanley's wonderful journey.

THE PUBLIC ARE CAUTIONED

that the only book giving the complete history of the travels, explorations, important discoveries, and thrilling adventures of Mr. Stanley in Africa during 1874-1877 is now published, under the title which appears at the head of this advertisement as the Canadian COPYRIGHT EDITION.

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Explorations and Adventures of Stanley" have been advertised. They are a rehash of Livingstone and other old books of African travel and of Stanley's letters. The first is the Original spurious book published in Philadelphia, written by T. J. Hadley. The second is an inferior copy of the first. Both have mostly old illustrations. See that you get the genuine work written by Mr. Stanley. Each copy in cloth has a cut of the continent and the world "Africa" stamped on side.

Farmer Penniman's Dream.

BY MRS. E. M. STEWAT.

CONCLUDED.

The afternoon and evening passed off as usual on such occasions, with one exception The Penniman children had all faithfully tithed their nuts, popcorn and the money in their savings banks, and brought their gift to the children at the parsonage, and child-like, Robert told the story to a group of listening children, and some of larger growth.

"We are all tithed," said he; George gave his tithes in money—mother and Mabel brought butter and eggs and dried apples, and over so many cans of fruit, and father tithed everything in the cellar, and even tithed old Brindle, too."

"What is tithing? I don't know what you are talking about," said Willie Greene, the merchant's son.

"Why the Bible says folks must give to the lord one tenth of all they can raise on the farm," replied Robert. "Clara and I read it there last Sunday and that is just what we have been doing at our house. We have just begun, but we mean to keep on doing so all the time. I tell you, Henry Goodman, you'll get lots of eggs and chickens before summer is out, and I shouldn't wonder if you should get now and then a harvest apple. I have one tree that's all my own.

"That boy of yours has been telling quite a long story to the children about the tithing done at your house," remarked Mr. Stevens to Mr. Penniman when they went out after supper to attend to their teams. "Haven't you changed your mind lately?" he asked.

"Yes I have most essentially," replied Mr. Penniman, "but it is a long story; come to prayer meeting to-morrow evening and you shall hear about it."

Twenty minutes later everybody in the house knew that Mr. Penniman would explain the reason for the change in his feelings and practice at the next prayer-meeting and everybody had resolved to go to-morrow evening—not long to wait.

"Are you going to prayer-meeting to-night to hear Penniman tell his dream?" asked Mr. Greene the merchant of the first customer who made his appearance the next morning.

"Yes. I want to hear what he will; say it seem silly, though, to talk about a dream doing such wonders, for his donation was large for any one, and certainly wonderful for him."

"A dream!" sneered Mr. Greene, brushing his coat-sleeve; "conscience more likely."

"I don't know about that," was the reply; "Mr. Penniman is close, but he is honest, and true to his word—always pays when and what he agrees to pay; his subscription is always paid in advance, if possible."

So passed the day; in every house and in every shop and store the subject of tithing was thoroughly discussed, always concluding with a wise shake of the head and the sage remark: "The Penniman won't hold out long. No farmer can afford to give away one-tenth of what he raises, cattle and all." But they went to the prayer-meeting, each for once the cold cheerless little church was packed full.

Mr. Goodman opened the meeting as usual; and then remarked:—"Brethren and friends, I know you are anxious to hear the message which Brother Penniman brings us to-night, and we will listen to him now."

Slowly Mr. Penniman rose to his feet and looked around on the congregation. His face was deadly pale, and his lips quivered for a moment. Then, in a calm, distinct tone, he said:

"My first duty to-night is confession. I have frequently said, in the presence of many of you, my brethren, that our minister's salary was ample sufficient to support his family without donation parties; that he must be extravagant, or he would not get into debt. Now, that was all wrong; I am sorry for it, and ashamed of it. In the first place, the statement was not true, though I did not intend to falsify. I made the mistake which we farmers are apt to make; we only reckon our money outlay, and count as nothing what we consume.

"Yesterday I took my books and deducted the amount of family supplies I had sold from the amount produced on my farm last year, and I was surprised. Now, I only wonder how, with the closest economy, our pastor's family could live comfortably on his salary and our donations too. But if my assertion had been true to the letter, it was no business of mine how he spent the money he had honestly earned, any more than it is how any other man spends the money he earns. The only question for me, as a member of this church, to decide is whether Mr. Goodman's labors among us are worth the salary which we agree to pay. If so, my portion of his salary is to be paid promptly and fully, like any other debt, and he and his family left to the expenditure of the money, well and faithfully earned, without remark or hindrance. This shall always be my course toward him and every other pastor hereafter.

"Last Sunday I sat in my easy chair, listening to my wife and children as they read and conversed about the Jewish law of tithing, till I fell asleep with the very comfortable feeling that, for myself, I had brought all the tithes into the store-house—and I really believed it.

I dreamed that I went to the anticipated donation visit with my family, and carried about my usual donation—a bushel of flour, a bag of potatoes, a few pounds of pork, and a bag of apples—and I thought I had done well, for I was very sure the minister did not need even that with his salary.

"The evening passed as usual, we farmers talking of the crops of last year, and discussing our plans for the coming season. I was well satisfied to find, by comparison, how abundant mine had been.

"When I came in sight of my home that night I saw my well-filled barn in flames, my garnered treasures gone beyond hope of rescue. It was a terrible blow; and as I stood there hopless—for nothing could be done—and saw the product of my hard toil a great, blazing mass, how I wished I had given more of that burning wheat to my pastor. But it was too late now. I had only enough left for bread and for seed, a few bushels put in another barn for lack of room.

"It was summer; my oats were sown, my corn and potatoes planted, the cattle and sheep were in the pastures; but there was no rain. Day after day, the sun rose without a cloud, and night after night the moon and stars shone with undimmed beauty. So the summer months passed—not one drop of rain, no harvest. The winter came, and still no moisture for the thirsty earth. I had no grain in store, it had been burned; no hay for my cattle, the grass had not grown. The cattle died, one after another; and through the long winter it was fearful struggle to get bread to eat.

"Spring returned, and yet no rain. I had no grain to sow and others began to be in want. We grew weak and sick at heart. We were in the midst of what this country had never known—a real famine. Terror took hold of the soul, while hunger tormented the body.

"Day and night we prayed for relief, and the answer, always the same, echoed and re-echoed everywhere: 'Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, wherein have we robbed Thee? In tithes and offerings. Ye are cursed with a curse; for ye have robbed me, even this whole nation.'

"Summer's burning heat poured down upon us, and one after another my whole family sickened and died. Oh! the agony of watchword over sick-beds with nothing to alleviate their suffering! To see our dearest friends dying of starvation! Yet so my loved ones died, and I lived on. I buried them with my own hands, for the famine had taken all sympathy from the community, each was fully occupied with his own sorrow.

"Day after day I wandered through the rooms of my desolate home, and touched reverently the common things which their dear hands had used, and found some comfort in this indulgence of my sorrow.

"But even this poor solace was taken away from me. Another fiery tempest came, sweeping away every remaining vestige of my earthly possessions, and I fled before it. On, and on, and on, still flying, still pursued, never tiring, impelled by a terror indescribable, till—I know not how—I found myself in a deep gorge of a California mine. All around me lay broken fragments of rich gold-laden quartz the very earth beneath my feet seemed formed of golden sand, and on either side of the narrow valley the mountain rose, full of treasure. But all this wealth awakened no emotion, for yonder, trickling over the rocks, was water, pure cold water! Almost frantic with joy, I rushed toward it, but fell fainting ere my lips were moistened. I did not lose consciousness, but too weak with my utmost effort to drag myself onward, there I lay, with the lifegiving water almost within my reach!

"At last relief came; the miners gathered to the little grass plot for a way to eat their noonday meal. They seated themselves on the grass, made tables of the broken rocks, and spread out their bountiful repast. How delicious their food looked! I had not seen so much at one time for months. How I longed for the very crumbs that fell from their hands, yet I could not ask. It was not pride, but despair. All the ungrateful past of my life seemed to come up before me, the food I had carelessly wasted, or carelessly received, unmindful of the Giver. I never was hungry till this famine began, and now it seemed impossible for me ever to be fed. "Cursed with a curse" for my ingratitude and robbery of God! Oh, the thought was agony! A deep groan escaped my lips and discovered me to the miners. One brought me a cup of water, and others gave me food. What a luxury was that cold water! How delicious was that coarse but wholesome food! I ate and drank like the famished creature that I was, till fully satisfied, and my kind friends returned to finish their own repast, leaving me lying on the soft grass with a heart full of praise and thanksgiving.

"The miners were rough men, of many nationlties. Irish, Germans, Chinese, and profane, God-defying Americans, worked side by side. And as they sat in groups, enjoying their noon-day meal, I listened to their fearful profanity till my soul was sick within me. There I lay, all that long summer afternoon, living over the years of my past prosperous life, bemoaning my selfishness and thinking how little I had ever done to send the gospel to such as the men in the mines.

"But all the future was dead within me. What could a poor, bereaved, famine-stricken man do, only to pray for pardon and for death!

"At last the day was ended, and two of the kind miners, half led, half carried me to their camp, shared their evening meal and their scanty tent with me. My heart was full of gratitude, and, before seeking repose, I knelt to thank Him who had given such unexpected deliverance from famine and death.

"Scarcely had I laid down, when one of the men touched me on the shoulder, saying: 'Stranger, if you can pray won't you come and see a sick man just over here!'

"I rose and followed him, and there in a dirty tent, lay, and had lain, for weeks, tossing with fever and delirium, my once happy, innocent boy, my long-lost Harry. The fever had left him, and he was pale and exhausted, he seemed only waiting for the last heart-throb of a wasted life. Some of you, my friends, know what was the agony of sorrow which has lain on my heart for years, and may imagine the meeting and the sad recital I had to make. He said little of himself till I asked him of his spiritual state—his preparation for an exchange of worlds. An expression of anguish passed over his face. 'I am not ready—not prepared,' he exclaimed. 'All is lost, lost! Don't interrupt me,' he continued, as I was about to speak. 'I know what you would say. I know the way, but have lost the desire to walk there. I feel I am forever lost! Two years ago, he continued, 'there came to the mines a young Christian minister, full of life and enthusiasm, yet so gentle and blameless, so Christlike, that we must love him. He had a wonderful power over all, even the roughest, and I loved him as a brother. He remained with us a year, preaching, talking and praying, till profanity was banished, and many seemed almost persuaded. His second year's labors were scarcely begun, when news came from the Home Missionary Society, saying their treasury was empty, and they did not know how long it would be before they would be able to pay what remained due on his salary, and there were so many feeble churches needing a little help, so many new settlements to be occupied, that they could not continue his commission another year. His heart was full of grief. He loved those rough men. He would have gladly worked with his hands as did Paul, but had not the strength, nor could he live without the salary. The miners might have paid it, but they would not; they liked him, but he was a restraint upon them, and he left us. Father, I thought of home then, of those rich farms, those bountiful harvests, and those men and women professing so much love to Christ, yet neglecting to fully support their own minister, and doing nothing to give these poor miners the Bread of Life. I might have been a christian if young Hurd had remained here, but when he went away, I was angry with Christians, with God and myself. I went back to my old ways, and now I cannot repent.

"My poor boy sank back on his pillow exhausted; a deadly pallor overspread his face, his breath grew shorter and shorter, and in my agony at seeing him die thus without hope, I uttered a deep groan and awoke.

At first I could scarcely believe it possible that all I had passed through was but a dream, and then such a flood of contending emotions poured in upon my soul as almost overpowered me. I was indeed like one rescued from deepest misery, and put in possession of every needful blessing. How happy I was, how grateful for the sparing mercy of my heavenly Father! and never did I receive any worldly good with half the satisfaction that it gave me to know that God would accept a thank-offering at my hands. I was in haste to make the offering, for I feared the old lifelong selfishness would come back to trouble me,—and I could see that my wife had the same fear.

"But the offering was made, gladly and in good faith, by us both. During the few days that have intervened since then I have thoroughly investigated the subject of tithing, and it seems so reasonable, so right, indeed so very little to offer in return for our many mercies, that I only wonder I, a professedly Christian man, could so long have been blind to my duty and privilege.

"Just think of it, year after year, I have ploughed my fields and sowed the seed, utterly powerless to make one single seed germinate. I have planted orchards and could neither make the trees live nor the fruit grow. And every season God has given the sunshine and the dew, and the copious rain. And more wonderful still, He has constantly carried on that chemical process by which each plant has appropriated to itself the elements it needed for growth and perfection. Then, when the rich harvests have been gathered in, I have not brought to God a thank-offering of even one-twentieth of the fruits of the earth—and the little which I have doled out, I have called benevolence.

And all these years, men, like the miners in my dream, men from the corrupt nations of the Old World, whom God has sent to us for light; and our own people, somebody's sons every one of them, have been going down to eternal death unwarned and unwarned; while I, Cain-like have said in my heart, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' Oh, my brethren! God would be entirely just if he were to visit upon me all the horrors of that fearful dream.

"Yet He is long-suffering, and abundant in mercy, and His fearful denunciation is followed by the comforting words: 'Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now saith the Lord of Hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour out a blessing that there shall not be room enough to receive it!'

"I cannot recall the past; I can only pray God to forgive it; but most glad for the future, do I, from the depth of a greatful heart adopt Jacob's vow: 'Of all that Thou shalt give me, I will surely give me, I will surely give the tenth unto Thee.'"

A solemn hush pervaded that large assembly when Mr. Penniman ceased speaking, broken, at length, by Mr. Goodman's voice in prayer. A hymn was then sung, and the meeting closed.—Chicago Advance.

Highlanders in Cyprus.

The Glasgow Mail, recently commenting on the unhealthiness of the island of Cyprus, referred to the fact that the troops had been sent to garrison it at the most unfavorable season. As is usual, the 42nd Highlanders, who seem perpetually on the roster for foreign service in climes unhealthy, come in for the brunt of the affair. After doing their duty manfully in the Crimea, they were immediately despatched to India, where with another Highland regiment, the 92nd, they had hot work during the Mutiny. Somehow or other they missed Ayssinnia, but when Sir Garnet Wolseley was sent to humble the King of Ashantee, the Black Watch went with him, and suffered more from the pestiferous climate than from the slugs of King Coffee Calli's warriors. Now they are at Cyprus, after a sojourn in garrison in that baked brick, the island of Malta, and in spite of their sturdy qualities for hard work in any climate, are beginning to feel the change from the frying-pan to the fire. It is acknowledged by the Secretary of War that the sick list is large, fifty men of the 42nd being struck down with fever of one kind or another. A few days since it was stated upon authority that though many soldiers were invalided, no fatal case had occurred. This is no longer the case, a veteran sergeant of the 42nd, who had served with his battalion for many years, and won the Victoria Cross in Ashantee, being on the list of fatal casualties. The fact is, our brave troops are suffering greatly, the minor measure of which may be estimated by the fact that the Highlanders are obliged to abjure the kilt by night, and clothe themselves in trousers against the insect plague which infests their present quarters. The Cyprus fever is by no means a mild one, even though it be simply of the genus-malaria common to all the low-lying coasts of Levantine islands.

A Pastoral Millionaire.

The designation of the pastor, given for ages to the ministers of the Christian churches derive its signification from the frequent scriptural allusions to men as sheep of the eternal fold. Literally the world means a feeder of sheep or a shepherd. In this literal sense the Right Rev. Dr. Tyrell, Anglican bishop of Newcastle, Australia, has been a pastor with such a degree of success as to have laid up for himself much treasure on earth, and that too, without any apparent neglect of the souls committed to his charge. Bishop Tyrell has lived in Australia over thirty years, and in that time has been engaged extensively in sheep and wool raising. As a result he has accumulated an immense fortune, and, being a bachelor of seventy he intends to bequeath the sum of $1,900,000 for charitable uses. He will devolve $150,000 to the bishopric, $50,000 to increase the incomes of archdeacons and canons, $500,000 for clerical stipend, $25,000 for superannuated clergymen $25,000 for sick clergymen, $125,000 for an additional supply of clergy, and $200,000 for education.

No friends have a perfect suitableness to each other, and roughness and inequalities that are nearest us are most troublesome. The wonderful variety and contrariety of apprehension, interests, temperaments, occasions and temptations are such that, while we are scandalized at the discord and confusions of the world, we must recall ourselves, and admire that all ruling Providence which keepeth up so much order and concord as there is.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, SEPT. 19.

Some Results of the Election.

Now that the heat of the conflict is over, and the dust raised by the combat has begun to subside, the time is favorable for a glance over the field of battle.

The first result which becomes apparent to those who look over the returns is that the Grit party has been terribly—disastrously—beaten in Ontario, the premier Province of the Dominion. A summing up of the returns shows that there have been chosen by the people 60 Conservatives, 25 Grits, and 1 Independent (Mr. Brown, of West Hastings), Algoma and Muskoka, the two remaining constituencies, have not yet elected their representatives, but will doubtless choose members who will support the Conservative Government that will shortly be formed, so that the count may fairly be taken as 63 Conservatives to 25 Grits. Thus in the contest which has just closed the Conservative party have gained the greatest triumph ever won by any party in Ontario, their gain being 36 votes in the Province.

Passing on to the returns from Quebec, which are at the time of writing not fully completed, it is found that the tidal wave of public opinion has also overwhelmed the corruptionists. The Conservatives reckoned on electing 40 members, but in the 60 constituencies heard from they elect 42 to 18 of their opponents, and the almost absolute certainty is that they will carry 4 of the remaining 5, thus placing the strength of the parties at 46 and 19 respectively, a Conservative gain of 12.

Nova Scotia returns 14 Conservatives to 7 Grits, a gain ot 12.

New Brunswick elects 5 Conservatives and 11 Reformers, which is a gain to neither party.

Prince Edward Island, which was represented in the last Parliament by 5 Reformers and 1 Conservative, returns now a solid Conservative delegation of 5, and only one Grit, which is a clear gain of 4 to the Opposition.

Taking it for granted that the Reformers will return 1 member each in British Columbia and Manitoba, which Provinces have not yet held their elections, the strength of parties in the next House will be as follows:—Conservatives, 142; Reformers, 64; or a Conservative majority of 78. This majority, though overwhelming, will be increased rather than decreased, as we confidently predict the redemption of East Hastings and Niagara as the result of protest which will be made. With such a majority to sustain him, Sir John A. Macdonald will be able to give effect to the views he has enunciated upon the trade question, and to carry out such other measures as his matured experience and that of the able men whom he will summon as colleagues may show to be necessary and advisable in the interest of the country.

Another result of the election is the defeat of a large number of the prominent men of both parties. No less than four members of the Mackenzie Administration have suffered defeat, and of the most prominent of their supporters who have gone to the wall may be mentioned Messrs. Blake, John Macdonald, Young, Dymond, (editor of the Globe) G. W. Ross, Irving, Wood, Blain, Frechette, Langlois, Devlin, Power, Goudge, Carmichael, Dawson, Appleby and DeVerber. The Opposition losses number but ten, but amongst these are some of the most prominent men of the party, including Sir John A. Macdonald (who will not, however, be long without a seat), Mitchell, Plumb, the brothers Gibbs, and Mr. White, the latter of whom has been cheated but not fairly beaten, and will again sit for East Hastings in the fourth Parliament.

Another result of the election is the accession to the Conservative ranks in the House of such men of national reputation as the Hon. S. L. Tilley of New Brunswick, the Hon. James McDonald of Pictou, N. S., the Hon. William Macdougall, the Hon. C. J. Coursol, of Montreal, Thos. White, of the Montreal Gazette, the Hon. John Carling, the Hon. John O'Connor. In addition to these, we may fairly expect the return of the Hon. A. Morris in Manitoba. Of men less known, but coming with high reputations we may mention Messrs. McLennan of Glengarry, Tasse of Ottawa, Shaw of South Bruce, Burnham of East Peterborough, Rykert of Lincoln, Cockburn of West Northumberland, Bunting of Welland, and others who will be found to be able debaters and practical legislators whose services will be of great value to the country. There is thus no doubt that the Conservative party in the next House will be composed of a host of able men who will much more than make up for the loss of those who have been unfortunately defeated at the polls.

Other results of the election have been the annihilation of the corrupt Provincial Government of Nova Scotia, which met its fate on the same day as the Dominion Government, which it did all in its power to assist. The dismemberment of the Government of Prince Edward Island, which was caused by the the interference of its head in Dominion politics.

Still another result of the elections will be the resignation of the Joly Government in Quebec, which had linked its future with those of Mr. Mackenzie's "organized hypocrisy," and whose purchased majority of one (the Speaker) will not enable it to continue to administer the affairs of the country.

And yet one more result will be the accession to the Conservative strength of that large number of "loose fish" who are always on the side of the Government of the day, and who keep a sharp look-out for favors. Many of these have already transferred their allegiance, and declare that Sir John was not so bad a fellow after all, and that they wish him success. No doubt the kindly expressions of these people will be appreciated as they deserve. We also look for a flop-over of a number of unprincipled newspapers which turned towards Mr. Mackenzie when the rays of his rising sun began to warm them, and basked in his favor during the sunshine of his prosperity. Now that his sun is about to set in darkness and gloom, these patriotic instructors of the public will turn their backs upon the cold shades and fawn upon those whom for five long years they have painted in the blackest of colors.

And such are a few of the results which have flowed and are certain to result from the elections. Greatest of all is that the people of Canada have declared that they will have the country governed in their own interests and that they will not continue to be commercially dependent on the Yankees.

THE NEW GOVERNOR GENERAL.—An extra official Gazette contains a despatch from Downing Street, announcing that the Marquis of Lorne would reach Canada in the beginning of November, and intimating a desire that Lord Dufferin would continue to administer the Government to within as short a period of his arrival as might be consistent with his convenience.

MR. THOMAS WHITE, M. P.—The Montreal Star says:—"The news of Mr. White's success has given the greatest satisfaction and pleasure to his hosts of friends in this city, and it has been resolved to give him a testimonial dinner at the Windsor Hotel on Monday next. A grand torchlight reception is also contemplated on his arrival at the Bonaventure depot on Thursday evening. No man deserves better of his party and country than Mr. White, who has fought a brave fight under difficulties that would have crushed many another man."

CABINET COUNCIL AT OTTAWA.—An Ottawa despatch to the Mail says:—The Ministers who are left held a Cabinet Council to-day. Mr. Mackenzie intimating his intention of resigning forthwith. The Premier is absolutely paralyzed by the result. He anticipated being elected by at least 500 for Lambton, and counted on a majority of twelve in Ontario, and majorities everywhere except in Quebec, conceding that Province by eight to the Opposition. He announced his intention of going to Quebec to-night and resigning at once, refusing to make any more appointments or superannuations, although he is hard pressed by a large number, and may possibly change his policy in that direction. The Ministerialists are terribly crest fallen, and offer no reasons for the terrible defeat sustained. Sir John Macdonald will immediately be called on to form a Ministry."

CELEBRATING the VICTORY.

Grand Turn-out of the Conservatives of Belleville.

A Magnificent Torchlight Procession.

SPEECHES BY MESSRS. BOWELL, WALLBRIDGE, WHITE, AND OTHERS.

Yesterday afternoon it was announced by handbills and in the columns of the INTELLIGENCER, that a torchlight procession would take place in honor of the great victory which the Conservative party had won throughout the country. Although the notice was very short, yet the enthusiasm of the members of the party was so great that there was an immense turn-out of torch-bearers and of vehicles, whilst the streets were early lined with thousands of spectators.

Shortly after 7 o'clock the torchbearers began to assemble on the market square, whilst a large number of carriages and omnibuses, probably not fewer than one hundred, also assembled, there and on Front Street, all being packed to their utmost capacity. Messrs. W.M. Power and T. J. B. Purdy, who were the chief Marshals of the occasion, and who were ably assisted by Messrs. L. Hyman, C. Gillen, John Taylor, jr., and J. Strachan, after a good deal of difficulty got the immense procession into order, and the march was started at a few minutes before 8 o'clock.

The route of the procession, which comprised we should judge about 1,500 persons, including upwards of 200 torchbearers, was down Front Street to Pinnacle via Dundas, up Pinnacle to Bridge, thence to Front and up to Church; down Church the procession proceeded and back to Bridge Street to Mr. Bowell's residence corner of William and Bridge, and back to the market square via Bridge and Front Streets. The scene along the route was picturesque and beautiful in the extreme. What with the hundreds of torches lighted up the night, the constant discharge of fireworks from the procession, the illumination of a number of business and residences, and the hearty cheers of the processionists and many sympathizers not in the ranks, and the animation imparted to the event by thousands of ladies and gentlemen who thronged the sidewalks all along the route, the sight was one of the most brilliant and inspiring ever seen in Belleville. An idea of the extent of the procession may be gathered from the fact that it filled Front Street from the Lower to the Upper Bridge. Despite the fact that the notice was so short, a number of Conservatives had illuminated their dwellings and places of business. Amongst these we observed Messrs. Pitcaithly & Kelso's large building on Bridge Street, which was lit up from floor to roof. The rooms of the Conservative Association were decorated with Chinese lanterns. Mrs. Wallbridge's residence on Bridge Street was illuminated, as were also those of Messrs. Thos. Wills, Geo. D. Dickson, John G. Moore, Maurice Buckley, John A. Phippen, Mrs. Herchimer, Dr. James, E. Pallpot, Wesley Bullen, Hugh Walker Centre Block, J. A. Campion, J. W. Johnson, J. T. Lattimer, Jno. Hodge, J. Jenkins, Mr. Sintzel, and others, and the arch on Church Street was hung with Chinese lanterns. Mr. Bowell's grounds were beautifully lit up with Chinese lanterns, as were those of Mr. George Wallbridge, and Mr. Henry Corby's residence was illuminated, the effect in all cases being very fine.

At Mr. Bowell's the procession was joined by Mr. T. C. Wallbridge's carriage with two outriders, in which were seated Messrs. M. Bowell, member elect for North Hastings, Mr. John White and the Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, who were greeted with hearty cheers, a round of which were also given to Mr. Corby, as one of the old, faithful and prominent adherents of the party.

Arrived at the market square, Messrs. Bowell, Wallbridge and White, accompanied by a number of their most active supporters, ascended the steps on the east end of the market building, and the people having gathered there, filling the vast square, the proceedings were begun by

Mr. EUGENE MCMAHON, who stated that in the absence of the President of the Liberal Conservative Association, he as one of the Vice-Presidents, had been called upon to preside. He would first introduce to them Mr. Bowell, the member elect for North Hastings and coming Minister of Militia. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. BOWELL, on coming forward, was again cheered. He said that the contest which he had just gone through had been one not of a political nature, but of venomous personal attacks, which had for their object the blasting of his character and the destruction of his private reputation. For eleven years he had represented the people in Parliament, but they had been unable to put their finger on one vote of his which they had dared to attack. He had been assailed in a personal sense by almost every Grit lawyer in Belleville, whom his opponent had imported for that purpose, and who did their best to blind the people to the political issues of the day by vilifying and misrepresenting his personal character. Their newspaper organ had pursued the same course, and whilst as an old newspaper man he did not object to sharp attacks on his political course, he should leave the courts to deal with the slanders which had been aimed at him with the intention of defaming his reputation as a man. (Loud cheers.) He heartily rejoiced with them over the defeat of the Government, which had been the most corrupt that ever ruled Canada, having committed even the great crime of subsidizing the Speaker in his chair, in compensation for his not receiving a Cabinet office, which certain Maritime Province Liberals were too illiberal to allow him to have on account of his religious belief. (Applause.) The verdict of the people had been in favor of Sir John A. Macdonald, who was the the ablest statesman in Canada, and who would, although defeated in Kingston, get a seat ere many days and be called upon to form an administration. After some further remarks Mr. Bowell concluded admist cheers.

The President then introduced the Hon Lewis Wallbridge as the rightly chosen member for West Hastings.

Mr. WALLBRIDGE, whose reception was very cordial, said he had been defeated, because his opponent had more money than he had, and had not scrupled to use it. Two days before the election he had a majority of electors in his favor, but there was a sudden change, which had been brought about by Mr. Brown's money bags. He cordially joined with them in celebrating the victory which assured the return to power of Sir John A. Macdonald, our ablest statesman. This victory he felt was largely due to the rebound of public sentiment, the people finding that they had been unjust in condemning Sir John for the Pacific Scandal transaction, and wishing now to make amen la for their former haste. For his part, he had always held Sir John blameless in the matter, as he had not expended any public money in the elections but only that of his private friends, voluntarily contributed. (Applause.) But supposing that Sir John had done wrong, there was the "Big Push" of the real leader of the Grits, which was a transaction of precisely a similar character. (Applause.) He thought that the Government had been condemned for incapacity rather than for any great wrong they had done, although no doubt they had been guilty of a good deal of corruption. They had expended already on the Pacific Railway one half of the total amount which the whole road was to cost under the scheme of the late Government, and yet we had no road in operation. That was incompetence. The Fort Francis look affair was another evidence of incompetence. The Government had had no policy to offer—they had declared that they could no more affect the depression of the country than a fly on a wheel could govern the movements of the wheel on which it sat. (Laugher.) Mr. Mackenzie had no policy, for which fact alone he was worthy of condemnation, and the Opposition had offered a policy—that of a readjustment of the tariff in the direction of protection to home manufactures—which the people had pronounced good and had accepted by an overwhelming majority. (Applause.) He had no doubt that, now that Sir John Macdonald was returned to power, numbers of independents and other loose fish who had lately opposed him would telegraph to him to congratulate him on his success, and otherwise show themselves to be first class political acrobats. (Applause—A Voice—"They have already done so.") Yes, he would not be at all surprised if they were already with us, and he ventured to say that if Mr. Brown went to Parliament he would give his support to the Government of the day—he had not force of character to go into the cold shades of opposition on principle. (Applause.) After quoting Mr. Goldwin Smith's opinion of Sir John Macdonald as the ablest of Canadian statesmen and making some further pertinent remarks, Mr. Wallbridge closed his speech, being heartily applauded on doing so.

The President next introduced Mr. John White, who, he ventured to assert, would again be member for East Hastings before the snow flies.

Mr. WHITE was received with a hearty round of cheers. He said he was not defeated but cheated, as had the ballots been counted fairly instead of by sixteen Deputy Returning Officers opposed to him, would have been apparent. He intended to have those ballots counted fairly, and he intended to show in court the illegal measures resorted to in order to defeat him. A new election would be held, and he would be elected, despite of Mr. Rathbun and all his influence, before the snow flies, as his friend, Mr. McMahon, had stated. (Applause.) He would tell them why he would be elected. It was because he would have the power of two Governments at his back. He had always had to fight the two Governments, and had beaten them; but this time they had succeeded in cheating him out of his election. It would now be sweet to him to have all that influence which had been exerted against him brought forward in his favor. (Applause.) The people of East Hastings did not want any man's servant to represent them in Parliament. They wanted no man who had not the brains and the energy and the pluck to be his own master. (Applause.) He wished to go to Parliament to support his friend Bowell, and to aid in carrying out the National Policy, and he would sit there next session despite the miserable unfortunate Grit organ here, and Mr. Rathbun, his mules, and his sawdust. (Loud cheers.)

Messrs. E. B. FRALECK and Geo. D. DICKSON were also introduced and spoke briefly, and the gathering, after giving rounds of cheers for the Queen, Sir John A. Macdonald, and Messrs. Bowell, Wallbridge, and White, dispersed at 10 o'clock.

VISITING ANTS.—This peculiar species of ants exist at Surinam. They march in troops, with the same regularity as a large and powerful army. As soon as they appear, all the coffers and chests of drawers in the house are set open for them, as they are sure to exterminate all the rats and mice and other noxious animals, acting as if they had a peculiar commission from nature to destroy them. The only misfortune is, they pay their visits too seldom; they would be welcomed every month, but they do not appear sometimes for three years together.

THE QUEEN BEE.—Roaumur relates the following anecdote of which he has witnessed: A queen bee, and some of her attendants, were apparently drowned in a brook. He took them out of the water, and found that neither the queen bee nor her attendants were quite dead. Reaumur exposed them to gentle heat, by which they were revived. The plebeian bees recovered first. The moment they saw signs of animation in their queen, they approached her, and bestowed upon her all the care in their power, licking and rubbing her; and when the queen had acquired sufficient force to move, they hummed aloud as if in triumph!

Barnum's Fat Woman.

No circus is now considered complete unless it has an enormously fat woman in a side tent. As Barnum has the "greatest show on earth," he of course has the fattest woman. Yet of the thousands of curious people who annually visit this monstrosity, few ever reflect that her obesity is a disease. Until very recently there was no known remedy for this abnormal condition. Allan's Anti-Fat has proved more efficacious than even the most sanguine hopes of its discoverer had anticipated. By its use even Barnum's fat woman could be reduced to graceful and even delicate proportions. Sold by druggists.

DODGE CITY, KANSAS, Sept. 19.—Fifteen cattlemen and company 1 of the Fourth Cavalry fought a band of Indians yesterday, 35 miles south of Dodge. One or two Indians were killed, and one soldier wounded. The military fell back. The Indians went north-west. The Indians have stolen a great many horses within a few days.

TOPKA, KANSAS, Sept. 19.—Two or three houses three miles west of Dodge City were fired yesterday, prob ably by the Cheyennes.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The Herald says President Diaz has accepted the resignation of Senor Zamacona as Minister to the United States. He will probably be made Diaz's Secretary of State.

Adolph Hoffman was arraigned yesterday, for marrying six women. He married in order to swindle them of their money.

An English chancery commission has arrived to take testimony in the noted Erie suits.

A Slight Cough that we are so apt to consider a mere annoyance and treat with corresponding neglect, too often proves to be the seed sown for an inevitable harvest—CONSUMPTION. Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. A teaspoonful of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime given whenever the Cough is troublesome, will afford immediate relief, and if perservered in will effect a cure even in the most obstinate cases.

Prepared solely by J. H. ROBINSON, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B.; and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six for $5.00. d&w-1m

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

CALCUTTA, Sept. 19.—It is reported that the King of Burmah is dead.

HAVRE, Sept. 19.—Gambetta at Romans on Wednesday said the resignation of MacMahon would involve no danger to the Republic. His successor would be immediately nominated, and there would be competition, and he said he probably will resign. He ought not and cannot. Gambetta eulogized the army, condemned clericalism, recommended state protection for education, and declared himself opposed to the conversion of the 5 per cent rentes, a declaration which accounts for the rise in rentes.

BATON ROUGE, LA., Sept. 19.—Ex-Governor Sam Bard, died last night of yellow fever. Over forty deaths to date. Many new cases. Disease more malignant.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—It is stated that the International Exposition will be prolonged to the 20th of November, to give an opportunity for the sale of exhibits, and that the drawing of lottery prizes, which include many articles on exhibition, will also be postponed to the 20th of November. The influx of visitors is again very large, all the hotels and boarding houses being full.

YONKERS, N. Y., Sept. 19.—George Moore, Principal of Grammar School No. 8, of New York City, committed suicide with a pistol to-day.

CAIRO, Ill., Sept. 19.—A telegram from Hackman gives a more favorable report. 4 new cases yesterday. No deaths. No cases in Cairo.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 19.—At a wedding party in this city early this morning, Richard Ray, father of the bridegroom, was dangerously shot by the groomsman Roughs stoned the house. Ray and others went out to drive them off. The groomsman fired at the roughs and hit Ray.

KEY WEST, Fla., Sept. 19.—The American brig Alex Nichols, Peacock, is stranded on the Florida coast. She is a total loss. The first mate, cook and one seaman were drowned.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 19.—On Tuesday at the National Bank, Baltimore, $287,000 in bonds and $37,000 cash were stolen from Mr. Colborne, President of the Mount Vernon Cotton Mills and director of the above mentioned bank. The robbery occurred in broad day light.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Sept. 19.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region, fresh to brisk southeasterly to southerly winds and partly cloudy weather with rain areas. For the St. Lawrence, fresh southerly to easterly winds and partly cloudy to cloudy weather, with rain areas. For the Maritime Provinces, moderate winds and clear to partly cloudy weather.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Indications:—warmer, hazy, followed by partly cloudy weather.

TO THE PUBLIC.

MUCH IS BEING SAID just now in respect to Free Trade and Protection as affecting the interests of the country at large: some very wise things and some very absurd are advanced on both sides of the question. One thing, however, is certain beyond a doubt, and that is, whatever may be the individual opinion, every one will seek to supply his personal wants where he can do so to the best advantage, and will buy where he can get the best article and at the lowest price, be it English, Dutch, Canadian or Chinese.

The greater part of our wearing apparel, especially ladies', comes from Great Britain, where they are masters of the manufacture of such fabrics as are needed, and wherever these goods may be bought in Canada, England is the original source of supply. Now any one can see that the fewer hands these pass through the better it is for the consumer, for, apart from the tariff question, the high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, each having to get his profit. The nearer the consumer and producer are brought together the better it is for both. It is because the public recognize this fact that so many merchants here as elsewhere are anxious to be considered Direct Importers who are not.

And here we beg to reiterate what we have before emphatically stated, that our firm are the only Importers of a general stock of Dry Goods in Belleville not buying through another house in Canada. This is shown conclusively by the Returns at the Custom House here, for all the British Goods entered at this Port have come to our store with the exception of a few packages.

We offer our customers all the advantages which our business connexions in Great Britain enable us to do, both in the price and quality of goods as well as in the style.

Aug. 8.

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with lace, Town and Township in the County, with each Street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive intermation will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half-page, $6.00; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

What is done with Buttermilk.

A young lady from the city, boarding for the summer at a farm house on the borders of Delaware County, visited the dairy attached and watched the country maid in her toil with marked attention.

"Your task is a laborious one," she remarked to the girl.

"Sooth, lady," was the reply.

"Nature is indeed wonderful in her workings," continued the lady. "Observe the green grass in the fields, and in a short time it is converted into milk, and from milk to butter."

"Yes'm."

"Honey is a strange anomaly also. Observe the little bee wandering from flower to flower extracting the sweetness therefrom, and depositing it in the globular form into the comb."

"Yes'm."

"After the formation of butter I am told the milk is termed buttermilk."

"Yes'm."

"Is there sufficient nutriment in it to be of practical use?"

"Yes'm."

"If I am not exhausting your patience, may I ask what use is made of the buttermilk?"

"We feed some of it to the hogs, and what's left we feed to the boarders."

How Joe Lost His Bet.

An old fellow named Joe Poole, very eccentric, and an incorrigible stutterer, was a constant lounger in at a tavern in Waterford, Maine.

One day a traveller from a distant part of the state arrived at the tavern, and was met by an old acquaintance, a resident of the town. After some conversation on different topics, the traveller was addressed as follows:

"By the way, Brown, look out for our old friend Joe Poole to-night. You will know him quick enough by his stammering. He will be sure to come, and offer to bet that you've not got a whole shirt on your back. If you take him up you will surely lose by a trick he's got. He invariably offers to lay this wager, and always wins."

"Very well," said the traveller, "I will not let him get ahead of me. Much obliged for the caution.

The evening arrived, and a large crowd collected in the bar-room. Our friends there, and old Joe Poole was present and in his element.

"I tell you wh-what. You are nicely dressed, but I'll bet you ten you haven't got a whole shirt on your back."

"I'll take the bet," said the stranger.

"Put the money in the landlord's hands."

This being done, the traveller pulled off his coat, and was about following suit with his vest, when old Joe cried out:

"Ho ho hold on I You've lost. Ha-ha! your shirt is in fr-front, and the other half is on your ba-back."

There was a roar of laughter, but the new-comer did not mind it; he pulled off his vest, too, and quietly turning to Joe, displayed to his astonished gaze a shirt neatly folded and placed under his suspenders.

Of course the laugh was turned upon Poole, who acknowledged that he had lost the wager. He never offered to bet again.

AN UNPUBLISHED LETTER OF JAMES WATT.—David, sixth Earl of Buchan, is remembered for his eccentricity and amusing personal vanity. There are many racy anecdotes of him in Lockhart's "Life of Scott," and also in Dr. Charles Rogers' several works on Scottish humor. In reference to his lordship, a Russian nobleman (who is one of the greatest living collectors of British and other autographs) communicates to a friend the following extract from a letter in his possession, addressed by the famous James Watt to Sir Francis Ghrebby:—"I shall be obliged to you to send a cast of my bust to my very good friend James Russel, Esq., St. Andrew's Square, Edinburgh, by the first Leith smack, and in a fortnight or three weeks after, to send another cast to the Right Hon. the Earl Buchan, George street, Edinburgh; and charge both to my account, with advice to me when you send off each cast. I should not have thought it right to send the latter, but he badgered Mrs. Watt out of a promise, and I wish Mr. Russel, who is my very ancient friend, to be served before His Lordship has been able to blazon through the whole town how very intimate he is with the illustrious original!" Lord Buchan encouraged Sir David Brewster in his early studies; and, in after life, the latter used to relate that as he was becoming known by his contributions to the scientific journals, the Earl remarked to a friend, "David writes good papers; he closely expresses the ideas which I gave him from time to time." This, and other kindred anecdotes, enables us to understand the naivete of the above Watt's amusing letter to the sculptor.—Scotch Paper.

Sometimes persons are very fond of a particular kind of food, and yet as sure as they eat it discomfort is experienced. Use it less and less every day until you come to an amount which is not followed by any discomfort whatever; that amount is healthy for you, and since you know it may be because the system needs some of the elements which it contains.

The funny man of the Fulton Times has been a boy sometime. He says: "Nothing will so emphatically grab a man by remembrance's coat collar, and haul him back to childhood's time, as to suddenly come upon a half-caressed youth nestling behind the rushes on the edge of a swimming pond, sadly chewing the knots out of his shirt sleeves."

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and labored breathing, the demulcent properties of Robertson's Hypophosphites Compound of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime manifests itself in its healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided, recovers herself and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health.

Prepared solely by J. E. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w-1m

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as Boschee's German Syrup for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from German, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Deny it who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets.

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your preju ice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

The Princess Alice.

She Went Down In an Instant With Her Eight Hundred.

Thrilling Account of This Frightful Disaster.

(Correspondence of the N. Y. Times.)

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The Princess Alice returned after a successful and pleasant day. It was about eight o'clock when she was off North Woolwich. The band was playing and a number of the excursionists were singing. Some of the children were asleep in their mothers' arms. Most of the passengers were on deck. Many were, however, below in the saloon. Suddenly, at the bend of the river known as Tripcock's Point, the iron screw collier Bywell Castle appeared. Fate had started the great, ugly vessel on its diabolical mission. "Hi! where are you coming to?" shouted the captain of the Princess Alice. There was no time for reply, no time for precautions. The collier cut away the paddle-wheel steamer amidships, and literally cut her in two. The scence which followed is beyond description. The passengers who were not immediately overwhelmed crowded the stern of the stricken vessel, which, however, at once keeled over and went down. From 700 to 800 men, women and children were thrown into the river, some engulfed with the ship, others struggling with the tide. "I saw what was coming," said one poor fellow whom I talked with at the scene of the wreck; "I saw it, but I'd no idea we should be cut down as if we were tinder, though I made a leap for it a second or so after we were struck, and soon found myself in the midst of hundreds of shrieking and drowning people. I tried to save a woman, but we got separated, and I was nearly drowned by a man who got hold of my arm. Some had got hold of ropes they threw to them out of the collier steamer, and were crying 'Mercy!' 'Save me!' 'Lord save me!' I pushed a life buoy to a child and a woman who were just going down with it, but it was dark, and I only saw them by some light; I don't know where it came from; and then it seemed dark altogether; I think I got funked, and I was picked up. But of all the heartrending scenes the first part—when the steamer went down—I shall remember the dying day." A few persons managed to scramble on board the Bywell Castle. Some boats from shore put off, and in a few minutes the Duke of York, another passenger steamer, came up, and the work of rescue began; but the tide had carried off scores of drowning and drowned; many had gone down with the vessel, and of those which the boats now commenced to pick up a great many of them were women and children, and the mothers would cling to the little 'uns, and so as a matter of fact they'd drown each other. One of the women as was saved said she had her child in her arms the minute before, and it was washed away. There's gents as has lost their wives and children, and wives as has lost their husbands and little 'uns; there's families as have gone down together; there's some as is divided, half saved, half drowned. One man has lost all his family, and vice versa, so has one woman; it's most awful and peculiar how the misfortune's worked; and I don't know who's most to be pitied, them as is gone, or them as is left behind. I never see so much crying and praying and misery, and never hope to again." The strong fellow turned to get into his boat again, heaving a sigh as he went, and then dropping down stream joined the other craft in the search for bodies. The Chance barge was lying near the scene of the collision. The Captain's name is Handley. Questioned about the catastrophe, his story was to this effect: "It was 7:45, as near as I can make out. I heard an awful crash, then screams and shouting and cries of 'Help, Help!' Looking out I saw that there had been a collision. I put out a boat, and with my mate, Wm. Robinson, rowed to the spot. There was light enough here and there to see what was going on from the ships and other lights about, and the river was full of heads, most of them women's, their hair streaming in the water. There were more women than men; some of them were screaming, some drowning, flinging up their arms and going down; others were clinging to seats and other things and some a crying man grabbed our boat. We dragged him in. 'Twenty pounds to save my life!' shouted another. The money made no difference to us it was first come first saved. We got hold of him, but he was very heavy. As we pulled him in two boys floated past, and they were close to us, looking so appealing and scared. We were soon after them and got them into the boat. Then the daughter of the Superintendent of the boat company, we seized her and soon had her aboard; but our boat was so small; we could have done more good, ever so much, if we had had a large boat. We were too full now, so we made for shore, but two more men came along and after a good deal of tugging we hauled the poor creatures in. They were well dressed—gold watches and chains hanging to them—but poor things, they were dead; so we pulled in with the quick and the dead and had to bail out, I can tell you, and it's a mercy we hadn't sunk with our load." When the news was published in London this morning it was reported by the journals that the Bywell Castle had gone on after the collision, and had rendered no assistance. The Captain's name excited a howl of execration among the excited people on the wharves and elsewhere, though many quiet, sober river-side men simply said they didn't believe it, and when the later editions came out, the question of what the colliding vessel did was treated doubtfully. Inquiries at Woolwich among the survivors, however, soon re-established the reputation of the Tyneside captain, who is spoken of by many of the saved as having done all he could.

The Princess Alice has no log-narrative of the business, and her captain went down with his ship; but one of his officers, named Rand, made the following statement:—"We were on the top of Halfway Reach when we saw a screw ship coming down. We whistled, and the screw starboarded her helm. We then starboarded ours. The screw was 300 yards off when Capt. Grinstead gave orders to stop engines and turn her astern. The screw came straight into us and sunk us. I caught the screw's chains and got aboard of her. They threw out ropes and things to the passengers in the water."

To me, said a local mariner of Woolwich "I don't know as anybody's to blame: them darned pleasure boats has no business out after dark; the point at the bend is awful dangerous; it was here about as the Metis and Wentworth had the awful bad collision some years ago; and the tide was pretty stiff, which you will understand when you are trying to put a vessel suddenly about. Fact is these vessels wouldn't see each other's lights where they was outside the bend until they was nearly on each other, and in a moment like that the tridingest mistake is good bye to you." This is a fair representative opinion, though there are men who loudly blame Harrison, and who equally denounce Grinstead, who a few minutes before the collision, they say nearly had a barque run into him.

DRAMATIC AND TRAGIC INCIDENTS.

As I walked home in the evening, taking a round-about cut from an underground station, I met the Treasurer of the Savage Club. "I have just passed a hotel," he said "in Camden Town, belonging to which father, mother and five children have been drowned in the Princess Alice. Two of my children were to have gone down with a friend on that excursion. A governess with her school class are lost, and a poor old lady who was taking out some female pensioners for a day's outing. Is brings it home to us, these calamities so near to London." I told him I had just been talking to Burnand, of Punch, who was in the train following that which was wrecked at Sittingbourne, and that if I had accepted an invitation to visit Albery, who is staying at Ramsgate, I should have returned to London, most probably, by the fatal train. Many who are in town just now have had escapes more or less, for Ramsgate is a favorite resort, and lots of men slip on board the Thames steamers for a blow. "I might have been on board that steamer," said an artist, "but it was a little late, and seemed very full, and I concluded to go the other way, and spent the afternoon at Kew." I gather the following incidents from the journals: The first picture of the spot half an hour after the calamity was bad enough. "Some half dozen women are wrapped in blankets before the fire in the Steam Packet kitchen, and about a dozen who were supposed to have gone to their homes by rail composed the full roll of survivors that could be accounted for. The dead are being brought in, men, women, and little children, to the board-room of the Steamboat Company, on Roff's wharf, which is turned into a temporary mortuary, and the gas is lighted in the Town Hall, to receive more of these ghastly tenants if need be. But even of the recovered dead there are not many, only a score or so, all told. The door of the scanty board-room is almost covered with the bodies, and stretchers are being brought up from the Duke of York and the small boats, and all the available men are busy laying the corpses in order, putting in the on their breasts and doing what little that is to be done when all are impatient to do much. Outside the board-room window is a balcony upon which lay as in repose the bodies of three or four little children, mere babes. The majority of the dead are women." The captain is lost, the chief engineer and a vast majority of the passengers. Mr. Towse, the Superintendent of the Company's fleet, was on board with his wife and five or six children, but went on shore at Gravesend. The body of his wife is one of those brought lifeless to Woolwich, and all the children are drowned except the young lady who was saved by the boat of the Chance barge as previously narrated. Alexander Law, one of the saved at the critical moment, ran to a young lady to whom he was engaged to be married and took her on his shoulder, being a good swimmer, and jumped overboard and swam to the shore. "But as I was swimming," he said, "my poor girl was swept off and I lost her, though I dived for her, the tide was so strong. I caught hold of a Mr. Talbot, however just as he was sinking, and saved him." One young woman, who was of the workhouse, says that her baby was washed out of her arms, and she lost her husband and three little ones. One man reached the north shore with a life-buoy round him. He states that he jumped overboard, after telling his wife to throw their children and jump after him, but he lost them all. On the later inquiries respecting the "governess from Queen's college, who took seven young ladies out for the day, she, it appears, is saved, the others are dead." Harry Totman says: "It came on like that, (expressively waving his hands,) and then you could hear the timber crunch up together. As the ship came over us it looked higher than the ceiling (about 20 feet.) In five minutes there was not a particle left of our boat, beyond a few pieces, floating in the water. I owe my life for catching hold of a life-buoy that was thrown from the Bywell Castle. I do not think they launched their boats for five minutes. When I was picked up I saw a lot of people clinging to the ropes, and they took some of them in." W. Pittivent says: "Seeing what was the matter I made a dive into the water, and on coming up to the surface swam to the side of the screw steamer and got hold of a rope, to which three girls and a young man were already clinging. The girls were crying out, 'Lord Jesus, save us!' As we looked up the side of the ship we saw some one, as we thought, about to let go the ropes, and we cried out to them not to do it. It was a terrible moment for us, but we tried to encourage the girls to bear up, and presently a little boat came and picked us up, also a little child. I cannot say who the latter belonged to or whether it was drowned." "In three or four minutes," says H. Drew, whose cheeks are wet with tears. "the vessel went down. My wife and three children were on board, but I don't know what became of them. I suppose they were drowned. (Here the poor fellow burst into tears.) I had hold of a piece of wood, which I pushed before me and it kept me up. I was afraid every moment that some of the poor people would snatch it from me, for I was surrounded by hundreds—men, women and children—struggling for life and shrieking in their agony. It is a sight which I shall never forget if I live for a hundred years. I looked for my wife and children, but could see nothing of them, and I was very nearly done myself when two good fellows, who I found belonged the barge Charity, caught hold of me, saying, 'All rigth, old fellow,' and dragged me into their boat."

Standing among the sad groups at Woolwich, these are the kind of stories you hear, and you know that the long rows of dead are growing in number, for there is a fleet of boats and vessels of all kinds bringing in the bodies. Some of the narratives are heroic, and give evidence of the coolness of men who can swim, and also of their successful efforts in saving themselves and others. Also, there are incidents of wild selfishness, the helpless grabbing the helpless, and each dragging the other down. The latest rumors and reports as to the numbers lost are almost as vague as the first. The money-taker thinks there was not more than 400 on board, but he could not form any better estimate at the moment than anybody else, for it seems the tickets are alike for most of the steamers leaving London Bridge up and down the river. The officers of the ship who are left say there were from 700 to 800 passengers on board. Some of the latter say there were quite 800. The steamer was licensed to carry over 900, and last week the Captain of one of the Thames boats was heavily fined by a London magistrate for carrying more than his licensed number. I do not find any indication of there being any Americans on board, though just now many are passing through London. A Liverpool shipper whom I met here this evening says 50,000 passengers from America have arrived in that port this season, a greater number than has ever been carried in the same time before. It is said that many of them have left Paris and are finishing their holidays at English watering-places. A friend from Llandudno says that a boy, who came up here to-night fearing he has lost a friend in the Princess Alice, says there are scores of Americans touring through Wales.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, SEPT. 20.

Sir John A. Macdonald.

Defeated in Kingston by the grossest of bribery and the most malignant of misrepresentation, though sustained in the country by a majority such as was never before accorded to a political leader in this country under similar circumstances, Sir John A. Macdonald has been returned by acclamation for Marquette, Manitoba. We believe that the people of Kingston regret that they were led, by bribes and other unworthy inducements, to reject their faithful representative and return a respectable dummy to Parliament; but their regrets come too late. The tie which so long and so much to her advantage bound Kingston to Sir John has been severed, never we hope to be renewed, as the right honorable gentleman always encountered a keen and unscrupulous opposition there. Marquette has chosen wisely, and the country will rejoice that the people of the Prairie Province have been wise enough and patriotic enough to secure as their representative the foremost statesman of the Dominion, whom the people have called to take the helm of the ship of state. We congratulate Sir John A. Macdonald, the electors of Marquette and the people of Canada alike on the result.

NORTH HASTINGS.

Full returns have at length been received, which show that Mr. Bowell's majority is 238. The townships bordering on the Hastings Road, from which Mr. O'Flynn calculated on a majority of 150, show that they approve of the course of their old member, and support the national policy, by giving a majority of 7 for Mr. Bowell. As the returns for the separate divisions have not all been received, we omit the official declaration, which is to be made on Monday, when the complete returns for each polling place will be given. The majorities are as under :—

CARDWELL.

The staunch Conservative constituency of Cardwell has done itself honor by returning as its representative in the House of Commons Mr. Thomas White, the talented editor of the Montreal Gazette. Mr. White is known not only as a writer of eminent ability, but as one of the foremost orators of the day in Canada, and possessed as he is of a large experience in legislative matters, he will no doubt take a front rank even amongst the many eminent gentlemen whom the Conservative party returned to Parliament in Tuesday's election. We congratulate Mr. White on his return to Parliament, in which body we trust he will long remain, devoting his talents to the service of his country and his party.

Men of genius are often dull and inert in society; as the blazing meteor, when it descends to earth, is only a stone.

East Hastings.

The Mail says :— "We very sincerely regret the defeat, by a small majority, of Mr. John White in this constituency. We fancy the riding is already sorry for the mistake which it has made ; and we shall be glad to find, as stated by the Belleville INTELLIGENCER, that Mr. White 'will still have an opportunity for re-election,' several cases of bribery and undue influence being known. An honest, bluff, generous fellow, there was no more independent member in the last Parliament than John White, and we hope yet to see him in the new one."

GRIT NONSENSE.

The Globe and other Grit papers have written a good deal of nonsense since the election, most conspicuous amongst which is the assertion that Sir John Macdonald, Mr. Langevin, Mr. Plumb and Mr. Gibbs have been defeated on account of their connection with the so-called "Pacific Scandal." If the electors had been disposed to condemn those gentlemen on that account they would have done so in 1874, when the subject was fresh in the minds of the people. That the Pacific Slander had nothing to do with the result of the election is shown by the return of Hon. Mr. Tilley, who defended that act, and who is the only Conservative returned for St. John City or County ; of Mr. James McDonald in Pictou, where he was defeated in 1874 ; of Dr. Tupper in Cumberland ; of Hon. J. H. Pope in Compton ; and generally by the success of other Conservative candidates throughout the country who were in 1873-4, as now, supporters of Sir John A. Macdonald.

JACQUES CARTIER.

Mr. Laflamme, of doubtful reputation, Mr. Mackenzie's Minister of Justice, who is now reported as having been elected by a majority of 15, appears to have been at his old tricks. The Montreal Star of Thursday says :—

"Mr. Girouard went to St. Annes last night to enquire into an electoral fraud committed at poll No. 2. In 1875 Mr. Laflamme had 12 votes majority over Mr. Girouard in this poll. On the 1st of May last the votes were equally divided between Mr. LeCavalier and Mr. St. Pierre, and about the same result was expected for the voting of yesterday. However, the result of the ballot-box showed that only fourteen votes were polled for Mr. Girouard, giving 105 majority for Laflamme in this poll only. Forty-one electors who voted at the poll have made a solemn declaration under the statute that they voted for Mr. Girouard. This is causing great indignation. It is further said that in one box there were twenty more ballots than names upon the voters list."

This is quite in keeping with the character of Mr. Laflamme and his agents, but as a new regime is about to be inaugurated we have no doubt that the election officials will feel impelled to do justice in the premises, and Mr. Girouard will get the seat out of which it has been attempted to cheat him. In consequence of the enquiry into the fraud we leave the return as still in doubt.

Prince Edward.

PROVENCHER.—Mr. Dubuc, Conservative, has been elected by acclamation.

SOUTH ONTARIO.—Mr. Glen's election is to be protested on the ground of bribery and corruption.

WEST MIDDLESEX.—Mr. G. W. Ross, Ministerialist, proves to be elected by a majority of 36.

THE SUGAR REFINERIES.—It is rumored in business circles in Montreal that Messrs. Redpath & Co. will at once make arrangements to put their refinery in working order. It is also stated as probable that the Halifax refineries will be re-opened.

THE GOVERNMENT'S INTENTION.—The Ottawa organ of the Government, the Free Press, says :— "A meeting of the Cabinet is being held this afternoon, from whose results important events may flow. We may say in advance, that it is the intention of the Government to take the earliest possible steps to give constitutional effect to the result of the verdict of the people, as recorded on Tuesday evening last. Nothing can, of course, be done in that direction until the results of the elections in Manitoba and British Columbia are ascertained. The new Parliament will not be fully elected until the complete returns are received ; but the Government recognize the general result, and will lose no time in resigning office after the final returns are received."

Sir John on His Defeat.

That Kingston has been deeply ungrateful to Sir John A. Macdonald even his strongest opponents cannot deny. It has been asked "What has Sir John done for Kingston ?" Rather might it be asked what has he not done for that enterprising place, where, by favor of Sir John Macdonald, so many public institutions have been located and so much public money spent during the time he has represented it. We have no doubt that many of those who opposed their old representative now regret their action, and were the opportunity offered would reverse their late decision.

We copy from the News the report which that journal gives of Sir John's remarks after the result became known on Tuesday night :—

"Sir John Macdonald was greeted with three ringing cheers. He said that although he was defeated he was not killed. (Applause.) He believed he still lived in the hearts and affections of the people of Kingston, and had the good will of all. Before to morrow morning he would have many letters to resign in his favor. They must set to work to retrieve their defeat, and remember that although defeated they were not vanquished. (Applause.) Conservatism was not dead yet, and it would be a sad day for the country if it went back on the National Policy. He believed they could have an undoubted majority in the country, and the regret would be the greater at the loss of Kingston, for once in 35 years it had gone back on him, and he deeply regretted it. But they must go on with the fight and redeem the constituency. He must remember how much the people had done for him. It had been said that there was unfair play in the election, and so he had pledged himself to investigate it. (Loud cheers, and cries of "we can prove it.") In that case Mr. Gunn's triumph would be a short and very unwelcome one. (Applause.) But they must leave it for the future, while submitting at present to what had occurred. He regretted his defeat for many reasons, but chiefly on account of his long connection with the city. They would all admit that he did not desert Kingston, but that Kingston had deserted him. He was bound by ties of feeling and affection to stand by the old city. He had fought a hard battle, notwithstanding that he had been pressed so sore elsewhere. Other constituencies had wished him to go to them, but having taken the shilling, he felt bound not to look elsewhere. It was true he had been defeated, but they must not give up the old cause. They must fight for it out and out. Let them fight hard and in a short time he believe they would redeem the city. (Cheers.) They would know to-morrow the result of the elections, and if victory was with them he could get lots of seats. But his political life began in Kingston and he had fondly hoped that it would end in close there. But it had been found otherwise, and he was submissive. He thanked his friends for standing by him so nobly. They were unbribed and unbought, while the Grits had the victory on this occasion he was sure the Conservatives had all the honor and credit. (Loud and continued cheering.)"

LATE ELECTIONS.—The voting in Algoma, Muskoka, Chicoutimi, Gaspe, British Columbia and Manitoba does not take place until the 26th inst.

ELECTION RETURNS.—The Globe says :—"We reccommend candidates, in cases where the numbers are close, to have the returns revised before the County Judge. Serious mistakes are often quite innocently made by Returning-officers and their deputies." We have no doubt that advice will be acted upon, in East Hastings.

THE GREAT EASTERN.—A use has been found for that white elephant, the Great Eastern Steamship, at last. She is being fitted up to carry cattle and sheep between Texas and Liverpool. She will have enormous refrigerators, and it is expected that her size will make the speculation a highly successful one. This speaks well for the cattle trade prospects.

THE MONTREAL ORANGE DIFFICULTY.—Mr. M. C. Desnoyers, Police Magistrate at Montreal, has not yet given his decision on the merits of the action brought against the Orange leaders, so that it is not known whether they will be committed to stand their trial at the next term of the Queen's Bench or not. Let us Honor, so far, owing to the press of business, has been unable to look through the mass of evidence taken, so that it will be Friday, or even later, before judgment will be given.

—The Chinese Ambassador and suite have reached Washington. After a short stay at the capital some members of the embassy will proceed to Spain and others to Peru to establish a diplomatic service.

—It is reported at Berlin that the Russian authorities have instructed the Provincial Government of Bulgaria to summon all male inhabitants between twenty and twenty-two, to form a territorial army.

—The Twentieth Regiment, stationed at Halifax, has been ordered to be in readiness to embark for Gibraltar, as they are to be replaced by the 101st Regiment from Cyprus, to arrive in a few weeks.

—A North Carolina editor expresses his opinion that "the man who will read a newspaper three or four years without paying for it will pasture a goat on the grave of his grandfather.

A distinguished politician from the rural districts resolved to give a splendid dinner to some of his party friends. In order to make sure that everything should be of the best quality, he went to the market himself and bought first a turtle. After taking great pains to select one of the finest specimens in the lot, and ordering it to be sent home, he said to the tradesman, by the way of making it quite right, "This is a real genuine turtle, ain't it ?" "Oh certainly," was the reply ; "one of the very best." "Because," added the politician, "although I ain't been in the city long, I ain't to be humbugged ; it won't do for you to try to put off any of your confounded mock turtles on to me."

EPPS'S COCOA.—All the Year Round says :—"Let us stroll to the Euston Road, hard by the Regent's Park, to Epps's Cocoa Manufactory, where may be studied the making of cocoa on a stupendous scale, giving a just idea of the value of these articles, not as luxuries, but as actual food."

EPPS'S COCOA.—John Bull says :—"An idea of the vast extent of the industry may be gained from the fact that one firm alone—that of Messrs. Epps & Co.—now sells some 4,000,000 pounds annually."

EPPS'S COCOA.—Christian World says :—"If I am to take cocoa," said I, "I must see and judge for myself what are the ingredients of which it composed ; with this view I made my way to the cocoa manufactory of James Epps & Co., in the Euston Road."

EPPS'S COCOA.—"Cassell's Household Guide" says :—"We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps & Co., homœopathic chemist and manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London."

EPPS'S COCOA.—Morning Advertiser says : "Nearly two centuries after, in 1832, the duties, which had hitherto been almost prohibitive, were greatly reduced, and one of the first to take advantage of re-establishing the popularity of cocoa was Messrs. Epps & Co., the Homœopathic Chemists."

TO THE PUBLIC

MUCH IS BEING SAID just now in respect to Free Trade and Protection as affecting the interests of the country at large ; some very wise things and some very absurd are advanced on both sides of the question. One thing, however, is certain beyond a doubt, and that is, whatever may be the individual opinion, every one will seek to supply his personal wants where he can do so to the best advantage, and will buy where he can get the best article and at the lowest price, be it English, Dutch, Canadian or Chinese.

The greater part of our wearing apparel, especially ladies', comes from Great Britain, where they are masters of the manufacture of such fabrics as they require, and wherever these goods may be bought in Canada, England is the original source of supply. Now any one can get the best foreign goods these pass through the better it is for the consumer, for, apart from the tariff question, the high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, every one having to get his profit. The nearer the consumer and producer are brought together the better it is for both. It is because the public recognize this fact that so many merchants here in Canada are anxious to be considered Direct Importers when are not.

And here we beg to reiterate what we have before emphatically stated, that our firm are the only Importers of a general stock of Dry Goods in Belleville not passing through another house in Canada. This is shown conclusively by the Returns at the Custom House here, for all the British goods entered at this Port have come to our store with the exception of a few packages.

We offer our customers all the advantages which our business connexions in Great Britain enable us to do, both in the price and quality of goods as well as style.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, SEPT. 20.

City and Vicinity.

REMINDER.—Remember the meeting of the Yacht Club this evening for the purpose of arranging for the Fall Regatta.

HONORABLE MENTION.—Mr. Ellis Burrell, of this city, has received honorable mention for his exhibit in class 43, mines and metallurgy, at the Paris Exposition.

EXPENDITURE ON STREETS.—From our report of the Council proceedings it will be learned that a large sum has so far this season been expended on streets and sidewalks. Ketcheson Ward has had the lion's share.

EAST HASTINGS.—Mr. John White has instructed his Solicitor to enter a protest against the return of Mr. W.R. Aylsworth to the Commons for East Hastings. We have reason to believe that there is ample evidence to sustain the protest and cause the voiding of the election.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY.—Come out 'tis now September,the hunter's sport's begun, avid through the woods and o'er the fields we hear the frequent gun; and when we meet and fain would learn what was the sportsman's luck, how oft we see, when they return, more goose than there is duck.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION—The Provincial Exhibition, which is to open in Toronto next week, bids fair to be the most successful yet held. His Excellency the Governor-General will open the Exhibition. We have made arrangements with an able correspondent to have daily letters from Toronto during the Exhibition.

PAYMENT OF TAXES.—Get your purses ready. The City Council have passed a By-law making payable all sums for taxes of over $10 on the 20th of October,reduction on or before which date will secure a payment of 3 per cent. If paid after October 20th and before December 20th, no addition will be made, but if not paid by the later date 3 per cent will be added for the cost of collection. Sums under $10 are due on November 1st.

A GOOD MOVE.—All the physicians of Cobourg, says the Sentinel,have united in a movement, the purpose of which is to protect them from being imposed upon by a very large class who avoid paying their medical bill,although able to do so. The physicians are preparing to have lists of such compiled and furnished to each other for mutual protection ; and all who do not, within a reasonable time,settle their medical accounts, will be placed on this list, thereby depriving themselves of medical attention, except for cash or good security. The movement is becoming general throughout Ontario.

A LEVIATHAN.— "The Campbellford Herald says :—"Mr. W. McAvillia, of Seymour township, took from the Trent, near Hickory Island, a few miles from this village, last week, the largest muskinonge that has ever been captured in these waters. The monstrous fish struggled mightily to evade capture, but after a long time, through exhaustion it became an easy prey for its captor, who hauled it into his boat, and gave it its death sentence with the blade of a knife in the back of the head. The fish, when beheaded, cleaned and dressed, ready for the table turned the scales at fifty-two pounds. When taken from the water it could not have weighed less than 70 pounds."

OBITUARY.—The funeral of the late Mr. Marmaduke Haggarty, whose sad death by accident we have already recorded, took place on Monday, the 16th. The funeral, which took place from the residence of his son-in-law's, Mr. John McGowan, on the Ridge Road, was one of the largest that has ever taken place in that section of the country,it being fully a mile in length. In the front of the procession was the officiating clergyman the Rev. J.W. Burke, of Belleville, whose address at the house was exceedingly appropriate—next came the flags of L. O. L. No. 300—to which Lodge Mr. Haggarty belonged—and of the Downey Lodge, then the members of the various Orange Lodges throughout the country, amongst whom we noticed the County Master of North Hastings, Mr. R. J. Craige, of Stirling, and the Deputy Grand Master of Ontario East, Mr. Wm. Johnson, of Belleville. Next came the hearse and then the large number of mourners and friends. The body was committed to its last resting, in the private cemetery, on the property of James Haggarty, Esq., amid the uncontrollable sorrow of Mr. Haggarty's family and the heartfelt sympathy of hundreds of sorrowing friends. The Orange burial service was conducted by the Worshipful Master and Chaplain of L.O.L. No. 300.

Another story of the late Pope. He was once compelled to undergo a painful operation, which he endured with rare courage. "Did your Holiness suffer much ?" asked the Surgeon Constantine. "You made me see more stars," replied the Pope, smiling ; "than father Secchi knows the names of."

The above By-law was read a second time.

The By-law provides that if the taxes are paid by the 20th of October a discount of 3 per cent. is given ; if paid before the 20th of December no interest is charged ; but if not paid until after the 20th of December, 3 per cent is added.

The Committee rose and reported.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

EDINBURGH, Sept. 29.—A London despatch says, an uneasy feeling prevails that Beaconsfield's Indian policy will result in a war with Afghanistan, and the re-opening of the whole Eastern question. It is not generally believed the Russians will evacuate Bulgaria, or that Greece will peacefully submit to Turkey's non-compliance with its demand.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—It is rumored the Minister of Finance will resign, because his views conflict with Gambetta's about the conversion of the five per cent. rentes. If M. Say resigns he will probably be appointed governor of the Bank of France.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—The following is a portion of Gambetta's speech against Ultramontanism :—"The clerical question keeps all other questions in suspense here. In the church it is that spirit of the past which takes refuge and gathers the strength I denounce. An ever increasing danger to society runs from Ultramontanic spirit, a spirit of Vatican, of Syllabus, which is nothing but abuse of ignorance with the purpose of enslaving it. From a Governmental and National point of view, it is only Ultramontanism which persists in Opposition to the State. The clerical spirit endeavors to filtrate into everything, into army, into magistracy, and there is this that is peculiar to it, it is always when the fortune of the country is failing that Jesuitism rises. Far be it from me to wish to put shackles on liberty. I am an obstinate partisan of liberty of conscience, but ministers of religion have duties to the State and what we exact is fulfilment of these duties, apply laws and laws and abolish indulgence, if law is applied order will be restored in France without persecution, by simply continuing traditions which prevailed from the aurora of the revolution in 1789 till the last glimmer of the revolution in 1848. They were not abandoned till December, the Mitrailleurs and those who blessed the Mitrailleurs combined. Privileges form half the power of these men, they live on public credulity alone, yes, every one must be subject to common law, obligatory service must be made, really vocations must only be allowed, first of all vocations, that of services in the fatherland have been fulfilled. Republican papers generally give unqualified adhesion to Gambetta as definition of parties programme. The Catholic press his regard speech asa declaration of war against Catholicism. The Conservative journals generally criticize hisspeech keenly, and several express the opinion that Gambetta is trying to ru with radicals and hold with the opportunists at the same time. His speech has created a profound impression in all political circles.

THE COUNTER-INTRIGUES OF ENGLAND AND RUSSIA AT CABUL—THE BRITISH EXPEDITION.

Gen. Sir Neville Chamberlain is expected to arrive at Simla on Friday next, and will there await the Ameers reply to the proposal to receive an English mission at Cabul. The escort of the mission will consist of three hundred sabres. Colonel Jenkins will command the Guides Cavalry and Major Prinsep the Bengal Cavalry. The attitude of sulky hostility which the Ameer has now for so long maintained toward the Indian Government renders the despatch of this mission very critical, and imperatively requires that the negotiations which it is now attempted to re-open should be handled with the utmost delicacy and circumspection. Our policy for some considerable time past has been to force the Ameer, by stopping his subsidy, to sue for the favor of the Indian Government, and to endeavor to coerce him to more British protection against imminent Russian aggression. This policy, however, has proved a hopeless failure, partly from the intensely bitter feelings of personal animosity entertained by the Ameer toward the British Government and partly from the growing belief that the power of Russia in Central Asia is invincible to Oriental military chiefs like the Ameer. The peaceful, passive and absolutely non-aggressive policy of the British Government is unintelligible except on the supposition of waning power; while in Russia, on the other hand, is witnessed a daily advance of military power in Central Asia, which crushes under its iron heel every show of attempt at opposition to its onward march of conquest.

In these circumstances it is not wonderful that the Ameer should elect to throw in his lot with Russia, from whom he has everything to fear and, according to Russian persuasion, everything to hope in the future from the destruction of British rule in India, rather than seek an alliance with the Indian Government, which he has ceased to fear, and from which he believes he has nothing to hope. The reception in open durbar of the Russian envoy, with the possibility of a permanent resident being fixed in Cabul, and the still further proximate possibility of British India being flooded with agents disseminating disaffection at the various feudatory courts, exciting suggestions for native aggrandizement, and hatching schemes aimed at the destruction of British power, render an absolute change of policy an immediate necessity. Yet a departure from the policy by which we have endeavored to starve the Ameer into amiable submission cannot but be deemed the confession of a rather humiliating failure. The Ameer has completely beaten us. So far from coming in to sue for British protection and British favor, he has, by adroitly playing off Russia upon us, forced the Indian Government to descend from the lofty pinnacle of contemptuous reserve from which they have so long observed him, and compelled them to invite him once again to open friendly relations with them. It is humiliating for a second reason—namely, that it is a direct confession that we have been out-diplomatized by Russia, and the fact of our mission following in the wake of, instead of preceding, the Russian visit can only bear one interpretation to the Ameer—that its dispatch is not prompted by feelings of good will towards himself or generous efforts to renew friendly relations, but that it is merely intended to countervail the effects of Russian intrigue. Apart, however, from those drawbacks, the mission is a necessity. The Ameer must be taught without further delay that he has everything to fear from throwing himself into the arms of Russia, and everything to hope by becoming the staunch and steadfast friend of the British Government. We cannot passively accept a defiant alliance between Russia and Afghanistan hostile to the Indian Government. If this were permitted, we should be forced to complete our English army merely for political purposes. No such important errand has been projected since Sir Alexander Burns' mission in 1837, which was so far unsuccessful that Burns was forced to return, leaving the Mussoovite Envoy in full possession of the Ameer's confidence at Cabul, who had triumphantly succeeded in winning for Russia a complete diplomatic victory. Let us trust that the result will be completely reversed by the present mission. The Government appear to have acted most judiciously in the selection of Sir N. Chamberlain as Chief Envoy. He is a distinguished officer, a tried campaigner, and is believed to be better acquainted with the frontier tribes than any living officer. He is described as gifted with qualities which have secured for him the confidence of some of the wildest of the tribes, and won for him the affection of all the troops whom he has commanded. He is a good linguist, a shrewd tactician, and withal a courteous gentleman. His name and powers are well known in Cabul, and he is likely to be seen by many who will by no means look upon him now for the first time. Major Cavagnari is a most dashing soldier, and has won for himself numberless laurels for his many gallant exploits in border warfare. He will doubtless prove a worthy lieutenant to his distinguished chief.

The celebration of the silver wedding of the King and Queen of Belgium, which began on the 21st of August and continued four days, was a very brilliant and popular affair throughout. The present of the citizens of Brussels was a diadem and set of diamonds. It is made of silver plates jointed, entirely covered with diamonds in gold setting. In the centre is a large diamond weighing 23½ carats, and valued at £1,800. The silver plates have the form of a waving plume, and behind is the diamond of the Baron de Marpurgo, which weighs three carats. The whole diadem forms a crown of glittering plumes, and is considered to be a real work of art.

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and laboured breathing, a few applications of the parties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime manifests itself in the healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is relieved, while the abscess aided reasserts herself, and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health.

Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Deny it who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price. 25 cents per Bottle.

WHO IS MY NEIGHBOR?

BY JOSEPH A. TORREY.

A traveller journeying many years ago,
Down from Jurusalem to Jericho,

Fell among thieves, who wounded him and fled.
Leaving him stripped of raiment, and half dead.

By chance a certain priest came down that way,
Who looked on him, but left him where he lay.

Likewise a Levite, walking in his pride,
With eyes turned heavenward, passed on the other side.

But a Samaritan, as he journeyed, drew
Near to the place where lay the wounded Jew,

Who had compassion, and with pious toil
Bound up his wounds, and poured in wine and oil;

Nor ever in his tender labor ceased,
Till he had borne him, on his own good beast,

Unto the quiet shelter of an inn;
And on the morrow, faring forth again,

(Careless alike of trouble or of cost.)
Took out two pence and gave them to the host,

Saying, "Take care of him. Another day,
Whate'er thou spendest more I will repay."

Whom, thinkest thou, was neighbor to the man,
The priest, Levite, or Samaritan?

He that showed pity. Go, and do likewise!
God loveth mercy more than sacrifice.

School Children.

It is the time of the ringing of the school bells If they could all be heard together, it would be, in its meaning, the greatest chime of the age. Thousands and tens of thousands of coming citizens are to be summoned to the public and private schools, there to be fitted, or unfitted, for the work of mature life. The dramatist did not miss it when he made the first school-satchel day one of the seven events of "the ages."

To all intents, it is a partial transfer of the child to a new parental roof. The teacher, to no small degree, comes in not only as an assistant to the home, but, for the time being, as a principal.

So much of destiny centres around these school buildings, that we cannot too much feel the greatness of the interests involved. All the more because it is not always very manifest destiny.

Now-a-days there are so many sections left out of what is called common school education. Grandfather worked on the farm when he was a boy; went to winter school, and to night school besides; made a good merchant up to 40; then a successful farmer; and, though not very largely booked, was fitted for and filled his sphere in life. He was fitted to earn a livelihood by industry, as well as to parse. We cannot but start the question whether the education of the present is well-balanced for the attainment of this object. But now we confine ourselves to the point whether there is proper care for the body in education. If the design is to fit one for life, that means the work of life; that means vigor, endurance, a maintenance of the right adjustment between a boy's or girl's physical, intellectual and moral self. It is the wholeness of the thing that is sent to school. Unless this fact is comprehended and attended to—not casually, but essentially— here is training for unfitness.

Great risks and great exposures to the body are involved in sending a child to school. It may mean merely such mind work as is too much of a tax upon the brain and nervous system. It often means indigestion, from a hurried lunch at noon or a fast untill 2 o'clock. It often involves sitting in constrained positions too long, too close confinement in ill-ventilated or ill-heated rooms, and other experiences inimical to vigorous growth. A recent book says the first right of a child at school is to feel happy. One element in this is left out if the conditions are not such as favor his good health. Indisposition is a word of double meaning. That of the mind and temper are affected by that of the body.

The are most cogent reasons why children at school should be so provided for as that all their surroundings tend to a comfortable physical condition. Simon, speaking of artisans, says "that it is their right that whatever work their employer assembles them to do should, as far as is in his power, be divested of all unhealthy circumstances." It is a poor charity, and a poor economy, too, for the State to present to all its children a free-school system, if the perils of the school-room are excessive.

No school should commence without a thorough knowledge on the part of its trustees as to the adequacy of the building, its desks, its heating and other apparatus, its general fitness for the conduct of the work proposed to be done in it.

Have the boys and girls fitted to their respective desks; not only with a view to convenience, but size. Often the blackboards are so located that the child must face a glare of light. Often the desks are so close to them that they cannot adjust distance to capacity of vision. Virchow, Loring, Agnew and others have well pointed out some of these defects.

Laws of posture, both in sitting and standing, are greatly overlooked in schools, and slight spinal deflections from the natural line give future aid to one-sidedness. Brown Sequard has noted and explained how the use of one side too much and the other too little often disturbs bilateral sensibility and leads to nervous trouble.

Dr. Seguin read an interesting essay on "Nervous Diseases as fostered by School Life" before the last National Medical Association, and claims that physical considerations must enter far more largely into our system of instruction. Anemometers and thermometers can now tell us much as to air-currents and the heat and degree of moisture of the air, while chemistry has ready aids to show us whether it is contaminated. Pale faces and puny forms and the tired look of the homeward group sometimes makes us stand aghast when they tell us: "This is education." Ten minutes of calisthenics in a close room or an occasional antic of the gymnast will not recover the unnecessary wear and tear to which our children are too often subjected, because of unavoidable conditions in many of our public and some of our private schools. We ask all parents, all school-boards and all teachers to put on their thinking-caps at once, and keep them on all this term, in the school-health interests of the boys and girls.—N. Y. Independent.

Goodness does not more certainly make men happy, than happiness makes them good. We must distinguish between felicity and prosperity; for prosperity leads often to ambition, and ambition to disappointment; the course is then over, the wheel turns round but once; while the reaction of goodness and happiness is perpetual.

Starting in Life.

The first great lesson a young man should learn is, that he knows nothing. The earlier and more thoroughly this lesson is learnt the better. A home-bred youth, grown up in the light of parental admiration, with everything to flatter his vanity and self-esteem, is surprised to find, and often unwilling to acknowledge, the superiority of other people, but he is compelled to learn his insignificance; his arts are ridiculed, his blunders exposed, his wishes disregarded, and he is made to cut a very sorry figure, until his self-conceit is abased, and he feels that he knows nothing.

When a young man has thoroughly comprehended the fact that he knows nothing, and that, intrinsically, he is of but little value, the next lesson is, that the world cares nothing for him. He is the subject of no man's overwhelming admiration; neither petted by the one sex, nor envied by the other, he has to take care of himself. He will not be noticed till he becomes noticeable; he will not become noticeable until he does something to prove that he is of some use to society. No recommendation or introduction will give him this, or ought to give him this; he must do something to be recognized as somebody. There is plenty of room for men in the world, but there is no room for idlers. Society is not very particular what a man does, so long as he does something useful, to prove himself to be a man; but it will not take tae matter on trust.

There is no surer sign of an unmanly and cowardly spirit, than a vague desire for help—a wish to depend, to lean on somebody, and enjoy the fruits of other people's industry. There are multitudes of young men who indulge in dreams of help from some quarter, coming in at a convenient moment, to enable him to secure the success in life which they covet. Thus, one of the most painful sights in the world, is that of a young man with a strong constitution and a presentable figure, standing with his hand in his pockets longing for help. There are positions in which the most independent spirit may gracefully and gratefully receive assistance—may, in fact, as a choice of evils, desire it; but for a man who is able to help himself to seek help from others, is positive proof that he has been unfortunately trained, and that an indolent bais exists in his charater. Let us not be misunderstood. We would not inculcate the pride of personal independence, which, in its sensitiveness, repels the good offices of friends. What we condemn in a young man is the habit of dependence which makes him anxious to accept as a favor those things which he might readily acquire by his own industrial exertions. A man who willingly receives assistance, especially if he has applied for it, invariably sells him self to his benefactor, unless his patron happens to be a man of sense, who is giving absolutely necessary assistance to one whom he knows to be both sensitive and honorable.

When a young man has ascertained the fact that he knows nothing, and that the world cares nothing about him, that his success in life must depend on his own exertions, and that he must look to himself, and not to others, for assistance, he is in a fair position for beginning life. The next lesson is that of patience. A man must learn to wait as well as to work; and to be content with those means of advancement in life which we may use with integrity and honor. Patience is one of the most difficult lessons to learn. It is natural for the mind to look for immediate results. Let this, then, be understood at starting—that the patient conquest of difficulties which rise in the regular and legitimate channel of business and enterprise is not only essential in securing the success which a young man seeks in life, but essential also to that preparation of the mind requisite for the enjoyment of success, and for retaining them when gained. It is a general rule, in all the world, and in all times, that unearned success is a curse. It is a rule also that the process of earning success shall be the preparation for its conversation and enjoyment. So, day by day, and week by week—so, month after month, and year after year, work on; and in that process gain strength and symmetry, nerve and knowledge, that when success, bravely and patiently acquired, shall be yours it shall find you prepared to receive and to keep it. The developement of all your mental and moral qualities in the brave battles of life will amply reward you for the struggle. It will help to make a man of you, and give you not only self-respect, but the respect of your fellows and the public.

Politeness.

If, as the poet says, "beauty wins without an effort," it may be said of politeness that it wins with very little effort. Politeness is worth cultivating, if only for the sake of policy. In every business it attracts and allures, while a rude manner repels, and often drives away trade. Especially may this be said of any business which depends for success on the custom of ladies. Many a good customer is driven off by the rude manner of the employer or his clerks; for, as a class, ladies are apt to resent in this way any want of politeness in those whose stores they patronize.

While politeness is inherent with some, the majority require that it should be taught them, along with other good lessons, while they are young. It is owing to the neglect of this early training that we see so much rudeness especially among youths and men, even of what are known as "the better classes." In fact, the laboring man, who is never dignified with the title of "gentleman," is often far more of one than he who usurps the name because he dresses in broadcloth and lives in a mansion of brown stone. Who has not seen one of "nature's noblemen," soiled with the dust of labor, rise and give his seat in a street car to a woman, while the gentleman has quietly and stolidly looked on from his comfortable quarters. They both have a right, it is true, to retain the seats they have paid for; but one, in keeping his, was actuated by selfishness; the other, in giving up his, was prompted by politeness.

Pope tells us, "As the twig is bent, the tree's inclined;" and it would be well for those who have the training of youth to consider this. We must bend the young twig as we would have it grow; and we must rear the child in habits of politeness if we expect to see the polite man. This branch of early education is apt to be neglected, and the want of politeness which characterizes the child at home distinguishes him abroad. We are too apt to regard politeness as non-essential—something that can never aid us in fighting our battle of life. While the want of this quality may not prevent success, the possession of it sometimes ensures the boon, and even when failing to do this, it smooths the rugged ways of life, often making the desert blossom as the rose.

The Tongue.

The tongue is the instrument by which should be expressed high and ennobling sentiments; but it is oftener the vehicle by which is expressed blasphemy and guilty thoughts, which are so disgusting to the ears of refined and reverent men and women. There is no misery so frequent and so distressing as that occasioned by the ungoverned tongue — a tongue which is "unruly," and a master. True there are many corners at every turn in life against which we may break out in impatience, but this is the very thing against which we are to guard. How often is it the case that men give way to passions and use language which afterward they are ashamed to acknowledge. Therefore, I say that the government of the tongue is a thing of the greatest importance; upon it depends our present and future happiness. How often do we see man slay his fellow man because of some rash words by which he was offended, and the murderer depart with the blood of his brother upon his hands, which scarce eternity shall make to fade. No battle-field has presented a victory so lasting and so hard to be won as that of governing the tongue. The tongue—the power of speech—is one of the greatest blessings to mankind, and, like many other blessings, may be made a curse. God did not give us a tongue to slander our brother, or to "bear false witness against our neighbor," but was designed, rather, to bless. Let us, therefore, endeavor to govern our tongues,

Home Piety.

It is in the family life that a man's piety gets tested. Let the husband be cross and surly, giving a slap here and a cuff there, and see how out of sorts every thing gets! The wife grows cold and unamiable too. Both are tuned on one key. They vibrate in unison giving tone for tone, rising in harmony or discord together. The children grow up saucy and savage as young bears. The father becomes callous, peevish, hard, a kind of two-legged brute with clothes on. The wife bristles in self-defence. They develop an unnatural growth and sharpness of teeth, and the house is haunted by ugliness and domestic brawls. Is that what God meant the family to be—He who made it a place for Love to build her nest in, and where kindness and sweet courtesy might come to there finest manifestations? The divine can be realized. There is sunshine enough in the world to warm all. Why will not men come out of their caves to enjoy it? Some men make it a point to treat every other man's family well but their own—have smiles for all but their kindred. Strange, pitiable picture of human weakness, when those we love best are treated worst; when courtesy is shown to all save our friend! If one must be rude to any, let it be some one he does not love—not to wife, sister, brother or parent. Let one of our loved ones be taken away, and memory recalls a thousand sayings to regret. Death quickens recollections painfully. The grave cannot hide the white faces of those who sleep. The coffin and the green ground are cruel magnets. They draw us farther than we would go. They force us to remember. A man never sees so far into human life as when he looks over a wife's or mother's grave. His eyes get wonderous clear then, and he sees as never before what it is to love and be loved; what it is to injure the feeling of the loved.

Right Recreation.

Religion prohibits no amusement or gratification which is really innocent. the question, however, of its innocence, must not be tied by the loose maxims of worldly morality, but by the spirit of the injunctions of the Word of God, and by the indulgence being conformable or not conformable to the tempers and dispositions of mind enjoined on its professors. There can be no dispute concerning the true end of recreations. They are intended to refresh our exhausted bodies or mental bowers, and to restore us, with renewed vigor, to the more serious, occupations of life. whatever, therefore, fatigues either body or mind, instead of refreshing them, is not fitted to answer the designed purpose. Whatever consumes more time, or money, or thought, than is expedient, or rather necessary, to allot to mere amusements, can hardly be approved by any one who considers these talents as precious deposits, for the expenditure fo which he will have to give an account. Whatever directly or indirectly must be likely to injure the welfare of a fellow-creature, can scarcely be a suitable recreation for a Christian, who is "to love his neighbor as himself;" or a very consistent diversion for any one, the business of whose life it is to diffuse happiness.—Wilberforce.

Gems of Thought.

A lie has no legs, and cannot stand; but it has wings, and can fly far and wide.

It is easier to enrich ourselves with a thousand virtues than to correct ourselves of a single fault.

As the heart is, so is love to the heart. It partakes of its strength or weakness, its health or disease.

A woman's head is always influenced by her heart; but a man's heart is always influenced by his head.

A woman's heart is just like a lithographer's stone—what is once written upon it cannot be rubbed out.

There is one way of attaining what we may term, if not utter, at least mortal happiness; it is this—a sincere and unrelaxing activity for the happiness of others.

Many flowers open to the sun, but only one follows him constantly. Heart, be thou the sun-flower, not only open to receive God's blessing, but constant in looking to Him.

Grief is only the memory of widowed affection. The more intense the delight in the presence of the object, the more poignant must be the impression of the absence.

Habits, though in their commencement like the filmy line of the spider, trembling at every breeze, may in the end prove as links of tempered steel, binding a deathless being to eternal felicity or woe.

No amount of preaching, exhortation, sympathy, or benevolence, will render the condition of our workingmen what it should be, so long as the kitchen and needle are substantially their only resources.

God, we are told, looked upon the world after he created it, and pronounced it good; but ascetic pietists, in their wisdom, cast their eyes over it, and substantially pronounced it a dead failure, a miserable production, a poor concern.

The first wealth is health. Sickness is poor-spirited, and cannot serve any one; it must husband its resources to live. But health or fulness answers its own ends, and has to spare, runs over, and inundates the neighborhoods, and creeds of other men's necessities.

If we traverse the world, it is possible to find cities without walls, without letters, without kings, without wealth, without coin, without schools and theatres, but a city without a temple, or that practiseth not worship, prayer, and the like, no one ever saw.

A GIRL WHO WOULD NOT TAKE A DARE.—The Olean (N. Y,) Record tells this story: "I will marry any girl in the room that will have me," said a half-tipsy young fellow. "I'll take you," said a fresh, clear-eyed young girl of seventeen. And in half an hour the two were married and being congratulated by their friends. This actually occurred only a few weeks ago in the near vicinity of Franklinville, in this county. The occasion was a country dance; the participants were a farmer's son and a farmer's daughter, neither of whom had exchanged a word with each other until the above scene occurred. The young fellow had been drinking, and thought he would say something "smart," and astonish the girls with his audacity. The girl, however, heard that he was a "good fellow," and being moved by that spirit which "will not take a dare if death come," took him at his word. They are now living with the young fellow's parents, and are studying each other's characters at their leisure.

Mr. Mackenzie's Course.

Many and varied are the conjectures which have been made since the defeat of the Mackenzie administration as to the course which its head will pursue. Some assert that he will resign immediately, whilst others hold that he will retain office until the elections have been held in all the Provinces, and still others think that he will call Parliament together, take the formal verdict of the people's representatives, and then resign.

Our opinion is that the Premier will take the second of the courses above suggested, and for these reasons: His defeat was utterly unexpected, so that he had made no arrangements for retiring from office, and the brief delay which will occur before the elections in Manitoba and British Columbia take place will afford the needed time to complete those arrangements. Then, having "set his house in order," that is, having provided for his friends by the superannuation of old public servants, and appointing them to those and other vacant offices, he will place his resignation in the hands of His Excellency. Mr. Mackenzie is, in our opinion, far too cunning a politician to await the formal decision of Parliament, as he would, by so doing, add to his unpopularity, which is already great enough in all conscience. He will rather seek to conciliate popular opinion by resigning in as dignified a manner as possible, in order to conciliate the electors as far as may be, which condition he can best fulfil by following the course which we have indicated.

We regret to observe a disposition on part of some of our friends, privately and in the press, to censure the Premier provided he makes any more appointments. This should not be. The constitutional right of an outgoing administration to do so is unquestioned and unquestionable, and such has been the practice for many years; though it is the duty, as it is the practice, of the incoming administration to cancel highly objectionable or improper appointments. Although Mr. Mackenzie and his friends saw fit during the late campaign to severely censure Sir John A. Macdonald for following this very course which we have reason to believe they will themselves pursue, that is no reason why Conservatives should follow them in their inconsistency. Mr. Mackenzie and his colleagues acted very unjustly towards their opponents in many ways; but now that they have been condemned in a constitutional manner; now that their sins have been visited upon their heads, let the great Conservative party in its hour of triumph [illegible] "With the Party, by the Party, for the Country," and treat their fallen opponents with that justice and that British fair play which they would wish meted out to themselves under similar circumstances, thereby setting them an example for their future guidance.

Hon. Mr. Tilley.—A despatch from St John, N. B., says Hon. Mr. Tilley has been declared elected by nine majority.

Halifax.—The vote in the Halifax election, shows that the Opposition had a majority of over 600 over the Minister of Militia and his confrere.

The Government.—The Ottawa Free Press says: "The quorum of Ministers in the city are in Council to-day, settling various matters of routine of no particular importance. The other ministers are expected to arrive in the city this evening and to-morrow morning. A full meeting of the Cabinet will probably be held to-morrow, at which final steps, in view of the results of the late elections, may be taken."

Orange Incorporation.—In the Orange Sentinel appears a notice signed by the Secretaries of Ontario East and Ontario West respectively:—That application will be made at the next Session of the Legislature of the Province of Ontario for an Act to Incorporate the Loyal Orange Associations of Ontario West and Ontario East, now under the jurisdiction of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Ontario West and Ontario East, respectively.

The Situation.—The Mail's Ottawa correspondent says:—"Lord Dufferin has been here privately since last night. The Ministers in the city have been in council all day settling various matters. The other Ministers are expected here to-morrow, when it is probable definite steps will be taken. In view of the results of the late elections it is understood the Government will resign at once, and that Sir John will be called upon next week to form a new Ministry. In consequence of the present crisis the Governor-General's visit to Toronto has been postponed."

Death of the Hon. John Simpson.—The many friends of the Hon. John Simpson, Assistant Auditor General, will regret to learn of his death, which occured at his residence, Ottawa on the 19th inst. The lamented gentleman was Collector of Customs at Niagara for some years, and sat for Niagara in the Canada Assembly from 1857 to 1864. He was a member of the Executive Council and Provincial Secretary of Canada for a short period in 1864. As one of the leading members of Christ Church congregation he will be greatly missed, and the announcement of the demise will be read with sorrow by a very wide circle of acquaintances. The remains will be taken to Niagara for interment.

THE GRIT POLICY.

The Hamilton Times, in an article on the result of the elections, thus truly defines what the policy of the Grit party is to be in the newly elected Parliament:—"Sir John Macdonald has raised up about "him a healthy and vigorous crop of conflicting interests, often as far apart and "as irreconcilable as the poles. He has "called into being a policy which will give "him many weary days and sleepless "nights. He will lie on no bed of roses, "and we venture to say the Reformers will "keep it well shaken up for him."

This is the policy of obstruction, in contradistinction to the do-nothing "fly-on-the-wheel" policy of the moribund Grit Government. True to their unpatriotic instincts, the Grits, who would not do anything themselves, will endeavor with all their little might, and with all the malice of baffled tricksters, to prevent the will of the people, as expressed at the polls, from being carried out. Fortunately their malice will be impotent, as the Conservative leader has strength sufficient to carry out the policy which he laid before the people. Thinking people will, how ever, contrast the conduct of Sir John A. Macdonald and his followers, who largely aided in passing useful measures introduced by their opponents, with that of the Grit faction, who now declare their intention to obstruct legislation and harass the Government merely to gratify their spite.

Fisheries in British Columbia.—The run of fish in the rivers of the Mainland and of British Columbia is unprecedented. A correspondent says that salmon are a cent each along the banks of the Fraser River. The canneries have more fish than they know what to do with, and thousands of the dead salmon are daily thrown into the river, because there are not men enough to can them. Each cannery is turning out from 400 to 1,000 cases daily. The profit on each case differs in various years, according to the run of the fish, from $1.50 to $3.50; this year it will probably be more. Chinamen do all the work after the fish are landed. The fishing is done principally by Indians. Some of the canneries are not only canning salmon, but have begun to salt the fish and pack them away in barrels.

OUR PARIS LETTER.

A visit to the Morgue—Description of the public dead house at Paris—As insight into its secrets and mysteries—The "inlash wall," and those of each side of it—How the "unknown" are disposed of—Silent lips and untold romances.

(From a Regular Correspondent.)

Hotel de Louvre, Paris, Sept. 5, 1878.

From time immemorial, the Terrible has possessed peculiar attractions for mankind; hence, the Coliseum of ancient Rome, where martyrs and gladiators were slaughtered to gratify a people that were thoroughly satiated with every pleasure that life could offer, and to the same strange impulse we can trace in more recent days, the Bufalo fights of the Spaniards, and the hazardous performances on the trapeze and tightrope of the modern hippodrome. Were it not for this universal yearning for something strange and terrible to behold—something which, to use a vulgar but very significant expression, can "make the flesh creep," one would be at a loss to account for the number of visitors to Le Morgue, a place which assuredly possesses no attractions in an architectural point of view, and which is about one of the very best places on earth which one in search of the beautiful would think of visiting.

Yet no one can visit La Morgue between the hours of eight in the morning and nine in the evening without finding before its low portal an array of carriages, from the humble fiacre to the proud landau, the inmates which throng the entrance, and allow the surrounding multitude, and get elbowed by it in turn, in their efforts to obtain admission to the ghastly spectacle within. Not that they, or the majority of them, at least, have by any possibility the remotest interest in, or knowledge of the "subjects" which they will presently behold; but simply because they are about to undergo a new and strange sensation which they've never experienced before; they are to be made to shudder and to close their eyes; to view blue lips and clenched fists closed in death, and then to think and dream of the secrets which those lips could have uttered, and the deeds which those hands have committed!

When I visited the place yesterday I found the vestibule crowded with ladies and gentlemen of fashion, mostly foreigners, of course; and it looked old, strangely old, among this glittering crowd to perceive the van face and blue blouse of an ouvrier,—a father in search of a missing son, perhaps, or a husband who, for aught he knew, might be a widower. The Morgue is a low one-story building, situated on the extreme east end of the island La Cite, in the middle of the Seine, and in the very heart of old Paris, and not a hundred yards from the choir of the church of Notre Dame. The building is of the yellow Parisian lime stone, and consists of a square central part, and two wings, one of which (the left,) contains the Greffe or Bureaux, where the records or registers are kept, and the other contains the offices of the inspector and his assistants. Facing the entrance down is a large wooden screen, which divides the hall from the vestibule, and has three hooks, upon each of which is hung a wooden frame with a glass door. The middle frame contains a plainly written list of "subjects" that are unknown, and have been buried, at public expense, as such, inasmuch as they have never been identified: this ghastly list is divided in four columns, the first of which contains the gender or sex of the subject, the next the assumed age; the third, the place where found; and the fourth, remarks of a general nature, which may assist in identification, such as a brief description of rings or jewels found upon the body, marks upon the person, etc., etc. I counted thirty-nine entries on this list of the unknown yesterday, twenty-seven of which were men and twelve women. The ages ranged from eighteen to sixty, and about three-fourths of them had been fished up drowned from the Seine.

The tablets to the right and left of this frame contain the photographs of three unknown dead, taken before interment, and a ghastly gallery it is. Those who have not strong nerves should not enter behind the screen, but return, satisfied with what they have already seen. Yet, strange to say, the crowd pushed on; with blanched faces, the ladies seemed to take the lead; a strange fascination compels them to enter the inner apartment of the Morgue,—to be carried out fainting a minute afterwards, for that is an everyday occurrence, and the sergeants de ville on duty are prepared, with ambulances and salts, for just such incidents, to which they have, for long years, become grown quite accustomed, and which they treat with a marvellous sangfroid that is peculiarly Parisian.

A large glass wall divides the antechamber from the "hall of the dead," as it is called, and to which no admittance is had, except by special permission by the officers in charge. Curiosity, however, desire to go farther than to the glass wall. Behind it are twelve slabs, each covered with sheet lead, and placed in a slanting position, so that the bodies exposed upon them may be readily seen by those on the other side of the screen. From a tube which terminates in a nose or sprinkler, and is disposed centrally over each of the slabs, is a stream of cold water sprinkled over the body below, to prevent putrefaction as long as possible, and the clothing and other articles found upon the bodies are exposed to view upon iron racks placed over each of the couches. I found four of the twelve slabs occupied; two of the occupants were the bodies of women, the other two those of men. One, upon the extreme table to the right, was a handsome woman of nineteen or so, long dark hair all disordered and dishevelled, almost covered the upper half of her naked body; bracelets and jewels, suspended upon the hooks above, showed her to have been a woman of elegance, perhaps of pleasure; she had been found in the Seine on the day before, and had been dead when found only a few hours, as the body was still warm.

Next to her, an old man, who had been found floating under the Bats de Boulogne three days ago; evidently an ouvrier and observer of the poorest class, to judge from the style of his dress. A sickening spectacle was that which was presented to view on the leather couch next to him; the body of a man half eaten by fishes, the hair all gone and bowels protrudings he had been found in the river two days before, but must have been in the water for weeks. He had been foul naked, and there were no articles of dress to aid in his identification. The fourth slab was occupied by the body of a woman who had committed suicide by cutting her throat; she had been found in one of the streets of the Faubourg St. Antoine, with a paper in her hand stating that she had committed this deed by her own free will, and that no one was responsible; she appeared to have been a woman of about 50, of the lower foreign class, to judge from the apparel suspended above.

At times, all of the twelve tables are occupied; but this is, fortunately, a rare occurrence. Equally rare an event is it, unfortunately, to find all of them empty. In that horrible chamber, divided from the outer world of life by an impenetrable wall of glass, there is no sound save that of the dripping water; life moves without, death only is here, and in its most sombre and terrible aspect. Most of the bodies remain forever unclaimed and unknown; they are buried and forgotten, and others take their place; and so, from day to day, the world, ways and time, takes its course, little thinking of the terrible secrets and mysteries of La Morgue of Paris.

TO THE PUBLIC

MUCH IS BEING SAID just now with respect to Free Trade and Protection as affecting the interests of the people at large; some very wise things and some very absurd are advanced on both sides of the question. One thing, however, is certain beyond a doubt, and that is, whether we be the individual's opinion, every one will seek to supply his personal wants at the cheapest and best market where he can get the best article at the lowest price, be it English, Dutch, Canadian or Chinese.

The greater part of our wearing apparel, especially ladies', comes from Great Britain, where they are masters of the manufacture of such fabrics as are needed, and where these goods may be bought in Canada and Ireland in the original source of supply. Whether any one can see that any hands are idle or pass through the better it is for the country at large, for, apart from the tariff question, the price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of middlemen before they reach them, each having to make his profit. The nearer the consumer and producer are brought together the better it is for both. It is because the public recognize the fact that so many merchants here as elsewhere are anxious to be considered Direct Importers who are not.

And here we beg to reiterate what we have before emphatically stated, that our goods are the only Importers of a general stock of Dry Goods in Belleville who are buying through another house in Canada. That we are exclusively by the Returns at the Custom House, for all the British Goods entered at this Port have come to our store with the exception of a few packages.

We offer our customers all the advantages which our business connections in Great Britain enable us to do, both in the price and quality of goods as well as in the style.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, SEPT. 21.

City and Vicinity

CHRIST CHURCH.—The Rev. Mr. Lumsden, of the Niagara district, will preach in Christ Church to-morrow, morning and evening.

W. C. T. A.—Women's Temperance meeting on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Friends of temperance are cordially invited to attend.

BRIDGE STREET C. M. CHURCH.—Rev. Mr. Willoughby has returned from general Conference and will preach in Bridge St. Church to-morrow evening.

DANIEL'S BAND.—Evangelistic services will be resumed in the Hall over Mr. N. Jones' store next Sunday evening, at 8 o'clock. All invited. Free.

If you are fatigued in mind and body, take SANFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER.

THE MARKET.—There was a large attendance on the market this morning, and prices ranged much about the same as on previous Saturdays of late.

LIBERAL CONSERVATIVE ASSOCIATION.—A meeting of this Association is to be held at their rooms on Tuesday, October, 1st, at 3 o'clock p.m. A full attendance is requested.

SQUALLS.—Last night there were a number of tremendously heavy wind squalls. Vessels which encountered them out on the lake must have had a lively time, even if they did not suffer serious damage.

FALSE ALARM.—An alarm was given between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning that Flint & Holton's saw mill was on fire. The fire brigade turned out with their usual promptitude, but fortunately there was no need of their services, the alarm being a false one.

GAINING IN WEIGHT.—The young giantess who was recently placed in the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb is growing so rapidly that she promises ere long to be a formidable rival to Mrs. M. V. Bates, the Nova Scotian giantess. She has gained 13 pounds in weight since her arrival here.

BARLEY.—The market may be quoted as unchanged at $1 per bushel, though some buyers give in addition a small bonus on each load, amounting to about 1 cent per bushel. Receipts daily have been large, and shipments heavy, there being at present a considerable number of vessels engaged in the grain trade.

DOUBLE APPLES.—Some time since we were called upon to notice the fact that there were a number of double plums on certain trees, and now double apples are the curosity. We have one of these from the garden of Mr. Francis Clarke. The apples are grown together in the same manner as were the celebrated Siamese twins, the stalks being separate and distinct. Mr. R. J. Bates, also, has a number of these twin apples in his garden.

BUYING FOR CASH.—The Monetary Times says:—"A few days ago we had a striking illustration of the difference to farmers in buying for cash or on credit. Those who paid cash get their goods on an average of twenty-five per cent. less than those who paid their bills once a year. And great as this difference is the seller preferred the cash customer, being the more profitable. Farmers should buy for cash; as a class they do not require credit."

THE "COUNTESS OF DUFFERIN."—We find the following in the New York Herald of the 17th:—"Judge Benedict, of the United States Court, Eastern District, Brooklyn, rendered a decision yesterday in the suit for recovery of salary brought by A. Cuthbert, sailing master of the yacht Countess of Dufferin. It is held that the right of action rests on the agreement made subsequent to the shipping articles. In this the salary is fixed at $60 per month, with no limit as to the time of service, so that the sailing master might have left, if he desired, at the expiration of one month. The nature and objects of the agreement are regarded as inconsistent with the right of lien claimed by Mr. Cuthbert, who, by the special agreement, waived his claim to any such right. The suit is dismissed, with costs."

THE FALL REGATTA.—At the meeting of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, held last night, it was determined to hold the annual regatta in Belleville Bay on Monday, 30th inst. As the first-class yachts are not in racing trim, the race will be confined to second and third class. The course will be from a buoy off the Grand Junction dock to and around a buoy one mile west of Massassaga Point, thence to a buoy two miles west of Belleville, three times around for second class and twice around for third class yachts, finishing off the Grand Junction dock. Thus an excellent opportunity will be given to all who desire to see the race, the course being such that the yachts will be in their view all the way round. The prizes will be:—In second class, $60 to 1st; $40 to 2d; $20 to 3d; and $10 to 4th. In third class, $35 to 1st; $20 to 2d; $10 to 3d; and $5 to 4th. Entrance free; 10 per cent to be deducted from winning boats. We have no doubt that the race will be a grand success, as the two new yachts will compete in the second class, and the purses are liberal enough to attract a number of yachts from a distance.

Provincial Exhibition.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—For the information of those who will visit the Provincial Exhibition, to be held in Toronto from September 23rd to 28th inst., I wish to state that the new buildings are ready for exhibitors, and ample space will be afforded to all who have applied.

Two lines of shafting will run in Machinery Hall, one at a speed of 300, the other 140 revolutions per minute, dressed to 2¾ inches.

Exhibitors of machinery in motion will have to furnish their own pulleys and belting.

During the week of the Exhibition there will be telegraphic and postal communication direct to and from the grounds.

All goods addressed "Provincial Exhibition," and sent by the Canadian Express Company, will be delivered.

All Railways have agreed to single fare for the double journey.

Tickets are forwarded as soon as entries are made on the books. Any exhibitors not receiving their tickets prior to Saturday, 21st inst, will find them at the Secretary's office, on the grounds.

Attention is particularly directed to Rule No. 19, as follows;

All specimens in the Fine Arts must be delivered on the grounds, arranged and placed on exhibition, not later than Friday, the 20th September; and all articles other than Live stock, Fruits, Flowers, and Butter, not later than Saturday, 21st September.

Live Stock, Fruits, Flowers and Butter must all be on the grounds not later than Monday 23rd inst., at 6 p. m. Articles or animals arriving after these hours will not be allowed to exhibit. Exhibitors of machinery and other heavy articles are to have them on the grounds during the week preceding the Show.

His Excellency Lord Dufferin will formally open the Exhibition on Tuesday, 24th inst., at 3. p. m.

I am, Sir, yours &c.,
JOHN R. CRAIG,
Secretary.

EPPS'S COCOA.—All the Year Round says:—"Let us stroll to the Euston Road, hard by the Regent's Park, to Epps's Cocoa Manufactory, where may be studied the making of cocoa on a stupendous scale, giving a just idea of the value of these articles, not as luxuries, but as actual food."

EPPS'S COCOA.—John Bull says:—"An idea of the vast extent of the industry may be gained from the fact that on firm alone—that of Messrs. Epps & Co.—now sell some 4,000,000 pounds annually."

EPPS'S COCOA.—Christian World says:—"If I am to take your word," said I, "I must see and judge for myself what are the ingredients of which it composed; with this view I made my way to the cocoa manufactory of James Epps & Co., in the Euston Road."

EPPS'S COCOA.—"Cassell's Household Guide" says:—"We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps & Co., homœopathi chemist and manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London."

EPPS'S COCOA.—Morning Advertiser says:—"Nearly two centuries after, in 1832, the duties, which had hitherto been almost prohibitive, were greatly reduced, and one of the first to take advantage of re-establishing the popularity of cocoa was Messrs. Epps & Co., the Homœopathic Chemists." d&wlm

A Slight Cough that we are so apt to consider a mere annoyance and treat with contempt, often proves to be the seed sown for an inevitable harvest—CONSUMPTION. Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

MADISON, Conn., Sept. 21.—The wife of Rev. Mr. Hayden testified yesterday concerning the accusation against her husband of having murdered Mary Stanwood. Mrs. Hayden explained away many suspicious circumstances, and declared that her married life has been very happy, and her husband's conduct very exemplary.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Lieut.-Col. Lewis, in command at Fort Dodge, Kansas, reports that his interpreter informed him that the Indians at Cheyenne Agency were suffering for want of sufficient food, and were driven to eat horse flesh, animals having died of disease or natural causes. His opinion is that the escape of these Indians was for the purpose of reaching some place where they could get sufficient food for themselves and families. In his opinion there will be a large outbreak before the coming spring, unless something is done to improve their condition.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 21.—A Circesian slave recently took refuge in the British consulate. The Consul ordered her retention, and has requested Minister Layard to urge the Porte to prohibit the sale of slaves in Turkey.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The Times Paris correspondent says notwithstanding the approbation that Gambetta's speech at Romans on Wednesday met with on the part of the Republican press, it has made moderate Republicans uneasy. It is not thought that the programme will contribute to the success of the senatorial elections, for it opens up a field to discussion in which the adversaries of the Republic will find it very easy to exaggerate the orator's words and show that the Republic proposes to lay hands on every existing institution in a revolutionary sense.

PARIS, Sept. 21.—The Journal des Debats says it has nothing to urge against Gambetta's opinion about the conversion of 5 per cent. rentes, but his moral objections to such a course are not the only or the strongest objections.

ROME, Sept. 21.—The Vatican has decided to instruct the French Bishops to spare no effort to counteract the effects of Gambetta's speech.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Silver 5s 9-16d per ounce.

TAMASCA, Cyprus, Sept. 21.—The health of the British troops in Cyprus is unsatisfactory. There has been a new outbreak of fever, and 21 deaths occurred since the occupation commenced. 400 men now sick, out of a total of 2,622.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 21.—Additional advices from the tornado in Michigan yesterday state that Lamont's store at Rockwater was demolished, crushing Mrs. Griffin to death. At Greenville the Baptist church was blown down, killing a workman.

A despatch from Chippawa Station says that sudden darkness fell upon the place, accompanied by a deathlike stillness; the atmosphere was so light that respiration grew difficult; suddenly the tornado struck with unbelievable force, lasting but a few moments,—yet in those few moments it utterly swept away every structure in the place. The inhabitants were warned by the darkness and stillness, and took refuge in their cellars, and in consequence fatal casualties were few.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 20.—Evening.—68 deaths during the past 24 hours. The wife and daughter of John H. Mitchell, brother of Maggie Mitchell, the actress, are among the victims. Eugene W. Moore, city editor of the Appeal, was taken down. At Bartlett one case of fever caused the general desertion of the town. No more physicians are needed. The Howard Association reports nurses needed. There were 78 new cases on Friday.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The Mexican Minister here denies that Mexican troops are unpaid. On the contrary, they are frequently paid in advance.

REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION.—The following remedy for consumption, printed by a Chicago paper, seems rather like a good stimulant than anything else, but it is said to produce wonderful effects: One-half pound finely-cut up beefsteak (fresh); four ounces pulverized sugar; four ounces rye whiskey; one pint boiling water. Mix all together, let it stand in a cool place over night, and give from one to two teaspoonfuls liquid and meat before each meal.

—M. C. Desnoyers, Police Magistrate at Montreal, has been appointed by the Provincial Government a Justice of the Peace for the whole Province of Quebec. His Honor will now be able to invest any of the executive officers with power to serve warrants in any county, district or township in Lower Canada.

Indications of a prehistoric people, signs of which are plentiful in southwestern Colorado, have lately been discovered in western Nevada. Antique pottery and undecipherable writing on the rocks are the most common tokens. At one place engraved upon a rock is the rude figure of a man hobbling in his right hand a shrub, the general outline of which shows considerable artistic skill.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Sept. 21.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region, fresh northwesterly to southwesterly winds and partly cloudy to clear cool weather. For the Maritime Provinces, fresh to brisk southerly to westerly winds and partly cloudy weather.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Indications:—For Lake Region, cool weather; for Middle States, cloudy, light rain.

THE OLD HOME.

I have gone—I cannot always go, you know;
Dear 'tis sure
Home across the distant riders of the years,
With my tears;
And the old house, as nothing still on the old ground
Rises I found.

In the parlor, in my fancy, I could trace
Father's face;
And my mother, with her old accustomed air,
Sitting there;
While beside them brothers, sisters true and good
Silent stood.

Through the stillness swam the sun of Summer bird
And there stirred
On the wall and the leaf flecked sunshine; and its glow
Faded slow;
But from all the loving lips I watched around—
Not a sound

Then I went up stairs, slow entering 'mid their glooms,
All the rooms;
And I trod with softening step along the floor;
Opened doors;
But I never heard a voice or met a soul
In the whole.

Of breath that stirred the draperies to and fro
Long ago;
Of the eyes that thro' the casement used to peep
Out of sleep;
Of the feet that in these chambers used to run—
Now are none

Of the sunshine pouring downward from the sky,
Blue and high;
Of the leafage and the ancient garden plot,
Brown and hot;
Of the streamlet, and the shingle, and the tide—
These abide.

But beyond its azure vaulting overhead
Are my dead;
Though their graves were dug apart in manylands
Joining hands,
They have gathered and are waiting till I come.
That is home

HER LAST SONG.

BY ELIZABETH STUART PHELPS.

This winter she's come pretty often. In December she came nigh her fortnight's term; but she cleared out just in time. Then again this month. Its been a pretty cold winter, and the women seemed sickly. I felt sorry for her. She'd grown unpleasant looking, and she coughed. I don't think she had any place of her own this season, anyway. We couldn't find out. The Cap'n and I felt a kind of interest, you see, she'd been on our books so long. It was only natural. But I do assure you ma'am, there is nothing to be done for such a case. Nothing whatever. I wouldn't look like that, if I was you. You can't help it. Him that permits 'em, He strikes 'em off our books; now and then, into His, ma'am; and 'tisn't for him to call them, and us, I take it, when it happens.

Now, last night, the 23rd of February, that woman, she'd just make one' her fourteenth night consecutive; and I had it planned to send her to Township to-day. She'd be warm in the poor-house, at least, and sure of her rations, Cap'n and I both felt glad of it when we saw her stagger in. He said: "We've got the last time." And I said: "Here again, Doherty!"

I went up to speak to her, for I felt a little sorry, too, knowing it was the last time. For you couldn't understand how familiar their faces grow, or the kind of feeling an officer gets about them, now and then.

There is the entry just as I put it down, after so many times.

No. 31 (she came in rather early)—No. 31. Doherty, Ellen. Vagrancy. Sick." For we saw at once that she was pretty sick. She'd been beating about in the storm. The snow was all over her. I noticed that she had on a clean calico dress. She stood just where you're standing, ma'am, while I made the entry. It took the snow some time to melt, for it had sleeted some. She looked almost as if she was in a white dress, she was so covered. She had her hair done up neat, too.

I thought I'd go and see her in the cell myself. So I went down. She walked very slow and seemed weak. "Tired, Doherty?" said I.

"Lieutenant," said she, "folks used to call me Nell. Nobody called me Doherty till I began to come to the police station. I don't think that anybody called me that until I'd been into the house," said she.

Then I said, for I thought I'd pacify her if I could, "Are you sick to-night, Nell?"

"Oh, my God!" says she—just like that. Then she threw up her arms over her head, and began to sob and take on. But she didn't swear. She felt too sick, I take it. So we put her in with the rest, and she got into the corner and sat crying.

It was not until midnight that she began. They didn't get still as and quieted before that. But every now and then the men would call: "Sing us to sleep, Doherty! Where is Doherty! Doherty! Sing us to sleep!"

The storm set in hard toward midnight. It beats heavily here upon the office windows as you see, ma'am; and we got a pretty clean sweep of the wind on account of the street running to the wharves. I sent down once to ask how Doherty was, and the last officer reported that she was quiet, and he wished the rest were. They'd all set in, men and women he said in concert, a-crying out "Sing us to sleep, Doherty!"

Pretty soon she began. I could hear her plain above the roaring of the storm. She began—Doherty began—that—that poor—miserable—creature she that had once been a woman like other women or folks —excuse me ma'am; but she'd been on our books a good many years. And I've heard her do such a thing as I never looked to be taken by surprise as Doherty took me. You're not surprised very easy in such a place as this is at anything our fellow-sinners do.

But about midnight, when the storm was at its thickest and the cells were growing still, Doherty, she sat up and began to sing a hymn. And they sang it all through:

"Shall we gather at the River."

My boy sings that at the Sunday school, and my wife, she strikes it up the first thing on the cabinet organ every Sunday night. Doherty sang it all through:

"At the margin of the river,
Washing up its silvery spray,
We shall walk and worship ever,
All the happy golden day."

Those are the words. I thought perhaps you wouldn't know them. Folks sing them a great deal in the meetings.

Before you could have cocked a pistol it was as quiet as the grave all through this place. The officers looked at one another. All the men waked up. The women, they got together in a heap about her. The Cap'n said to me: "Doherty's singing hymn tunes!"

I said I thought we'd go down and see; and down he went.

When we looked in at the grating, I wish ma'ma, you could have seen those men—ragged, rough, red, drunk. Some of 'em taken in awful crimes. No, I don't wish you had seen 'em. But there they sat, as silent as a row of angles on the judgment day, a listening to hear that woman sing.

One and another they said: "Hush! hush!" And one fellow said: "I used to sing that song myself." He was up for assault and battery. Badly beaten, too, himself about the face. He crept along the wall, I noticed, on his knees, to get where he could hear her better. When she stopped and he hollered out:

"Give us some more, Doherty!"

And the rest said:—

"Doherty, give us another psalm tune!"

But one of the women said:—

"Come, Nell. Sing us to sleep with the hymns."

So then she began again; and she gave it to 'em, one upon another, fast and clear. Heaven knows where the creature learned 'em. At some Sunday School, maybe, where she'd wandered in at the holidays. They go a good deal on account of the Christmas presents.

We all got round her there—the men inside and the officers without—and listened for a while. I don't think I ever heard her sing so all my life. Doherty had a fine voice, and no mistake. If she'd been respectably born she'd have been a great singer, that woman. I've heard the voice of Jenny Lind, and Parepa; and folks would have been running to the opera and to concert halls to hear her.

So there she sat and sang. She set up in one corner, with her chin upon her hands, and noticed nobody, but stared straight on before her. She sang "Nearer my God, to Thee," and "Depth of Mercy," and she sang "I heard the voice of Jesus say," and "Love at Home," and all those. And all the men and women listened. And I saw the Cap'n draw his hand across his eyes. And I'll own it was too much for me. I will, indeed.

To see her there, letting out those holy words so trustfully, as you might say, ma'am, as if she had as much right to 'em as anybody—that—poor—wretched— ma'am, it was enough to break your heart to hear her. I couldn't help remembering how pretty she had been and young, and how she took on the first night she ever came to us.

Pretty soon I come away up-stairs—for she unmanned me so, before the men; and I set down here, and had it out alone. But while I was sitting here I heard a lull, and one of the Irish boys called out:

"Give us some more, Doherty! Then ye can take yer sleep yersilf."

And then, ma'am, she began, quite low and in a faint voice and very sweet, and she sang:

"Jesus lover of my soul."

She sang in this way, singing louder now and then—

"Let me to Thy bosom fly,
While the billows near me roll,
Hide me, O Thou Saviour, hide!"

And in the midst of the verse she stopped. The men called to her, and the Cap'n said:

"Give us the rest, Nell!"

I was rather glad he called her Nell just then; for when we got in, wondering how to break our singing, hushing up the the women, ma'am, as best we could, we found her lying turned a little on her side, with her face against the wall, quite dead.

An Unpleasant Souvenir.

A very unpleasant discovery was made at Nimes a short time ago by the wife of a mason, who, whilst looking for some linen in one of her husband's boxes, came up a woman's skull. She at once requested her husband to inform her how he came into the possession of such a singular object, and when he told her it was a souvenir of his first wife, she begged him to get rid of it, which after some hesitation, he promised to do. The story got rumored about in the village, and on its coming to the ears of the police the mason was prosecuted for violating a burial place.

The case was heard before the local tribunal, and from the evidence given it appears that the accused, hearing that the remains of Dr. Lisfranc, who died in 1871, were to be disinterred, induced the mayor of the native place to allow the gravedigger to give him a part of the body that he might preserve it as a souvenir. The gravedigger brought him the skull wrapped up in a piece of cloth, and this the mason proudly preserved in a box.

The tribunal, holding that the accused had not been guilty of any sacrilegious act, acquitted him, and this decision has been confirmed by the Court of Appeals at Nimes.

KEEPING POULTRY IN ORCHARDS.—This is a matter that should be practised when possible. We believe that if farmers and fruit-growers knew the benefits arising from such management they would at once adopt it. Last fall we visited an orchard in which fowls were kept, the owner of which told us that before the fowls were confined in it the trees made little or no growth, and only a correspondingly amount of fruit was obtained. But what a change was evident now! The grass was kept down, the weeds killed, and the trees presented an appearance of thrift which the most enthusiastic horticulturist could not but admire and envy. The growth of the trees was most vigorous and the foliage remarkably luxuriant. The fruit was abundant, of large size, and free from worm and other imperfections. This excellence was accounted for by the proprietor, who remarked that the fowls ate all the worms and curculio in their reach, even the codlin-worm." He found no trouble with their roosting in trees than he expected, and that a picket fence six feet high kept them within bounds. His orchard was divided into three sections, and the fowls were changed from one to another as the condition of the grass or orchard section seemed to require.—The Poultry World.

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its distressing expectoration and labored breathing, the demulcent properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda manifests itself in its healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided reasserts herself, and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Health and Vigor are confirmed in health.

Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00.

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success in curing cases as does BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its wonderful effects before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. ddw

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.

CATARRH is a disease of the mucous membrane, the tissues of which are constitutions very layered in its individual cases. Catarrh may arise from a cold, from the influence of certain climatic changes of seasons, from standing wandering, exposure to inclement weather, from inhaling the dust of certain trades, from poisonous exhalations, and from other irritating, and the strength and vital energies of the system are lowered, the blood becomes impoverished, and the seeds of consumption are implanted in the system. Catarrh is a disease of the blood, from fearful discharges are sent to the stomach, which causes dyspepsia, and our air generally involved and discharges of a sickening character, and the sufferer feels as though he were breathing the effluvia from a decaying carcass. The free machinery disorganizes and the nervous system becomes deranged, rendering breathing through the nose impossible, and the patient has to breathe through the mouth, thereby producing hoarseness, and the throat is parched and dry, and the sufferer is constantly desired to hawk and expectorate to relieve the throat of the accumulations of mucus, and feverish, instead of resting freely down from the nose and throat, the mucus forms into scabs, incrustations, and hard substances, which are very offensive to the sufferer and annoying to others, and frequently efforts to dislodge them cause them to bleed. The sufferer has no appetite, and, as a result, he becomes emaciated, the hair may be found glued together, and matter is secreted from the eyes, and the ears are often affected, rendering deafness. The free matter discharges at times in quantities which cause the sufferer to eject the same frequently in indignation and disgust. The sufferer is frequently troubled with a severe pain over the eyes, which is aggravated by exposing the head to the sun, thereby producing headache, which sometimes extends to the back of the head, and sometimes to the shoulders, and affecting become a chronic disease and many become insane through it.

THE PUBLIC ARE CAUTIONED

that the only book giving the complete history of the travels, explorations, important discoveries, and thrilling adventures of Mr. Stanley in Africa during 1874-1877 is now published, under the title which appears at the head of this advertisement as the Canadian COPYRIGHT EDITION.

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Life and Wonderful Adventures of Stanley"—have been advertised. They are a rehash of Livingstone and other old books of African travel and not Stanley's letters. The first is the Original spurious book, published in Philadelphia, written by T. J. Hudspeth. The second is the interior copy of the first. Both have mostly old illustrations. See that you get the genuine work written by Mr. Stanley. Lord Dufferin on his Successor.

The Earl of Dufferin, late Governor-General of the Dominion of Canada, and a perfect representative of the class of statesmen in whose hands the true interests of his country are safest, made yesterday what seems to us the closing and highest speech that ever fell from his lips. The occasion was that of the joint address of the Ontario municipalities upon the appointment of the viceregal chair, and the Earl's reply was of the nature of an outpouring of his emotions, the blarney of Lord Dufferin was the most intelligently loyal, as was to be expected from a man whose nature and training combined to make him perhaps the highest statesman, and the applause which it elicited showed that the breadth of the Atlantic is small indeed to the warm heart of the Canadian heart to the mother country. Canadians, and all their sensible neighbors south of the St. Lawrence and the lakes, will take great satisfaction from Lord Dufferin's earnest indorsement of the young nobleman whom his relations with the people and governor's experience are most likely to be favorably disposed towards using statesmen with out good cause, as the word which were spoken at Quebec and Toronto increase the fervor of the welcome which already awaited the Marquis of Lorne as a scion of a noble house and the husband of a daughter of the Queen. But the sentiments of good will and loyalty were further strengthened by the Earl's remarks upon the duties which, according to the speaker, will rule by a power which is none the less effective because in dependent of constitution and legal precedent. —N. Y. Herald.

Lost in the Arctic Seas

Capt. Roach, master of Messrs. C. A Williame & Co's whaling schooner "Helen F." of New London, wrecked in October, 1876, in the Arctic Seas, has arrived in that city. He reports that the Helen F. was in winter quarters at Cumberland Inlet when beset by the storm in which she was lost. A heavy gale sprung up and the ice, driven by it, came crowding the vessel drove her out to sea. Efforts made to work her back failed and after two days of toil, an attempt was made to reach either Hannah's Harbor or Brown's Harbor. These efforts also failed, and the vessel was, as a last resource, beached on a small island. She was covered with ice to the bulwarks, and the vessel was stripped and the provisions landed. This latter task was but just completed, when the winds from west wind started the crackling, grinding ice-blocks in a near fiord to the isle, and they came on in great resistless heaps, and crowded up and jutting up over the vessel's decks, buried her from sight, and left only her mast-heads visible. Full forty feet above her deck and on all sides of her lay the shining transparent piles imprisoning her as securely as though she were fastened in the bowels of the earth. It was the 17th of August, and that officers and crew could make their way to the station in Lemon's Harbor, where were better shelter and a plentitude of provisions, and that they did so, the schooner, Arctic, came in the east and knew where they long had held her hard and fast. From the station at Pond's Bay the crew of the Helen fished with fair success until July 10, when the Scotch brig Perseverance hove in sight and took them off. On the 12th she began to sea, and after a pleasant voyage of twenty-eight days' duration she came into Peterhead, Scotland. Thence her crew went to Liverpool and thence to Boston, where Liverpool Capt. Roach and his first mate came to New York.—New Haven Journal.

The Grand Trunk Prospects in the West.

The Detroit News says:

"So long as Vanderbilt continues to give the Grand Trunk a fair and equal show with western business over the Michigan Central, so long will the Grand Trunk refrain from taking decided steps to acquire a through line to Chicago. It is not launching out at Ridgeway will probably be finished in Pontiac this season, and this will constitute the first link of the Grand Trunk through line. No matter how the Grand Trunk may deny its intentions to treat the Grand Trunk to equal privileges with his own roads, the interests are so divergent that there is difficulty will occur sooner or later. In such an event, with its cars running to Pontiac, there is no fear that the Grand Trunk would not be able to offers of connection with other roads, and it would not surprise railroad men if an advantageous connection with the Wabash and other intermediate roads could be made public during the winter. The citizens of Jackson, who feel that business independence of that city can only be secured by building the proposed Northwestern Railway, and thus establish a connection with the Grand Trunk Railway, held a meeting to consider the matter this evening. It will thus be seen that the Grand Trunk is so powerful, even in its passiveness and apparent isolation, that its commands respect and favorable opportunities, even from business rivals, while its prospective line across Michigan will be a matter of dismay and opposition to Detroit cities and the managers of roads who wish to secure such an important ally."

Spurgeon's Congregation

On entering the church there was probably not more than two hundred persons in advance of us, and these were all seated in the aisles and on benches along the walls being, like ourselves, strangers and not holders of seats. We took similar positions, and for the first five minutes of eleven we could take any seats in the pews that were at that time vacant. At a quarter past eleven the doors were "locked in," and when the hands of the clock pointed to five minutes to eleven there was a general move all over the place to get into the seats that were all engaged. At eleven o'clock, when Mr. Spurgeon came upon the rostrum, the whole church was packed to overflowing, and the doors were closed and bolted. The side seats were all filled, and two immense galleries, one above the other, which surround the long and broad church both before and behind the rostrum were not only packed, but along the walls hundreds were standing, and even the stairways to the galleries massed with people. In times long past Mr. Spurgeon was spoken of as a sensational preacher, but for twenty-five or thirty years he has never failed, morning and evening, to attract such gatherings as this, and he has built up the largest and most powerful church organization in London. In the morning, in announcing that he would preach again at 6 o'clock this evening, he requested the congregation and pew-holders to "stop away" and let others who were desirous to be present occupy their places; that his sermon was not intended for them, and their presence was not desired. What other minister in the world, with six thousand seats at his disposal, could have hazarded such an announcement as this? The weather was also threatening rain, which has been coming down at intervals since we returned, but he will have a packed church this evening notwithstanding.—Letter to Baltimore American.

The Oldest Man in the World.

From the London Telegraph.

At last the oldest inhabitant has turned up. There is no doubt about the fairness of his claim to this title, and no chance that a rival will appear to dispute it. His venerable person age exceeds by half a century even that of old Parr, who is perfectly well known to have beaten every other patriarch since the days of diluvian days. It is, perhaps, a drawback to the newly discovered centenarian, or rather the centenarians, for he is an Assyrian. One is inclined to grudge that rushing and somewhat "stuckup" continent the possession of all the biggest, oldest, and oldest, as well as newest things. But there is no help for it in this case. We must bow to antiquity in the person of the very old fellow who has been described by the scrip pendent of a German paper. He resides in the republic of Columbia in the State whose chief products seem to be tobacco, straw hats, indiarubber, and earthquakes—chiefly the last—and he is a half-caste, Miguel Solis by name. At a recent conference of physicians in Bogota, Dr. Luis Hermanes told how he had interviewed the patriarch, Solis, it appears, is modest enough to claim an age of no more than 180 years, but his neighbors, all of whom, of course have known him from infancy, repudiate the notion that he is such a youngster, and boldly assert that he has overpassed his second century. The evidence on this point, it must in candor be admitted, is not up to the highest. The oldest inhabitants told Dr. Hernandez that when they were boys Solis had the reputation of being more than a century old, and confirmation of this is said to be afforded by the fact that a signature which Solis recognizes as his own appears among the lists of contributors to the cost of rebuilding the convent of San Sebastian in 1712, when he was a sprightly infant of 66 or thereabout. But, unfortunately, as no witness of this interesting signature can be found in the natural course of things, the attestation turns upon old Solis's good faith or his memory, and without being uncharitable, we may fear that one or the other may be defective. For the rest, the aged curiosity is interesting enough. Dr. Hernandez found him in good health and at work in his garden. "His skin resembled parchment, and his long, snow white hair was arranged about his head in a halo. His eyes gleamed so fixedly as to make his visitor feel uncomfortable when looked at." He attributed the length of his life to regular and moderate diet. He eats only one meal a day, but that consists of "strong and hearty food," to which he drinks a small wine glass daily. For more than half an hour at a stretch, having discovered that no man can eat more in half an hour than he can digest in twenty-four hours. But he is not all fat, for he lasts two whole days every month, and then refreshes himself by copious drafts of cold water, which is probably more stimulating diet in those regions than it is in Europe. Finally, he always lets his food get cold before partaking of it, and he considers that this precaution has a great deal to do with the prolongation of his life. On the whole, however, one would like to know more about this experiment skinned and cooked-looking herald of the Columbian wilds before crediting the statement that he came into the world just as Columbus was leaving it, and that he was all fellow may be a practical joker, and may owe his highly effective "make up" to the makers of San Sebastian, who would be sure to enter into the fun of the thing.

A Colony of Baboons.

A Calcutta contemporary has the following curious piece of information:—"One of the most curious facts we have heard for a long time was a complaint brought us from Aligurpara, a little village on the Barrackpore road, about three miles south of Cossipore. A colony of two or three hundred baboons took up their quarters in the village some six or eight months ago, and have made it almost uninhabitable. They are great brutes, we are told, four feet high, and as savage as any wild beasts. They attack children, and even full-grown women without fear, and have set up a reign of terror over the people going in and out of their houses as they please and 'visiting free' upon the plaintains, guavas, mangoes, and other fruit grown in their gardens. The people are afraid to shoot them, as the whole colony would attack them instantly. The police will not interfere and the villagers is not merely subject to death by these apes, but is in such a state of insecurity from budmashes that the miserable villagers have sent a deputation to us, imploring us to represent their conditions to the Government. The village is but eight miles from Calcutta upon the river, and if the statement about the baboons is true we should turn out a company of the Indian soldiers upon them. The strength and daring of the animals are declared to terrify the people, the brutes selecting girls and women as the special objects of their attacks."—Irish Times.

Miscellaneous.

To a lady who wrote to him asking about something in his book Freedom, Love and Beautiful, a recent exquisite diplomacy, replies, through a secretary, that, "after reading your letter, he feels no doubt that your taste and discretion will lead you to interpret rightly anything of which the meaning is not obvious in the book in question."

Every one whom we distinguish as natural has independence of mind. The judgment may not be correct, or founded on the wisest grounds, but it is what it professes to be—the mark of one's own opinion. No two acknowledged influences are at work. Hence no one can be natural without strength of character; and every one is natural when the occasion drives him out of the familiar appeal to some external authority and throws him on his innermost conviction.

A Journal printed in Constantinople, in Arabic, and called Al Bachoreah, reports a remarkable revolution in Abyssinia. The successor of King Theodore was King John, but there was a "legitimist" pretender in the country, one Menikes II., who traced his claim back to the Queen of Sheba, from whom he is a direct descendant. He called on John to submit to him, and, according to this Arabic story, John very obligingly did so, and is now a vassal, and not a peer. The Menilek family are said to have been trying for something like 2,723 years to "unify" the old Kingdom of Sheba, and have at last succeeded.

Rare as is true love, true friendship is rarer. He only is exempt from failure who makes no efforts.

Pay no attention to slanderers and gossipmongers. Keep straight on your course, and let their backbiting die the death of neglect. Why is the one living awake at night brooding over the remark of a mere false friend that runs through your brain like lightning?

The Local Government.

"It is not likely," says the Toronto Telegram, "that the local Government will be in any hurry to go to the country. Mr. Mowat and his colleagues will not have been able to extract either much comfort or encouragement out of the defeat of their friends at Ottawa. The Local Government cannot, of course, fairly be held responsible for the sins of omission or of commission on the part of the Ottawa administration. They have nothing to do either with the opposition to the National Policy. But the trouble is that the members of the Local Government went out of their way to take the stump and do what they could for their friends at Ottawa. Having thus joined their fortunes and got into the same boat, they may consider themselves lucky if they are able to get to shore without being swamped in the storm of general condemnation. We fancy that they will be in no great hurry to go to the country."

Our Independent contemporary is probably correct in its augury as to Mr. Mowat's intentions; but as in any case the term of the present Parliament of Ontario will expire in January next, it is time that the Conservative party should make preparations for the electoral battle which must be fought within the next four months. The great success which has attended their efforts in the Dominion elections will naturally have the effect of rendering Conservatives so certain of an easy victory as to make them careless in preparing for the ensuing contest. We strongly advise them against allowing any such ideas to enter their minds. Our opponents are wary and active. They have sustained a crushing defeat, which will arouse them to united action, with the determination to retain the reins of power in this great Province, and their energy must be met by a spirit of earnest determination on the part of our friends. The issues are widely different from those decided upon in the Dominion elections, and although the Ontario Ministers identified themselves with the waning cause of Mr. Mackenzie, they will be largely judged by their own actions. Therefore we advise Conservatives generally to let the glorious victory which they have not yet done celebrating be but an incentive to even more earnest and united exertion in behalf of their principles than heretofore. Their duty now is to select their best men as candidates, and place them in the field at the earliest possible time; to keep up their organization and add to its strength; and generally to take such steps as will honorably conduce to the return of their candidates. By such means only can they procure the redemption of the Province from the thraldom of Grit rule, which it has suffered under for the past seven years.

MORNING PAPER.—We observe that the Ottawa Citizen is to be issued in the morning hereafter, instead of in the evening. Ottawa, with its 25,000 inhabitants, ought to support a morning paper, and we shall be glad to hear of the success of the new venture.

MR. BROWN IN OTTAWA.—We notice by the Free Press that Mr. Brown, Member for West Hastings, was in Ottawa on the 21st inst. We presume he went to see about that Collectorship, for which, it is reported, there were about fifty applicants. Suppose Mr. Mackenzie acts consistently with his former professions, and refuses to make any appointment, won't there be weeping and howling amongst the Grits?

THE MARQUIS OF LORNE'S PROGRESS IN CANADA.—An English paper says:—"The programme fixed for the Marquis of Lorne on his arrival in Canada is that he shall make a kind of a progress through the chief cities, including Toronto, Kingston, Montreal and Quebec, before taking up his official residence in Rideau House, Ottawa. It is expected that his visit to Quebec will extend over several weeks."

FOILED.—The Kingston News says: "On no man running in the Opposition interest did the Ministerialists make a more decided attack than on Mr. Mackenzie Bowell. One of the most industrious members of the House of Commons, Mr. Bowell performed his duty in a faithful manner, while he did good service in helping to expose the jobbery of the Administration. To the month cation of his bitter opponents Mr. Bowell is member-elect for North Hastings."

CABINET-MAKING.—Cabinet-making seems to be the order of the day. The Montreal Herald is forced to the conclusion that Sir John A. MacDonald must be the coming Premier, notwithstanding the Pacific Scandal charges. It recommends Tilley and Tupper for portfolios. In a cast which it makes of a Cabinet, it gives the following in addition to those already mentioned: Messrs. Pope, P. E. I., Chauvin, Caron, Desjardins, Robitaille or Blanchet, with either Messrs. Pope or Brooks; Messrs. Campbell, O'Connor, Bowell or Kirkpatrick, Aikins and Mr. Thomas White.

COINAGE IN FRANCE.—The coinage of France during the year 1877, amounted to $3,292,857 in silver, and $51,436,628 in gold. The coinage of silver was wholly upon orders issued before the decree of August, 1876, by which the issue of five franc pieces was suspended. The coinage of gold was wholly of twenty franc pieces. Since 1795, the aggregate coinage in France has been $1,701,302,712 in gold, and $1,105,292,557 in silver, nearly all five franc pieces. The total value of all bronze money coined in France since 1795 is $12,540,557. But it must be remembered that a very large part of the coin issued from the French mint has long ago gone abroad, and the amount now remaining in circulation in that country can only be estimated.

EAST HASTINGS.

The declaration took place on Saturday at Shannonville, Mr. Aylesworth being declared elected by a majority of 20. Mr. White thereupon demanded a scrutiny of the ballots, which was fixed to take place at Belleville to-morrow before the County Judge. The result will be awaited with interest, as it is generally believed that Mr. White has a majority of the votes legally cast. Should this impression prove not to be well founded, a protest will be lodged on behalf of Mr. White, and the charges of bribery, corruption and intimidation, of which there is plenty of evidence said to be forthcoming, will be investigated. The Mill Point Echo says:—

"The result of the election in this riding doubtless is as much of a surprise to others as it is to ourself. The Grits scarcely hoped to carry the riding, and we are sure the Conservatives did not expect the defeat. It is therefore a surprise to both parties. The majority in this place for the Grit party is very surprising, since it is a well known fact that a large majority of the voters are Conservative. Of course very many of them are beholden to Mr Rathbun for work and many of them are under obligation to him, and fearful to provoke his displeasure; others had hopes no doubt of ingratiating themselves in his good graces, and therefore sacrificed their manhood for that purpose. In this state of things we may be excused for not being able to sympathize. It has been our unswerving policy to hold manhood above all pecuniary considerations, and to defend our rights unto the very death, if need be, as we have proven on many occasions, and therefore the sight of such prostitution is sickening to us. Thank heaven there are over two score of politically righteous men in this place, enough to save and redeem it. It is a cheering fact that manhood is greatly increased in Mill Point since last poll to the east—then the number was only three—that was when Mr. Frizzell opposed Mr. White. As the election is to be contested, we will say as little as possible of what has come under our observation, preferring to first submit it to a legal tribunal whose judgment is not biased by party prejudice, as ours may reasonably be charged with being. Did we declare that undue influence was used, or money paid, or promises of favors given, we would be open to censure or liable to contradiction, therefore we withhold all such charges, and leave the court to decide those questions.

ADMINISTRATOR.—A Quebec dispatch says: General Sir Patrick Maclougall, K. C. M. G., is expected to arrive about the end of the month, and will take up his quarters for a time in the citadel before proceeding to Ottawa to act as Administrator until the arrival of the Marquis of Lorne.

THE MAGDALEN ISLANDS.—Advices from the Magdalen Islands to Friday state that the weather for the past fortnight has been fine; which has enabled farmers to secure the harvest in good order. The hay and grain crops are better than those of last year. The potato disease has appeared to a great extent. Large mackerel are very scarce round the islands, but small ones are abundant. A good autumn cod fishing is anticipated should the fine weather continue.

A WISE VIEW.—It appears that there are some thoughtful people in California who take a wise and moderate view of the Chinese problem. The California Christian Advocate thus expresses its opinion on the subject:—"The earth is the Lord's for all His children to secure the comforts of life in by honest efforts and plodding industry. Facts in the Celestial empire are pleading of starvation in consequence. Here, there are millions upon millions of unoccupied acres waiting for the hand of the toiler. Shall we as a Christian nation, wall them out and leave them to die for lack of bread, instead of allowing them to come and by their honest labor cause the wilderness to blossom as the rose?"

ENTOMOLOGICAL.—The Canadian Entomological Society met on Saturday night at London, at the residence of Mr. William Saunders, President. About twelve of the leading members were present. Mr. Saunders read an excellent and valuable paper on "Our Insect Enemies." Mr. Saunders was re-elected President; Vice-President, Rev. C. J. S. Bethune, Port Hope; Secretary, Treasurer, Mr. J. W. Bowman, London. Council, Mr. E. B. Reed, London; Mr. Couper, Montreal; Johnson Pettit, Grimsby; J. M. Denton, London; Rev. R. Burnett, London; Mr. Bowles, Montreal: James Fletcher, Ottawa and R. V. Rodgers, Kingston. Editor of the Entomologist, Mr. W. Saunders. Editing Committee, Rev. C. S. Bethune, Port Hope; E. B. Reed, London J. G. Bowles, Montreal; and Rev. R. Bennett, London.

CHANGE AND DECAY.—It would be hard for a stranger to find the spots whereon some of the most flourishing of the Pennsylvania oil towns once stood. Scarcely a trace is left of Petroleum Centre, which ten years ago had a population of 4,000, with banks, big hotels, machine shops, stores and churches. Pithole City is nearly gone. When C. B. Duncan, who died in Glasgow years ago, made his will, he left to a church of Pithole $25,000. During the litigation that followed a committee was sent to find the church. They returned and said that no such building was to be found. The fact was that when Mr. Duncan was in Pithole the church was in a flourishing condition, but both congregation and house had disappeared before he made his will.

LATEST SCIENTIFIC STORY.—The last scientific story is told thus:—The Saturday Review once declared that the greatest benefactor of the human race would be he who could enable man to drink an unlimited quantity of wine without getting drunk. Such a man has been found. Dr. Bell invented the telephone, but its wonders pale before the telegastograph. This is an electrical machine by which the palate can be tickled and pleased by any flavor, and for any length of time, without fear of indigestion or inebriety. By putting soup or fish or wine into a receptacle connected with a powerful battery, the taste of the daintiest viands can be conveyed along a telegraph wire for miles, and to an unlimited number of bons vivants. They have only to put the wire into their mouths, and they seem to be eating and drinking. They may get drunk or over fed, but the moment the contact is broken the evil effects pass off, and nothing remains but "a delightful exhilaration." The inventor however, keeps the modus operandi a perfect secret, and wishes to perfect his discovery before he discloses it to the world.

THE QUEBEC RAILWAY CASE.—On Saturday morning judgment was given in Montreal in the appeal which was made on behalf of the Quebec Government against the judgment of Hon. Mr. Justice Johnson, rejecting the motion that the writ of injunction issued in M. O. and O. R. R. cause be suspended or set aside, on the ground that it had been improvidently issued. The judgment maintained the appeal and reversed the judgment of the Court below, their honours Justices Ramsay and Monk dissenting. This decision sets aside the writ of injunction till the 14th of December next, when the parties will be again heard.

BIBLE CHRISTIAN MISSIONS.—The twenty-third annual report of the Missionary Society of the Bible Christian Church contains the usual interesting particulars of the labors of that body. From it we also learn that the Society employs 39 Ministers, who are assisted by 68 local preachers; they preach in 85 churches, and 34 other places. There are 3,002 church members, 572 S. S. teachers and 3,797 scholars, showing an increase of two churches, 150 members, 24 S. S. teachers, and 223 S. S. scholars, during the past year. The income of the year amounted to $18,138.46, which is $1,978.77, less than the expenditures. At the present time the Society bears a burden of debt reaching $29,978.77, all of which has been expended on legitimate work and which must for the most part be wiped out before the Society can possibly extend its operations.

Agriculture by Irrigation.

The cultivation of land by means of irrigation is gradually extending in Colorado, California, and other localities. In the colony of Greeley, Colorado, 250 water rights, representing 10,000 acres of land, were sold in 1878, and the present year 290 rights were disposed of up to July. As progress is made and experience gained, or better methods are practised, the water is used with more economy, and the breadth of land that can be watered in consequently enlarged. So far, streams only have been utilized, but it is now proposed to make use of the water of occasional floods by confining it in reservoirs. In this way the supply may be largely increased, and hundreds of farms made in places that are now barren, not only because they are deficient in water for three-fourths of the year, but because they are torn and devastated by freshets and inundations at other seasons, when the water would be useless for vegetation. It will doubtless be out a short time before agriculture will call for the services of engineers, to make available the practically unlimited opportunities for impounding water in the mountain valleys, and using it for irrigation. We hear already of such intentions in the valley of the Arkansas, which possesses a supply of water sufficient to convert its present dry fields into gardens for several hundred miles along its course. American Agriculturist.

HUNGRY OFFICE-SEEKERS AT OTTAWA.

Albert and Westmorland Elections to be Contested.

THE SITUATION AT THE CAPITAL.

OTTAWA, Sept. 22.—There is great tribulation in Grit circles owing to Mr. Mackenzie's refusal to make any appointments in the face of the signal manner in which the people have repudiated his policy. A perfect swarm of Quebec Rouges are here pressing their claims, and Mr. Provost, ex-M.P. for Two Mountains, has sent a threatening message to the Premier calling upon him to fulfil a promise made to him. Threats have also been made by members of the party to choose a new leader in opposition, unless appointments are made. Mr. Taschereau is looking for a judgeship, and among others in the city are Raoul de Beaujeau, of Soulanges; E. C. Monk, Q. C., of Montreal; Ross W. Huntington, of the Herald, and Brown, of West Hastings, who is urging the Premier to make the appointment of Collector of Customs at Belleville, which the latter absolutely refuses to do.

Mr. Blake is condemned by prominent Quebec Rouges, who charge him with having deserted the party in a grave crisis.

Devastation in the West Indies.

Loss of Life and Destruction of Property in Hayti and Trinidad.

A Cyclone, An Earthquake, and a Tidal Wave.

HOUSES, WHARVES, SHIPPING AND CROPS DESTROYED—MEN, WOMEN, AND CHILDREN SWEPT OUT TO SEA—THE COFFEE AND COCOA CROPS RUINED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Advices from Hayti report terrible destruction by a tornado and partial tidal wave on the 3rd, 4th, and 5th of September. At Jacmel several warehouses were swept away with their contents, several dwellings and a public hall demolished, two wharves were swept away, and five vessels wrecked, including the Dominican frigate Ozema. At Aux cayes 434 houses were destroyed. The Gambean bridge, military headquarters, court house, school house, arsenal, and prison were destroyed, and all the roads are filled with broken trees and debris. Several lives were lost and many persons wounded.

At Tobeck, Port Salut, St. Louis, and Cavilion the tornado tore the houses to pieces, and the sea rushed into the market place. Five bodies have been found. At Aquin only forty houses remain. At Jeremie twenty houses were swept out to sea. At Carail forty houses were destroyed. The distress in the country is fearful, as the crops and roads are entirely destroyed. Letter to business houses in this city states that the destruction of the coffee crop is almost complete. A Jamael letter says half a million pounds of logwood were swept away there.

Trinidad advices state that the tornado swept that island, tearing down houses, trees, bridges, and warehouses, and strewing the coast with wrecks and wreck matter. The post office and Colonial Bank building in Port Spain were crushed by immense trees blown upon them. Seven inches of rain fell, and as midnight an earthquake shock occurred but no lives were lost.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, SEPT. 23.

City and Vicinity

LATE.—The mail train from the west due at noon, was upwards of one hour late today.

THE RIFLE.—Preparations are being made for the holding of the annual meeting of the Hastings Rifle Association, which will take place at an early date.

THE CELLS.—No prisoners were arrested during the forty-eight hours ending this morning, and only one tramp sought protection in the cells during the same period.

CHANGING.—The maples are beginning to clothe themselves in their beautiful autumn garb, which is another indication of the rapid progress of the year towards the season of frosts and snow.

THE RIVER.—Seldom indeed has the water in the river been so high as it is at present. The current at the lower bridge is now as strong and the height of water as great as it usually is in the month of May.

ARRIVED OUT.—The Allan steamship Sarmatian arrived at Liverpool, on the 22nd inst.

If you are fatigued in mind and body, take SANFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER.

FROST.—That the nights are rapidly becoming "chilly chill" has become unpleasantly patent to every one of late, the change to Autumn weather having been very rapid within a few days past. There was a heavy frost last night, vegetation generally, sidewalks and roofs being thickly covered with a white coating of frost-rime this morning.

A NUISANCE.—The bodies of three dead cats, which had probably been shot during one of their nightly concerts, have for some days adorned the vacant lot on the southwest corner of Bridge and Church streets, and have of late created a perfume any thing but agreeable. The Board of Health ought to have them removed, as they are a nuisance of the first order.

CONSERVATIVE VICTORY.—Our Tweed correspondent writes:—"The victory was celebrated in Tweed after the arrival of the news by bonfires and the burning of Richard John Cartwright in effigy. We certainly feel the loss of Mr. John White, as it would be gratifying to us to have him able to take his seat on the right side of the Speaker. We trust he will be able to prove his right to the seat, which is believed to be honestly his on a fair count."

BUTCHERS' TOURNAMENT.—In the butchers' tournament on Friday, Henry Geary won the prize for killing and dressing an ox. John Churchward, his competitor, completed his work in the same time, but Geary's was adjudged to be the most artistic job and so he was awarded the prize. In the competition for killing and dressing five lambs, John Harris was first; Geary second and Churchward third. The affair attracted the attendance of a considerable number of spectators.

TRIAL TRIP.—On Saturday afternoon the trial trip of the new 10 ton yacht Gracie took place. The breeze was strong, and a big sea was rolling down the bay, the conditions of the weather being thus highly favorable for the trial both as to speed and seaworthiness of the new craft. She acquitted herself admirably in all respects, being possessed of speed to a remarkable degree and proving herself very stiff under canvas. No doubt she will be heard of to some purpose in next Monday's regatta.

PLASTER OF PARIS.—It is a good plan to keep a box of plaster of Paris in the house. Be sure and set it where no water can be spilt upon it. If the burner of a lamp becomes loosened, mix up a little with water and put it around the glass top of the lamp, then put the brass on. The whole operation should be performed as quickly as possible, for the plaster hardens or sets almost instantly. A board or some dish you will not need to use again, will be the best thing to mix the plaster on, as it is almost impossible to remove it after it sets. Where there are cracks or large unsightly nail-holes in a plastered wall, plaster of Paris may be used to fill them up.

MILL POINT.—The following items are extracted from the Echo:—"The schooner Hibernia which water-logged and capsized near Bath last week, was brought into port last Sunday.—There has been 70,000 bushels of barley shipped from Mill Point and the Marsh Front. This is perhaps over half the amount raised in this vicinity. The quality is exceedingly good and has commanded a good price.—Mr. Rathbun stated at the meeting on Monday night that he intends starting the ship yard again as soon as Mr. Jamieson returns from Ireland, where he has been visiting for the last two months.—Fall ploughing has been begun by some farmers; others are busy sowing rye. There has been some fall wheat sown. We believe that if the farmers would prepare their grounds properly they might have good wheat crops again. One good fall wheat crop is worth two crops of spring wheat."

ARRIVED.—The Allan steamship Peruvian passed Fox River this afternoon.

FIRE.—An alarm was raised shortly before 2 o'clock to-day, which was caused by the roof of McRae's planing factory taking fire from the smoke-stack. The workmen employed in the factory extinguished the fire before the engines arrived.

VANDALISM.—We are informed that on more than one occasion lately, the building used as a Separate School in West Belleville, has been broken into and the furniture upset and injured. The perpetrators of such deeds may ere long find themselves arraigned before a Court of Justice.

WEST HASTINGS FAIR.—The annual exhibitions of the West Hastings Agricultural Society, and the Belleville Horticultural Society, together with the Cheese Fair of the Dairymen's Association of Eastern Ontario, will be held here on Wednesday and Thursday of next week, October 2nd, and 3rd. The prizes offered are liberal in all classes, and the prize list has been well arranged. As usual, the exhibition will be opened to adjoining counties, and we hope to see the fair of 1878 equal if it does not surpass any previously held under the same auspices. There is the better ground for hoping this, as the season has been extraordinarily fruitful, and most of the productions of the farm, the garden, and the orchard, are of an unusual excellence in point of size.

BLACKWOOD'S EDINBURGH MAGAZINE for September, as issued by the Leonard-Scott Publishing Company, of New York, contains the following: The Liberal Party and the Church of Scotland; John Caldigate, Part III; French Home Life, describing the most striking of the various characteristics of the French home, and showing how the French idea of home differs so largely from the English view. Gordon Baldwin (conclusion.) Cyprus, from the Journal Notes of Lady Franklin. The recent acquisition of the island by Great Britain gives great interest to this article. The mere political transfer has given the island more notoriety than would be achieved by the discovery of any amount of antiquities. Song of the Night. Those who doubt the existence of the remains of a Greek city in South Africa, and they are probably many, will be staggered by this article entitled "A Fetish City," made up from the report of a digger from the Diamond Fields; and will begin to think, as the writer suggests, that the ancients knew more about this world of ours than is usually accredited to them in the "Classical Atlas." Translations from Heine, by Theodore Martin; Lord Hartington's Resolutions and the position of the Opposition; Review of the Session.

Police Court.

MONDAY, Sept. 22.

LARCENY,

David Stetts, is charged of stealing 7 sheep and a heifer from Robert Elliott and 16 sheep from Robert McDavitt, was sent up for trial.

The Elcho Shield.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin, in addressing Major Leech, captain of the Irish team, which won the Elcho shield, on the latter delivering up the trophy to the Corporation of Dublin for safe keeping, said:—"On behalf of the Corporation of Dublin, they were highly pleased and gratified with the honors won by the gentlemen of the Irish team, at Wimbledon. Nothing could give them greater pleasure than to know of such achievements of Irish prowess. Not alone was that sentiment shared in by that ancient Corporation, but the people of Ireland felt proud of the great victory won by their countrymen." The Hon. Mr. Vereker moved the following resolution: —"That we accept the custody of the Elcho Shield as a testimony of the skill and prowess of our countrymen, who have done credit to our native land in winning the Elcho Shield four times out of six, showing that in the exercise of arms as in athletics we not only equal, but excel, their competitors." He remarked that the Elcho Shield was an object of ambition to the three nations. Looking at the Shield they could see by its very manufacture that it was intended for English and Scotch competition—they would see that it bore no Irish emblem on its face—and, yet, for four years out of six it had sojourned in this, their native land. He did not then mean to say that any insult or offence had been intended for Ireland, but, on the contrary, that England and Scotland looked up on the disability under which Ireland laboured —that which was the birthright of every free man in England or Scotland, namely, to carry a rifle and become master of its use, which no legislation could do without a license—as an insurmountable barrier against their participating in the contest. For, as the shamrock flourished not only in the sheltered valley, but forced its way to the peak of the mountain and bloomed on the summit of the bleakest hill, that rose from the rude impetuous surge, so also Irish industry, perseverance, and genius would rise superior to every obstacle and gain strength and vigor by the opposition it met with, till our country filled the place she was destined by Providence to fill, and bursting through every impediment would show that legislation could not chill, nor discourage, nor paralyze the energies of a country resigned to be honored, respected, and second to none." Sir John Barrington seconded the resolution, and said that he regarded the winning of the Elcho Shield as an indication of the persistent determination of the Irish people to obtain equal justice with England and Scotland. If that determination were persevered in, he believed they would win from the present Government before this time twelve months an act of Parliament authorizing them to carry arms as loyal citizens, the same as their English and Scotch neighbors. (Applause.) He believed that in Ireland they were true and loyal from their heart's core, and when that was proclaimed from the Giant's Causeway to Cape Clear, the Government would give them equal privileges, such as were enjoyed in England and Scotland.

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, and the character of the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with place, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of reside; and to make this part of the work of more value, it is intended to give in the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to verify the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts of which there can be no doubt, when the facts of which we now know are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come and locate their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Madoc, Marlbro' Centre, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increases the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward and with a view to connect more closely by those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of VARLEY and Village of PICTON-VILLE, together with information respecting that and all leading Townships, which will be general interest to our mercantile, agricultural and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz: One page, $10 00; half-page, $6 00; quarter page, $4 00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no labor or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

March, 1878.

Useful Recipes.

Sweet oil, rubbed on the skin is said to be a sure antidote for ivy poison.

To harden a wooden pulley, boil it for about eight minutes in drying oil.

A putty of starch and chloride of zinc hardens quickly, and lasts, as a stopper of holes in metals, for months.

A mixture of tallow 3 parts, tar 1 part, applied to the axles while hot, will protect fruit trees against mice.

Brine will answer just as well as salt, to scatter over asparagus beds to keep down weeds, or as fertilizer.

Tin can be removed from copper vessels very thoroughly by immersing the objects in a solution of iron nitrate.

A glue which will resist the action of water is made by boiling 1 pound of glue in 2 quarts of skimmed milk.

Glycerine paste for office use may be prepared by dissolving 1 oz. gum arabic and two drachms glycerine, in 3 ozs. thick rice water.

Equal proportions of turpentine, linseed oil, and ammonia, thoroughly applied several times in the sun, in summer, form excellent furniture polish.

To make green gold, melt together nine teen grains pure gold and five grains pure silver. The metal thus prepared has a beautiful green shade.

Equal weights acetate of lime and of chloride of calcium, dissolved in twice their weight of hot water, in a evaporating mixture for ice cream.

An ink composed of copper pulp part, dissolved in ten parts nitric acid, ten parts water (using nitric acid in excess), and a little gum arabic, will not corrode pens.

White horn buttons may be made to imitate mother of pearl by being boiled in a saturated solution of sugar of lead and then laid near yellow phosphorus to quickline. The compound is sprinkled on the red hot iron, and the latter replaced in the fire.

Mahogany stains.—Wash the wood to be stained with diluted nitric acid, 10 parts of water to one acid. For rosewood, glaze the same with carmine or Munich lake. Asphaltum thinned with turpentine forms an excellent mahogany color for new work.

The German washerwoman uses a mixture of 2 ozs. turpentine and 1 oz. spirits of ammonia, filling the bottle together, that is put into a bucket of warm water, in which 1 oz. or more has been dissolved. The clothes are then rinsed for twenty-four hours and then washed.

When it is not convenient to take a lock apart to fit a new key, the key blank should be smoked after being imperfect with the keyhole, and pressed firmly against the opposing warts of the lock. The indentations in the smoked portion made in the wards will show where to file.

To extract broken steel, immerse the article to be cleaned in a solution of 3 oz. cyanide of potassium to a wine glass full of water until the dirt and rust disappear. Then clean by means of a tooth brush with a paste composed of cyanide of potassium, Castile soap, whitening, and water.

The following is one way to cut a bottle in two: Turn the bottle as evenly as possible over a low gaslight flame for about ten minutes, keeping steadily in water; and the sudden cooling will cause a regular crack to encircle the side at the heated place, allowing the portions to be easily separated.

The following solder will braze steel, and may be found very useful in case of valve stem or other light portion breaking when it is important that the engine should continue work for some time longer: Silver, 10 parts; copper, 1 part; brass, 2 parts. If practicable, charcoal dust should be strewed over the melted metal of the crucible.

Cement of Marbles and Alabaster.—Mix 12 parts of Portland cement, 6 parts of slaked lime, 9 parts of fine sand, and make up into a thick paste with silicate of soda. The object to be cemented does not require to be heated. It sets in twenty-four hours, and the fracture cannot be readily found.

The following recipes for metals resembling gold are said to produce a metal which will so nearly approximate the genuine as almost to defy detection without a chemical test: Copper, 2 parts; tin, 1 part; together with saltpetre, sal ammoniac, and powdered charcoal, 4 parts; platinum, 2½ parts of pure pepper, 1 part pure zinc, 2 parts of bismuth, and 2 parts pure lead. Another good receipt calls for 2 parts platinum, 1 part silver, and 3 parts copper.

The following is a simple way of obtaining copies of writing without the use of a copying press:—Mix white sugar with the ink, in the proportion of ½ teaspoonful to 1 oz. Do this with an ordinary pen, and place over the writing a moistened sheet of unsized paper. Lay a smoothing board between two layers of carpet; put the whole under a couple of board large enough to cover. Then stand on the board for a few seconds. An excellent impression will be found on the copying paper.

The following compounds are useful for soldering or tinning:—Tin—1 part muriatic acid with as much water as will dissolve; add 12 parts water and some sal ammoniac. Brass and copper—1 lb. muriatic acid, 4 ozs. zinc, 5 ozs. sal ammoniac, 2 ozs. tin; muriatic acid, 2 ozs. sal ammoniac with all the zinc it will dissolve and 3 parts of water. Iron—1 lb. muriatic acid, 8 ozs. spermaceti, 4 ozs. sal ammoniac. Gold and silver—1 lb. muriatic acid, 8 ozs. spermaceti, 4 ozs. sal ammoniac.

THROUGH THE DARK CONTINENT.

THE Sources of the Nile; around the Great Lakes of Equatorial Africa and down the Livingstone River to the Atlantic Ocean.

BY HENRY M. STANLEY.

With portraits of the author, two large route maps and eight smaller ones, and 147 illustrations from photographs and sketches by Mr. Stanley, engraved expressly for this work, in one volume, demy 8vo., over 1,000 pages cloth extra, gilt, $7 50.

The type is clear, two thirds of a page inches, enables the reader to follow every step of Mr. Stanley's wonderful journey.

THE PUBLIC ARE CAUTIONED

that the only book giving the complete history of the travels, explorations, important discoveries, and thrilling adventures of Mr. Stanley in Africa during 1874-1877, is the one published, under the title which appears at the head of this advertisement in the Canadian COPYRIGHT EDITION.

Two spurious books are entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Explorations and Adventures of Stanley," have been advertised. They are a rehash of Livingstone and other old books of African travel and of Stanley's letters to the New York Herald, published in Philadelphia, which he (Stanley) has disowned as an imposition on the public. Be sure that your book is the one written by Mr. Stanley. Examine it carefully before you purchase, and the words "Through the Dark Continent" stamped on sides.

Difficulties Encountered by Stanley.

Harper's Magazine for October.

Stanley's narrative gives us a vivid idea of travel in Africa under its best conditions; that is to say, through a country well known, which has been visited by white men, and is now traversed by frequent caravans. Sometimes they crossed "broad and bleak plains, where food was scarce and cloth vanished fast," and sometimes they came to hilly counties, where the people were civil and hospitable. Sometimes they were in troublesome districts, where there were warring tribes, where the people were treacherous or hostile, and then Stanley could only sleep with his hand on his rifle. There were furious tempests, "and some days Nature and man alike warred against us, while on others both seemed combined to bless us." Other troubles came to the intrepid commander and his small army, more especially that potent and untiring enemy of all African travel—Typhus. This was the enemy who menaced Stanley at Zanzibar, and never left his footsteps till he had embarked at London; who followed him night and day, doing his awful will upon the expedition. And so from these misfortunes—from famine and fever, from fever and massacre, from mutiny and death—the little army dwindled away; and it is a wonder that it did not return, or at least content itself with visiting Livingstone's country and exploring Victoria Nyanza, and return with the report which has been brought for so many centuries—that Africa continued hostile to those who came to woo her, and would not be won. Nor does it surprise us that, amid all these discouragements, the heart of Stanley should have faltered. "The expedition seemed doomed." Promises of reward, kindness, threats, punishments, had no effect." But at the same time the spirit of the leader was felt in the command. "The white men," he says, "although elected out of the ordinary class of Englishmen, did their work bravely, heroically. Though suffering from fever and dysentery, insulted by natives, swarming under the heat, and equatorial rainstorms, they at all times proved themselves of noble, manly natures, stout-hearted, brave, and, better than all true Christians." These are the men by whose empire we are made, but for them there was no empire but the memory of duty well done; no trophy, no reward, unless what is to come as the reward for well doing in the final day of account. Two of them were to sleep near the banks of Victoria Nyanza, victims of disease; the other was to be whirled into eternity over the rapids of the Congo, where his journey was almost at its end.

Sometimes Stanley was in the wilderness without guides. This, however, seemed a happiness compared to his position when he did have guides who betrayed him, as happened early in his expedition. Uhumbu, near the elephant country. In Ukumbu the guides ran away, and Stanley found himself on the edge of a wilderness with but ten day's provisions. He had trusted to his guides, and purchased a small quantity of food. He endeavored to pierce the wilderness, but his track was lost in a maze of elephant and rhinoceros trails. Stanley only depend on his compass. The second day found a jungle of acacia through which the men had to crawl and scramble along the ground "under natural tunnels of entrenching shrubbery, cutting the coverlet and creepers, thrusting aside stout thorny bushes, and by various detours taking advantage of every slight opening the jungle afforded." There was no water. Overcome with hunger and thirst, the command began to straggle and faint. Some managed to reach camp, where restoratives brought them strength. Five never returned. One of them was found dead in the woods, and of the other four it is believed "they hopelessly wandered on until they also fell down and died." On the fifth day they came to a village, but the village comprised only four negroes, their wives and little ones, and had no food for such a large command. Stanley learned that there was another village twenty-five miles away named Suna, and he sent a picked band of twenty, the strongest and most enduring to visit Suna and bring food. He secured the goods for guns, but the village was poor. A lion's den was found. In this den were two young lions, which were killed and skinned. But of what avail were two lion cubs to an expedition of three hundred? Surely here was death at last—death, defeat, and annihilation; and this proud expedition which had set out so glorious from Zanzibar, resolved to force the mystery of a continent and fight its way to the Atlantic, why, all that could happen to it was to perish in an African jungle of lions and elephants, to perish as so many had done before, leaving only the name of Stanley to be added to the sad, dismal roll of martyrs to African discovery. "Returning to camp," says Stanley, "from the fruitless hunt"—nothing in all that wilderness but the two lion cubs—"I was so struck with the pinched faces of my poor people that I could have almost wept. If I cast my eyes inward, into my own breast, my fate in their minds. I resolved to do something toward relieving the pressing needs of their hunger. I had a medical store, which no such an expedition are a sacred trust. He opened a sheet-iron trunk and made it serve as a pot. Into this pot he doled out the pounds of Soudra oatmeal—portions the most precious of all his possessions—and three tins of "rovalenta arabica," and made a gruel. "It was a rare sight," he says, "to see those poor famine-stricken people hasten to that Torquay dress trunk and assist me to cook the huge pot of gruel; to watch them fan the fire to a fiercer heat, and, after I had poured a pounds of water, stand by to cool the foaming liquid when it threatened to overflow." The porridge kept the expedition alive for forty-eight hours, when Stanley heard the musketry of his returning embassy coming in from Suna with food. "The grain was most greedily seized by the hungry people, and an evening was the report of the purveyors that the soldiers one and all clamored to be led away that afternoon." And so our leader marched on.

"Anything new or fresh this morning?" a reporter asked on a railroad office. "Yes," replied the lone occupant of the apartment. "What is it?" queried the reporter, whipping out his note book. Said the railroad man, edging towards the door: "That paint you are leaning against."

Bow Bells.

From the London Times,

For some time past this famous peal of bells, one of the finest, if not the finest, in the City of London, has been undergoing examination in the public interest, and before long the familiar chimes which captivated or consoled a Whittington, and have since charmed many more from time immemorial, will ring out as before. The Church of St. Mary-le-Bow, which, if not originally a Roman temple, as generally believed, was one of the earliest churches built by our Norman conquerors, has been destroyed more than once by storm or fire. It was at one time surrounded and sheltered, and was afterwards the scene of an assassination. It was first mentioned as a christian church in the reign of William the Conqueror. Stow says it was "the first in the city built on arches of stone, and that it was, therefore, called St. Mary de Arcubus, or the Bow, although he also says, but with less apparent probability, that it took its name from certain stone arches supporting a lantern on the top of the tower. By the way, the Court of Arches was formerly held in this church and derived its name from that circumstance. During the reign of William Rufus, the roof of the church was blown off by the wind, and four of the rafters were driven into the ground with such violence that, although they were each 26 feet long, little more than 4 feet of their length was visible, the ground in the neighborhood being then a mere fen. About 100 years after this event a tumult of a serious nature occurred in the city, which led to the assault upon the church before alluded to. The ringleader was William Fitz Osbert, surnamed Longbeard, who was almost worshipped by the low orders on account of his exertions as a professed advocate of the poor against the oppressions of the rich. An attempt being made to seize him, he took refuge in Bow steeple, together with various followers, and being well provided with ammunition and provisions, was able for a long time to set the authorities. In order to drive him out the steeple was fired. This had the desired effect; the rioters were made prisoners, and after a hasty trial, were hanged at that time the usual place of execution. It appeared that Fitz Osbert did not lose his reputation among the people with his life, for it is said that after his death vast numbers of persons resorted to Smithfield, expecting that miracles would be performed, and that they carried away as holy relics pieces of the earth on which his blood had fallen.

Princess Bismarck

(From Blackwood's.)

The wife of Prince Bismarck, Johanna von Putkammer, of an old and noble Pomeranian family, was born in 1824. He made her acquaintance at the marriage of one of his friends, where she acted as bridesmaid, and two years later—in 1847—he asked her to become his wife. Her family was not at first disposed to accept his proposals. At that time Herr Von Bismarck enjoyed a rather curious reputation. He was surnamed "der tolle Bismarck" (mad Bismarck), and had earned this title by his numerous duels, his daring feats of horsemanship, and some widely-spread anecdotes concerning his attitude generally toward professors, burgomasters, and other respectable members of what German students call "Philistine society." But more especially he owed his surname to the very noisy revels he used to hold with a number of exceedingly loud young men at Kniephof and at Schoenhausen. To quiet, respectable, religious people like the Putkammers, he did not appear a very eligible suitor for an only and beloved child. Bismarck, however, settled the question at once. He walked up to Miss Johanna, and having ascertained by a look that she sided with him, he folded her in his arms, and said turning to her astonished relatives, "What God has united no man shall put asunder." Princess Bismarck has preserved all the simplicity of her youth. She is a perfect specimen in the best sense of the word, of the German Hausfrau (housewife). She is very quiet, bears her honors as the most natural thing in the world, holds fast by the old friends of her humbler days, and has but one great object in life—to make her husband and children happy. She cares for them in a peaceful, motherly way, and her serenity and patience, which have always secured for Bismarck a quiet home, have certainly contributed to his success through life. "She it is," he once said to a friend, "who has made me what I am."

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, SEPT. 24.

UNITED STATES POLITICS.

A few days previous to the political revolution which has just taken place in Canada, a result even more startling in its character occurred in the State of Maine. For many years Maine had been a Republican state, the result of every general election which took place within its borders being a Republican majority ranging from 8,000 to 50,000. Others of the Eastern States might change their political allegiance for this, that, or the other reason, but Maine always remained firm in its adherence to the party of Lincoln, Greely, Seward, and its own Hamlin. But now a great change has taken place, and the Republican party finds itself for once in a minority in the hitherto unwavering headquarters of its doctrines. Just as the Province of Ontario has thrown off the incubus of Grit representation in the Dominion Parliament, so has Maine repudiated the comparatively wholesome teachings (as compared with those of other parties in the United States) of Republicanism. This result has been brought about by the fusion of the new party known as "Greenbackers" with the old time Democrats. The State Legislature, as recently elected, is constituted as follows :—The House will consist of sixty-five Republicans, twenty-nine Democrats and fifty-seven Nationals. Of the Democrats, two were elected by Republican aid, and may not incline to fuse with the Nationals. If so, the House may be classed as eighty-four Fusion and sixty-seven Opposition, giving seventeen majority against the Republicans. The Senate will stand twenty Republicans to eleven Fusion, giving the Republicans nine majority, and the Fusion eight majority on joint ballot, which will wrest all the State departments from the Republicans.

This is, as we have indicated, an astounding success for the Greenbackers, who have not been hitherto considered as of much account, and who were rather laughed at when they placed their candidates in the field in Maine and in other States whose elections have not as yet taken place. The party was first heard of in national politics in the last Presidential contest, when it placed a Presidential ticket, at the head of which was Peter Cooper, of New York, in the field. The Greenback candidate received a very small vote, and it was thought that the new party was then crushed out of existence. Its platform, which as nearly as we can understand, is an unlimited issue of paper currency, appears, however, to have taken a greater hold upon the public mind than was generally deemed possible, and now, with the help of a portion of the Democratic party, the financial heresy which is advocated by the Greenbackers may gain the ascendant. This is more especially to be feared, as in some places the Republicans are courting the favor of the new party and uniting with it in order to secure a party triumph, even so eminent a statesman as Senator Conkling, of New York, being accused by several of the leading journals of his party of being about to take part in the new movement, which has largely gained in strength owing to the result of the Maine election. The Republican party, at least the great bulk of it, stands firmly by the "hard money" standard, a position which we trust it will continue to occupy, and on which platform we hope for its success, though the result is to say the least doubtful. If conquered now, however, the advocates of the resumption of specie payments can hardly fail to triumph in the near future, as the United States have already suffered seriously from the inflation of the national currency, which the wise heads of the national administration have done their best to mitigate by returning to a gold standard. The fall elections in the United States will thus be of unusual interest to Canadians, who will watch their results very closely.

THE NEW GOVERNOR GENERAL.—A London correspondent writes: —"The Marquis of Lorne and his wife are going out in state to Canada. There is to be a grand reception on the other side. The new Governor General is to enter upon his duties in a blaze of distinction. The chief London papers are going to send out special correspondents to record his progress. The Illustrated News and the Graphic have selected their best artists to cross over in the train of the Governor and the Princess. Mr. Forbes, of the Daily News, leaves Cyprus to represent his paper with the Marquis. How readily the entire press of England falls into the arrangements of Lord Beaconsfield. Even the Daily News must lay itself out to glorify his Canadian appointment."

THE ICE TRADE.—Recent experiments are likely to work a revolution in the ice trade, and develop its movement in a new direction. Since the efforts to relieve the sufferings in the South from the yellow fever ravages, it has been proved that ice can be taken in cars, well packed, from the extremest point in New England to the extremest point in the South. It is now proposed to utilize empty cars returning from the North by packing them with ice for Southern consumption. Previous to the war freights on ice to the Gulf ports ranged from $1.50 to $7.50 per ton, and the waste was a large percentage. Considering the time and waste, as between a vessel from Boston to New Orleans, and a train of cars from Boston to Memphis, or any other point South, and the advantage is in favor of the car traffic. The ice product of the North may yet become one of its leading industries.

Disappointed.

If disappointment is to be measured by one's hopes, how terrible must be the disappointment of the Clear Grits! The week before the elections, their organizer general, Mr. Pattullo, in a speech delivered in Halton against the Hon. Wm. Macdougall, thus foreshadowed the result which he anticipated at the polls :—

"My settled conviction is that on the night of the 17th September, the Reformers will be found to have carried two-thirds of the constituencies of the Province of Ontario ; that they will have improved their position in Quebec ; that they will have carried seven-eighths of the seats in New Brunswick ; that they will have carried Nova Scotia by a four-fifths majority ; that they will have carried Prince Edward Island solid ; and that in the Western Provinces they will stand very little, if any worse than they do now. This is the Reform victory which present appearances indicate will be achieved on the 17th September."

Mr. Pattullo may be assumed to have spoken the views of his leaders. His position gave him the chance to know more than any one else. His mistake was that he underestimated the intelligence of the people —their ability to appreciate the true interests of the country.—Montreal Gazette.

The Provincial Exhibition.

A Toronto report says :—The exhibition is of course the topic of the day, and but little else is spoken of. The buildings this morning were being stocked with articles, and the ground presented a most busy scene. The display of machinery and agricultural implements is unusually large this year, even as it stands now, and there is much more yet to arrive. The buildings are of the most tasteful and commodious class, the cattle sheds being especially well arranged, but the grounds and the approaches thereto are exceedingly rough. The principal road through the grounds is of corduroy, and very bad at that, and there are yet several sidewalks to be laid down. However, there is a strong gang of men on and to-night will show a difference. Nearly all the live stock have arrived, including the Bow Park herd. Among some of the Devon cattle is a bull weighing 2,400, and there are several gigantic specimens of the Porcine race. If the weather only keeps as fine as it is to-day the exhibition will be a success. Already several thousand people have arrived.

At noon to-day the members of the Council of the Agricultural and Arts Association waited on Lord Dufferin and presented him with the badge of the Association. He welcomed the deputation and thanked them, without making a formal speech. He merely asked them to accept his apologies for being prevented arriving in the city in order to witness the illumination, &c., with which the citizens had intended to welcome him. He explained political affairs and having to tender a cordial reception to the officers of the French men-of-war at Quebec were circumstances over which he had no control. Those alone precluded his carrying out his intention of being in Toronto earlier.

In another column will be found a letter from our Toronto correspondent, in which further particulars about the exhibition may be obtained.

THE LUMBER MARKET.—An Ottawa report says :—"Quite an improvement is noticed in the lumber market. Prominent buyers are in the city, and have purchased several millions of feet from Messrs. Blackburn, McLaren, Bronson & Co., Perley & Potter, and E. B. Eddy. Other lots are being negotiated for. The prices are said to be slightly advanced."

A LARGE FLEET.—According to the Buffalo Advertiser the largest fleet ever known to be in that city was in the harbor there last week. The vessels lay three and four abreast, on both sides of the stream, for a considerable distance. Owing to the large amount of freight being carried the demand for canal tonnage and for storage has been unusually large at different points.

A GENEROUS ACT.—Lord Beaconsfield has done a very generous thing. He has sent his check for 1,000 guineas—that is to say, over $5,000—to the survivors of the agonizing disaster of the Princess Alice. The Premier can afford such kindness, for he has an immense fortune. He has always subscribed largely to every great philanthropic effort of his time.

THE MARQUIS OF LORNE.—A Halifax despatch says :—"The flagship Bellerophon, accompanied by H. M. S. Sirius and Argus, sailed to-day for Quebec via Charlottetown. It is reported they will return here before the arrival of the Marquis of Lorne, who it is now said will land here instead of at Quebec, owing to the lateness of his arrival. A cable to the Globe says that the ironclad Northampton is being put in readiness for the conveyance of the Marquis of Lorne to Canada."

A BRUTAL MURDER.—The body of a man named Ward was found in the woods not far from his house in Charlotte County, N. B., on the 22nd inst. An examination showed that death was caused by the unfortunate man's skull being crushed in, with some blunt instrument. He had evidently been killed alongside a meadow patch and then dragged feet foremost, into the bushes. Thomas Dowd, who is in custody for the commission of the crime, denies the charge. Mrs. Ward, the murdered man's wife, is under surveillance, it being suspected that she is an accomplice of Dowd, with whom, according to the neighbors, she has been intimate. An inquest is being held on the body.

A stupid young man, supposed to be crackbrained, who was slighted by the girls, very modestly asked a young lady "if she would let him spend the evening with her." "No," she angrily replied, "that's what I won't." "Why," replied he, "you needn't be so funny ; I didn't mean this evening, but some stormy one when I can't go anywhere else."

That the beautiful scenery around Amherst is duly appreciated by the students, and that they do all in their power to show its charms to others, can be seen from the following : On a very dark rainy evening, recently a student went to call on a young lady, "Is Miss——at home this evening ?" "Oh no, sir !" was the reply, "she has gone out with Mr. W——, of the senior class, to view Holyoke range by moonlight !"

PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

TORONTO, Sept. 23.

The thirty third Provincial Exhibition of the Province of Ontario nominally opens to-day, but in fact will be formally opened by His Excellency the Governor General at 2 p. m. to-morrow.

His Excellency arrived in Toronto at 11 p. m. on Saturday, and proceeded to the Queen's Hotel. Yesterday afternoon he walked out alone to the Exhibition Grounds.

The new Exhibition buildings and grounds, when completed, will be a credit to the Province of Ontario as well as to the city of Toronto. The beauty of the situation and the location could not be surpassed, and the building would have done no discredit to the Centennial.

As there is nothing to say regarding the exhibits as yet, a short description of the buildings and grounds will be in place. A lease for 999 years of 60 acres of the Garrison Reserve of Toronto at a nominal rental was obtained by the city from the Government. The location is on the shore of the lake opposite the western entrance to the harbor, where a magnificent view of the water can be obtained and a delightful breeze can always be enjoyed. It is scarcely four months since work was commenced, but so well and thoroughly has it been done that everything will be in readiness for the formal opening to-morrow.

THE MAIN BUILDING

is built after the style of the main building at the Centennial, and is exceedingly graceful and stately in its appearance. Its form is such that its dimensions can be enlarged without marring the architectural effect, which is exceedingly fine. Its extent from east to west is 292 feet and from north to south 216 feet. The main height from the ground to the top of the dome will be 155 feet ; to the top of the flag staff, 185 feet. The beauty of the exterior is fully equalled by the graceful proportions of the interior, whose stately arches and crystal domes excite admiration in all beholders. The Art gallery occupies a section by itself on the floor of the building, and is admirably adapted to the purpose, for which it is intended. Two tiers of galleries extend all around the building. The nomenclature of the Centennial is, naturally enough, adopted here. The building next in importance to the main building is which is 202 feet in length by 72 in width. It is built of wood, iron and glass and is surmounted by a very handsome tower. Two aisles extend from one end of the building to the other and three cross aisles from each side. The motive power will be furnished by a Corliss engine and a sixty horse-power boiler. At former exhibitions the accommodation for machinery was very poor, but in the provision here made there is nothing further to be desired.

THE AGRICULTURAL AND HORTICULTURAL HALLS,

while not so elaborate as Machinery Hall, are both beautiful and commodious structures, being each 102 feet long by 52 feet wide, and built of heavily and ornamentally framed wood beautifully painted

THE DAIRY BUILDING

is a plainer structure than the others, but in it is every convenience for the exhibition of dairy products

THE IMPLEMENT HALL

provides ample accommodation for this important branch of manufactures and is, from an architectural point of view, a handsome building,

THE POULTRY HALL

is large, handsome and commodious, and superior to anything hitherto enjoyed by Canadian roosters at a Provincial Fair.

THE ASSOCIATION OFFICES

are situated in a handsome building which stands in front of the eastern entrance to the main building. Ample accommodation is provided for the directors and officers of the Association, and for the representatives of the press. The structure intended for

POLICE QUARTERS

Is a one storey wooden building 57 by 28 feet, handsomely painted and decorated.

Very superior accommodation is provided for all classes of animals. The sheep pens, cattle sheds, horse stables, piggeries and feed barns are not only large, commodious and numerous, but handsome in design.

It is to be regretted that the line of street cars has not been continued to the grounds, as visitors will have a walk of a mile after leaving them before reaching the exhibition. Vehicles will, however, run in connection with the street cars, and I understand the Great Western Railway will run trains to and from the city every 15 minutes.

The Exhibition will far surpass any previous one in the value and interest of its exhibits.

It is safe to say that every line of Ontario products and manufactures will be represented, and I doubt not that much pleasant surprise is in store for those visitors who are not fully informed regarding the resources, capabilities and products of this Province.

FRIENDS TO THE FARMER.—The use of the little birds that gather in wheat fields is seen to be more important, yearly. A correspondent of the "Rural Home," speaking of the benefit which birds render the farmer, says : "Recently, while at work near a wheat field, my attention was called to the fact, that some of the wheat had been picked from the heads in certain parts of the field. As my neighbor seemed to think the mischief was done by yellow birds. I procured a gun and killed one of the supposed offenders. Although interrupted while taking his breakfast, we found in his stomach only three grains of wheat, and by actual count 350 weevils."

Few things can be done to oblige others but at the expense of some convenience, gratification, or wish of our own ; and he whose means are limited should seek to evince his attachment to friend or family by every little sacrifice in his power. We attend to large concerns for our own sakes ; we should attend to lesser ones for others. Our efforts to please others never fail to reward ourselves. There is nothing more lovely than to love to oblige others ; nevertheless, it is the duty of a discreet man not to be so far overcome by his obliging humor as to promise anything that is desired of him without considering whether he can or ought to grant it.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, SEPT. 24.

City and Vicinity

LATE.—The mail from the west was again late to-day, being about three-quarters of an hour behind time.

SOCIAL.—A fruit social will be held in the Congregational Church this—Tuesday—evening, at 7.30 o'clock. Admission 10 cents. A good programme may be expected.

HASTINGS RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—A special meeting of this Association is to be held at Hambly's to-morrow night, for the purpose of arranging for the annual matches of the Association.

PAYMENT OF TAXES.—The By-law providing for the collection of taxes is published in full in another column. Its provisions, which are of great importance, ought to be read and studied carefully by every taxpayer.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—A young man named Joseph Doyle, while feeding a thrashing machine at David Kelly's, near Lonsdale, on the 23rd inst., got his hand so badly mangled by the teeth of the cylinder that amputation is necessary.

REFRESHMENT BOOTHS.—The occupation of the refreshment booths at the Agricultural grounds during the fair is to be rented to the highest bidder on Saturday. Particulars can be found in our advertising columns.

BARLEY.—There was another sharp rise in the market for barley to-day, the price advancing to $1.06 for No 1, whilst inferior grades remained at former figures. Farmers ought to be rejoicing now over the high price which they are obtaining for their staple crop.

THE ASSIZES.—The Kingston News says:—"The Fall Assizes open to-morrow at noon, Mr. Justice Armour presiding. Mr. T. Holden, of Belleville, will be Crown prosecutor. There are no prisoners for trial at this Court, and only some four or five criminal cases."

If you are fatigued in mind and body, take RADFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER.

THE REGATTA.—The subscription committee of the Yacht Club have met with fair success in securing subscriptions for next Monday's regatta, the merchants and professional men subscribing liberally, in spite of the hard times. The Club will again meet at Hambly's on Friday evening to complete the arrangements for the regatta, which is expected to equal in interest any which has preceded it.

STRUCK BY A SQUALL.—The Oswego Times of Saturday says:—"The schooner Picton, of Picton, which arrived here from Trenton this afternoon with a load of barley, had both top masts and top sails and jib boom carried away and her main sail and foresail split by a squall which struck her about 10 o'clock last night. She was sailing along the north shore between Long Point and Salmon Point, with a stiff breeze from the south and all sail set, when the wind suddenly shifted and the squall from the south-west struck her before her crew could take in the canvas. She brings about 10,000 bushels of barley consigned to C. C. Morton."

HIGH HONORS.—Capt. J. S. Barton, of the 48th regiment, Oswego, won the first prize in the Military Championship match of the United States, scoring 77. This match is divided into two stages; first stage—distances 200, 500, and 600 yards, seven shots at each range, weapon military rifle. The first prize in this stage is $50 cash. The second prize to the highest sixty in the first stage; distances 800, 900 and 1000 yards, seven rounds at each distance; the winner to be entitled to the championship of the United States for one year and to the championship gold medal. Capt. Barton's Belleville friends congratulate him on the high honor of champion marksman of the United States, which he has so gallantly won.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR OCTOBER.—The October number of St. Nicholas opens with a very interesting story, "The Violin Village." The two serials, "Under the Lilacs" and "Dab Kinzer," are brought to a happy close, and there are several good, short stories. The long-promised paper on "Parlor Magic" is given in this number, and the boys who wish to get up lively evening entertainments will be glad to see it. It contains plain and simple directions for the performance of many curious experiments. The "French Alphabet," with twenty-six original pictures, also appears, and among the other useful papers is one entitled "How to Keep a Journal." "Cutting the Pie," a humorous poem by Rossiter Johnson, will amuse the older boys and girls, while "Happy Little Froggy" will make everybody laugh. "A Tale of Many Tails," and "Prince Cucurbita" are lovely sketches, with pictures of novel design; and there are several very funny cuts scattered through the number. The "Very Little Folks" have a bright poem, "Hare and Hounds" with a fine picture by Sheppard; and the departments are, as usual, well-filled with good things.

Another Fat Man Reduced.

H. A. Rufus, dealer in dry-goods, Woodhull, Ill., writes Botanic Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y., June 22d, 1878: "Gentlemen—Please find inclosed $5.00, for which send me, by express, Anti-Fat. I have one bottle and I lost five and one-quarter pounds."

Seasonable Topics.

Fans and flies have almost fled, and we have furs and fires instead.

"There is a pleasure in the pathless woods"—hunting for the path.

The man who has his woodpile handy for winter, and his cellar well filled, takes supreme delight in predicting an early winter and a hard one.

"The Summer's breath is faint upon the hills,
Her feet are weary in the vales and woods,
And Autumn with a drowsy incense fills
The nooks and glades and leafy solitudes."

The weather during the last two nights has been rather chilly, and unprotected flowers have suffered considerably from the effects of the frost.

The paper collars and paper cuffs, and even paper bosoms, have had their day, and those articles made of celluloid are the novelty. When soiled they need only to be rubbed with a damp cloth or sponge, and the washerwoman's occupation is gone. Instead of "turning his paper," the impecunious individual need only sponge off his celluloid.

He was going down street and when he turned his head to look at a dog fight, he ran slap-bang into a fashionable female who was wondering how she looked in a large plate-glass window she was passing. The man seemed as embarrassed as a lecturer feeling his knife slide down his pantaloon-leg through a hole in his pocket, while he was standing on a platform and shaking both hands at and trying to pierce the roof with his flashing eye. "There were no arrests."

A WORD OF WARNING.

So live that when thy summons
Comes to join that innumerable caravan—
Who pay promptly for their paper—
Thou go not like the quarry slave
At night dead-broke to his dungeon,
But soothed and sustained by
An unfaltering no trust, approach
The captain's office and settle,
Like one who wraps up the receipt in full
And places it under the pillow to prevent
Being kicked to death by nightmares

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with each Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work more additionally value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring to the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more wet ely known, capitalists will be induced to come and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Co-operation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridge-water, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURGH, in such County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10 00; half-page, $6 00; quarter page, $4 00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

March, 1878.

Milk and its Preservation.

The following paragraphs are taken from a carefully compiled and collated article on the chemical facts relating to milk, published in an English paper:

Cow's milk, of average quality, contains from 10 to 12 per cent. of solid matter when evaporated to dryness by steam heat, and has a mean sp. gre of 1.030; while that of the skimmed milk is about 1.035; and of the cream, 1.0244. (Dr. Muter.) The average cream of cow's milk contains 4.5 per cent. of butter, 3.5 per cent. of curd, and 92 per cent. of whey. (Berzelius.) The skimmed milk consists of water, 92.5 per cent.; lactic acid, lactate of potassa, and a trace of lactate of iron, 6 per cent.; chloride of potassium, phosphate of potassa, and earthy phosphates (lime), 2 per cent. (Berzelius.) Perfectly fresh milk is slightly alkaline, but soon becomes acid on exposure to the air, and after some white coagula of casein (curds) separate from it. This change is immediately effected by the addition of rennet or an acid. That from the first, when dried and powdered, constitutes cheese.

The common frauds practiced by milk dealers are the addition of water and the subtraction of part of the cream. Sometimes potato starch is added to the milk, to give it a creamy or rich appearance, and this addition is still more frequently made to cream, to increase its consistence and quality. The presence of potato starch may be detected by boiling some of the milk with a little vinegar, and, after separating the coagula by a strainer and allowing the liquid to become cold, testing it with solution or tincture of iodine. If it turns blue, starch, flour, or some other amylaceous substance, has been used to adulterate the milk. In most cases it will be sufficient to apply the test to the unprepared suspected milk. It has frequently been stated that chalk, plaster of Paris, gum, gelatine, sugar, flour, mucilage, starch, sago, and brains of animals, and other similar substances, are often added to London milk, but there is no reason to suppose there is truth in these assertions, as some of these articles are too costly to be used, and the presence of others would so alter the flavor or appearance of the milk, or would so soon exhibit themselves by subsidence, as to lead to their detection.

Milk may be preserved in stout bottles well corked and wired down, by heating them, in this state to a boiling point, in a water bath, by which means the oxygen of the small quantity of inclosed air becomes absorbed. It must be afterward stored in a cool situation. By this method, which is also extensively adopted for the preservation of green fruits, vegetables, etc., the milk will retain its properties unaltered for years. A few grains of carbonate of magnesia, or still better, of bicarbonate of potassa or soda, are also advantageously dissolved in each bottle before corking it. Under Bethel's patent, the milk or cream is scalded, and, when cold, strongly charged with carbonic acid gas, as in the case of soda-water machine, and the corks are wired down in the usual manner. The bottles should be kept inverted in a cool place.

An excellent method of preventing milk from turning sour, or coagulating, is to add to every pint of it about ten or twelve grains of carbonate or bicarbonate of soda. Milk thus prepared may be kept from eight to ten days in temperate weather. This addition is harmless, and, indeed, is advantageous to dyspeptic patients. According to D'Arcet, 1-2000th part of the bicarbonate is sufficient for the purpose. An excess of alkali used in this manner may be detected by the milk turning turmetic paper brown, even after it has been kept some hours, and by the ash obtained by evaporating a piece of it to dryness and then heating it to dull redness, effervescing with an acid.

Milk Powder.—1. Fresh skimmed milk, 1 gallon; carbonate of soda (in very fine powder), 1½ dr.; mix, evaporate to one-third by the heat of steam or a water bath, with constant agitation; then add of powdered white sugar, 3½ lbs., and complete the evaporation at a reduced temperature; reduced to dry mass (powder), add to the cream (well drained) which was taken from the milk, and after thorough admixture put the whole into well stoppered bottles or tins, which must be at once hermetically sealed.

2. Carbonate of soda, ½ dr.; water, 1 fl. oz.; dissolve; add of fresh milk, 1 quart; sugar, 1 lb.; reduce it by heat to the consistence of syrup, and finish the evaporation on plates by exposure in an oven.

About an ounce of the powder agitated with a pint of water forms an agreeable and nutritious drink, and a good substitute for milk at sea. It may also be used for tea or coffee in the solid form. This process, which is very old, has been recently patented.

Storing Potatoes.

Every method has been tried by farmers to store and preserve their potatoes through winter, and we may say until potatoes come again. It is the most valuable of all roots and bulbs, though here and there we find a writer who undertakes to tell us it is universally consumed in all civilized countries, as where it cannot be grown it is imported, which can be done long distances without injury, when ventilation is attached to. In storing potatoes several methods are adopted, yet they are all practically the same object. How best to protect them against freezing, whether buried in pits or stored in cellars. The first consideration is to keep them in per fect darkness; the next is, that the bins should not be too deep—not over three feet—to produce warmth and to cause them to sprout. When stored in the field, straight trenches are dug twenty feet apart each way and four or five feet wide, which are filled to the depth of three feet with potatoes, then well covered with straw, on top of which puta covering of two inches of earth. In a pit twenty feet long there should be about three gas escapes or ventilation openings, which should be plugged with straw and covered with a board set at an angle to the rain. If in cellars, barns or otherwise, the bins should be covered with rugs, old carpeting or straw. Those intended for late spring sale should be frequently examined and all sprouts removed, for as soon as a potato begins to sprout it loses its solidity, dryness and quality.

IS YOUR LIFE WORTH 10 CENTS?

Sickness prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life. When sick, the object is to get well; now to say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Heart Burn, palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Biliousness, etc., can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this go to any Druggist in Belleville and get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you. d&w

The utmost moisture that should be found in throughly worked butter is a very slight dew, and it should be of such a fine consistency as to slice down, hardly dimming the surface of a knife blade.

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and labored breathing, the demulcent properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto Phosphate of Lime manifests itself in its healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided, reasserts herself, and where once the gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your pro is ice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

THE ORANGE QUESTION.

HIS HONOR'S DECISION—THE ORANGEMEN COMMITTED TO STAND THEIR TRIAL AT THE COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH—THEY PLEAD "NOT GUILTY."

(From the Montreal Witness, Sept. 23.)

This afternoon His Honor Mr. Desnoyers rendered his decision in the case of the Orangemen in the Grand Jury room. The judgment was quite voluminous, and occupied over thirty minutes in its delivery. Having rehearsed the charge, His Honor said: The evidence goes to show, beyond a doubt, that the defendants did meet with a number of others on St. James street, in the said city, on the morning of the 12th of July last, with a view to walk in procession with regalia and badges, from the Orange Lodge rooms to Stanley street Church, and moreover that their walking in procession would not only have proved a breach of the peace, but would in all probability have caused considerable bloodshed. As to the fact of the defendants being members of the Orange Association no direct and positive proof has been adduced, those of the witnesses called who were likely able to prove it, refusing to do so, inasmuch as they could only know it by being Orangemen themselves, and their admissions to that effect would criminate them This view was sustained by Sir A. A. Dorion, Chief Justice, in the present case, but I do not think that there can be any doubt that the defendants do belong to the Orange Order. Mr. Dunbar Browne says that he professionally examined the lease for the lodge room of the Orange Order and identifies said room with the lodge, where the defendants had assembled on the Twelfth of July on St. James street, where and in the vicinity of which they were arrested. On that occasion (the 12th) the defendant, David Grant, acted and spoke openly as one being high in authority on behalf of the Orange Association. All the men had their arrest the defendants wore on their persons badges and regalia pertaining, no doubt, to the Association, judging from the inscriptions on some of them, two of said defendents being on horseback apparently for the purpose of marshalling the procession." The judgment then revised the proceedings of the 12th, how that when the Mayor and Ald. Mercer asked the defendant Grant that the Orangemen should walk to church without regalia, he replied that he would have to consult with the Lodge before answering. Ald. Mercer saw 200 persons assembled in the hall. His Honor then quoted Section 6 of the 10th chapter of the Consolidated Statutes, under which the action was taken. The witness Mr. McNally almost admitted being an Orangeman, said that he was of the opinion that the nature of the oath and the secrecy should have been admitted, but after a conversation with the counsel, Mr. Doutre and Col. George Smith, he changed his mind and declined to answer questions, as it was hinted to him that the proper time had not come to make these disclosures.

Mr. Dunbar Browne, in one of his answers, states that "no one but an Orangeman could know an Orangeman." Is not this clear evidence that the Orange society is a secret one?

Mr. Dunbar Browne quoted from Book "E" that the object and aim of the Association was to promote the principles and practice of the Christian religion; to maintain the law and constitution of the country, &c., &c. This book also gave the obligation of secrecy which was quoted in full in the judgment.

The defendants contend as a legal proposition that the preamble of the said Statute, although not recited in the 10th chapter of the Consolidated Statutes of Lower Canada, has been consolidated therein, and limits the operation of that section to the words of the preamble. Section eight of the first chapter Consolidated Statutes of Lower Canada enacts that the said Consolidated Statutes shall not be construed as new laws, but shall be construed and have effect as a consolidation, and as declaratory of the law as contained in the said Acts and parts of Acts so repealed, and for which the said Consolidated Statutes are substituted.

The schedule "B", annexed to the Consolidated Statutes of Lower Canada, being a schedule of "Acts wholly or partly consolidated in this volume, and of the sections of the said Acts; showing which of them are consolidated, and when, and accounting for those not consolidated," indicates that the first nine sections of the said Ordinance 2 Vic., Cap. 8, have been consolidated under Cap. 10 of the said Consolidated Statutes, and that the 10th and 11th clauses, relating to publication in churches and parishes, had become obsolete. The interpretation clauses show clearly that the preamble of the said Ordinance forms part of the said Cap. 10 of the Consolidated Statutes.

Therefore, I have no hesitation in holding that the last two sections only of the said ordinance (concerning publication in churches, &c.,) have been repealed by the consolidating act, and that the other sections and preamble have been consolidated, and the preamble must, therefore, be read as forming part of Ch. 10 of the Consolidated Statutes. But if I am wrong in the view of the defendants that the words of the preamble limit the ordinance to the case of the Canadian rebels." Authorities were then cited to show the wide application of the act. Two cases, one in which a number of persons banded together to raise wages, and another in which twelve men blackened their faces preparatory to proceeding to go night poaching and swore not to betray each other, were referred to as having both come under the operation of the act, thus showing that it was not merely limited to seditious or mutinous bodies. The 6th section of the ordinance upon which the present prosecution is based was framed, and is almost a copy word for word, of the second section of the 39th George III., chapter 79, which was not intended to punish Canadian rebels, but to suppress, as being unlawful, combinations and confederacies, the societies of "United Englishmen" "United Scotchmen" "United Britons," "United Irishmen," "The London Corresponding Society," and all societies of a like nature inconsistent with public tranquility. (Rossel vol. 1, page 377.) On the fact that the ordinance 2nd Victoria, chapter 8, as well as the Imperial statutes recited above, make an exception in favor of the Freemasons, shews that the Legislature intended to embrace in the prohibition of other secret societies which might exist, and moreover the further Canadian legislation (29 Vict. Chap. 46.) 1865 in favor of the Freemasons at a time when the Orangemen had asserted themselves in Lower Canada, shews clearly that they the Orangemen, were embraced in the prohibition. By the second count of the information, the defendants having so met on the 12th of July to walk in procession with banners, &c., are charged with having participated in an unlawful assembly. The statutes are silent upon this point, and in Common Law the authorities are few. I find in Rosoe, page 966, "If the meeting, from its general appearance is calculated to excite terror it is generally unlawful." And it has been laid down by Baron Anderson that "any meeting under such circumstances which according to the opinion of rational and firm men is calculated to produce danger to the peace of the neighborhood is an unlawful assembly." His Honor quoted the same authority, also to the effect that the hour and manner in which the meetings were held, etc., should be taken into account by the jury, and from Russell on crimes, page 373, to the effect that any meetings calculated to raise fears and jealousies among the King's subjects seems properly to be called an unlawful assembly, and other authorities sustaining this position. He gave also the opinion of Robert S. Jameson, Attorney-General, and Christopher A. Hagerman, Solicitor-General of Ontario in 1836, that all Orange processions were illegal and might be suppressed.

The defendants are committed to stand their trial at the coming term of the Court of Queen's Bench.

MONTREAL, Sept. 23, 1878.

The defendants were then asked if they desired to make any statement, and individually declared that they were not guilty. The personal bail of the defendants was then renewed in the sum of $100 each, for their appearance at the Court of Queen's Bench, which open to-morrow.

An Even Thing.

In one of the numerous empty sugar barrels in front of a Woodbridge street store yesterday a pedestrian observed a rat of a boy backing and drawing ahead and kicking out his heels; thinking the lad might need help, he halted and looked in. The "scraper" had torn his shirt in several places on the nails, and was then struggling away from several others.

Boy aren't you in a bad fix asked the man,

"Yes kinder," replied the lad, "but I guess the sugar wants a rest as bad as I do."

The man walked on, but struck with a sudden thought, he returned and asked:

"Say, boy is there really any sugar in there?"

"Not a bit," replied the boy, "I'm just eating slivers to get the taste of quail on toast out of my mouth."

One little push would have sent the barrel rolling across the street, but the man had great self-control.

EPPS'S COCOA.—All the Year Round says:—"Let us stroll to the Euston Road, hard by the Regent's Park, to Epps's Cocoa Manufactory, where may be studied the making of cocoa on a stupendous scale, giving a just idea of the value of these articles, not as luxuries, but as actual food."

EPPS'S COCOA.—John Bull says:—"An idea of the vast extent of the industry may be gained from the fact that one firm alone—that of Messrs. Epps & Co.—now sell some 4,000,000 pounds annually."

EPPS'S COCOA.—Christian World says:—"If I am to take cocoa," said I, "I must see and judge for myself what are the ingredients of which it composed; with this view I made my way to the cocoa manufactory of James Epps & Co., in the Euston Road."

EPPS'S COCOA.—"Cassell's Household Guide" says:—"We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps & Co., homœopathic chemist and manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London."

EPPS'S COCOA.—Morning Advertiser says: "Nearly two centuries after, in 1832, the duties, which had hitherto been almost prohibitive, were greatly reduced, and one of the first to take advantage of re-establishing the popularity of cocoa was Messrs. Epps & Co., the Homœopathic Chemists." d&wlm

—One of England's greatest literary celebrities received a visit from Princess Louise when she was in Edinburgh lately. Judge of her amusement when the first word he said to her, as he beamed over his spectacles, was: "And how's your mother?" He could afford to be blunt, but history preserves the yet blunter speech of a Leith bailie, who, when presented before one of the Georges, affably exclaimed to His Majesty, during a lull of conversation, "An' hoo's a' the family?"

What will the Government Do?

The great question of the day continues to be, What will the Government do—will they resign so soon as the result of all the elections has been declared ? will they call Parliament together at an early day, take the sense of the people's representatives and retire on a formal vote of want of confidence ? or will they hold on to power until the regular time for the assembling of Parliament and then quietly allow themselves to be turned out of their offices ? All three of these courses are open to them; the first being more nearly in accordance with the practice of late years, the second being held by so eminent a writer on constitutional questions as Mr. Todd to be the correct course, whilst the third would be, to say the least, a defiance of precedent which would excite the indignation of the people to a degree which Mr. Mackenzie and his colleagues, condemned as they cannot deny they have been by the electorate, would not care to face. We therefore dismiss this contingency as unlikely to occur, and will briefly consider the two remaining contingencies.

Taking them in an order inverse to that in which they are stated, we find that Mr. Todd writes thus on the point in his "Parliamentary Government in England," which work is accepted as very high authority :—

"The verdict of the country having been pronounced against Ministers at a general election, it is, nevertheless, competent for them to remain in office until the new Parliament has met, and given a definite decision upon the merits; for the House of Commons is the legitimate organ of the people, whose opinions cannot be constitutionally ascertained except through their representatives in Parliament. It is necessary, however, and according to precedent, that the new Parliament should be called together without delay.

"Under such circumstances, it is usual to take the earliest opportunity to obtain a decisive vote upon the fate of a Ministry. A suitable occasion is afforded by the Address in answer to the Speech from the Throne, to which an amendment may be moved, to declare that the advisers of the Crown do not possess the confidence of the House. The motion, if agreed to, will lead to an immediate resignation of the Ministry."

An eminent constitutional authority, writing in the Fortnightly Review, also says on the same point :—

"The fiction that the House of Commons is a freely deliberating assembly, judging after debate, and on merits of the question submitted to it, is a convenient and healthy one. It is what indeed to Parliamentary rule. Simply to count up the election returns, and to forecast future votes by reference to party organization and to candidature is to make a dangerous approach to the plebicitary system of government. It is desirable that a Ministry, presumably defeated at the polling booths, should meet the House of Commons, to which it is immediately responsible, and should keep and lay down office at its direct bidding. It is the duty of the head of a Government to vindicate its measures and policy before the Parliament, and in justifying its conduct in the past, to indicate for the party which it represents the principles by which it will be guided, and the application which it will make of the principles in the future."

Accepting this doctrine as correct, there are yet several reasons why it should be departed from in the present instance. In the first place, Mr. Mackenzie has the precedents set by Lord Beaconsfield in 1867 and by Mr. Gladstone in 1874, both of whom resigned the seals of office without waiting for a formal vote of want of confidence in the House of Commons. True, this action may not have been in accordance with previous practice ; but the British constitution is something which is elastic enough to bear even a very great strain when necessary, and at the same time sufficiently plastic to take its form from the requirements of the times. As Tennyson, the great poet laureate, tells us in one of his most admired numbers, British freedom is a thing which

> "Broadens slowly down
> From precedent to precedent," and precedents set by such eminent statesmen as Earl Beaconsfield and Mr. Gladstone are not to be lightly disregarded or slightingly condemned.

In the second place, were Parliament called together within the next few weeks, no business could be done, as so soon as the existing Government was voted out of office, an adjournment would necessarily have to take place, in order that the newly created Ministers should return to their constituents for re-election ; and then they would require time to meet and develop their policy. So that the calling of Parliament merely in order to formally depose the members of the Mackenzie Government from the positions which they hold would involve an utterly useless expenditure of half a million of dollars or thereabouts, in order that the defeat of the Government, which is known to all, might be formally made known. These considerations should, we think, be conclusive against the holding of any meeting of Parliament during the present Autumn.

Then as to the reasons why Mr. Mackenzie should resign so soon at least as the official returns have been received from all the Provinces : These are partly given above, namely that he had precedents recently set him for doing so by the most eminent Conservative statesman and the greatest Liberal who has ruled in Great Britain for a number of years ; that to take the formal vote of Parliament would cause a vast and useless expenditure ; and that to hold office until the opening of the regular session of the legislature body would be inexpedient, if not a direct violation of the constitution, and at the same time an act of a highly unpopular nature.

The people wish to see fair play in so grave a matter. The policy which has been outlined by the Conservative leaders, and of which the electors have expressed their approval by an overwhelming majority, requires mature consideration for its development before it can be placed before Parliament, and unless Sir John Macdonald and the gentlemen who will form his administration be given time to mature their policy so that they may be ready to formulate it when Parliament assembles in February, they will not have received that measure of fair play which one British statesman usually extends to another. Unless, therefore, Mr. Mackenzie resigns at an early day, the necessary time which the Conservative leaders declare they require for the consideration of so weighty a matter as the readjustment of the tariff of this country will not have been given them. It was not thus that Mr. Mackenzie was hindered at the outset, and we believe that if he does not follow out the precedents set for his guidance by Earl Beaconsfield and Mr. Gladstone, he will find that, widespread and deep as is his unpopularity as an administrator of the affairs of the country, it will be largely added to by any attempt to pursue a factious course and to obstruct the desires of the people.

NORTH HASTINGS.

Full returns have at length been received, which show that Mr. Bowell's majority is 241. The townships bordering on the Hastings Road, from which Mr. O'Flynn calculated on a majority of 150, show that they approve of the course of their old member, and support the National Policy, by giving a majority of 10 for Mr. Bowell.

THE CABINET.—The Ottawa correspondent of the Montreal Witness says :—"At the meeting of the Cabinet held yesterday, it was decided to continue on until the elections are all over, and to wind up unfinished departmental business, and resign as soon as possible."

THE ORANGE LEADERS.—A Montreal paper says :—"Henry Merrick, Esq., M. P. P., Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Orangemen of British America, and several other members of the Committee appointed to watch the legal proceedings pending against Orangemen in this city, and to advise concerning the same, are in town, and held a consultation this forenoon with some of the leading members of the Order here in relation to the future developments of the case."

ELECTRIC LIGHT.—Among the most successful experiments that have been tried with electric light is that at Manhattan Beach, where the light has been steadily in use for more than three months. Three lamps have been used, each with an estimated illuminating power of 15,000 candles, and by means of them the entire beach has been illuminated with a brightness almost like that of day. So powerful is the light that individuals have been able to read ordinary newspaper print by it at a distance of three-fourths of a mile. And the most interesting fact about the illumination is its economy. The entire cost of running the on-horse power engine used, supplying the arbon points and keeping the apparatus clean, is less than $11 a week.

Filling the Offices.

Another Specimen of Grit Consistency.

A telegram from Ottawa on the 24th says :—

"The entire Rouge contingent from Quebec, assisted by Messrs. Glass, of London, Cook, of North Simcoe, and others have been here urging upon Mr. Mackenzie to make appointments and not to give up the reins of power until the last moment. Unfortunately for Mr. Mackenzie he has at last succumbed, and broken the only remaining plank in the Reform platform, it being understood that over twenty vacancies will be filled. Strenuous exertions were made to induce him to agree to certain supernumerations, but so far the Premier has stood firm, although since Mr. Holton's arrival Ministerialists have boasted that he would have to give in."

A Halifax despatch of the same date says :—"The decision of the Ottawa Government, as reported in well informed circles, to fill all vacancies in public offices will be followed by the Nova Scotia Government, and appointments will be made to every position in the Province before either Government resigns. In this Province there is a Governorship, a Judgeship and a number of minor offices to be filled."

Although the above has yet to be confirmed, we have little doubt that the intelligence will prove to be correct. Mr. Mackenzie furiously denounced Sir John A. Macdonald for doing the same thing. He doubtless resolved, for the sake of consistency, not to make any appointments ; but his good intentions have always given way under pressure, and in this case we look for him to once more prove himself a demagogue, judging him by his own assertion that "the man who condemns one thing when in Opposition and practices it when in power is a demagogue in whom the people should have no confidence."

Political Notes.

A week has passed since the battle closed, but has anybody heard of anybody else resigning for Mr. Cartwright ? Has he no honor among Reformers ?—Mail.

A Montreal paper thinks it would be a graceful act in Sir John Macdonald to retire on his laurels. No doubt ; Mr. Brown and Mr. Mackenzie are, we dare say, of the same opinion. Sir John has some work to do before he retires.—Ib.

Port Hope Guide :—"One thing, anyway, the Reformers in leaving office can boast that they have set their successors an example of economy and good government, such as no Administration had ever practised before." The Guide told the latter part of this story to the country a week ago with very indifferent success.—Ib

Paragraphs like the following from the Berlin News tell their own tale :—"As an evidence of the good result of the change of Government, we are already able to announce the fact that the Dominion Button Works are to be increased to double their present capacity. The energetic proprietor, Mr. Jacob Y. Shantz, being now in the fat west, when he heard of the result of the election, telegraphed home from St. Paul, Minn., to get material ready at once to proceed with the enlargement. The material is already being collected and by the middle of next week building operations will commence."

The way in which the Ministerial sheets, and certain American journals, find themselves tendering an exposé over the results of the Dominion elections is quite a ravishing spectacle. The Chicago Times, the New York Tribune, Herald, World, et al., "cannot but be sorry," etc., and the Government papers are reciprocally dissolved in tears. The American pundits moralize on the success of "demagogism" in the Dominion, and the Canadian Ministerial quidnuncs say ditto to the pundits. When Gritism and Yankeedom do agree, their unanimity is as wonderful as it is edifying.

The Threatened Indian War.

British Troops in India Concentrating on the Frontier.

THREE COLUMNS MARCHING ON CABUL.

ANOTHER INSULT BROUGHT TO LIGHT—NO WORDS TO BE WASTED ON THE OFFENDER —THE BRITISH MISSION BROKEN UP— PLAN OF BRITISH OPERATIONS.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—A Calcutta despatch states that orders have been issued to concentrate troops towards the frontier, with a view to early operations if necessary.

It is semi-officially announced that the Ameer of Cabul has allowed three letters from the Viceroy of India to remain unanswered.

A Bombay despatch says no attempt will be made to induce the Ameer to receive the British Envoy, The mission has already broken up. Gen. Sir Neville Chamberlain has left for Madras. Eight thousand men start in a few days to strengthen the force at Quetthi, and it is considered certain that a move will be made thence on Candahar which would cut communications between Cabul and Herat. Simultaneously with this movement 6,000 men go to Kelat, and it is believed will enter Afghanistan by the Kooran valley, whilst a third column traverse the Khyber Pass. It is estimated that there will be plenty of time for these operations before the snow falls.

BANQUET TO MR. WHITE.—A grand banquet was given to Mr. THOMAS WHITE, the newly elected member for Cardwell, at Montreal on the evening of the 23rd inst. Five hundred sat down to dinner. It was the grandest demonstration of the kind ever held in Montreal, and was a most eloquent tribute to the personal and public worth of one of Canada's most promising sons.

HOW ARE THE MIGHTY FALLEN.—The Mill Point Echo says :—"When Mr. Cartwright arrived home from Kingston after voting against Sir John, the vote of Napanee was known, and his friends were frantic with joy, and gathered around the Finance Minister so thick and close as to nearly smother him. Cartwright told them he had "drove the last nail in Sir John's coffin." Just then the returns from Richmond came, and every brow lowered and countenances fell. Immediately reports from the two Fredericksburgs and Ernestown followed, and quicker than you could say "Jack Robinson" his supporters tore away from him until he was standing there on the street alone. He picked up his valise and walked to Judge Wilkinson's house all alone. That night he went alone to the train and departed for Kingston."

A VALUABLE WORK.—The following, which we clip from a San Francisco paper, will be read with interest by a large number of the personal friends of Mr. Jellett, formerly of Belleville. They will be glad to hear of his successful career in the Golden State:—"We are in receipt of an advance copy of the revised edition of the Collection Laws of the States and Territories of the Pacific coast. This work is compiled and published by Mr. J. H. Jellett, an attorney who has had a very extensive experience in this special department. The reputation of Mr. Jellett warrants us in saying that the work will be a very valuable one to every business man, as it contains a condensed summary of the laws now in force. The work we learn will be ready for distribution early the coming week. We are indebted to it for information regarding the question raised by an Eastern contemporary in reference to the insolvency laws of this State, which we answer this week."

SPLENDID SHOOTING.—In the competition for positions on the Inter State and International team at Creedmoor, George White of Oswego, made a score of 128 out of a possible 135; ten shots each at 200 and 500 yards and seven shots at 600 yards. This is the best score on record with a military rifle and was made with a Bochart rifle.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.—The annual exhibition of the Agricultural and Arts Association of the Province of Ontario was formally opened in Toronto yesterday by His Excellency the Governor General, in which occasion Earl Dufferin made one of the ablest speeches which he, practiced orator as he is, has never excelled. We will endeavor to publish this admirable address to-morrow, together with other particulars of the opening. So far, the exhibition has been successful beyond precedent.

Belden & Co's Atlas of Hastings and Prince Edward.

We have been shown an advance copy of Messrs. H. Belden & Co's Illustrated Atlas of the Counties of Hasting and Prince Edward, the delivery of which to subscribers will commence here within a short time. Having cursorily examined the work, we are on the whole disposed to recommend it to favorable notice, though we cannot in all respects express commendation. Its contents embrace local information concerning the various municipalities in the two counties, which has been carefully compiled by Mr. George Stewart, jr., the very clever editor of the Rose Belford Canadian Monthly. This part of the work is well written, as might be expected from the ability of the compiler, who has drawn freely from Canniff's History, the Hastings Directories published from the INTELLIGENCER office, and from supplements issued from the office of this journal. It is in consequence as accurate as possible, though here and there occur misspelling of names and other slight blemishes which are generally to be found in matter of that class which has not been supervised by persons possessing local knowledge. City, Village, Township, and County maps are given. These are well executed and contain the name of each settler, the number of acres on his lot and his post office address. Besides, there are complete maps of the Provinces of Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, also Cape Breton, part of Keewatin, the North-West Territory, a Railroad map of the United States, and one of the World, which makes the Atlas very full and complete. The maps are well executed, and are creditable to the publishers, besides being more in number than they agreed to supply.

A number of illustrations, the majority of which are clear and well drawn, occupy a large space in the volume. These include several public buildings and residences, besides portraits and biographical sketches of what purport to be "leading residents" of the Counties. This is the part of the work to which we take exception, as some at least of the persons distinguished by having their portraits placed in this volume are far from being representative, leading or influential men. The fact is that this picture business is a mere catch-penny affair, some of the portraits being inserted merely as advertisements, paid for or promised to be paid for at a certain rate, whereby those who choose to pay can advertise themselves, though not in all cases to advantage. In general the likenesses are good, though a few of them are very bad indeed.

The work has been well got up, the letter press being nicely printed, the paper is good and the binding is excellent. As a book of reference the publication cannot fail to be valuable for some years to come, and we commend it on the whole to the favorable consideration of the public.

The Orange Prosecutions.

JUDGE RAMSAY'S CHARGE IN THE COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH.

MONTREAL, Sept. 24.

The Court of Queen's Bench opened this morning. Judge Ramsay, in his charge to the Grand Jury, referred at considerable length to the case of the Orangemen, which would come before them, and the Act under which the prosecutions were proceeding. The jurors were also called upon to say whether the law was too severe or not. They were simply to decide whether the accused came under the Act. Without acting according to their preconceived opinions of the nature of an Orange Lodge, they should have a prima facie proof that an Orange lodge is illegal under the Act, and that the accused are members. There is no presumption of guilt to be drawn from the fact that some witnesses refused to answer with respect to the organization, as their conduct was supported by law, and any attempt to get round that would be a disrespect to this Court, and a waste of their own time. In these observations the Court has only referred to the question of the Orange Society in its purely legal aspect, but there are other considerations affecting this organization unworthy the mention or beyond the function of the Grand Jury. Although perhaps it might conclude that the evidence did not prove the Society to be illegal, it tends to a breach of the peace, and not the less so because the members do not intend to commit any assault. Its latent mischief lies in the fact that it is provocative. It is the commemoration of a political victory won by one party over another in a civil war. If it is wise it aspires to wisdom not practised by the great conquering nations of the world. To put a religious procession on the same basis is simply to display intolerance.

This time Edison thinks he has hit upon a perfectly feasible process by which he can and will drive gas out of streets and houses, and give the electric light in its stead. The new light, he says, besides being a great deal more brilliant, will be a great deal less expensive than the old one. Moreover the same wire is to bring power and heat into the house as well as light, and be as available for cooking or for running a sewing machine as for illumination. If Edison is not deceiving himself, we are on the eve of surprising experiences.

FREE ADVERTISING.—Actresses devise most ingenious plans to secure free advertising. You never read of an authoress falling down and breaking her nose, or burying a pet dog with grave ceremonies, or carrying a horse-shoe in her pocket in memory of a favorite horse, or being run over by an omnibus, or travelling with four cats, two dogs, a monkey and a parrot, or narrowly escaping death by drowning, or having $10,000 worth of diamonds stolen every six months or so—you never hear of an authoress, we say, resorting to any of these dodges in order to call attention to a forthcoming book.—Norristown Herald.

"It is impossible," said I to a French peasant lad who was telling me a tough story about a miracle-working chair in a neighboring church. "Neither; but you will see Chartres."

The Beheading of Hoedel.

A BARBAROUS EXECUTION IN GERMANY IN THE MEDIÆVAL MODE.

A Berlin correspondent of the New York World writes as follows:—

The scaffold was erected in the prison yard, where about fifty persons, magistrates and lawyers, municipal officials, military officials, and members of the police force, besides some reporters, were gathered. The prisoner, conducted by three wardens, walked with a firm step to the foot of the scaffold and stared impudently around at the assemblage. Councillor Hollmann, who was charged with superintending the execution, took his position at the side of the block, and read loudly the sentence of death and death-warrant. At the conclusion Hoedel spat upon the ground and cried "Brawo!" The magistrate now turned to a tall, strongly built man of about 30 or 35 years of age, handsome, with a small moustache, and neatly, indeed elegantly, dressed in a fine linen shirt, with waistcoat and trousers of black broadcloth. This was Herr Krantz, the executioner.

The old headsman, W. Reindel, who had grown rich through the exercise of this minor functionary's office in the city, was no longer equal to the serious labor of striking off a man's head at a blow, and so passed over his axe, or rather a duplicate of his axe, to the younger man. No such instrument having been needed for more than a decade, the department of Justice found itself compelled to resort to the market Museum. An axe had been ordered a year ago by the director of the museum, an exact duplicate of that Riedel had employed and which he was unable to get one ready in time. It is a large one, a good deal like a butcher's cleaver in appearance, with a very keen straight edge. It was ground sharper in the yard with a razor the afternoon before the execution.

Holding up the warrant that the headsman might see the Crown Prince's signature, Councillor Hollman said to him:

"Note this document, and now receive from me the tinsmith, Emil Heinrich Max Hoedel delivered to you to be beheaded."

"Come this way," said the headsman to Hoedel, who ran lightly up the three steps leading to the platform, and threw off his coat and waistcoat. At this moment the chapel bell began tolling; he gazed in its direction, then looked around upon those present with an ironical sneer. Throwing down his braces, Hoedel began to unbutton his shirt, but could not unfasten one of the buttons. One of the wardens went to his assistance and turned it down beneath his shoulders, leaving the neck and the upper part of the breast bare. Meanwhile two other keepers had tied the condemned man's arms and ankles. They then carried, him, pinioned and helpless to the block, which was of stout, hard wood, with a hollow to receive the neck, and painted blood red. Laying him on it downward, a strong leather belt was fastened over the back of the head, so that it could not be moved, and a clearly defined mark was offered for the headsman's blow.

Opening a leathern case, on which were in gold figures "1878," Krantz took out the glittering new axe, and taking his aim with an almost imperceptible glance, swung the weapon aloft and brought it hissing down on the band of leather where the leathern fastening and turned back coat. Only one blow was needed. The blood sprung out of the immense wound, the neck vanished (as it seemed), and there was left the trunk, which twitched spasmodically a few times, and the head, which looked as if it had been shorn off just at the chin. A very slight contraction or movement of the skin on the forehead was perceptible. The whole operation lasted about two minutes and a half. A coffin was brought out into which the still bleeding remains were pitched. The head was placed by its already dug in a corner of the prison-yard. The earth was filled in, and all was over.

The axe with which Hoedel was beheaded has been replaced in the museum in its old place, where the block on which the head of the burgomaster Tschech (executed about 30 years ago for an attempt upon the life of Frederick William IV.) was struck off, and beneath the thong with which his head was fastened to the block.

One of the most persistent and dangerous incentives to evil-doing is a proverb which tells an untruth, or but half the truth. A prominent Massachusetts clergyman has recognized this fact in preaching a recent series of sermons on "Devil's Saws," under which head he includes such sayings as "Business is business," and the like. One of the most dangerous of proverbs of this class is the old Latin saw, In vino veritas, —'In wine is truth.' The fallacy of this "devil's saw" has never been more neatly shown than in a remark of Dr. Johnson's quoted once more in Mr. Leslie Stephen's biography of the great lexicographer. "Wine," remarked one of Mr. Johnson's friends, "is a key which opens the box, whether full or empty." "Nay, sir," said Johnson; "conversation is the key, but wine is the picklock, which forces open the box, and injures it," disturbing its contents at the wrong time and in the wrong way." So thought the ablest talker of his time, who had abandoned the use of wine, as a matter of expediency rather than of morals. —S. S. Times.

He was an old physican, and he was declaiming the other day against the propensity which people display for eating unripe fruit and vegetables. Said he, "There is not a fruit or vegetable growing in our gardens that is not best when served at maturity, and most of them are positively injurious unless ripe." "I know one thing that ain't so good when it's ripe as 'tis when green," interrupted a little boy, in a very confidential but modest manner. "What's that?" sharply said the physican, scared at having his principle disputed by a mere boy. "A cucumber," replied the lad.

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and labored breathing, the demulcent properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto Phosphate of Lime manifests itself in its healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided reasserts herself, and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health.

Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00.

Scrofulous taints, from a scrofulous condition of the blood, from scarlet fever and measles, Diphtheria, in which cases the eyes and ear are generally involved and discharges quantities of matter. The discharges from the head, in consequence of Catarrh, in many cases are so offensive as to render it impossible to breathe through the nostrils, thereby preventing cold air to pass directly to the bronchial tubes, and, as a matter of course, causing the throat, in many cases, to become parched and dry and feverish, instead of passing freely down as it should, and in many cases, the mucous becomes hard and foreign substances, insurmountable, and hard lumps, which adhere so firmly to the nasal passages and throat as to require very powerful efforts to dislodge them. The eye is sympathy becomes inflamed, weak, and watery, or in the morning the lids may be found glued together, and matter in the corner of the eyes. The sense of hearing becomes seriously affected, discharging quantities of matter. The voice is often visited by the most violent paroxysms of coughing, resulting in inflammation, ulceration, and finally deafness. The throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs in many cases affected by catarrh, and, when prostration of the nervous system is superadded, such affections become alarming.

A brief survey of this mysterious disease warns us that we must at once take decisive measures to effect a cure, treatment before it becomes chronic. WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Denyit who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price. 25 cents per Bottle.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.

THE OPENING CEREMONIES.

Great Speech by Lord Dufferin.

(From the Mail, Sept. 25.)

The weather was most favorable for the opening ceremonies of the Exhibition yesterday, notwithstanding that the morning was rather cloudy and that the slight rain which fell before the pleasure seekers began to move, indicated, if anything, that the day would be wet. It cleared off about 10 o'clock, however, and as a consequence, from that time to the closing hour, the attendance on the grounds was very large. In fact, the Exhibition was crowded, which might well have been expected, for all day Monday, the arrivals in the city were very numerous, and in the evening hotel accommodation had become exceedingly scarce.

According to the programme agreed to by Lord Dufferin and the citizens' committee, his Excellency was to leave the Queen's Hotel early in the afternoon and arrive on the grounds about three o'clock. At the hour agreed upon, his Excellency, accompanied by the Lieutenant-Governor, the Mayor, Capt. Ward, A. D. C.; Capt. Hamilton, A. D. C.; Lieut. Col. Cumberland, A. D. C.; Capt. Grant, A. D. C. and others took carriages, and accompanied by the officers of the 10th Royals and the escort of the Governor General's Body Guard, proceeded along York and King streets and Dufferin avenue to the grounds where, surrounded by a distinguished company, he was presented with an address from the Agricultural and Arts Association.

MR. PRESIDENT, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—In endeavoring to return you my best thanks for the noble reception you are giving me, for the series of Arabian Night's Entertainments through which from hour to hour and day to day I have been hurried by your hospitable citizens, I can truly say I have never felt less equal to such a task. During the past six years and a half, indeed, I have been often required at various times and places to say what are called "a few words" to different classes of my fellow countrymen in the Dominion. But on these occasions there was always some current topic to engage our attention, and to which it was desirable I should address myself. Now, however, the case is very different. It is true we have a special business before us. I am nominally here to open this Exhibition, and, perhaps, under ordinary circumstances it would be sufficient for me to dilate upon the splendour of this building, the variety, the richness of its contents, the proofs it displays, not merely of the material wealth of Canada, but of the energy, ingenuity, and industry of our mechanics, artizans, and agriculturists; but my imagination refuses to be confined within even these spacious halls. (Applause.) No! the contributions they enclose only serve to conjure up before me in all their beauty the radiant expanse of those seven fair Provinces I have traversed from end to end—(hear, hear and applause)—and it is not the departments of a mere Provincial show which lie mapped out beneath my feet, but the territories of our great Dominion, whose wealth and capabilities these courts exhibit. Nor is it in the presence of a detached crowd of casual sight seers that I seem to stand, but face to face with that entire population, with whose destinies I have been so long associated, to whom I owe so much, and who are building up a British policy upon this side of the Atlantic which is destined, I trust, to exemplify more successfully than any other what happiness, what freedom, what strength, what peace can be secured to man by patiently, wisely, soberly expanding and developing those great principles of constitutional and Parliamentary Government which centuries ago were born in England—(applause)—which our ancestors shed their blood to defend, which our forefathers transplanted to this country, and which our fathers have left us as the most precious inheritance they could bestow. (Tremendous applause.) Impressed, then, by such a consciousness, knowing that today for the last time I am speaking to the people of Canada, what am I to say? There are many things I would desire to say at such a moment, but I dread to tread on forbidden ground. (Laughter.) As you are well aware in all those matters which are of real and vital moment to you, I am only entitled to repeat in public such words of wisdom as my Ottawa Egerias may put into my mouth. (Great laughter.) In my own behalf it is only competent for me to expatiate in those vaporous fields of extra-political disquisitions which may happen to be floating around the solid political life of the people. Yet, perhaps, a Victory in extremis might claim exceptional indulgence. (Laughter.) To all moribund personages, as to Jacob when he gathered the Fathers of Israel round his bedside, the privilege of monition and benediction has been granted. (Applause and laughter.) Happily my closing sentences need not be of such ambiguous import as those addressed by the Patriarch to Judah and his brethren. (Great laughter.) Though a country in the throes of a general election might have some sympathy with the attitude of Issachar—(loud laughter)—as I am not a defeated Prime Minister, I have no temptation to apply to you the burden of Reuben. (Renewed laughter.) What, then, is to be my valediction—my parting counsel to the citizens of the Dominion before I turn my face to the wall. A very few words will convey them. Love your country, believe in her, honor her, work for her, live for her, die for her. (Tremendous applause.) Never has any people been endowed with a nobler birthright, or blessed with prospects of a fairer future. Whatever gift God has given to man is to be found within the borders of your ample territories; and in return the only obligation laid upon you is "to go forth and multiply, and replenish the earth." (Applause and laughter.) It is true, the zone within which your lines are cast is characterized by ruder features than those displayed in lower latitudes and within more sunward-stretching lands, but the North has ever been the home of liberty, industry and valor—(cheers)—and great diversities of climate and of geographical and physical conditions are wont to breed antagonistic material interests and disruptive tendencies, which the fortunate uniformity of your own climate and position can never engender. (Applause.) It is also true you are not so rich as many other communities, but the happiness of a people does not so much depend upon the accumulation of wealth as upon its equable distribution. (Here, here.) In many of the wealthiest nations of Europe thousands can scarcely obtain their daily bread, and though Canada is by no means at present a nation of millionaries, there is not amongst us an agricultural homestead between the Atlantic and Pacific where content and a rude plenty do not reign—(applause)—and in a thousand localities the earth is bursting with the mineral wealth which only requires improved transportation to develop. (Renewed applause.) Nor indeed are you so numerous as your neighbors, but this is an inferiority which time will soon correct. Providence has spread out for you the fertile prairies of the North-West, and your daughters must do the rest. (Loud laughter and applause.) But if these admissions may be made on the one side, what countervailing superiority may not be quoted on the other. In the first place you possess the best form of Government with which any historical nation has ever been blessed. (Cheers.) The excellency of the British Constitution, with the self-expanding energies it embodies is an ancient story which I need not insist upon, but as there are always external forces which disturb the working of the most perfect mechanism, so in an old country like England many influences exist to trouble the harmonious operations of the political machine; but here our constitution has been set agoing almost in vacuo—entirely disencumbered of those entanglements which traditional prejudices and social complications have given birth to at home. My next advice to you, then, would be to guard and cherish the characteristics of your constitution with a sleepless vigilance. And do not consider that this is a superfluous warning. I do not of course refer to any of those principales which either regulate the relation of the Mother Country to the Colony, or of the Crown to the Parliament. All questions which were at one time in controversy in either of these respects have been long since happily settled to the satisfaction of everybody concerned. (Applause.) During the whole time that I have been Governor-General of Canada not a single difficulty has ever arisen between the Colonial Office and this Government. (Hear, hear.) Indeed it would be impossible to overstate the extraordinary smoothness and harmony with which this portion of the machinery has worked so far as my experience has gone. (Applause.) The independence of the Canadian Parliament and the independence of the Canadian Administration in all matters affecting their domestic jurisdiction have not only received a generous recognition, but have been stimulated and expanded to the fullest possible extent by the authorities at home, as the recent establishment of a Supreme Court of Justice on Canadian soil impressively testifies. (Applause.) Nor has anything occurred to trouble the relations of the Viceroy as representing the regal power and his Parliament. The respective limits of privilege and of perogative have been finally determined, and there is no temptation, either upon the one side or the other to overstep them—(cheers); but there are one or two other principles incident to the British Constitution, which, though fully recognized and established, might, perhaps be overridden in times of political excitement, unless public opinion exerted itself to maintain them absolutely intact. I allude to the independence of the judges and the non-political and permanent character of the Civil Service. With regard to the independence of the judges I will say nothing. Notwithstanding what has been done elsewhere, I do not think that the Canadian people will ever be tempted to allow the judges of the land to be constituted by popular election. (Hear, and applause.) Still, on this continent there will always be present in the air, as it were, a certain tendency in that direction, and it is against this I would warn you. And now that I am upon this topic, there is one further observation I am tempted to make in regard to the position of the judges. I should hope that as time goes on, as the importance and extent of their work increases, and as the wealth of the country expands, it may be found expedient to attach somewhat higher salaries to those who administer the laws. Pure and righteous justice is the very foundation of human happiness, but remember it is as true of justice as of anything else—you cannot have a first-rate article without paying for it. (Cheers and laughter.) In order to secure an able bar you must provide adequate prizes for those that are called to it. If this is done the intellectual energy of the country will be attracted to the legal profession, and you will have what is the greatest ornament any country can possess—an efficient and learned judiciary. (Cheers.) But after all, the chief danger against which you will have to guard is that which concerns the Civil Service of the country. Now, the Civil Service of the country, though not the animating spirit, is the living mechanism through which the body politic moves and breathes, and has its being. Upon it depends the rapid and economical conduct of every branch of your affairs; and there is nothing a nation should be so particular about as to secure in such a service independence, zeal, patriotism and integrity. But in order that this should be the case, it is necessary that the civil servants should be given a status regulated by their acquirements, their personal qualifications, their capacity for rendering the country efficient service, and that neither their original appointment nor their subsequent advancement should in any way have to depend upon their political connection or opinion. (Applause.) If you take my advice you will never allow the civil service to be degraded into an instrument to subserve the ends and interests of any political party. (Cheers.) The success of a political party ought to depend upon its public policy, and the ability of its chiefs, and not upon the advantage likely to accrue to its individual adherents. In fact, the more the area of personal profit consequent upon a charge of Government is limited the better for the country at large. (Hear, hear.) On the other hand, the independence thus conceded to the members of the civil service imposes upon them a special obligation, namely, that they should serve their successive chiefs—no matter to which side they may belong—with a scrupulously impartial zeal and loyalty. (Hear, hear.) There is no offence which should be visited with swifter or more condign punishment than any failure in this respect. A civil servant who allows his political sympathies to damp his ardor, devotion, zeal and loyalty to his departmental chiefs is a disgrace to his profession. (Hear, hear.) Happily both the great political parties in this country have given in their adherence to this principle. Both are convinced of the wholesomeness of the doctrine to which I have referred, and I have no doubt that the anxiety manifested by our friends across the line to purge their own Civil Service of its political complexion will confirm every thinking Canadian in the conviction I have sought to impress upon you. (Applause.) Again, therefore, I say to you, guard this and every other characteristic of your Constitution with an unfailing vigilance, for though you search all the world over it is not likely you will ever get a better one. (Cheers.) It is true no one can live in the proximity of our great neighbors without conceiving the greatest admiration for the wisdom which framed the political institutions under which they have so wonderfully prospered, but I am not at all sure that the success of the original experiment is not as much due to the fortitude, the good sense, and the moderation of the subsequent generations that have carried it into effect, as to the foresight and wisdom of its authors, and certain am I that there is not a thinking American who, however proud he may be of his country, does not occasionally cast an envious sheep's eye—(loud laughter)—across the border at our more fortunate condition. (Applause.) The truth is that almost every modern constitution has been a child of violence, and remains indelibly impressed with the scars of the struggle which ushered in its birth. (Applause.) A written constitution is of necessity an artificial invention—a contrivance—a formula as inelastic as the parchment on which it is written—instead of being a living, primeval, heaven-engendered growth, whereas the foundations of the polity under which you live are of secular antiquity. (Loud applause.) No revolutionary convulsion has severed the continuity of your history, or disinherited you of your past—your annals are not comprized within the lifetime of a centenarian, but reach back through a thousand years of matchless achievement in every field of exertion open to mankind. (Loud cheering.) Nor do even the confines of two oceans suffice to hedge you in; but you share an Empire whose flag floats, whose jurisdiction asserts itself in every quarter of the globe—(applause)—whose ships sails whiten every sea—whose language is destined to spread further than any European tongue—(tremendous cheering)—whose institutions every nation aspiring to freedom is endeavoring to imitate, and whose vast and widespread colonies are vieing with each other in their affectionate love for the Mother Country—(cheers)—in their efforts to add lustre to the English name, in their longing to see cemented still more closely the bonds of that sacred and majestic union within which they have been born. (Applause.) Gentlemen, believe me, one is not an Englishman for nothing; and although, perhaps, I should be prepared to go beyond many of my hearers, not merely in justifying, but in extolling the conduct of those men of the revolutionary period who tore themselves —though I believe with bleeding hearts— from their Mother's side rather than submit to her tyranny, I confess I should have difficuly in finding words to express my want of sympathy for those, should any such ever come into existence, who—unless under the stress of equal provocation—should be tempted to abjure so glorious a birthright in pursuit of any Utopian chimera. (Applause.) None such, however, are here. (Cheers.) Of course I am well aware that many of the most earnest-minded men amongst us have insisted of late years with laudable enthusiasm—and in doing so, though perhaps unconsciously to themselves, they have only given utterances to the feelings of every man and woman in the nation—upon the duty of a supreme devotion to the interests of their own Canada. (Cheers.) But you are well aware that as an Imperial officer I have never shown the slightest jealousy or breathed a word in discouragement of such honorable sentiments; for I am convinced that, so far from being antagonistic to Imperial interests, it is amongst those who are prepared to make the greatest sacrifices for their native land that we shall always find the most loyal subjects of the Queen. (Great cheering.) The only thing that, perhaps, I would be disposed to deprecate would be the over-passioned advocacy of any speculative programme that may lie outside of the orbit of practical statesmanship. (Hear, hear.) As every human society is in a state of continuous development, so occasional re-adjustment of its mechanism becomes necessary; but I think you may take it for granted that, though they may not talk much about it, the experienced men who superintend your affairs are perpetually on the watch for any serious symptoms of strain or friction in the wheels of the body politic, and as soon as these disclose themselves there is no doubt they will find expedients with which to meet the emergency. It is in this way, by this practical proceedure, and not by theoretical excursions into dreamland that the British polity has been so successfully elaborated. (Applause.) So long as a man sleeps well, has a good appetite, and feels generally jovial, he may rest assured he needs no doctoring. (Laughter.) But if he takes to perpetually feeling his pulse, looking at his tongue, and watching his digestion, he will invariably superinduce all kinds of imaginary pains and aches, and perhaps a real illness. (Applause and laughter.) Well, so far as I have observed, you all appear at present in the best of health and spirits, and I do not know that you will much better your condition by allowing your imagination to speculate as to whether the exuberant vitality you are accumulating in your system under your present satisfactory regimen will or will not eventually necessitate some hundred years hence an inconceivable process of amputation. (Laughter and applause.) But what is so satisfactory in this case is, that those sentiments of loyalty and affection for the Mother Country, which are so dominant in Canada, coincide and run in parallel lines with what the coldest common sense and the most calculating policy would recommend. (Great applause.) They are, in fact, but the wreaths of roses which entwine and overlie the strong cords of mutual profit and advantage by which the two countries are bound to one another. (Applause.) I therefore say, cherish as one of the noblest traditions transmitted by your forefathers that feeling of loyalty towards Great Britain, the Empire, and its Sovereign, by which you are animated, for it is in that direction, and not in any other one, that your true course lies. (Great applause.) And now, in conclusion, I have but one more word to say. However earnestly I may have besought you to be faithful to your native land, and to estimate at its proper value your birthright as Englishmen, it is almost with equal persistence that I would exhort you to cultivate the most friendly and cordial relations with the great American people. A nobler nation—a people more generous or more hospitable—does not exist. Loud applause.) To have learnt to understand and appreciate them I esteem as not the least of the many advantages I have gained by coming to Canada. (Applause.) Of my own knowledge I can say that they are animated by the kindliest feelings towards the Dominion, and I cannot doubt but that the two countries are destined to be united in the bands of an unbroken friendship. (Loud applause.) Nor can I conceive a more interesting or delightful task to store for the philosophical historian than to record the amicable rivalry of such powerful and cognate communities in the path of progress—the one a republic indeed, but where the authoritative pre-eminence assigned to the elect of the people, and the comparative freedom of the Executive from Parliamentary control introduce a feature akin to personal Government; the other a monarchy, but to which the hereditary principle communicates an element of stability as to render possible the application of what is really the most popular and democratic political system to be found upon the continent—(loud cheers)—while both combine each in their respective spheres to advance the happiness of mankind, and to open up a new and fresher chapter of human history. (Applause.) And now, gentlemen, I must hurry to a conclusion. I have only to thank you for the patience with which you have listened to me. My race amongst you is run. To-day I am but hastily finishing off the concluding paragraph in my official career. That record I am happy to think is destined to become the preface of a more brilliant chapter in your history. (Cheers.) In a few weeks one of the most promising of the younger generation of English statesmen will reach your shores, accompanied by a daughter of your Queen. (Tremendous applause.) Under the auspices of these distinguished personages you are destined to ascend yet higher in the hierarchy of the nations, to be drawn still closer to the heart of the Mother Country, to be recognized still more universally as one of the most loyal, most prosperous, and most powerful of those great colonial governments which unite to form the Empire of Great Britain. (Great cheering.) May God Almighty bless you and keep you, and pour out upon your glorious country the universal blessings that lie at His right hand. (Tremendous cheering, renewed again and again.)

Ants and their Ways.

Few papers read at the British Association this year commanded greater attention, or will awaken more general interest, than that by Sir John Lubbock on the habits of ants. The room was crowded with scores eager to hear it, and many were unable to obtain admission. The interesting little creatures whose manners and customs formed the subject of the paper have been watched by curious eyes, and have served to point many a moral lesson from the time of Solomon to the present day. But they have certainly never before received this amount of intelligent study which Sir John Lubbock has devoted to them. Over thirty species of them have been studied by him for some years. Their habitations possess therefore, peculiar value. The ants have been kept by him in captivity, but they have not on that account suffered in health; a queen in one nest having lived with him since 1874. Among other remarkable characteristic of ants were mentioned their architectural skill, their attention to their young, their wonderful organization, their possession of domestic animals, and even the institution of slavery as existing among them. The intelligence of ants in connection with drunkenness as the result of accident, or because the nests afford common shelter, or attaching themselves to the ants and returning to be got rid of, have been estimated to amount to no less than 583 species. The common house ant is seldom to be found sharing the house of other ants; but an allied species—the sanguinea—is frequently to be met with in association with the fusca. When this is the case the nest belongs to the sanguinea, of which species are the queen and the young, while the fusca are slaves, or rather domestic servants, as they are free to come and go. The fusca do the work of the household, and forage for provisions. One species of ants will take no part whatever in the duties of the household, and would die of hunger, although surrounded by food, if the latter were not put into their mouths. Sir John Lubbock stated, in illustration of this, that he had kept some alive for months by allowing them a slave for an hour a day to clean and feed them. After narrating various experiments tending to show that their intelligence was in several respects very limited—as, for instance, in making mechanical arrangements, and in imparting information to one another—Sir John proceeded to remark that there were hunting, pastoral and even agricultural, ants. The first depend mainly upon the chase, hunt alone, and, like the heroes of old, fight single combats. The second have flocks and herds of aphides, and will probably exterminate the former class as the white man exterminates the savage. There are the harvest ants in this country. Ants belonging to the same nest never appear to quarrel, but all others, even those of the same species, are regarded as strangers and enemies. As an illustration of this, and at the same time of their power to recognize their friends, Sir John told the following amusing story: Taking twenty-five ants, friends to those in a certain nest, and thirty strangers, he made them intoxicated by putting them into whiskey. He then left them lying on their backs in ludicrous attitudes, near the nest. When the sober ants came out they carried 20 of their friends into the nest to sleep off their drunken stupor, the remaining five they dropped into the moat of water which surrounded their dwelling. Sir John could only account for the treatment which the latter received by supposing that they had fallen into the hands of "stern teetotalers." But of the 30 strangers, 28 were thrown into the moat and the remaining two left to recover as best they could. Eggs are laid by both workers and queens, those of the former always producing males. In conclusion Sir John stated that ants can distinguish between colors, and avoid violet. Their sense of smell is also delicate, but they appear to be destitute of that of hearing. There are 20 species of ants in this country, and 700 in other countries. Altogether the paper was one of great value, and has added much to our knowledge of insect life.—London Christian World.

THE COUNTERFEITED CASE.—The Napanee Standard says:—"Some time ago the Government detective O'Neil was in town working up the dodge counterfeiting case, but left apparently foiled. On Sunday morning, however, he arrived again by train from Stratford, having in charge Roland Jackson alias Wm Jackson, Wm. Wilson, John Murray, Samuel Lindsay, the former being his right name, one of the counterfeiters charged with being in connection with the gang at Williamsville, Kingston, for counterfeiting and circulating 25c and 50c pieces. He is also charged with being implicated in the safe robbery at J. N. Lapum's, Centreville. He acknowledges being pursued by the Kingston police, and that he made his escape from Williamsville, but denies firing at the police when again pursued at Odessa. He was examined by Mr. Forward, Monday, and remanded for eight days."

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, SEPT. 26

PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

TORONTO, September 24, 1878.

The appearance of the weather early this morning was such as to create a good deal of apprehension in the minds of both exhibitors and sight-seers, but fortunately their apprehensions were not realized. From 10 o'clock a. m., Queen's weather was enjoyed.

A far larger number attend at the Exhibition to-day than is usual so early in the week. Of course the attraction was the presence of His Excellency the Governor General, who came upon the ground at 3 in the afternoon, and was presented with an address by the President, on behalf of the members of the Agricultural and Arts Association of Ontario. His Excellency's reply is probably his last public utterance prior to his departure from this country, and partook of the character of a valedictory. It was characterized by the eloquence and beauty of diction which are peculiarly Lord Dufferin's, and contained allusions which will be thought over and doubtless acted upon by the people of the Dominion, both now and in the future. The speech will doubtless appear in extenso in your columns, so I have made no report. After the delivery of the speech, His Excellency visited a portion of the grounds, and was honored with a salute of 19 guns. He next proceeded to the main building, and took his place upon a platform on which the Toronto Philharmonic Society had assembled. After the National Anthem had been sung, Lord Dufferin rose and said: "Mr. President, Ladies and gentlemen, I declare the Exhibition open." The great multitude assembled in the building were evidently disappointed that His Excellency did not make a speech, but they were in ignorance of the fact that he had just a few moments before delivered a most able address. Several pieces of music were rendered by the Society, in magnificent style, after which the Governor General took his departure. Accompanying His Excellency during his visit, I noticed his Honor Lieut.-Gov. Macdonald, Thos. Stock, Esq., President, and Mackenzie Bowell, Esq., M.P., Vice-President of the Agricultural and Arts Association.

The sight which was presented to His Excellency while formally opening the Exhibition was one which would move a ruler much less easily affected than Lord Dufferin. As he gazed upon the assembled thousands as they stood amid the magnificent exhibits on the floor and in the two galleries of the beautiful building, it was evident that he was affected by the sight, and as cheer after cheer greeted him his manner of responding showed that if the people had a high regard for him he had equally high regard for them. His Excellency visited the Horticultural Gardens in the evening, and was enthusiastically received. I noticed that His Excellency has become somewhat grey and a little bald since I last saw him, when he made his triumphal tour through Ontario. His geniality of manner has undergone no change, however, and certainly his fondness for Canada and Canadians has not diminished.

BELLEVILLE EXHIBITS.

On the first gallery on the northeast side one of the noticeable exhibits is that of the Ontario Business College. A fine display of penmanship is made, and several large posters invite visitors to "Take a Journal from Ontario Business College, Belleville." The invitation is willingly accepted and thousands of copies of the College Journal, which not only advertise the College, but also help to make Belleville known to the world, are taken daily. There is certainly no institution in B leville through which the good city is so well advertised as through Ontario Business College. Its journal circulates in every Province of the Dominion, and largely in the United States, and from all these sources its students are drawn.

Brown's Agricultural Works are represented by Messrs. J. Keith and J. Garbutt, who have on exhibition Bennett's Champion Fanning Mill.

Messrs. Brown & St. Charles are represented by Mr. Brown, who shows a very handsome omnibus.

Messrs. Ashley & Sills of Foxboro show their patent cheese press.

Mr. Clapp of the 4th concession of Sidney shows fine specimens of wheat, geese, and other products of his farm.

I shall report other Belleville exhibitors as I may discover them.

The weather promises to continue fine, and doubtless to-morrow will witness a tremendous rush.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association was held this evening, when the Rev. Mr. Burnet, the President, delivered the annual address, which treated exhaustively of all that relates to the growth and culture of fruit.

The Queen's Hotel, where Lord Dufferin is staying, is magnificently illuminated to-night. The streets are almost impassable this evening owing to the great crowds of strangers in the city.

J.

TO BE SHELVED.—An Ottawa telegram says:—"It is rumored that Hon. Mr. Laflamme will be appointed Judge of the Supreme Court."

CHANGE OF MUSIC.—During the past five years the Toronto Globe referred to the farmers of Canada as the intelligent and sturdy yeomanry—now it dubs them the ignorant farmers.

THE MONTREAL VOLUNTEERS.—By a vote of 12 to 9 the Montreal City Council has refused to pay the sum of $7,855.37, the expense incurred in connection with the calling out of the volunteers to assist in preserving the peace on the 12th of July last. Litigation will be the result.

ORDER FOR LOCOMOTIVES.—A Montreal paper says that the Canadian Locomotive and Engine Company has received an order from the Quebec Government for several locomotives, required at once for the Q. M. O. & O. Railway, and that considerable disappointment exists among American builders, who have, under the late regime, had the lion's share of these orders."

OUR PARIS LETTER.

EXHIBITION OF BRONZES—COMPETITION BETWEEN BERGMAN AND PARIS TRUFAY AND CHEEK—HOW AMERICAN INVENTORS HAVE BEEN TAKEN ADVANTAGE OF—THE FUTURE OF THE EXHIBITION BUILDING—ELECTRIC LIGHTS—HOW AND WHY THE PARISIANS GROW HAPPY.

(From a Regular Correspondent.)

HOTEL DU LOUVRE,
Paris, Sept. 12, 1-78.

Formerly churches and palaces alone enjoyed the luxury of decoration, whereas now every middle-class drawing room possesses its elegant mantel ornaments, elaborately worked candelabra or chandeliers, gold-tea, flower stands, and pretty faience. The desire to be surrounded with works of art is a craving which is felt by everyone, and is a sign of refined and intelligent civilization. Paris was the cradle and still remains the principal centre of the bronze industry. In the present Exhibition is noticed a formidable competition to the hitherto unrivalled superiority of the Parisian bronzes in the neighboring capital of Belgium. In the magnificent collection displayed by the Company of Bronzes, of Brussels, the anxiety of the Parisian artists to found a museum of decorative art, with the express view of developing the taste of designers, is justified. An equestrian statue of Rudolf in, of Constantinople, and a colossal figure in zinc, intended for one of the gates of Antwerp, gained for this Company a silver medal at the Paris Exhibition of 1867. But these two specimens of its manufacture did not reveal any special characteristics. Like all such subjects, they were made not without the assistance of a sculptor, and were unaccompanied with decorative bronzes wholly designed, modelled, and finished by the Company. The Company did not wish to compromise, by a premature display, and artistic renown still in its infancy. This wise husbanding of strength is now amply repaid by its present brilliant and well-merited success.

Some of the American exhibitors have been complaining of wholesale piracy on the part of Swedish and other manufacturers, and in some cases the castings of American machines have been used right in the sand, the copyists not even effacing the pattern maker's numbers &c. There is a reaper made by Adriance, Platt & Co., which is thus copied by a Swedish and by a Canadian firm, the copies being exhibited in competition with the original. Messrs. Fay & Co. say that a British firm has thus copied their wood-working machinery. There is one thing to say, in this connection, that any machine with castings copied directly from American models will be dangerously weak, as the marked superiority of the American cast iron enables machines to be built there much lighter than is safe to copy with inferior metal.

But the worst case of "cheek" that has yet come to view is that of the "R. R. Priviligirte Homboker and Marienthaler Eisenwaren Industrie und Handels Actiengesellschaft," of Moravia, in Olmuz. This "imperially and royally privileged" establishment shows, in the Austrian avenue, padlocks suspiciously American in model and finish, their duplicates being exhibited in the United States section by Mallory & Wheeler. Close inspection shows that these are not merely copies of this firm's American locks, but are really made by the Connecticut firm referred to, bearing the private numberings of that house's catalogue, and numberless little unmistakable "rear marks" not so perceptible to the uninitiated!

The idea gains ground that the Champ de Mars building will not be entirely destroyed, but the two grand machinery galleries and the vestibule facing the Seine will be retained, together with most of the ornamental grounds, including the lakes and fountains. The south vestibule and the picture and industrial galleries being removed a large space will remain for military manœuvres, and the noble machinery galleries will be converted into military magazines. The Champ de Mars is a sad, dreary place in ordinary times, and almost any change in its aspect must be an improvement.

The close of the Exposition of 1878 is now gradually drawing near. It seems to be generally understood that its duration will not be prolonged beyond the 31st of October, notwithstanding the many reports to the contrary. It will probably be known in history as the greatest World's fair ever held up to this time. In a financial point of view directly it cannot, however, be considered a success. The cost to the French government has been ninety million francs, while the fullest expectations will be realized if the gross returns foot twenty million francs. On the other hand, the beneficial results of the exposition will be felt by the nation for years to come. Paris will be the heart of France, and upon it depends the life and activity of the nation. By attracting thousands of strangers here from every part of the world, and showing to the world the beautiful results of French genius and workmanship, the old channels of trade, grown sluggish since the recent disastrous war, will be reopened, and a more healthy and vigorous life current will be infused in the nation, already so wonderfully recuperated. Work has been given to thousands of unemployed; business has improved everywhere, and the cry of Vive la Republique comes with such earnestness from all sides, that no one can doubt that the present form of Government is growing more and more endeared to the people. Compared with the Centennial Exhibition, three out of every four Americans who come to Paris ask the question "How does this exhibition compare with our Centennial exhibition?" That is a question which they find is hard to answer. The Centennial was so far behind the Paris Exhibition in some things as this is inferior to it in other respects. In all things pertaining to American industries and the results of a useful inventive genius, the Centennial was a wonder, but none the less wonderful is this exposition in the amount and variety of everything beautiful and artistic contributed by France and the other nations of Europe.

Important experiments with the electric lights have been made at the Exhibition. The Lontin light was pronounced to be very successful. The price of shares in the Continental gas companies has been seriously affected by these and similar trials.

One of those official returns has just appeared, of which the least fastidious of the mots elegants stigmatise as degradant and unfit to appear in the columns of a newspaper. The document referred to tells us that, during the last year, the fastidious gourmands and gourmets Parisian actually swallowed 153,061 tons of butcher's meat, 20,587 tons of poultry and game, 20,538 tons of pork and other compounds, 5,709 tons of trips and delicate inner meats, 25,358 tons of fish, 14,902 tons of butter and about the same weight of eggs, 8,593 tons of cheese, 2,792 tons of oysters, and 20,338 tons of fruit and vegetables. This is the octroi account, and, as all the articles pay on being brought into the city, it is unquestionably correct; but it does not include fruit, vegetables, and other things addressed to individuals,—it contains in fact, simply the market receipts. It is startling to think that two millions of people, half of whom are supposed to live on bread and haricots, and the other half on pate de foies gras perdrix truffes, and mayonnaise de saumon should consume, in one year 133,061 tons of coarse butchers' meat! Enough to make a vegetarian faint with horror.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, SEPT. 26.

City and Vicinity.

ENGLISH MAIL.—An English mail was distributed here this morning.

SUNNY.—A heavy gale prevailed during the greater part of last night. Towards morning it fell, and heavy showers of rain succeeded.

EAST NORTHUMBERLAND.—Mr. Keeler's majority in East Northumberland is 63, according to the official returns.

YACHT CLUB.—The members of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club are to meet at Hambly's to-morrow night to make final arrangements for Monday's regatta, which promises to be a great success.

ASSEMBLY.—The first Assembly of the season is to be held in the City Hall on Wednesday evening next, Oct. 2nd. The Oddfellow's string band will be in attendance. See the advertisement.

A RAID.—During last night the Chief, Sergt. McCrudden and policemen on duty made a raid upon a house reputed to be of a disorderly character on the west side of the river. Three women were captured and lodged in the station house.

EAST HASTINGS.—A recount of the ballots, demanded for Mr. White, will take place here to-morrow before the County Judge. The recount was to have been made on Tuesday last, but it was agreed to adjourn it until to-morrow.

THE DOG BY-LAW.—Owners of dogs having been remiss in registering their canine property, the police are taking active steps to compel them to do so. A large number of summonses have been issued, and the neglectful ones will be made to answer before the Police Magistrate.

THE CHAMPION RACE.—We are requested to state that passengers by steamer Alexandra on Monday next will have an opportunity of witnessing the Hanlan-Courtney championship sculling race at Lachine on Wednesday, free of extra charge. The boat will take an excursion party from Montreal up to the course on Wednesday morning. Through passengers free. It

A ROW.—There was another row in that celebrated locality on Church Street, where so many belligerent females reside, between two women. The war of tongues was fast and furious for several hours, the disputants using very freely language more forcible than classical, until at length they stopped from sheer exhaustion. The police might occasionally visit the locality designated with profit to those who dwell near it.

ANOTHER RISE.—After in the morning declining 1 cent below the rate of the previous day, barley suddenly jumped to $1.10 per bushel yesterday afternoon, and buyers were very anxious to operate at that. This morning, owing to strong competition, it advanced to $1.12. Rye, peas and peas were all firmer and showed an advance this morning. For prices see market report. Farmers are in luck this season, what with excellent crops and very high prices for barley.

A GREAT DISAPPOINTMENT.

For the last few years, physicians who have made a note of parties purchasing early cucumbers, watermelons, etc., have been greatly disappointed because of "no calls," as the people have found Dr. Pierce's Compound Extract of Smart-weed to be a prompt and certain cure for colic, cramps, dysentry, diarrhœa, cholera morbus, and all pains in the stomach and bowels. As an external remedy for cuts, bruises, sprains, burns, and the sting of insects, it is unequaled. Sold by druggists.

—A despatch from Airolo, Switzerland, at the southern mouth of the St. Gothard tunnel, reports that three cases of gunpowder for blasting in the tunnel exploded on the 20th. Ten workmen were killed, and several lost the sight of both eyes.

FALL OPENING.

MESSRS. FOSTER & REID.

The fall openings have commenced rather earlier this year than usual, and the ladies, who have been on the tip-toe of expectation for new novelties, will not have long to wait. Messrs. Foster & Reid are first in the field, having announced the season's opening to commence to-day. In order to avoid the crowd, with which the store was likely to be thronged, our representative made an early call this morning at the establishment. Everything was in apple-pie order, the proprietors wore their best smiles; the clerks looked affable and ready to empty the shelves of their contents for consideration, while the head milliner and her fair assistants were busily arranging their department in the most attractive form. The main part of the store, where the heavier class of goods are found, was stocked with one of the finest, most varied, and heaviest stocks of fancy and staple dry goods ever shown in the city, comprising everything kept in a first-class establishment of the kind, from the finest broadcloth to the most costly lace, silks, satins and furbelows, shawls, gloves and hosiery of every conceivable description; without making further specification, mention might be made of some superior German hosiery, and German cloakings in black silk and wool, and also in grey, soft, flexible materials. These were shown in mantles already made up in their own shop, and in the piece.

The show-room—the chief point of attraction—comprises the rear part of the store, and was most gorgeously decorated for the occasion. The walls on either side were draped with velvets and silks trimmed with lace and flowers. The background was relieved by a large mirror in which the fair buyers could obtain a full view of their figures costumed in Messrs. Foster & Reid's best mantles and hats. On the floor were three stands on which were placed imported hats of every shade and variety, the whole artistically arranged, and presenting a perfect fairy scene.

The Millinery Department is one in which the fair sex always take the greatest interest, and the display made in this branch by Messrs. Foster & Reid fully sustained their high reputation. This fall has not brought the change in hats and shapes which was expected, the difference in style being more in the trimmings and colors. We have the old favorites with little change, except in name. The brimming is quieter, bolder and more lady-like, less flowers are used, and what are being worn are principally unmounted clusters of buds, roses and wreaths of Autumn tinted leaves; feathers seem to be the great favorite, and the different varieties shown in these were very fine. Everything is covered with tinsel, as even the silks and satins look like sheets of gold rolled in bars, and these when used in moderate quantities brighten and make more effective, the dark greens, brown and dull colors. The new color Grenat seems to be the favorite color, and is very becoming to pretty faces, either blonde or brunette.

The styles for Bonnets are very similar to those used by our grand-mothers, and are worn quite on the back of the head, as indeed many of the hats are. We were shown one made by Madam Leonel Lechevalier, of Paris, close capote shape, made quite plain in grenat velvet, and finished with two bands of heavy double faced satin ribbon over the crown, from front to back, ending in strings which by the way are hid close under the chin. The front of the bonnet, which widens a little enough to show the braid of hair on the top of the head, was trimmed with a fine chain of gold beads forming points inside the brim; round the crown was a handsome Ostrich feather the same color as the body of the bonnet. There are a great many other varieties of hats and bonnets, and mantles and shawls, in every style.

It is only about six months since this new firm commenced business in this shop, and they report one of the best and most successful season's business ever done in Belleville. We learn that during the day the shop was crowded with fair buyers, and the sales were far ahead of the most sanguine anticipations of the proprietors.

IS YOUR LIFE WORTH 10 CENTS?

Sickness prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life. When sick, the object is to get well; now to say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Biliousness, &c., can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this go to any Druggist in Belleville and get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you. d&w

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and laboured breathing, the demulcent properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime manifests itself in its healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membrance of the Bronchial passages; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided resumes herself, and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health.

Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00.

EPPS'S COCOA.—All the Year Round says:—"Let us stroll to the Euston Road, hard by the Regent's Park, to Epps's Cocoa Manufactory, where may be studied the making of cocoa on a stupendous scale, giving a just idea of the value of these articles, not as luxuries, but as actual food."

EPPS'S COCOA.—John Bull says:—"An idea of the vast extent of the industry may be gained from the fact that one firm alone—that of Messrs. Epps & Co.—now sell some 4,000,000 pounds annually."

EPPS'S COCOA.—Christian World says:—"I am to take you to-day, said I, "I must see and judge for myself what are the ingredients of which it composed; with this view I made my way to Messrs. Epps's manufactory of James Epps & Co., in the Euston Road."

EPPS'S COCOA.—"Cassell's Household Guide" says:—"We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps & Co., homœopathi chemist and manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London."

EPPS'S COCOA.—Morning Advertiser says: "Nearly two centuries after, in 1832, the duties, which had hitherto been almost prohibitive, were greatly reduced, and one of the first to take advantage of re-establishing the popularity of cocoa was Messrs. Epps & Co., the Homœopathic Chemists." d&w1m

John Steele, or Coal Oil Johnny, who was put in sudden possession of $2,500,000 by the discovery of petroleum on his otherwise almost worthless Pennsylvania farm, only to become poor again through wild extravagance, is now a station agent on the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad. He has given up drinking, and thinks that he is so much wiser from experience that he would not waste another fortune if he could get one.

FROM TORONTO.

The Provincial Exhibition

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—The attendance at the Exhibition to-day is scarcely so numerous as yesterday, but still is very large. The weather is fine, and a great influx of visitors is expected this afternoon.

There is a very large exhibition from Montreal, London, and Hamilton, especially in fruit—Belleville and all the principal towns and cities in the Dominion. The articles from these places carrying off a large number of prizes. Judging in various classes is now quite through.

Last night the hotels proved unable to accommodate the vast numbers of guests, and people could be seen lying around on the door steps, in barns, and in short every conceivable place.

THE MARQUIS OF LORNE'S FAREWELL TO HIS CONSTITUENTS.

His Views on the Value of the Colonies and Vice-Regal Duties.

(Special Cablegram to the Globe.)

LONDON, Sept. 27.

The Marquis of Lorne is gazetted Knight Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. Yesterday he made a farewell address to his late constituents in Inverary, in which, after referring to home politics, he said that we should judge the wishes of the colonies not from our point of view but from that of their interests, and also from that of the well being of the whole Empire. He then spoke at length on the importance of Canada as an emigration field for agriculturists and others similarly employed, and the rapidity with which the country is being opened up and cultivated. Plenty of men would do well there if they could hold a plough and follow the gallant example of their countrymen, who had done glory to the old land in forming another great British nation They would exchange unhealthy city toil for life-giving work. The settlers in the agricultural regions of Western Canada were likely to live longer and be happier than was the lot of the great majority of mankind. In conclusion, he had now to bid them farewell, but he wished to let them feel that he knew well how deep was the debt of gratitude he owed them. If he proved in any manner able to fill the high place allotted him—if any success attended him in undertaking the arduous responsibilities connected with the position of one who was the representative of constitutional sovereignty, and as such bound to cherish the living ties which unite the young with the old Imperial land—if he could in any measure satisfy the wishes of the people of Canada because he had had some experience of public matters as a member of the House of Commons. He had always rejoiced that he had been allowed to serve that fair portion of Scotland which their brothers and his had served in other and more troubled days.

LORD DUFFERIN'S DEPARTURE.—A Quebec despatch says:—"His Excellency the Governor-General will sail from Quebec either on the 12th or 19th October. The joint address of the citizens of Quebec will be the last of the kind extended to him before his departure. It will be presented in a public manner on the Esplanade on Friday evening, the 11th or 18th of October, after the laying of the corner-stone of the Dufferin improvements, and immediately before His Excellency embarks on board the steam ship which is to convey him on the following morning from our shores. The Governor-General will be escorted to the steamship wharf from the Esplanade by a trochlight procession."

—Ottawa wants the next Provincial Exhibition, and has sent a deputation to Toronto to look after it.

—A serious strike of mill hands has taken place at the colored cotton factories of Red Cliffe, Pelkington and Unsworth, England.

—Samuel A. Payne, of Moncton, N.B., was killed at the St. John railway station on the 24th. The train passed over him, cutting the body in two.

—In reply to Gen. Mil s' telegram about Sitting Bull's return, Gen. Sheridan telegraphed it must be an unconditional surrender.

—Twenty-four sacks of mail matter were burned by the health officer at Mesqete, Texas. The department intend investigating the matter.

—The Grand Canal of China, which is almost as famous as its great wall, is to be abandoned as a commercial highway. It was constructed by Kublai-Khan and his successors of the Yuen race, and is 600 miles in length. The enormous yearly cost of keeping the canal in repair has at last led to its being abandoned for a less expensive route.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region, falling barometer, brisk to high westerly to northwesterly winds and cloudy to clear, cool weather. For the Upper St. Lawrence, brisk southerly to northwesterly winds, with clearing, cool weather. For the Lower St. Lawrence, partly cloudy to cloudy weather, with rain areas. For the Maritime Provinces, fresh to brisk southeasterly to southwesterly winds and increasing cloudiness at night. Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. A teaspoonful of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime given whenever the Cough is troublesome, will afford immediate relief, and if persevered in will effect a cure even in the most obstinate cases.

THE CHALLENGE SALE.

IS determined to rule the Clothing Trade in Belleville. We are in shape to do it, for we buy every dollar's worth of Goods when they can be got the cheapest. Every Merchant in Belleville advertises to sell the cheapest goods in his line—and for some time back one of our contemporaries has been trying to throw down the gauntlet to crush the sunshine broken in the trade, on whose behalf we take it up, and make the old war cry, "Come on, MacDuff." Owing to our largely increased trade we purchased a mammoth Fall Stock. We have in fact as much and more Ready-made Clothing as all the other Clothing houses put together—all new this Fall, and selected with great care by one of the best Buyers in Ontario.

OUR GRAND MOTTO!

RAISE THE QUALITY, AND LOWER THE PRICE.

To accomplish this we must manufacture our own Clothing, and by doing so we can undersell hands all the barometer, and experiment the manufacturing ourselves. Remember, if you want a good wearing article go to HAYMAN & SONS'S. We are also making some good Vests at $1.50, the wonder of the age. Men's working Pants, $1.50; Don't fail to see them. See our Tweed suits at $7.50, our Diagonal suits at $10—can't be beat. Diagonal Pants and Vests $4.00. All we want is a trial, and be convinced that we do as we advertise.

that the only book giving the complete history of the travels, explorations, important discoveries, and thrilling adventures of Mr. Stanley in Africa during 1874-1877 is now published, under the title which appears at the head of this advertisement as the Canadian COPYRIGHT EDITION.

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Explorations and Adventures of Stanley" have been advertised. They are a rehash of Livingstone and other old books of African travel and of Stanley's letters. The first is the Original spurious book published in Philadelphia, written by T. W. Knox. The second is an inferior copy of the first. Both have mostly old illustrations. See that you get the genuine work written by Mr. Stanley. Notices of the Press.

The Bazar is the organ of the fashionable world, and the expounder of that world's laws; but it is the authority in all matters of manners, etiquette, costume and social habits.—Boston Traveller.

The Bazar commends itself to every member of the household—to the children by droll and pretty pictures, to the young ladies by its fashion plates in endless variety, to the provident matron by its patterns for the children's clothes, to paterfamilias by its tasteful designs for embroidered slippers and luxurious dressing-gowns. But the reading matter of the Bazar is uniformly of great excellence. The paper has acquired a wide popularity for the fireside enjoyment it affords, and has become an established authority with the ladies of America.—N. Y. Evening Post.

The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

THE COLLIERY DISASTER.

Wales in Mourning over her Dead Miners.

SCENES AT THE MOUTH OF THE PIT.

[From the Dublin Freeman's Journal.]

NEWPORT, Wales, Sept. 12—Midnight.

Wednesday morning was ushered in with bright sunshine, and there was no atmospheric depression such as generally accompanies serious explosions, when the men, to the number of 376, about 6 o'clock, had their lamps handed to them, locked, before getting into the cage. Before proceeding to the workings the lamps, as usual at this pit, were again examined to see that they were locked, and thus the officials try to avoid having a naked light exposed to the undoubtedly fiery black vein seam. Nothing occurred out of the usual routine except that half an hour before the fatal explosion eighteen men signalled to the bankman to be drawn up, when they told him that they had refused to fill up some tubs with rubbish, work which they considered was not according to contract. To this slight occurrence these men owe their lives, for before they had left the pit-head a rumbling sound was heard, black smoke issued from the shaft which they had just left, and with such force too that the pumping engine room floor upheaved, and the engine man was knocked down, and became insensible. The report was not loud enough, however, to be heard in the houses of the poor miners whose all is in the pit. The men who had so fortunately escaped, however, carried the dread tidings to the whole neighborhood, and soon a terrible scene was enacted. It was noonday, but the black smoke issuing from the first shaft threw over the peaceful valley the shadow of death. Every inhabitant in a mining village, even the boy not out of his teens, knows that the black smoke may be the death warrant of some one who are near and dear to him.

Soon there were groups of anxious wives looking for husbands, and weeping children, fearful lest a father or a brother should be doomed in the pit below. The force of the explosion had been terrible, and every one in direct communication with the working (one mile from the shaft) was killed in an instant, and some of those around the Abercorn shaft were mutilated. About forty yards from the bottom sixty horses were stabled, and they succumbed. Happily for about a hundred men who were working in some heading at right angles with the vein of the seam and 500 yards from the shaft, they only heard the explosion, and they managed to reach the bottom of the shaft where the gear had not been sufficiently damaged to prevent the car being used for their exit, and they reached the top in safety. Another panic prevailed on the pit head, where hope and despair were alternately agitating those who had come with fear and trembling to know what fate had in store for them. In vain did would-be comforters hold out hope or try to administer consolation to the women and children who had come to seek those who came not from the dark and dismal recesses of the pit. The cries of anguish and the despair were heartrending, and many poor women had to be gently dragged and others carried away from the scene. Meanwhile Mr. Pond, the resident manager; Mr. Grevor, Abercorn; Mr. Rowbotham, general manager of Ebbw Vale; Mr. Powell, Mr. Streelly, Mr. James Aberaychan, Mr. Berrell, Pontypridd; Mr. Jones, South Wales Colliery manager, and Mr. Cadman, chief inspector of the Southwestern of England district; and Mr. Rain, his deputy, and Mr. Fairrick, took the management of exploring parties. They found that the force of the explosion had knocked down all the air-ways, and they never succeeded in getting further than 400 yards from the mouth of the pit shaft.

At six o'clock they found that the pit was on fire and they ceased exploring. Shortly afterward the flames came belching up the upcast shaft, and then it was known that the fate of all within the pit was sealed. Measures were then taken for flooding the mine with the view of extinguishing the fire. Various suggestions were made, and at last, on the proposal of Mr. Patrick O. Llewellyn, Aberdare, the embankment was cut away, and the canal water was let down into the downcast shaft, through two fifteen-inch pipes, throwing a volume of water down equal to about twelve tons per minute. This was at one o'clock in the morning, and the result was made manifest by the dense volumes of black smoke covering the whole of the valley. It was not until midday that the water reached the arch of the upcast shaft, and, of course, stopped the further egress of the smoke. When the flames were seen issuing from the Abercorn shaft fears were entertained for the sixteen explorers who had entered the Cwm Can, and a messenger was sent off in hot haste to apprise them of the danger of a second explosion. They succeeded in bringing eleven near to the Cwm Can shaft, and got out of the pit in safety. The after damp got very bad, and consequently no more attempts were made to go down the shaft. The colliery is now being flooded to put out the fire, and this may occupy two or three weeks. Mr. Wales, Government Inspector for South Wales, came about midday, and approved of the measures which had been adopted for extinguishing the fire. Of course the sad fact comes directly home to the relatives of the sufferers, as they may never have the satisfaction of seeing or knowing the features of those who have fallen victims of this disaster. A consultation will take place to-morrow among the mining inspectors and colliery engineers as to the best mode of dealing with this dreadful calamity.

As to the cause of the explosion no one ventures an opinion, and when it is remembered that no powder was allowed and no firing of shots, and locked lamps were used it is difficult to hazard a conjecture and as every one of the households of the explosion has been obliterated, first by the explosion itself, and next by the flooding of the mine, there is no data on which to prove any theory set up. It was a fortunate circumstance that the mid-day men, between one and two hundred, due at one o'clock, did not get down the pit and add to the awful catastrophe. A lamp-man who was on duty at the time distinctly heard three shocks in succession. They were so powerful that they shook many of the houses in the village. Everyone knew what had taken place, and then for a long time there was nothing to be heard but women crying for their husbands and children for their fathers. Directly after the explosion took place exploring parties entered the pit. Men came from all parts to volunteer for the service, but the work was very dangerous, and finally had to be abandoned. Henry Powell, however, went down and brought up the body of his son. The lad was sadly injured and died this morning. Another pitman tells me that he worked until last night at the Abercorn trying to do all he could, and then went with Joseph Maxwell, one of the "overmen," down to CwmCarn, in which an exploring party had gone down, as it was connected with Abercorn by means of a draught. While this party was at work he saw flames dart from out the Abercorn pit, and dense volumes of smoke came from out the ventilators. They then went into the CwmCarn, and warned Mr. Fond of his danger, and he, together with his party, were therefore compelled to retreat; but the measures which were taken to clear the pit were very prompt. At the time the pits mouth was crowded with an eager, weeping crowd. The sight of the first corpse being brought up caused an immense amount of weeping, and had it not been for the exertions of the police on duty it is most likely that the utmost disorder would have prevailed.

Each train that has arrived from Ebbw or from Newport has crowds of strangers, and they who shall never see again those who are near and dear to them have closed their doors and sorrowed in private. I was my lot to see some of the sufferers. One woman has lost her husband and three of her sons, while another informed me that no less than thirteen men living in her house were dead. All day long the Rev. Mr. Jenkins, curate of Ebbw, and other clergymen have been among the bereaved and now, after giving them spiritual consolation, Mr. Jenkins has shown his practical sympathy with the sufferers by endeavoring to start a subscription on their behalf. It appears that trade in this district has recently been very bad. Men who formerly earned fifty two shillings a week have now been barely making nine, so that those who were thrifty in prosperous times have exhausted the little store they had put by. Gentlemen who are well acquainted with the neighborhood state that the families of the men who have been lost must either starve or at once go to the parish, for they have no means whatever of subsistence. At the time of the explosion of the Black Vein mine at Risca there was a glut of work going on, so that the death of some 147 was not felt so much as this calamity is likely to be. The suspense ere the bodies will be recovered is indescribable. In the street of Abercorn several persons contributed small sums of money to members of a hastily formed committee, a few pounds being now absolutely required in order to relieve immediate necessities. During the day Mr. Cadman, Inspector of Mines, has been on the ground, as has also his assista t, Mr. Bain, but of course, owing to the fire raging, they have not been able to do more than to throw out occasional suggestions as to the course of order advisable to pursue. A number of medical gentlemen from the adjourning villages have also been in attendance, willing to render any service they might be be called on to perform, but there appears to be no need of them, for those who are in the pit are either crushed to death with the falling, are burned up in the all-consuming flames.

English Girls as Pedestrians.

The Trossach Hotel has been built here in the wilderness, just at the point where the passengers coming from Edinburgh meet those coming around from Glasgow; and as they reach there at about one o'clock, it is the general lunching place for tourists. Some idea of the number of people (mostly Englishmen, with their wives and daughters) who are now travelling in different parts of Scotland may be judged from the fact that over one hundred and fifty lunched there yesterday, and that every room in the house last night was occupied by guests, most of whom, probably like us, had made a halt for fair weather. The scenery around the hotel is most beautiful. The placid waters of Loch Achray on one side; and from the steep mountain behind it a roaring mountain stream with cataracts gives animation to the scene, and sounded during the night as if we were in close proximity to a miniature Niagara.

There are also quite a number of pedestrians who are spending a month in exploring the Highlands. We pass these frequently on the road, and they make a sort of a picnic trip of it, carrying knapsacks. The English girls are famous walkers, and they diverge from the stage roads and make excursions among the mountains. There was a party of young English girls at the hotel who have walked over one hundred miles during the past seven days. Their rosy cheeks and the firmness of their tread, as well as the substantial shoes they wear, with heels where nature requires them to be for use and comfort, indicates an ability to walk ten times this distance if they willed it. American girls are general poor walkers, and it will soon be a difficulty to find an American lady who can walk more than twenty minutes without complaining of fatigue—as it is to find a good female walker in China. They pay too much attention to the shape and make of their boots for pedestrian performances.—A Letter to the Baltimore American.

ERPS'S COCOA.—All the Year Round says:—"Let us stroll to the Euston Road, hard by the Regent's Park, to Epps's Cocoa Manufactory, where may be studied the making of cocoa on a stupendous scale, giving a just idea of the value of these articles, not as luxuries,

ERPS'S COCOA.—Christian World says:—"If I am to take cocoa," said I, "I must see and judge for myself what are the ingredients of which it composed; with this view I made my way to the cocoa manufactory of James Epps & Co., in the Euston Road."

ERPS'S COCOA.—"Cassell's Household Guide" says:—"We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps & Co., homœopathic chemist and manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London."

ERPS'S COCOA.—Morning Advertiser says:—"Nearly two centuries after, in 1832, the duties, which had hitherto been almost prohibitive, were greatly reduced, and one of the first to take advantage of re-establishing the popularity of cocoa was Messrs. Epps & Co., the Homœopathic Chemists." d&w1m

Accounting for their Defeat.

The Grit journals are busily occupied in accounting for the Waterloo defeat of their party, in the recent election, which fell upon them like a thunderbolt from a clear sky. It was only a few days before the election that Mr. G. R. Pattullo, the Reform organizer, in a speech made at Halton in opposition to Hon. Wm. McDougall, held forth in a prophetic spirit on the struggle then in progress, and with all the assurance of a professional charlatan held up to the enraptured senses of his fellow Grits the following glowing picture of a glorious victory in the near future :—

"My settled conviction is that on the night of the 17th September the Reformers will be found to have carried two-thirds of the constituencies of the Province of Ontario ; that they will have improved their position in Quebec ; that they will have carried seven-eighths of the seats in New Brunswick ; that they will have carried Nova Scotia by a four fifths majority ; that they will carry Prince Edward Island solidly ; and in the Western Provinces they will stand very little, if any, worse than they do now. This is the Reform victory which present appearances indicate will be achieved on the 17th September."

How terribly this self-assured seer has failed in his auguries, let the fact that the party's majority of 50 in the House of Commons at the close of the last session of the late Parliament has been swept away, and a Conservative majority of 79 substituted, form sufficient answer. Mr. Pattullo will now have time to reflect upon the fact that he as well as the great bulk of his party, utterly failed to understand or to appreciate the sentiments, the wants and the wishes of the people of this country ; that in consequence they failed to govern acceptably, and that as the result they, as useless and mischievous obstacles, have been brushed aside from the path of progress of this great country.

Some of the journals which are engaged in accounting for the defeat of their party, ascribe it to the ballot, which is doubtless true to a large extent, but what does this prove! Why, that the Grits who clamored for secret voting in order to prevent alleged bribery and intimidation on the part of their opponents, were themselves the bribers and intimidators. Which fact was further shown by the result of the election trials from 1874 onwards.

The most extraordinary of these excuses is, however, to be found in Senator Hector Fabre's paper, L'Evenement, which soundly rates the leaders of its party for their bad generalship, which led to their defeat. Our contemporary says :

"The Conservative party ought to render thanks to heaven to-day that the Liberal party had not at its head at Ottawa, men like those who carried it on to power in Quebec. To this circumstance, fortunate for it, fatal to us, the Conservative party owes its triumph. Were the reins of Government held at Ottawa by a skilful, energetic, and courageous man like Mr. Letellier, or by one frank and sympathetic to all like Mr. Joly, instead of having to deplore a Waterloo, we would have had an Austerlitz to celebrate. It was French Pash, and not Scotch circumspection, which was required to win this great battle."

This admission that the Lieut.-Governor is the real head of the Joly Government the Rouge organ follows up with the following significant comment :

"Couched in power during five years, we allowed ourselves to become demolished by degrees without availing ourselves of the enormous resources of which Government always makes use. The Ministry appeared to take pleasure in allowing itself to be assailed, and did not rouse our greatest efforts to save it, when, as after the check at Digby and the defeat at Arthabaska, its peril became too great ; and then we believe our army would have found itself in the arena of its own accord, even if the commander in chief had not given orders to use every available force to save the flag. Before and after the battle, during the time of peril, and after the danger had been surmounted, the spirit which reigned at headquarters was the same. To all counsels, to all protestations, the leader had but one reply : Impossible—that would cause us to lose more in Ontario than we could gain elsewhere.

"Well, we know to-day what Ontario is worth. There the sudden change was most complete, and there the defeat was greatest. The Government centred all its hopes in Ontario, and lavished on that Province all its attentions ; and Ontario has responded to so many favors by the blackest ingratitude. Everything that was done was done with a view to retain its affection, yet for all that, Ontario has not had the slightest consideration. With the half of what had been done to keep that Province, our Province would have been gained over entirely."

That is to say, that Quebec could have been bought with one-half of what was expended on Ontario. The admission is candid, but whilst we have to think Mr. Fabre for his opinion of his party leaders and for affording not a little amusement by the family quarrel to which he is a party, we most entirely dissent from his conclusions. Let L'Evenement and the other Grit newspapers look the facts in the face and manfully resolve to counsel their party to do better for the future. The Grit party fell not for the want of corruption, but because of it, and because their lack of administrative ability and their adherence to a fatally erroneous trade policy brought down upon them the condemnation of the electors. These are the true reasons underlying the defeat of the Mackenzie administration, and all the sophism in the world cannot do away with them.

GRAND LODGE OF QUEBEC, A. F. & A. M.—The following are the Grand Officers who have been re-elected :—M.M. Tait, of Montreal, M.W. Grand Master ; C. Judge, of Quebec, R. W. Deputy Grand Master ; Arthur F. Simpson, of Lennoxville, R. W. Grand Senior Warden ; C. M. Church, M. D. of Aylmer, R. W. Grand Junior Warden ; Rev. John Scrimger, of Montreal, R. W. Grand Chaplain ; L. H. Stearns, of Montreal, R. W. Grand Treasurer ; E. E. Spencer R. W. Grand Registrar ; J. H. Isaacson, of Montreal, R. W. Grand Secretary ; Isaac Richardson, of Montreal, Grand Tyler. M. W. Bro. Thos. White, and R. W. Bros. Edgar Fitch and T. P. Butler, were elected on the Board of General Purposes.

EAST HASTINGS.

The scrutiny of the ballots cast in the recent Parliamentary election in East Hastings was commenced at the Court House, Belleville, this morning before T. A. Lazier, Esq., Junior Judge of the County of Hastings. Mr. George D. Dickson appeared as counsel for Mr. White, and Mr. Jas. Bethune, Q. C., of Toronto, for Mr. Aylsworth. Up to the hour of adjournment at 1 p. m., the ballots cast in Nos. 1, 2 and 3 divisions of Thurlow had been scrutinized, with the result of a loss of one vote to each, leaving the parties as they stood previously.

On the court resuming the doors were closed, and no further information could be obtained up to the hour of going to press.

The Course of the Government.

The Globe of to-day has an article on the probable resignation of the Government, which may be taken as foreshadowing the course which Mr. Mackenzie and his colleagues intend to pursue in the present crisis. Our contemporary says :—

"It does not appear to us that any difficulty should exist in determining the proper course to be pursued by a Ministry situated as is the Government of Mr. Mackenzie at the present moment. It has, we are aware, been held by high authorities that the vote of Parliament alone should determine the action of the Administration. Officially, it is true, Mr. Mackenzie knows nothing of the strength of the respective parties until that be tested by a division in the House of Commons. He has a legal right to hold office until the usual time for the Legislature to assemble, to do all the acts a Minister in possession of a majority would, and to disregard absolutely the popular impression as to the effect of the late elections. But the expediency and propriety of so acting would be quite another matter.

"Mr. Mackenzie is in point of fact, as thoroughly apprised of the state of affairs as he would be after the newly elected House had been organized and counted off into yeas and nays. The majority against him is too large to admit of any doubt as to the balance of parties in the popular Chamber. He will, therefore, we have not the least doubt, consult both his own feelings and the public convenience by vacating office as soon as the work of the departments in which he and his colleagues have been engaged is wound up and in a state to be handed over to their successors. That this should be done before the act of resignation takes place no reasonable person will question. No one can be well complete business involving executive action or administrative details as those under whose regime it has been commenced. And it would be as unwise to leave arrears to be attended to by others as it would be inexpedient to prolong what is virtually a Ministerial crisis beyond due limits.

"On the other hand, the incoming Ministers are entitled to ample time for preparing their measures and shaping their policy before Parliament assembles. To defer the change of office till then would render an adjournment of the Houses necessary while the new Ministers went for re-election, would greatly inconvenience both members and the public, and cause the legislation of the session to be hurried and incomplete.

* * * * * * * *

"We feel perfectly sure, too, that in the matter of appointments the Premier will have the fullest regard to the principle which should guide a retiring Cabinet. Any vacancies may properly be filled up, and all such appointments may be fittingly made as are necessary for the uninterrupted progress of the business of the government. But that, in our opinion, is the extent to which appointments should be carried, and we have no doubt public opinion will fully approve such a limitation of the exercise of patronage by Mr. Mackenzie at the present time."

We are pleased to find our contemporary in such a reasonable mood, for as we have previously contended it is only fair to the incoming Government that they should have time afforded them to arrange the details of their policy. For Mr. Mackenzie to create vacancies in the public service for the purpose of alluding his friends and to fill up the vacant offices which were kept open as baits during the election would be an act of the greatest inconsistency, taking into account his denunciation of Sir John A. Macdonald for following British precedent such case, and afterwards cancelling many of his appointments.

JACQUES CARTIER.—The Montreal Star says :—"The declarations of forty-eight persons that they had polled votes in favor of Mr. Girouard at poll No. 2 in the parish of Ste. Annes, are published in La Minerve. It appears that only fourteen ballots were found in the box for that gentleman, and in consequence serious reflections are cast upon the Deputy Returning Officer. The election comes before the Courts in a few days."

THE FIREMAN'S TOURNAMENT.—A telegram from Kingston on the 26th says :—"The fireman's tournament opened here to-day. At one o'clock the different companies with their steamers formed in procession, and, accompanied by several bands of music, proceeded to Cataraqui Driving Park. The first prize of $200, for the engine making the best time in getting up steam and throwing a stream of water, was won by the Chaudiere, of Ottawa ; time, 6m. 55s. The Merryweather, of Kingston, was second ; time, 7m. 20s. Watertown third, Montreal fourth, Oswego fifth. To-morrow the trial of hose companies will take place. The weather was fine. To-night Prof. Hand gave a display of fireworks."

SIR JOHN AND KINGSTON.—Says the St. John, N. B., Sun : "Sir John should shake the limestone dust . . . . . off his shoes, and leave it to the choice of its dotage. He is not the first leader who has been defeated. Mr. Gladstone suffered defeat at the polls, and lost no prestige by it. Sir John is still the leader of his party, and will continue to be so until a successor is chosen. He will, as a matter of course, be called upon to form a new Government in a few days, unless Mr. Mackenzie's greed of power induces him to hold on in defiance of the precedents which have been set by Mr. Disraeli and Mr. Gladstone, in which case Sir John will not be called upon until Parliament meets and kicks the Cabinet out."

FUNNY FELLOWS.—The London Free Press says :—"It is very funny work to read the Grit journals just now. During the last six months they have been telling the people that the National Policy meant national ruin. Now they assert that the Liberal Conservatives "must be kept up to their promises." That is to say, that the Grits will insist upon the country being ruined in order to prove that they were right. Now, if the policy of defending home industries from attack is an incorrect one why do they not continue to denounce it, and educate the people in a better way than that in which they have been going ? To tell a man that he is going wrong and then urge him to commit that wrong, is a queer way of "maintaining our principles." But then the so-called "Reformers" of to-day have been remarkable for curious methods of procedure."

PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

TORONTO, Sept. 25, 1878.

People have been pouring into the city by rail and boat at an unprecedented rate, and the number who to-day visited the Exhibition are estimated at over forty thousand. There is, however, very little inconvenience experienced in going through the grounds and buildings, as they are so ample there is room for all good natured people.

Lord Dufferin paid an unofficial visit to the Exhibition this afternoon and moved around quietly examining the exhibits. As he passed, people who recognized him politely raised their hats and he did the same in return.

Sir John and Lady Macdonald also visited the show to-day and were the objects of much attention.

I met a gentleman from Maine on the grounds to-day and in speaking of the Exhibition he confessed that both as regards the well-to-do appearance of the people and the magnificent character of the exhibits we are far ahead of his State ; and in conversation with a gentleman who visited the Michigan State Fair at Detroit last week I learn that our Exhibition is a long way ahead of our neighbor's.

Lord Dufferin was to-day presented with addresses from the following societies and corporations : The Irish Protestant Benevolent Society, St. George's Society, Commercial Travellers Association, the Toronto School Board, and the Corporation of Toronto.

To each of these he replied briefly. His reply to the address of the Commercial Travellers was exceedingly felicitous ; the following is a portion of it:—"But there is a still closer tie which attracts me towards you, because after all what am I myself but a commercial traveller? (Laughter and applause.) I am a commercial traveller who has travelled more and further than any of you. (Renewed laughter.) I have vaunted my wares with as much earnestness and sincere belief in their excellence as any gentleman present. (Loud laughter.) I have endeavored to extend our connections, and to push the business of our House—(great laughter)—with energy and integrity—(laughter and applause) —and as you are good enough to assure me to the satisfaction of my employers—(great applause)—and amongst those who have addressed me there are none in a better position than yourselves to give me an assurance on such a point, as you are in the habit of mixing so intimately with all classes of the community. (Loud applause.)

A magnificent demonstration in honor of His Excellency was made in the Park this evening, in which the military of the city bore a conspicuous part.

The attractions provided for visitors in the evening are very numerous. Among them are the two temperance orators Murphy and Rine. The latter's attempt to bring him off again before the public meets with little favor, and is very properly frowned upon by the public. Rine's fall has had the effect of creating suspicion regarding reported temperance advocates, and Murphy's 50c and 25c exhibition fails to draw.

The annual meeting of the Agricultural and Arts Association was held to-night, and was addressed by the President, Mr. Stock.

The chief business was the deciding where the next Exhibition shall be held. The Rev. F. Clementi moved, and Mr. John Foot, Port Hope, seconded, that it be held in Toronto next year. Mr. Stead moved, and Mr. J. C. Rykert, M.P., seconded, that it be held in Ottawa. After a discussion, in which it was stated that Toronto would hold a Show of its own under any circumstances, it was decided by a vote of 112 to 45 that Ottawa should have it.

The officers of the Fruit Growers' Association elected for the ensuing year are :

President—Rev. Mr. Burnet.
Vice-President—Mr. W. Roy, Owen Sound,
—and the following Directors :

District No. 1—J. Cr ile, Aultsville.
District No. 2—P. E. Buck, Ottawa.
District No. 3.—R. J. Cartwright, Kingston.
District No. 4—P. C. Dempsey, Albury.
District No. 5.—Thos. Beale, Lindsay.
District No. 6.—Geo. Leslie, jr., Toronto.
District No. 7.—W. Haskins, Hamilton.
District No. 8.—A. M. Smith, Drummondville.
District No. 9.—Chas Arnold, Paris.
District No. 10.—A. McD. Allen, Goderich.
District No. 11.—W Saunders, London.
District No. 12.—Joshua Adams, Sarnia.
District No. 13.—H. Robertson, Collingwood.

Inscribed upon a tablet in the first gallery of the Main Building is the following :—"The Exhibition Committee of the City Council exhibits this building as deserving a prize for being a fair specimen of what the mechanics of Toronto can do in three months. Stuart and Strickland, Architects ; Denis Walsh and Farquer, Contractors ; John J. Withrow, Chairman of Exhibition Committee."

Political Notes.

A letter from Prince Arthur's Landing says that property rose in value 25 per cent. at the news of the downfall of the Mackenzie Government. This is a striking commentary upon the character of the "best Government Canada ever saw," as the Globe dubs the Mackenzie coalition.—Hamilton Spectator.

We notice from our commercial reports that Canadian grey cottons have fallen one cent a yard in price. The Reform code of political economy teaches that prices should appreciate in anticipation of the coming era of monopoly. Had there been an advance instead of a fall, there would have been numerous warnings in the Reform press of the danger to come. We leave our opponents to reconcile the actual facts with their theory.—Ib.

Here it is over a week since Sir John Macdonald came into power, and times are just as bad as ever. Why does he not bring on his milk and honey? Some of the Reform papers are getting tired. They want the millennium brought on in one week. —Toronto Telegram.

The Montreal Post does not believe in the Mackenzie Government clinging to office, now that the Government has pronounced against them. It says : "The return of Sir John A. Macdonald has crowned the triumph of the Conservative party. The sooner the Ministry resign now, the better, and as Lord Dufferin's departure has, it is said, been definitely fixed for October 12th, it would perhaps be well that the Ministry should change before his Excellency leaves."

The proposed recount of the ballots in St. John City has been quashed. Mr. Girouard, member-elect for Kent, N. B., declares himself a supporter of Sir John, and Mr. Snowball has waited on Mr. Tilley and anxiously inquired on what terms he can retain the patronage of the county. Even Gillmor says he is not going to injure his county by factious opposition. It looks as though Sir John will have ten New Brunswick supporters.

On the evening of the 24th, the Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association, of Picton, got up a torchlight procession and marched through the town and thence to the residence of Mr. McCuaig, the member elect. Between 800 and 1,000 persons took part in the demonstration. They presented Mr. McCuaig with an address, to which he replied. Mr. Sills, an old Baldwin Reformer, also addressed those present.

TORNADO.—A despatch from Cornwall, Ont., on the 26th says :—"A tornado passed over here last night at 6 30, accompanied by torrents of rain. It did great damage, blowing down fences and tearing up apples trees by the roots. One tree loaded with apples was carried one hundred feet. The drill shed was blown down. A number of houses suffered by losing shingles. A number of out-buildings were blown down. The chimney of the English Church was overturned and fell through the roof of the vestry, destroying the contents. A lumber waggon was driven hundreds of feet, and at the river it turned some small buildings over, and carried one over the top of a willow tree a hundred feet away."

OTTAWA RUMORS.—A despatch from Ottawa on the 25th says :—"There is no truth in the statements made concerning the determination arrived at by the Government to make appointments to all vacancies, nor is it known yet what course the Government will pursue. Only one appointment has been before the Council as yet, and that was laid on the table. It has also been untruthfully reported that Mr. Buckingham was to receive the position vacated by the death of Hon. John Simpson, but it is more than probable that gentleman will not accept any office, even were the offer made. There is a good deal of departmental business in arrears, and this will be straightened up before the Government resigns. The Herald this morning states that Sir John Macdonald will take the position of Minister of Militia and Defence."

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, SEPT. 27.

City and Vicinity

A DECLINE.—Barley declined in price to $1.05 in the market here this afternoon.

ARRIVED.—The steamship Scottish passed Fox River to-day, at 2 p. m. inwards.

REGATTA.—The members of the Yacht Club will meet this evening to complete the arrangements for their annual regatta.

FROST.—There was a heavy frost last night, the effects of which were felt much more on low ground than on the higher lands.

OPENING DAY.—Messrs. Muir & Lawrance announce that they will make their display of fall and winter millinery on Tuesday, October 1st.

THE CHAMPION RACE.—Neither Hanlan nor Courtney were able to row yesterday, owing to the roughness of the water. Both took walking exercise.

HOME AGAIN.—Mr. S. J. Bull, who has been on a trip to the continent, arrived home this morning, much improved in health by his trip.

FIRST ENTRY.—The first yacht to enter for Monday's regatta is the third class yacht Mystery, of Kingston, owned by Mr. H. Cunningham.

FALL OPENING.—Mr. Costello will hold his fall opening of fashionable millinery, mantles, dress goods and other seasonable novelties on Tuesday next, October 1st.

N. H. R. R.—We are pleased to see evidence of the energy of the contractor of the North Hastings Railroad evinced in the fact of the arrival of a quantity of steel rails for the road.

ACCIDENT.—Whilst sowing with a horse-power broadcast sower yesterday, Mr. George Purdy met with a serious accident whereby one finger of his right hand was cut off by the gear of the machine and two others of the fingers badly lacerated.

FOUND DEAD.—Mr. Wm. Irwin, an old and respected resident of Sugar Island in the Township of Hungerford, was found dead in his bed on the morning of the 26th inst. The deceased had been ailing for some time, but his illness was not considered of a serious character. The funeral, which took place to-day, was largely attended.

TRENTON HORTICULTURAL SHOW.—The Courier says:—"The Trenton Horticultural Society held its most successful exhibition in the drill shed on Tuesday. The number of exhibitors was not what it should be but the display was of the choicest kind, in both Flowers, Fruits and Vegetables. The contest especially between the professionals was close and well maintained, yet several amateurs entered their list successfully."

BARLEY.—The Oswego Times of Wednesday says:—"The receipts of barley at this port from Canada since September first to date have been 636,187 bushels, which shows an increase of 356,968 bushels over corresponding time last year. The amount of barley on the canal from lake ports for tide water, yesterday noon, was 198,773 bushels of which 156,810 bushels were shipped from Oswego, and 41,863 bushels from Buffalo. The quantity on the canal same time last year was 142,010 bushels. The quantity in bond at Oswego this morning was 498,360 bushels, and the stock in store at Buffalo yesterday was 72,079 bushels."

OBITUARY.—The Parker, Pennsylvania, Daily, of Sept. 21st, contains a lengthy account of the funeral of Mrs. Wm. Fargey, wife of Mr. Wm. Fargey, lumber merchant, formerly of this locality. Mrs. Fargey, who was the daughter of Mr. Wm. Henry, a prominent citizen of Parker, was but a little more than 19 years of age at the time of her death, which resulted from typhoid fever. Deceased was very highly respected by all who knew her, the funeral being very largely attended and the casket in which her remains repose was beautifully decorated with floral offerings from friends. The many friends and relatives of Mr. Fargey in this part of Canada will sympathize with him in his affliction.

PRESBYTERY OF KINGSTON.—The Whig informs us the Presbytery of Kingston met on Tuesday afternoon in St. Andrew's Hall and sat again on Wednesday, Rev. Mr. Young of Napanee, Moderator, presiding. Rev. Mr. Steel, late of Amherst Island, asked for and received his certificate. The call from Picton in favor of Rev. A. Young, of Napanee, was laid over until the general meeting on the 16th October. The call from Amherst Island in favor of Rev. A. Maclennan was sustained. The Home Mission report was received and adopted, provision being made for the supply of mission stations during the coming winter. At five o'clock on Wednesday afternoon the Presbytery adjourned to meet again in St. Andrew's Hall on the 15th of October next, at 3 p. m.

Omnibus—Brown & St. Charles, Belleville—commended.

CURE FOR THE TOOTHACHE.—A correspondent writes to the Scientific American that the worst toothache, or neuralgia coming from the teeth, may be speedily and delightfully ended by the application of a bit of clean cotton saturated in a solution of ammonia to the defective tooth. Sometimes the late sufferer is prompted to momentary laughter by the application, but the pain has disappeared.

LIGHTNING'S WORK.—The Campbellford Herald says:—"Last Thursday, during a rain storm, which travelled with its companions—thunder and lightning,—a barn belonging to Mr. R. B. Bennett, Seymour east, was struck by the fire from heaven, and entirely consumed. There were many bushels of peas in the building, all of which, too, passed into ashes. Mr. Bennett, who rents one thousand acres, has met with several losses this season, the aggregate of which amount to no small matter—financially considered."

THE TEMPERATURE.—From a "Report of the Meterological Service" for 1878, just received, it appears that Esquimalt, in British Columbia, had the highest average temperature (49.78). Windsor the next (49.27). Spence's Bridge, B. C., next (49.-25), and next Hamilton (48 68). The highest monthly average is recorded for Windsor (73) in July, and the next highest for Hamilton (72.2) in August. The highest temperature registered at any station was 109, at Fort McLeod in the North West Territory in the month of July. At Kalmar, Keewatin, on the 14th of Jan., 1877, the temperature was 63 below zero, which is the lowest temperature recorded for any part of the Dominion for the year.

INFRINGING DOG BY-LAW.

FROM ODESSA.

ODESSA, Ont., Sept. 27.—Mrs. Carson, aged 96 years, has been in a natural sleep for 45 hours and at 10 o'clock this morning is still sleeping. She respires regularly.

BANK RETURNS.—The Bank returns for August, compared with those of the preceding month, show an increase in circulation of $809,936. Government deposits have increased $34,763, while private deposits have decreased $433,112, and these payable after notice have increased $598,-798. Amounts due to Banks in Canada have increased $214,695, and those to Banks in the United Kingdom and in foreign countries $229,396, while on the other side, the amounts due by Canadian Banks have increased $20,965 and by outside Banks $22,396. We notice that loans advanced on Bank stocks have been augmented by $122,569, which indicates a growing speculative propensity, and would denote that Bank stocks are being dealt in more on margin than on investment. Notes discounted show a healthy increase of $1,773,977, but overdue notes unsecured show an unhealthy increase of $18,658. The total amount of discounts current is $106,713,484, an increase of $1,773,977 over that of July, but $4,600,000 less than that of August last year, which is an evidence that the banks in the aggregate are doing less business.

The Detroit Free Press is always kind to Canadians, and endeavors to relieve the Reform anguish which pervades the country, by publishing the following suggestion:—"What the Reform party in Canada now needs most is a good, trustworthy and pliable returning board. If they had this handy institution they could easily overturn the Conservatives and change the will of the people. But the Canadians always were a little slow, and now, in their time of need, they see the desirability of a country with all the modern improvements."

THE AFGHAN AFFAIR

Withdrawal of the Russian Agent from Cabul Demanded.

Proofs of a Deeply Laid Russian Plot.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The Telegraph says Lord Augustus Loftus, British Ambassador at St. Petersburg, left Berlin for St Petersburg on Tuesday. He doubtless will demand explanations, and the withdrawal of the Czar's agent from Cabul without delay. The Indian Government has long had possession of documents and authenticated copies of letters advising Shere Ali in the name of Russia, and by pen or voice of Russian agents to just such a dangerous policy as he is now pursuing.

A Bombay correspondent says:—"It is believed 15,000 men are assembling near Tull."

A Calcutta despatch says many additional regiments have received notice to prepare for active service.

MANCHESTER, Sept. 26.—A London correspondent says:—There are strong indications that the Government is not in a hurry to take action on the Afghanistan question. The desire is to leave the responsibility of the question almost entirely to the Viceroy of India. Any intervention by the Cabinet would have the appearance of dragging Russia into the dispute. The second reason for the abstinence from Imperial action arises from difference of opinion between the Foreign Secretary and the Viceroy, and between members of the Cabinet themselves. Another obstacle is the state of Lord Beaconsfield's health.

SIMLA, Sept. 26.—Notwithstanding the military preparations, it is believed the Government intend to await the course of events and observe the Ameer's attitude before undertaking an invasion of Afghanistan.

A serious outbreak has occured at Seistan, on the borders of Persia and Afghanistand.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 27.—The storm of Wednesday damaged the Episcopal Church at Fort Wayne. Loss $8,000.

At Lebanon, Indiana, the Presbyterian Church, the finest building in the town, was demolished.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—Gen. Grant arrived on Wednesday evening. He was met at the station by Minister Noyes and other American friends.

TROY, Ohio, Sept. 27.—Anna Coles, (colored), who married Geo. Mitchell several years ago and separated from him, was found murdered early yesterday morning. The body was almost hacked to pieces. Mitchell has disappeared.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Cohon, the labor agitator, called on the President yesterday, but the latter declined to talk on the labor question.

FORT FETTERMAN, Wy., Sept. 27.—The stage with the U. S. mail, guarded by two soldiers, was attacked 22 miles north of here yesterday, by twelve masked men. The escort was surprised and disarmed and the mail ransacked.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The Times' Murfreesboro, Tennessee, special says: James Russell, (colored), was lynched yesterday. He is believed to be innocent, as the woman who charged him with the outrage bears a poor reputation.

Washington specials:

The Tribune reports that Gov't Vance, of North Carolina, recently intimated to a gentleman that the greenback labor movement was spreading at the South and the result would be the breaking up of the solid South and the re-arrangement of parties without regard to race, on some of the financial issues.

The Herald says: There is no truth in the alleged agreement concerning the Newfoundland fisheries between the United States, France and England.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 27.—David Morange, aged 12, while climbing over the fence at St. Works' Church yesterday, was impaled on the sharp iron pickets and fatally injured.

The loss of the English S. S. Foxford, bound from New York to Havre is reported. She was a new iron-clad vessel worth $200,000. The crew was saved.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—A Berlin special says Prussia intends to issue a loan to lower the deficit in the budget.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—The Emperor and Empress were enthusiastically received at Cologne yesterday on the occasion of the unveiling of the memorial statue of Frederick William III.

QUEENSTOWN, Sept. 27.—Arrived, the Scythia from New York.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 27.—The trial of Dr. Carlisle and F. G. Minor, for robbing graves resulted in the conviction of Minor, and acquittal of Carlisle. Carlisle was rearrested for stealing the body of Mrs. Pease.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Arrived, the Baltic from Liverpool and the State of Virginia from Glasgow.

GUTHRIE, Ky. Sept. 27.—Fever has broken out here. Mr. Branch, a prominent merchant, died 72 hours from the time of its appearance. Dr. Clark died 48 hours after. The depot agent died yesterday.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 27.—The Ohio & Mississippi round house and Missouri car and foundry works, east St. Louis, were burned last night. Loss $100,000.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—A new association is forming here, known as the Enlistment Labor Association. The propose to urge upon Congress the passage of a law by which 100,000 volunteers may be enlisted for five years for military and agricultural purposes on the Government reservation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Indications:—cooler winds, clear.

A Slight Cough that we are so apt to consider a mere annoyance and treat with corresponding neglect, too often proves to be the seed sown for an inevitable harvest—CONSUMPTION. Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. A teaspoonful of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime given whenever the Cough is troublesome, will afford immediate relief, and if perservered in will effect a cure even in the most obstinate cases.

Prepared solely by J. H. ROBINSON, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B.; and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six for $5.00. d&w-1m

IS determined to rule the Clothing Trade in Belleville. We are in shape to do it, for we buy every dollar's worth of Goods for Cash, and buy each and every class of Goods where they can be got the cheapest. Every Merchant in Belleville can see to sell the closest goods in the line—and for some time back one of our contemporaries has been trying to throw down the gauntlet to crush the smaller brethren in the trade, on which behalf we take it up, and take the old man by the beard. Owing to our largely increased trade we purchased a mammoth Fall Stock. We have in such as much and more than we could clothing as all the other Clothing houses put together—and this Stock, and selected with great care by one of the best buyers in Canada.

We Have Men's heavy Grey Overcoats for $4.00. Do. Working Pants for $1.25. Men's Worsted Diagonal Pants and Vests, $4.00.

In fact the house is crowded with new goods. Call and see for yourselves, and see prices in other Stores before calling. We don't defy competition, but we undersell it.

REILLY & COMPANY, Proprietors.

OUR GRAND MOTTO!

RAISE THE QUALITY, AND LOWER THE PRICE.

TO accomplish this we must manufacture our own Clothing, and by doing so we can undersell all the "ready-made" stock in the country. Call and examine our stock of Tweeds, which will be ready in a few days. Suits to order, which will be made in the latest style, and a good fit guaranteed, at prices never before heard of in this City. We are also making some good Suits at $12, which will be hard to beat. Dismal Pants and Vests $4.75, the wonder of the age. Men's working Pants, $1.50. Don't fail to see them. All no wash in, cuts as a THAG, and be continued this do-never advertise.

Killed by a Serpent.

TERRIBLE ENCOUNTER WITH A DEADLY BLOWING VIPER IN A DARK ROOM.

A terrible calamity befel Dr. Paulhamus and his lovely and accomplished daughter Eleanor, on Tuesday evening in Williamsburg Pa. It seems that a couple of weeks ago, two tramps captured a pair of enormous reptiles, which the doctor pronounced to be of that deadly species known as "blowing viper." The doctor, having a desire to contribute something that would commend itself from this district, purchased the reptiles, intending to forward them to the Zoological Gardens in Philadelphia. Bidding their transportation, the snakes were placed in a large glass jar, the top being carefully secured by a covering of wire gauze. The jar was then placed on an elevated bracket in a remote corner of the doctor's office. Last evening the doctor and his daughter were returning from a visit to the country, and the doctor having occasion to make up a prescription they entered his office, the doctor lighting a lamp and proceeding to compound the medicament. A large owl swept through the transom above the door, and flew with the speed of an arrow against the lamp, knocking it over, and scattering the oil and broken glass in every direction. The bird seemed frantic, flying and dashing in every direction, while a general crash of bottles and glasses was heard on every side. Meantime the doctor had lit another match, but just in time to receive his daughter, who sprang with a wild cry to his arms ; in the darkness he gathered his darling in his arms, and in a moment realized the situation. The owl had dislodged the jar from the bracket, and the vipers were at large. Speedily he grasped his way, and loudly for help, which the hour being late, was slow to put in an appearance. They seemed slow, but scarcely five minutes elapsed until fully a dozen ladies and brave men were on the spot. No living hand can indite the horrors of the next few minutes. Miss Eleanor, who had been insensible since she sprang to her father's arms, was now restored to life by the ladies, when one simultaneous shriek almost froze the blood and paralyzed each nerve—yet not all ! It was Thomas Lutz's hand that seized the glittering reptile by the neck and choked its fearful fangs apart. It had bitten the lady midway between the ankle and the knee. She was now carried immediately to her home, where every known antidote for poison was administered by her frantic father, but all to no avail. She died at half past six o'clock this morning. After taking the poor unfortunate young lady home, one of the men, knowing there had been two snakes, returned to the office and soon found the other. A careful examination showed its two large fangs missing. This led to the conjecture that possibly the Doctor had been bitten. A hasty return and close examination resulted in finding the fangs in the thick leather of the Doctor's boots, who, being so alarmed for his daughter, had not the slightest knowledge of being struck. The corpse of the young lady was swollen to enormous dimensions, while her complexion is in harmony with the spots and general coloring of the snake. The larger of the snakes measured four and a half feet, the smaller four feet. They are pronounced by our old people the largest of the species. It was the shorter one of the two that bit the young lady.—Altoona (Pa.) Tribune.

On the banks of the "Blue Juniata," in Huntington County, stands the little town of Alexandria. Years ago in and about the village lived a wild and evil man, the terror of the country, known as "Lewis, the robber." Many a night traveller lost his gold, and many a waggoner on the old Pursuing and Philadelphia pike was bereft by force of his valuables. Last week two gentlemen went out hunting on Shee's Mountain, a mile or two west of town. They shot a squirrel which, wounded, ran into the trunk of a large oak. What was their surprise when grasping into the hollow trunk for their game to discover an old Dutch oven full of Spanish doubloons, Mexican dollars, English sovereigns, and other coins, all bearing dates before the year 1820. Several packages of paper were found which crumbled to dust as soon as touched. Their glittering wealth, which they divided between them, amounted to several thousand dollars. It is supposed that all this wealth was deposited in the tree by "Lewis, the robber."—Altoona Pa., Tribune.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Don't we who can. It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the Pacific Coast. It has proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your pride to-day and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it as carefully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price, 25 cents per Bottle.

The Trade supplied through the Wholesale Drug and Patent Medicine Houses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

SOLD BY ALL ENTERPRISING DRUGGISTS.

THE CHILD'S DREAM

"Mother, who are the angels calling
Sweeping down the sapphire sky;
With the shimmering starlight falling
On their white robes trailing by?
See their shining hands outstretching
Far across the deeper sea,
With a tender mute beseeching—
Mother, are they calling me?"

"Hush, my child! 'tis but the shifting
Of soft opal clouds in flight,
Through the sad winter twilight
Tween thy sick eyes and the light."

"Mother, what are the angels saying,
Bending in a murmuring throng,
Like a band of sweet nurse nuns,
Round my bed the whole day long?
With their cool wings softly fanning,
Pain and fever from my brow,
And an arch of blue eyes spanning Shade and sunshine over me?"

"Hush my child! 'tis but the whisper
Of the quivering aspens, stirred,
By the upland breeze, whose vesper
Mid the sighing pines is heard."

"Mother, what are the angels singing?
List! their tones rise high and calm
Through the twilight silence ringing
Like a grand cathedral psalm.
Distant harp-chords sweetly thrilling,
Float out with their voices clear,
All the air with rapture filling—
Mother, is not heaven near?"

"Hush, my child! 'tis but the river
Murmuring sones thy childhood knew;
Mingling with bird notes that quiver
Out upon the sparkling dew."

Softly waned the sunset glowing,
Softly dropped the starlight down;
And the west wind faintly blowing,
Kissed to sleep those eyes of brown!
Still the silvery clouds were floating
Downward through the blue of June,
Still the angel waves went drifting
Out, in sudden, tidal tune.
And all night the aspen's whisper
Seemed to mingle with the pure life fled,
And breathed its mournful mourning vesper,
O'er a mother's darling, dead!

Forgiveness.

A soldier was about to be brought before his commanding officer or some offence. He was an old offender, and had been often punished. "Here he is again," said the officer, on his name being mentioned. "Disgrace, solitary confinement—everything has been tried with him." Whereupon the servant stepped forward, and, with a touch of the liberty he took, said, "There is one thing which has never been done with him yet, sir." "What is that?" "Kill him, sir," said the sergeant. "he has never been forgiven." "Forgive," exclaimed the colonel, surprised at his suggestion. He reflected for a few minutes, considered the culprit had been brought in, and asked him what he had to say to the charge? "Nothing, sir," was the reply, "only I am sorry for what I have done." Training a kind and pitiful look upon the man who expected nothing else than that his punishment would be increased with the repetition of his offence, the colonel addressed him saying: "Well, we have tried everything with you, and have now resolved to—forgive you!" The soldier was struck dumb with amazement! The tears started in his eyes, and he wept like a child. He was humbled to the dust; and, thanking his officer he retured—To be the old refractory, incorrigible man? No! from that day forward he was a new man. He told me the story and had him for years under his eye, and a better conducted man never wore the Queen's colors. In him, kindness bent one whom harshness could not break. The man was conquered by mercy and melted by love.

Have you to do with one with whom you have tried every kind of punishment in vain? The next time you are going to strike the blow stay your hand and say: "Well, I have tried everything with you; how I have resolved to forgive you." We know how you also may touch the secret chord of that heart, and find the exquisite lines of the poet true:

Each block of marble in the mine
Conceals the Parian Queen
Apollo robed in light divine,
And Pallas, the armed queen.
It only needs the lofty thought,
To give the glories birth;
And lo! by skilful fingers wrought,
They captivate the earth!

So—in the hardest human heart,
One little well appears,
A fountain in some hidden part,
Brimful of tender tears.
It only needs the master touch
Of love's or pity's hand;
And lo! the rocks melt waters burst
And gushes o'er the land.

Quiet Lives.

Life's map is drawn with many light and dark lines. A few of God's children are peculiarly favored by special gifts. They appear to live under an ambrosial sky, with golden rays of a dazzling sun, without clouds or storms; or they live in the shade of the black palls, no funeral knells. Their lot seems enviable, as if some unseen magi brought their choicest gifts and rarest treasures to enlarge their stores and increase their felicity. Some rise miraculously in pre-eminence; strangely endowed with honors; renown and celebrity follow their footsteps; fame and success cluster about their names. When they die, their epitaphs are written in letters of monuments, or carved on marble statuary. Near them, unobserved, walk the quiet hearts and heroines. The world has not drawn white to reveal innate goodness; they pass among way-worn humble men and gentle women, almost without note.

"Each one has his own part to play in the drama of life;" often those looked upon as the great of earth are the little of heaven; what is deemed perfection and completeness by men is condemned and doomed by the verdicts above. Celestial vision is so much clearer than the terrestrial. Not every flower grows forth perfume; roses have concealed thorns; the tiny blossom, hidden under the shadow of a forest tree, is often sweeter than the gorgeous hot house flower. The life of the lowly roars its spotless head among lofty exotics; yet it receives equal care and nurture from the heavenly Gardener, and to Him is of as much value as if it were transplanted in its beauty and loveliness from tropical climes.

Very many, born in obscurity, reared in penury, and never agitated by strange circumstances, are God's heroes and heroines; struggling, conquering victors in the battle fields of sin and temptation, the bravest soldiers in the camp of life. Intrinsic merit, virtue, noble hearts, are worth more, than kingly coronets; they are not found on the boards or roads or broad avenues, but in the by-paths of life. Often are contained, unseen, some messengers of love, guardian angels, ministering spirits. Their still footsteps come often unexpectedly. Unremonstrative, calm of temperament, unpbearers of mercy with tokens, of sympathy, helping hands in hours of trials and days of sorrow. Their names are not registered in the fashionable reception rooms, for registered among distinguished guests, a better record of them is written upon the white sheet of the unseen and unknown book. The neglect of simple excellence, of unpretentious goodness, the forgetfulness of quiet lives is merely human weakness. There are many own scars independently. So in Italy. "The Italians are proverbially merry and generous, but each man pays for his own wine, macaroni and cigars. They never go into each other's pocket-book in the sacred name of friendship. They would as soon think of transferring to each other their washerwoman's bills.

The preposterous fashion of "treating" is responsible for the terrible drunkenness in America. There would be a little need of temperance societies and little work for the Good Templars as there is in Germany, France and Italy, if this pernicious and insidious habit was abolished. It is, take it all in all, the most ridiculous, the most unreasonable, and tyrannical hand on civilized human beings.—Chicago Post.

A Noble Habit.

There are persons whom you can always believe, because you know they have the habit of telling the truth. They do not forget a story or enlarge a bit of news in order to make it sound fine or remarkable.

There are others who you hardly know whether to believe or not, because they "stretch" things so. A trifling incident grows in size and quality by passing through their mouth. They take a small fact, or slender bit of news, and pad it with added words, and paint it with high colored adjectives, until it is large enough to frighten gives a false impression. And one does not like to listen to false stories—so much—must be "allowed for shrinkage."

Cultivate the habit of telling the truth in little things as well as in great ones. Pick your words wisely, and use only such as rightly mean what you wish to say. Never "stretch" a story or a fact to make it seem bigger or funnier. Do this, and people will learn to trust you and respect you. This will be better than having a name for telling wonderful stories, or making foolishly and falsely "funny" remarks. There are enough true funny things happening in the world, and they are the most entertaining when told just exactly as they came to pass.

One has well said, "Never deceive for the sake of a foolish jest, or to excite the laughter of a few companions at the expense of a friend."

Dear young friends, be true. Be the truth. Tell the truth. There are many false tongues. Let yours speak the things that are pure, lovely, and true.

A Price That Must Be Paid.

Work, hard work, is the price that must be paid for success in this world—of any kind.

To excel even in play—in base ball or polo, for instance—persevering application is requisite.

We do not, therefore, regard any teacher as sound who undertakes to instruct the people that idleness and prosperity are consistent with each other.

We believe in rest and recreation; in play and pastime; but we believe also in work, hard work. We know of no false and deceived who are made to believe that there is any other road to competency, independence and success than honest, hard work.

Not only is work a necessity, but that very necessity is a blessing. If rest is sweet, it is only sweet, only refreshing after labor. Work and rest go with it's sister of almost equal respect.

The idle, in whatever sphere of life they are to be found, are to be pitied. Usually they become tramps and paupers. If rich, they are hardly less miserable.

"Labor is life: 'tis the still water faileth;
Idleness ever despaireth, bewaileth;
Keep the watch word, for the dark rust assaileth."

Flowers droop and die in the stillness of noon. Labor is glory; the flying cloud lightens; Only the rower's wake and the breeze comes; Idle hearts only the dark future frightens; Play the sweet keys wouldst thou keep them in tune."

Pleasant Evenings.

Make the evenings pleasant, mothers, if you wish to keep your husbands and children at home. A lively game, an interesting book read aloud, or, in musical families, a little piling of wires that need not appear, will make the whole thing easy; and different ways and means may be provided for making the evening hours pass pleasantly, and a time to look forward to with pleasant anticipation. We visited once in a large family, where it was the duty of each sister in turn to provide the evening's occupation, and there was a pleasant rivalry between them as to whose evenings should be the most enjoyable. And a natural consequence, the brothers were rarely absent from home.

Gems of Thought.

All things human change.

The man that blushes is not quite a brute.

Love will not be spurred to what it loathes.

God has commanded time to console the unhappy.

The good is always beautiful, the beautiful is good.

A torn jacket is soon mended; but hard words bruise the heart of a child.

The company in which you will improve most will be least expensive to you.

The creed of the true saint is to make the best of life, and make the most of it.

The difference between a rich man and a poor man is this—the former eats when he pleases, and the latter when he can get it.

Associations after the age of sixty in the year when two or three hundred citizens of Chicago are not guzzling something stronger than water at somebody else's expense.

The casual meeting of two men who have never exchanged a word together is a signal for both instantly to say, "Come, what have something?" and for both to dive down into the nearest subterranean cavity below the sidewalk. The one who speaks first usually insists upon "paying the shot"—the word "shot" being a metaphorical reference to the deadly character of the contents usually taken into the stomach. Not even the two old friends meet, the regular thing to say first is "let's drink to old times;" and the resident must invariably "treat" the stranger. If a man be well acquainted, it is considered the princely thing to seize upon all his acquaintances as often as possible; take them to a saloon, and give them a complicated stand up drink at the bar.

If there is anything absurder than this habit we are unable to put our finger upon it. Men do not always "treat" one another to car tickets because they happen to meet on the same way. We never saw a man take out his money on encountering an acquaintance, and say, "Ah, George! Delighted to see you! Do take a few postage stamps! It's my treat!" Do men have a mania for paying each other's board bill? And in drinking together more "social" than eating or sleeping together?

A traveller may go all over the continent of Europe, of Asia and of Africa, without seeing any men except a Yankee, offer to "treat." The Frenchmen are quite social enough, but when they turn into a cafe to sip their wine or brandied coffee together, each man pays for his own. When two Germans long separate meet, they will be very likely to embrace, and then turn into an adjacent beer cellar sit down and drink lager and eat pretzels and chat, but when they part again, each man settles his own score independently. So in Italy. The Italians are proverbially merry and generous, but each man pays for his own wine, macaroni and cigars. They never go into each other's pocket-book in the sacred name of friendship. They would as soon think of transferring to each other their washerwoman's bills.

Standing Treat.

No American custom causes more genuine surprise and amusement among travelling foreigners than that which is known in our saloons as "treating"—consisting in the entertainment of two or more with refreshments, for which one volunteers to pay. It is a pure Americanism; all over the Republic it is as common, as an impropriate unknown. There is probably no minute of any day in the year when two or three hundred citizens of Chicago are not guzzling something stronger than water at somebody else's expense.

The casual meeting of two men who have never exchanged a word together is a signal for both instantly to say, "Come, what have something?" and for both to dive down into the nearest subterranean cavity below the sidewalk. East Hastings.

MR. WHITE DECLARED ELECTED.

It gives us great pleasure to be able to announce that the result of the scrutiny before the Junior County Judge, of the ballots cast in the East Hastings election, is that Mr. JOHN WHITE has been declared the duly elected member by a majority of 20 of the votes legally recorded. This result was brought about by the Judge's holding as invalid a considerable number of ballots at some of the polls, which were numbered by the Deputy Returning Officers in such a manner that the voter could be identified. We heartily congratulate Mr. White on the result, as we have all along believed that he was the rightfully chosen representative of the people for East Hastings, which honorable position he has nobly won and, so long as he acts as he has done in the past, he will deserve to retain. We offer him our hearty congratulations on the result.

THE MINISTRY.

The Mail of to-day says: "Our Ottawa despatch says Mr. Mackenzie, with Mr. Holton, had an interview with the Governor-General yesterday at Prescott junction and that it is rumored at the capital that he will resign office to-day. Despatches from other sources say he will not resign until Tuesday. At all events it is satisfactory to know that the Premier is not going to stand upon the order of his going but intends to go at once."

An Ottawa despatch received at 3 p. m. states that up to that hour nothing had been heard of the resignation of the Ministry.

Immovable and Shifting Ballast.

As many of our readers take a special interest in yachting at present, owing to the occurrence on Monday of the annual Regatta of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, we make no apology for occupying a portion of our space with a few remarks on the subject of movable (or shifting) and immovable (or stationary) ballast in yachts.

We are impelled to do so by certain action of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, which has for many years occupied a leading position amongst the organizations devoted to forwarding and encouraging the noble sport of yachting on the lakes. Up to the present time, the rules of this organization forbade the shifting of ballast in yachts of the second class, that is from 10 tons down to all over 5 tons in measurement, as well as in the larger yachts,—but this year the Club has altered its rules so as to permit of the shifting of ballast in yachts of the class specified. This action we certainly regard as a step in the wrong direction, and one which cannot fail to prove detrimental to the best interests of yachting, and why it is so we shall endeavor to explain. Yachts which are built to sail without shifting ballast must be constructed strongly and of good material, according to the best possible model of design for speed and stability, and carry only such quantity of canvas as will render them safe in all weathers when properly handled. Those which, on the contrary, are intended to be used for sailing with shifting ballast, are constructed of light material, very flat and consequently unstable, and are fitted with canvas and spars of dimensions sufficient for vessels of more than double their tonnage, such in fact as they would capsize under in a very moderate breeze without the piling of a numerous crew, each man carrying 100 pounds or upwards of ballast (generally in the form of bags filled with sand), on their weather rail. Thus the boat which carries immovable ballast is a safe and comfortable craft, depending upon model and stability for speed, whilst the shifting ballast boat is a mere racing machine, sailing upon which is the same in principle as riding on a two-wheeled velocipede, with the added danger that a sudden lull, a shift of wind, or even another boat passing to windward and so taking the wind out of the sails, may at any moment cause the overloaded machine to upset, when of course the lives of the crew would be endangered, either by drowning or from the subsequent effect of the sudden immersion. In fact, it may be said that sailing races without shifting ballast is a triumph of mind over matter, whilst shifting ballast sailing is a triumph of matter over mind—that is, of sand-bags over brains. To sum up the difference between the two classes of craft as briefly as may be: The standing ballast yacht is a true pleasure boat, in which the roughest weather may be encountered with safety, and the building and racing of which is a direct encouragement to the art of the ship-builder, which is one of our most important industries. The craft which depends on shifting ballast for speed is utterly useless except as a racing machine, and being in all essentials a perversion of the form of any useful vessel, is calculated to work harm instead of good, as being detrimental to the true principles of ship-building, and above all dangerous to human life. Let the loss of the Pearl some years ago off Niagara bear witness to the dangers of the shallops which the shifting of ballast calls into existence. To illustrate the comparative safety of a properly modeled yacht, let it be mentioned that the Madcap of this city, a 16 ton centre board yacht, on her cruise this season, broke her tiller when ten miles off shore on Lake Ontario in a tremendously heavy sea, with a gale of wind blowing, and was able to reach port by steering with her sails. What would have become of a "skimming dish," as the flat bottomed sand bag boats are termed, under such circumstances? Why, the chances are ten to one that she would have foundered with all on board within half an hour. Lest it be thought that we exaggerate in regard to the ballast question, let us quote from the New York Forest and Stream, the highest authority on yachting matters in America, and whose marine editor has had ample opportunity of judging of the qualities of the craft whose merits and demerits we have thus briefly discussed. In the issue of that able journal, dated September 12th, we find the following:

> The abominable nuisance of shifting ballast is still in vogue. The racing season about to draw to a close has evinced no amelioration among that large class of yachtmen given to mash sailing in lib-and-mainsail boats. This fact is to be deplored. As long as sandbags decide the day, just so long will we perpetuate the folly of building smooth water racing machines, instead of able little craft that can serve as cruisers as well as racers, that can give enjoyment and instruction equally as much as lead to success in the latter only one of the salient points of the sport. But two clubs in the neighborhood of New York have this season taken steps in the right direction for the advancement of legitimate yacht racing. The members of the Central Hudson Yacht Club sailed several matches with "fixed ballast," and the successful issue of these should have been quite enough to have led to the abolishing of the sand bag infliction, proposed upon the subsequent open regatta of Newburgh; but not the slightest attempt was made by those in authority to do away with a crying evil, which bears heavily on all followers of the sport, upon amateur sailors or machine jockeys alike. What applies to the Newburgh regatta holds good for a dozen others sailed in Metropolitan waters. A small, flat skimming dish, huge spars, bowsprit as long as the yacht itself, boom still longer, and canvas enough to drive a gas tank through; then pile up your sand bags a dozen deep, and climb out to windward; win, or inconsistently enough—that is the yacht racing of the present day! When may we hope to see a change for the better; when will there be a prospect of substituting bona fide yachts of small dimensions for the veriest sailing machines that ever were devised? All praise to the efforts of the Central Hudson and Monmouth Beach yacht clubs to at last break through the baneful habit of shifting ballast, and sailing matches with the floor down over all weight, and limiting crews to rational numbers—the only two that have as yet in the vicinity ventured upon an innovation vital to the future design of our small yachts, and to the development of real seamanship. All praise to the Eastern clubs—the Dorchester, Nahasset and Beverly most conspicuous among them—which have long ago done away with the pernicious custom of a sternfull of dry goods dragging a mountain of rubbish through the water in a big saucepan.

In addition to this we have the opinions of such able practical sailing masters as Capt. Alex. Cuthbert, the most successful yacht builder in Canada, Capt. Henry Covert, Wm. Black and Capt. John Covert, well known as amongst the most able of yacht sailors, and others to sustain us, and therefore we feel justified in saying that the Royal Canadian Yacht Club have taken a backward step, which it is to be hoped that they will retrace before serious injury has been done to yachting by the loss of life from some of the dangerously unsafe racing machines which the change in their rules will call into existence just so surely as cause follows effect.

Belleville has the finest fleet of ten ton yachts on fresh water; they have "swept the board" wherever they have gone, and all sail without any shifting of ballast. Kingston, Oswego and Hamilton have new fine fleets also, and yachting has received a great impetus from the fact that by the use of stable craft danger has been reduced to a minimum. We therefore promise the Royal Canadian Yacht Club that the Bay of Quinte Club will not follow its bad example, as we are satisfied those of Kingston, Oswego and Hamilton will not. Finding themselves thus alone in the matter, the members of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club may, as we trust in the interest of the sport they still find that they have been legislating in the wrong direction and return to their well tried, successful rule of allowing no shifting of ballast, leaving that business to the miserable shallops and fishing boats of Alexandria Bay, Brockville and other places bordering on the still, island sheltered courses of the noble St. Lawrence, where "scrub races" are the rule and the boldest cheat generally wins.

Rather than decree the shifting of ballast in second class yachts let the Royal Canadian Yacht Club aid the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club in abolishing the nuisance and preventing it altogether by shutting open boats out of regattas, whereby a useful and safe class of five ton cabin yachts will be called into existence, of which style of boat Belleville already possesses three good ones, which can face almost any weather.

Six Months of Change.

A talented correspondent of the Mail writes from Halifax:—"You will remember that after the Quebec outrage was consummated by the return of Mr. Joly and his sustainment by the traitor Turcotte, it was boasted that there was not a single Tory Government in Canada! Well, a few months have passed away, and now, the death-rattle is in the throat of the Quebec Government; the Ontario Local Government would probably meet defeat if an election took place; the New Brunswick Local Government is nearly altogether Liberal-Conservative; the Nova Scotia Local Government will in a few days be intensely Liberal-Conservative; the British Columbia Local Government has declared against Mr. Mackenzie; and the Local Government of Prince Edward Island is broken up, and can only be re-established on a Liberal-Conservative basis. No such terrible and crushing rejoinder to a vain boast has ever been given. It is the Sarcasm of Fate. It is the Irony of Time."

PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

TORONTO, Sept. 27, 1878.

There were more people in attendance at the Provincial Exhibition yesterday than were ever before present in one day at any previous fair. The receipts were $7,998, which represent 31,992 paid admissions; add to these the great number that for various reasons obtain free entrance, and it is safe to put the total number in the grounds during the day at 45,000. The weather of yesterday and today has been exceedingly pleasant and doubtless to this fortunate circumstance the large attendance is owing.

The manufacturers of Ontario and Quebec have made a larger and more magnificent display of their wares than they have ever done before, and certainly the agricultural products of Ontario were never before displayed to such advantage.

The feeling among manufacturers has undergone a wonderful change since the last exhibition was held. They see in the declaration at the polls in favor of a National Policy for this country that there will be permanent protection for capital invested in manufacturing industries, and in consequence they are buoyant and hopeful regarding the future.

I hope that before many Provincial Exhibitions have passed that among the products exhibited there will be found pig iron from the County of Hastings.

Lord Dufferin spent his last day in Toronto yesterday, and it was not an idle one. He was entertained at luncheon by the Ontario Society of Artists, and in reply to the toast of his health spoke briefly. In the course of his remarks he referred to the state of things on Niagara Falls, and mentioned that a short time ago he conversed with the Governor of New York State, and they agreed that the two Governments should acquire the existing rights of the people who by their treatment of tourists render a visit a thing of inconvenience and annoyance; and that on each side of the river officials under the control and direction of the State and Province should offer every facility for observing "one of the most wondrous, beautiful, and stupendous scenes which the forces of nature have ever constructed." His Excellency's thought and wisdom are not confined alone to statecraft.

His Lordship held a levee in the afternoon, which was largely attended; he dined with Archbishop Lynch and was presented by his grace and the priests of the diocese with an address, and in the evening he attended the performance at the Grand Opera House. He took his departure from the city this morning amid hearty cheers.

I have heard many expressions of regret that the Provincial Exhibition is not to be permanently located in Toronto. I fancy, however, that it must ultimately come to this. No other place can offer such inducements and accommodation, and certainly there is no place in Ontario which people would rather visit for its own sake than Toronto.

I mentioned regarding Rine and Murphy the other day—that they fail to draw. Last night at a meeting when closing his address Murphy spoke a few words on Rine's behalf, saying that he had accomplished a great deal of good and that encouragement and help should be given him. Rine resented what, I suppose, he regarded as apologetic and patronizing, and warmly declared that he needed no vindication. A safer course for their ex-champion is about the most desirable thing for both these gentlemen. We can manufacture temperance thunder from purer sources among ourselves.

Belleville exhibitors are again victorious. Col. Brown's establishment has taken a first prize and diploma on Bennett's Fanning Mill and Dr. Coleman has taken a first prize for wheat and the Ontario Commercial College a first prize and diploma for business penmanship. Regarding the latter the Globe says:—

"The commercial colleges are as usual to the front with their surprisingly fine specimens of penmanship. The Ontario Commercial College, which has been in existence at Belleville for ten years, was awarded the first prize and diploma for business penmanship. The style is the Canadian Beauty, closely akin to the Spencerian writing, but dispensing with much of the flourishing which reduces the latter sometimes objectionable to business men."

I have not been able to ascertain whether other prizes fell to the lot of Belleville exhibitors.

This is the last day of the fair, and great crowds of Toronto people are visiting the Exhibition this afternoon.

I have noticed a very large number of visitors from Belleville and the County of Hastings. Professor Bell, as well as Mr. Bowell, is here as a member of the Council of the Association.

J.

A CLINCHER.—Mr. W. C. Nunn, of this city, who did good service in various constituencies during the recent election, by discussing the steel rails and other questions, in which he is au fait, had a lively encounter with Mr. Ross, late M. P. for East Durham, at Port Hope, but came out ahead, as the following from the Port Hope Times fully shows:—"At the meeting in the Town Hall, on Wednesday evening, the 11th inst., a statement was made by Mr. Nunn, of Belleville, with reference to a portion of the Truro and Pictou Branch being relaid with some of the famous steel rails. Mr. R. Ross, late M. P., politely called Mr. Nunn a liar, or, at least, said his statement was a "lie," which amounts to the same thing. When told that the assertion of Mr. Nunn could be substantiated by the debates of the Senate, Mr. Ross classed this as a "lie" also. Now, in order to show who really did "lie" on this occasion, we give the following from the Debates of the Senate, for 1877, page 329:—"Truro and Pictou Branch. Hon. Mr. Scott said when the Bill was up for a second reading the hon. gentleman for Toronto, (Hon. Mr. Macpherson) desired some information as to the length of the road that had been relaid with STEEL RAILS. He had since ascertained the road had all been relaid with steel rails with the exception of ten miles." So much for Mr. R.'s knowledge of public affairs. The Pictou branch is fifty-two miles long, and over 4,000 tons of Pacific steel rails have been used on it, and given to a private company, costing the country $235,000. So much for Mr. Ross' accuracy.

QUEBEC SHIPPING.—A despatch from Quebec on the 27th says:—"Number of sea vessels arrived inwards at the Quebec Custom House, from the opening of navigation up to yesterday, 592; the clearances to same date, 514; leaving 78 vessels in port and in small outports. Since the opening of navigation 166 vessels have been licensed by the Quebec Custom House for the local trade of the Province. Since the opening of navigation 2,435 schooners and market steamers have arrived from the lower ports and parishes, being 121 more than at this date last year."

FATAL ACCIDENT.—An Ottawa telegram of the 27th says:—"A thrilling accident occurred at Hull yesterday evening by which Mr. John Stewart, barrister, of this city, met his death. In company with Mr. B. French, of the Mountain Road, he visited a phosphate mine in Templeton yesterday afternoon, and in returning to this city was obliged to cross a bridge near Gilmour's piling ground. They were driving along slowly when the horses suddenly shied at a hole in the bridge. They were quickly reined in, and an attempt made to start them off again. The animals, however, balked and commenced to back. Soon the hind wheel of the buggy collided with the railing and knocked it down. They still kept backing, and before either of the occupants could manage to jump out they were precipitated with the horse and buggy a distance of fully twenty feet to the ground. Mr. Stewart was instantly killed, but Mr. French miraculously escaped with a few slight bruises."

JAPAN.—Japan is a wonderful country, and she is at present engaged in some very costly and important public works. She has just completed two railways, one from Yokohama to Tokio, and the other from Hiogo to Kioto. Telegraphic lines connect Hakodaty with Nagasaki. The mineral resources are being developed with better methods than before, while never was more attention paid to the soil and husbandry of the country. The coasts are now lighted by 34 light-houses, three light-ships, sixteen buoys, and five beacons. Japanese steamers ply between the seaports of Japan, and the China, Corea, and the Riu Kiu Islands, and even make an occasional trip to England. Her postal service is also a marvel of practical utility, as is shown by the Japanese Postmaster General's report for last year: "Letters (ordinary mailed), 22,053,430; letters (registered), 606,354; post cards, 6,764,272; newspapers, 7,372,636; books, patterns, etc., 322,645; free communications, 856,637; letters dispatched to foreign countries, 140,631."

Fight With a Shark.

Captain W. L. Pattison had quite a fight with the gray man eating shark which he caught off Short Beach, Branford, the other day. The monster was nine feet four inches in length and was as big around as a flour barrel. His jaws were nine inches in diameter, and after his head had been cut off the captain put his head between his six rows of formidable teeth and through his throat. The captain has been on the water for twenty-two years, but this is the first time he has ever known of a gray shark's visit to the waters of the Sound. When he found the ugly fellow in his fish net he had him drawn to his yacht, and grappled him by his top fin, as he expresses it. The shark was decidedly opposed to this method of treatment, and snapped viciously at everything within his reach, occasionally taking something out of the gunwale of the boat, and twice biting the captain's leg. Finally his capturer got a line around the monster and hauled him on deck. Here he took his long knife and cut his back bone in two. Even this severe treatment did not cool the rage of the man-eater, for two hours and a half afterwards, when a pine plank, an inch thick, was presented him he impatiently bit it in two. The snapping of his jaws could have been heard a distance of ten yards. He lived four hours after his backbone had been disjointed. He weighed considerably more than four hundred pounds.—New Haven Register.

EPPS'S COCOA.—All the Year Round says:—"Let us stroll to the Euston Road, hard by the Regent's Park, to Epps's Cocoa Manufactory, where may be studied the making of cocoa on a stupendous scale, giving a just idea of the value of these articles, not as luxuries, but as actual food."

EPPS'S COCOA.—John Bull says:—"An idea of the vast extent of the industry may be gained from the fact that on item alone—that of Messrs. Epps & Co.—now sell some 4,000,000 pounds annually."

EPPS'S COCOA.—Christian World says:—"If I am to take cocoa," said I, "I must see and judge for myself what are the ingredients of which it composed with, this view I made my way to the cocoa manufactory of James Epps & Co., in the Euston Road."

EPPS'S COCOA.—"Cassell's Household Guide" says:—"We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps & Co., homeopathic chemist and manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London."

EPPS'S COCOA.—Morning Advertiser says: "Nearly two centuries after, in 1832, the duties, which had hitherto been almost prohibitive, were greatly reduced, and one of the first to take advantage of re-establishing the popularity of cocoa was Messrs. Epps & Co., the Homeopathic Chemists."

City and Vicinity.

CITY COUNCIL.—A regular meeting of the City Council will be held on Monday night.

GRAIN MARKET.—Barley has again advanced to $1.13, and Rye has declined to 80c per bushel.

THE CELLS.—Three "drunks" and two tramps were registered on the police docket last night.

PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.—The exhibition closed yesterday, having been the most successful ever held.

ARRIVAL.—The steamship Sardinian passed Father Point at 6 a. m. The mails left Rimouski at 7.30 a. m.

WANTS REPAIRING.—The sidewalk on Coleman Street, near Thompson's factory, is in a bad condition and requires the attention of the Street Surveyor.

REGISTERED.—In the list of registered visitors to the Paris Exhibition we notice the names of Messrs. Samuel Wilmot and P. Frederick of Belleville.

NORTH HASTINGS RAILWAY.—We are informed that in addition to the two locomotives already in use on this road, two more are being arranged for. This looks like real business.

TEMPERANCE LECTURE.—Mr. J. Carl Cheney, who comes well recommended, is to give a lecture on temperance in the M. E. Tabernacle to-morrow night. There will be no charge for admission.

Messrs. Foster & Reid have received by express this day from their London agent eight of the handsomest Berlin Mantles they have ever had the pleasure of showing the public. They are now on exhibition. 1t

LIBERAL CONSERVATIVE ASSOCIATION.—A meeting of this Association will be held in their rooms on Tuesday next, at 3 p. m. A full attendance is desired, as the business to be transacted is important in its character.

BIG MELON.—Mr. Jacob Acker, of the lot 20, 6th con. of Sidney, brought to town to-day one of the largest water melons of the season. It measured 30 inches by 48 inches in circumference, and weighed 31 pounds.

ASSOCIATION OF CHIEF ENGINEERS.—An Association of Chief Engineers of the Fire Brigades of Canada has been formed. The officers elected are: E. Horsey, Kingston, President; Mr. McCullough, Montreal, Secretary; Mr. Young, Ottawa, Treasurer.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. H. K. Lyon, tinsmith, whilst engaged to-day on repairs at Mr. P. H. Hambly's, was passing along a badly lighted hall, he fell down a flight of stairs which he did not observe, a distance of about eight feet, injuring himself somewhat severely.

ANNIHILATING TIME.—Messrs. Geo. Ritchie & Co. sent a dispatch to Glasgow yesterday at 10:30 o'clock a. m. and received a reply at 1.30 p. m., the same day. The answer was sent off from Glasgow at 4 p. m., and delivered at G. R. & Co's. office at 1.30 p. m., two hours and a half before the sun. 1t

FASHIONS.—Geo. Ritchie & Co. will have their Fall Opening on Wednesday, the 2nd Oct. It is needless for us to say aught of what may be expected of this old and reliable house, either as to quality and style or the reasonableness of their charges, and the variety displayed is always very extensive. 1t

FENCING THE FARM.—The Montreal Jester for this week has a cartoon entitled "Fencing it Around," which represents Sir John Macdonald putting up a fence to protect boots and shoes, flour, butter, ploughs and ploughing, iron and exploding cotton, sugar, furniture, hardware, sewing machines, agricultural implements, books and shoes, &c. Uncle Sam, who is looking over the fence, says, "I reckon, neighbor, you needn't mind fixin' that fence for a spell yet. Your cows never trouble my farm." Cousin John replies: "That's so, but you see the trouble all comes from the other side, and I guess I'm going to stop it."

THE REGATTA.—At the meeting of the Yacht Club last night final arrangements were made for Monday's regatta. The second class yachts will be started at 10 o'clock, and the third class ten minutes later. The course will be from a buoy off the Grand Junction dock to and around a buoy about three miles east, thence to a buoy two miles west of the starting point. Three times around for second class and twice for third class; all buoys to be passed on the north side going eastward and on the south side going westward, except the starting buoy, which must be passed on the north side each time. Messrs. D. B. Robertson, Morgan Jellett and E. W. Davy were appointed Judges, and R. S. Bell Timer. The course is an excellent one, and the most convenient possible, as the race can be seen to advantage from the Grand Junction dock, Ferry Point, Zwick's Island, or in fact almost any point along either shore of the bay between the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and the point below Buck's mill.

DEATH OF A VETERAN.—Mr. Jacob McMaster, one of the veterans of 1812, and who was for many years a resident of Sidney, but who had for the last seven years lived in Thurlow, died on Monday, Sept. 23rd, at the advanced age of 83 years and 4 months. Deceased was the son of U. E. Loyalist parents and was born at or near Adolphustown. He served in the war of 1812-14, having removed to Sidney when but 9 years old. Mr. McMaster was very highly respected, and his decease removes another link which bound the present to past generations. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place on Tuesday, the remains being interred in the Meyers burying ground, Sidney.

THE AFGHAN AFFAIR.

EXPLANATIONS OF THE OBJECT OF THE RUSSIAN MISSION DEMANDED.

RECALL OF THE RUSSIAN ENVOY PROBABLE.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 27.—The Novoe Vryemia reports that Lord Salisbury has asked what is the object of the Russian mission to the Ameer of Cabul, and what position Russia intends to assume with regard to Afghanistan.

The Globe says this report is probably correct but needs confirmation. It thinks Russia will reply that she does not feel bound to explain the object of the mission, and that in the event of war between England and Afghanistan she will observe the same degree of neutrality observed between Russia and Turkey.

"We believe intimations, of more or less value, have already been made to England of Russia's intention to immediately recall her mission from Cabul."

A correspondent at Berlin states that Russia will permit her merchants and manufacturers to sell arms and ammunition to both the English and Afghans in the impending war.

It is reported that an order has been issued for the despatch of ten thousand waterproof sheets and five th usand blankets to the Indian army. The stores are also being prepared for immediate issue.

AT LACHINE.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE COMING CONTEST.

CONTINUED ROUGH WEATHER.

MONTREAL, Sept. 27.—A large number of sporting men are now arriving in the city to witness the great boat race next week. The weather being unpropitious this morning, the canoes were unable to go out, but they were no idle, as they took pedestrian exercise. Lachine is alive with the preparations that are necessary for receiving the 50,000 or 60,000 visitors that are expected. The grand and other stands are in progress, and well advanced. The Grand Trunk Railway will be equal to the occasion, its arrangements being for the unprecedented number of forty-five trains on the day, commencing at 8 o'clock in the morning. The telegraph companies as usual have made such preparations as will afford ample accommodation to all having business with them. The Caledonian Curling Club of Montreal for the winner were lodged in the Bank of Montreal yesterday. Haulan was out this afternoon, but the water was too rough to enable him to remain out long. Both men are considered in first-class trim, but Haulan's condition is thought to be better than that of Courtney, who has had very little practice on the course. Betting is slow as yet, and about even, although odds are asked on Haulan by Americans.

Signs of the Times.

QUEER, COMIC AND BLUNDERING SIGNS.

Something to attract attention, anything to make people stop, is the grand desideratum of storekeepers. That man knew what he was about who swung out a sign in Washington reading thus :

"Walk in, Gents, and read the News,
While I blacken your Boots and Shoes."

A good sign as an appetizer is one found at a hotel at Culebra, on the Isthmus of Panama :

THIS WAY, GENTLEMEN, FOR WARM MEALS.
I AM GOING TO OLD JOE PRINCE'S.

In Salt Lake City signs like the following were common not long ago :

HOLINESS TO THE LORD.
ZION'S CO OPERATIVE MERCANTILE ASSOCIATION

Passing along Lombard Street, in Philadelphia, some time ago, I saw :

"A. LEGG, BOOTMAKER."

But this will have to yield the palm to the Washington sign :

"A. PLUG, TOBACCONIST."

A New York sign reads :

"This gate hangs high,
And hinders none ;
Refresh and pay,
And then pass on."

Here is one from New Hampshire, which sounds well until you come to the last line :

"Call and eat and drink with me,
And very welcome you shall be—
For the money, though, mind ye."

Mr. Jones would advertise his ale. So he had painted on the grave-yard fence :

"USE JONES' BOTTLED ALE IF YOU WOULD KEEP OUT OF HERE."

"Sinclair Lithgow, horse-shoeing smith,
Warks up this close wi' a' his pith ;
He does his wark baith weel and soon,
But likes the siller when 'tis done."

Sinclair's sign is a very different in length from that of the economical cobler who hung out this sign :

SHO$^{E}_{P}$

A wigmaker in Edinburgh put over his door a picture of Absalom hanging to a tree, with these words underneath :

O, ABSALOM ! UNHAPPY PRIG !
THOU SHOULDST HAVE WORN A PERIWIG !

A blacksmith in Essex, England, has on his sign :

NO HORSES SHOD ON SUNDAY,
Except Sickness and Death.

The traveller in Honolulu is invited by a Chinese firm in the following words :

"Good people all walk in and buy
Of Sam and Mon, good cake and pie,
Bread hard or soft, for land or sea,
Celestial made, come buy of we."

A Michigan sign is more promising than even this. It is :

Baltimore boasts of a blacksmith shop with the first verse of "This is the house that Jack built" over the door. But one of the same trade in New York city puts this entirely in the shade. It is over the entrance to an alley way, and reads thus :

"This is Uncle Dan Thomases,
Who always keeps his promises,
His victuals and beer
And other good cheer
Can't be beat about here."

Down South there is a comprehensive sign which reads thus :

BIBLES, BLACKBALL, BUTTER,
TESTAMENTS, TAR, TREACLE,
GODLY BOOKS AND GIMLETS, FOR SALE HERE.

In a little village near Leeds, England, may be seen the following :

A day Skool kept at——— Plaise. Terms
2 pens and 3 pens per week for reeding and knitting and righting and sowing.

We once saw an old waggon with these words written with chalk upon one side :

"THIS WAGGON TO SAIL."

The story is told of an Acton man who had a cart on which is painted :

"AMOS TODD, ACTON ; A STAGE CART."

But it was so painted that it read thus : "A most odd act on a stage cart."

It is said that in olden times, when barbers were also surgeons, the stripes upon their poles were intended to convey the idea of bandages, and the basin, which sometimes accompanied the pole, to represent the utensil for catching the blood during operations. This is what the poet tells us :

"'Twas ordered that a huge long pole
With basin decked, should grace the hole,
To guide the wounded.
But when they ended all their wars,
And men grew out of love with scars,
Their trade decaying—to keep swimming
They joined the other trade of trimming ;
And to their poles, to publish either,
Thus twisted both their trades together."

"Cow in Boots," "Queen's Head and Artichoke," "Pig and Whistle," "Royal Bed," "Q in the Corner," "Shoulder of Mutton and Cat," "Cow and Snuffers," and many other curious signs might be mentioned ; but one has only to use his eyes to see as odd and as strange signs in every town as any spoken of here.

Misapplied Science.

It was only a few years ago the New York Journal of Information published the statement that a man in New Hampshire, who had been unable to speak for five years, went to sleep, one night, with a quid of tobacco in his mouth, and awoke the next morning with his voice perfectly strong and smooth and steady. Old Mr. Jarvis, who lives on Vine Street, is sorely afflicted with an impediment in his speech, and often says he would give a hundred dollars if he could only "t-t-t-taw-taw-taw-talk f-f-fast enough t-t-t-to t-t-tell a gug-gug-grocer what he w-w-wants bub-bub-bub-before he gug-gug-gets it measured out." He takes the Journal, and had taken it for twenty-three years, and he firmly believed every thing he ever read in it ; Sylvanus Cobb's stories, Mr. Parton's Lives of Eminent Americans, the answer to correspondents—Mr. Jarvis had taken them all in and believe every word. He thought that probably this quid-of-tobacco treatment might help his voice a little, and he resolved to give it a good trial any how. The first trouble was that he didn't chew, and Mrs. Jarvis would never allow a bit of tobacco about the house. But he begged a big "chew" of navy, and when he went to bed he tucked it snugly away in his cheek, and prepared to sleep in hope. He had his misgivings, and they grew in number and strength as the quid began to assert itself, and be sociable, and assimilate itself with its surroundings. Mrs. Jarvis asked him if he fastened the front gate.

"Um," said Mr. Jarvis, meaning that he had.

"And are you sure you locked the front door ?" queried his restless spouse.

"Um," replied Mr. Jarvis, meaning that he had not, for he was by this time in no condition to open his mouth.

"Hey ?" she replied.
"Um," persisted Mr. Jarvis.
"What ?" she demanded.
"Um-m-m !" protested Mr. Jarvis.

"Well," said she "you can't make me believe you are that near asleep this soon."

"Um-m-m !" said Mr. Jarvis ; meaning that he would get up and bounce her out of that front door if she didn't hold her slack.

Presently she sat up in bed. Sniff sniff ! "John Jarvis," she exclaimed, "if I don't smell tobacco in this house, I'm a sinful woman. Don't you smell it ?"

"'M," replied Mr. Jarvis ; which by interpretation is, that he didn't smell anything and was going to sleep.

"it's in this very room," she persisted excitedly.

"Um," said Mr. Jarvis, meaning tha she must be crazy.

"It's under the bed," she screamed.—"There's a burglar under the bed ! Oh, help ! fire ! police ! John Jarvis ! ! !" And she smote Mr. Jarvis a furious pelt in the stomach to awaken him up.

It was a terrific thump, and its first effect was to knock all the atmosphere out of Mr. Jarvis's lungs so far that he could only recover his breath by a violent gasp, which first carried the quid of tobacco and all the nicotine preparation that it had been steadily distilling down his throat ; and was immediately succeeded by a tremendous cough, as he struggled to rise up in bed, which shot the quid squarely into the eye of the shrieking Mrs. Jarvis.

"Murder ! murder !" she screamed, "I'm stabbed ! I'm stabbed !"

And John Jarvis choked and coughed and spit and coughed, and choked and clutched Mrs. Jarvis by the throat and tried to choke off her noise, but he grew so "ill" that he couldn't hold his grip, and Mrs. Jarvis, the moment her throat was released from his trembling pressure, rose from the half-strangled gurgles to the sublimity of double-edged screams, and made Rome howl with melody. And the neighbors broke into the house and found a bed-room that looked and smelled like a jury-room or a street car, with the sickest man they ever saw lying with his head over the side of the bed, groaning at the rate of a mile a minute, and the worst frightened woman since the flood sitting up beside him, screaming faster than he groaned, while one of her eyes was plastered up with a quid of tobacco. And that is the way Mr. Jarvis came to stop his Journal. He denounces it as the most infamous, disgraceful, pestilent sheet that ever disgraced American journalism.

Wit and Humor.

Fond mother : "What would you do without a mother, Tom ?" Tom : "Do as I liked, ma."

A shoemaker in Pennsylvania advertises "medicinal boots." The virtue is supposed to be in the heel.

"She wants a new part," said an actress's friend to a dramatic author. "Yes," he replied —a "fresh character."

Major O'Gorman's joke upon the passing of the Irish Sunday Closing Bill was "Sic transit gloria Sunday."

A French paper points out how the passion for gambling is shown in England, so that even in wedding notices it is necessary to state that there were "no cards."

"I wish you'd let me go to the city with you," said a young wife to her financial husband ; "I would so like just to take a stroll through the money market."

"It is a shame, John, that I have to sit here mending your old clothes !" exclaimed a wife the other day. "Don't say a word about it, my dear," rejoined the husband—"the least said the soonest mended."

A well-known dramatist can say rude things. Some one said to him last week, "You want a new hat." "Yes that's quite true," he replied ; "but why say it ? I never told you you wanted a new head."

A Miss Joy was present at a party recently, and in the course of the evening some one used the quotation, "A thing of beauty is a joy for ever." when she exclaimed, "I'm glad I'm not a beauty, for I shold not like to be a joy for ever."

Wishing to pay his friend a compliment, a gentleman remarked, "I hear you have a very industrious wife." "Yes," replied the friend, with a melancholy smile ; "she's never idle—she's always finding something for me to do."

The Duc de Morney's definition of a polite man is the hardest to realize of any ever given. "A polite man," said he, is one who listens with interest to things he knows all about when they are told by a person who knows nothing about them."

IS YOUR LIFE WORTH 10 CENTS ?

Sickness prevails everywhere, and every body complains of some disease during their life. When sick, the object is to get well ; now to say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Heart Burn, palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Biliousness, etc., can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this go to any Druggist in Belleville and get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses wil relieve you. d&w

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and labored breathing, the demulcent properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto Phosphate of Lime manifests itself in its healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages ; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature thus aided reasserts herself, and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle ; six bottles for $5.00. d&w-1m

BY HENRY M. STANLEY,

THE PUBLIC ARE CAUTIONED

that the only book giving the complete history of the travels, explorations, important discoveries, and thrilling adventures of Mr. Stanley in Africa during 1874-1877 is now published, under the title which appears at the head of this advertisement as the Canadian COPYRIGHT EDITION.

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Explorations and Adventures of Stanley" have been advertised. They are a rehash of Livingstone and other old books of African travel and of Stanley's letters. The first is the Original spurious book published in Philadelphia, written by T. J. Headley. The second is an inferior copy of the first. Both have mostly old illustrations. See that you get the genuine work written by Mr. Stanley. Each copy in cloth has a cut of the continent and the world "Africa" stamped on side.

The Change of Tariff Policy.

(From the Monetary Times.)

The announcement that Canada had concluded to make a change in its tariff policy in the direction of moderate protection, was not likely to prove satisfactory to the countries from which she derives her chief supplies of manufactured goods; for in proportion as we manufacture at home we diminish the volume of our imports. But while English free traders lament the uprise of a protectionist policy in any of the outlying sections of the empire, they do not challenge our right to adopt a policy which, rightly or wrongly, the great majority of Canadians believe to be in the interest of the country. Assuredly the Americans have no right to complain of the decision which the Canadian electorate have arrived at. Canada will at worst but follow, at a respectable distance, we trust, the example set by the United States in their tariff legislation. The new Parliament is not likely to pass a tariff nearly so high as that of the United States; and while their tariff remains much more restrictive than ours, they can have no possible grounds of complaint or remonstrance against us.

During several years past the States have been gaining on Great Britain as competitors for the supply of the Canadian market. This is owing to two causes. First, as the New York Tost admits, American manufacturers have not unfrequently sold goods in Canada at less than cost; and, secondly, some of them have passed that stage when they were unable to meet foreign competition in foreign markets. It is a free trade axiom that manufactures which can command the home market only by the shield of a protective duty cease to successfully compete in foreign markets. And though this is true of new and struggling manufactures, it ceases to be true when they have grown vigorous and taken deep root. Taken as a whole, American manufactures can scarcely be said to have become formidable competitors against English; but they are rapidly displacing many kinds of English goods in the Canadian market. Proximity to this market, by reducing the cost of carriage on American goods, gives the American manufacturer a natural advantage, and one which he will continue to have whether our general tariff be 17½ or 20 per cent., or indeed any other figure.

In spite of the great difference between them, both the English and the American tariffs are framed with special reference to the condition of the countries to which they are respectively applied. Neither of them is suitable to Canada. The American tariff may not be the best that could be framed for that country; but it is so in the opinion of the legislative authority by which it is passed. Each of the two tariffs is suited to the tariff for itself, according to the best lights it possesses. Canada has asserted her right to do the same thing; and in doing so she, a self-governed country, has not infringed any right of theirs. Of course English and American writers are quite at liberty to remonstrate, and point out how, in their opinion, we have missed the path of true prosperity. They are entitled to their opinions as Canadians are to theirs.

Protection will certainly now get a trial. We only hope it will not be carried to an unreasonable extreme; but that it will chiefly be applied, under the condition and in the manner which so eminent a free trader as John Stuart Mill was able to justify. Some vagueness necessarily attaches to the assertion of the general principle; but taking the definitions of the responsible advocates of protection to Canadian industry in the bulk, we see no justification for concluding that extravagantly high tariff will be enacted. Legislative reciprocity is a term that has sometimes been used as indicative of what should be aimed at, so far as regards the United States. As now applied it gives it no such one meaning. Hitherto it has generally implied an agreement between two nations to assimilate their tariffs. It is now coming more frequently to mean the levelling up of the tariff of one nation to the height of another. The first of these forms of legislative reciprocity requires all the negotiations and agreements which precede the formation of a treaty, some of the binding obligations of which it still wants. It has sometimes been, and may again sometimes be, possible to get into form of legislative reciprocity, when it is not possible to agree upon a treaty. But the chances of such an agreement with the States are apparently remote. The other form of reciprocity is not distinguishable from retaliation; only it need not be vindictive but merely defensive. Canada is not likely to reciprocate the full measure of the American tariff; and whatever she does will be purely in the spirit of self-defence.

It is no doubt felt by the advocates of protection, who have won so signal a victory, that this shield needs must to be employed against the industrial war made upon our infant manufactures by the United States. The goods sold below cost in this market chiefly come thence. This sacrifice is too often the price paid by the holders of American stock to realize cash but whatever the cause, the effect on our manufacturers of just such abnormal competition as which we could not count on continuing, is not the less destructive. We should deceive ourselves if we fancied that the same sacrifices would continue to be made after the destruction of the home competition. It is possible, if more failures in the cotton districts of Lancashire are to take place, that England will, for a while, also seek in Canada a sacrifice market. We should make a great mistake if we supposed that a temporary supply of cheap goods, secured into the country to the detriment of our own manufactures, could be a permanent advantage, or that the boon conferred could overbalance the evil inflicted.

So far the way is clear. Beyond this, we traverse a region of darkness. The protectionists, if wise, will listen to moderate and reasonable counsels, and not make demands which the country is not prepared to yield, or which, if granted, would in the effect be the reverse of a public benefit.

St. Louis has a sadly fallen man in the person of Frank A. George, who had charge of the Money Order Department in the Post Office. He stole $8,000 and ran away. His case is remarkable, because no evidence has been discovered of vicious habits, or of losses by speculation. He is the son of a clergyman, his social companions were respectable, and he was regarded as possessing uncommonly honorable instincts.

A Child Marvel.

SCRIPTURAL LECTURES BY A FOUR-YEAR OLD NEGRESS.

There is now in Louisville a negress who is a perfect child-wonder. She is a Scriptural marvel. She does not even know her letters, yet she can quote accurately almost any passage in the Bible.

At the age of nine months she could talk, and would frequently tell her mother what her idea of heaven was. As she grew older she would act for hours and expatiate on the beauties and glories of the other world. The old colored folks would listen to her sayings for hours.

At the age of three years she began to lecture on heaven, its wonders, or God and his omnipotent power. She has lectured in many places, and has created a furore in every place she has yet visited. The prodigy lectured at the York street colored church yesterday afternoon, and at night spoke to a large crowd at the Green street colored church. Her speech was good, and her delivery impressive.

A reporter of the Courier Journal interrogated her last night.

"What is your name, little girl?"

"Alice Coatney."

"How old are you?"

"Iso jast four years and twenty-eight days old to night."

"Where were you born?"

"I was born in Liverpool, England—'cross de Atlantic."

"How long since you felt the power within you?"

"I don't know; Ise always felt the power of God."

"What do you talk about when you speak to a crowd?"

"I talk about Jesus, about heavenly things, about how Jesus died and was crucified; how he rose again in three days and sitteth on the righthand of God."

"Can you spell?"

"No, sir; I don't know my A, B, C's yet."

She then went on in a rapturous strain about things Biblical and spiritual, completely nonplussing the reporter.

She was accompanied by two colored men. They talked in an enthusiastic manner about her. She said in her conversation that she believed in two kinds of baptism. She spoke of the different modes of salvation; how to reach Paradise; how to be converted from a bad man to a good one, etc. Her sayings were entirely original, and were not spoken in a hesitating voice, but in a quick, keen and forcible manner. As young as she is, a negress, without education in the principles she sets forth, her power justifies strongly the marvellous.—Louisville Courier Journal, September 16.

A Troublesome Marriage.

This anecdote is extracted almost verbatim from the note-book of a clergyman who officiated on the occasion, and is as follows:—"This morning I married a mariner name William B——— to Sarah C———, and I think I shall never forget it. The wedding party consisted of four persons, there being present, besides the bride and bridegroom, an elder by mariner and his wife. A little confusion was occasioned at first, owing to the ancient mariner, in answering my question, representing himself to be the bridegroom, but the ceremonies proceeded without further difficulties stood up before me. All went on as usual up to the time when the woman had to say, 'I Sarah, take thee, William;' when, upon telling her to take his hand and repeat after me, she exclaimed to my great amazement, 'I can't.' 'Yes, you can,' observed the bridegroom. 'No, I can't say it,' repeated she. 'Come, said I, preserving my gravity by an effort that surprised myself, 'cannot you say the words after me?' 'Oh no! I couldn't.' 'You can say it after him,' remonstrated William again. 'Oh no!' And now the female attendant mariner struck in in a sweet Irish brogue: 'Arrah! can't you say it after the jantleman, dear?' with a stress on the jantleman which no italics can convey. No use at all—either she couldn't or she wouldn't. The bridegroom apparently thought it was real incapacity, and that he had divined the true reason for her refusal, for he now suggested as a probable explanation, 'You see, Sir, she can't neither read nor write; that's what it is.' There seemed at this point some danger of the conversation becoming general, so that I was obliged to request silence, and that I might be allowed to conduct the ceremony in my own way; for the elder mariner thought it time to put in his oar, which he did by winking one eye—the other was out—and observing with a jerk of his thumb toward the bride, 'Say it.' However, say it she could not, and as she was trembling all over, I began to think that all might not be right; so I made her sit down, and questioned her and the whole party, as to whether there existed any impediment to the marriage. Having at length satisfied myself that there did not, and that it was a pure case of nervousness, I inquired for sale or a smelling bottle, but nothing of the kind was at hand—only a large nosegay of doubtful freshness, which the female friend officiously thrust under the bride's veil, apparently under the impression that any smell would work a cure. Finding her by this time rather more composed, I thought I would try a little calm reasoning, and asked her whether she really meant to take William for her husband, and on her agreeing that she did, I further suggested that she might as well say so, and moreover, that nobody but herself could say it, and that if she didn't she never would have him at all. Yielding at last to these arguments, she expressed her readiness to have another try, whereupon she stood up and managed to stumble through the necessary form of words, and the ceremony was completed. But the difficulties were not quite over. When we got into the vestry, the bridegroom signed his name in the register without making any difficulty, but all the rest of the party avowedly maintained that they could not write. I had not much doubt that this was true with respect to the two females, but I strongly suspected that my friend, the ancient mariner, with the one eye, could write if he chose. 'Do you really mean to tell me,' I said, 'that you have never written your own name?' 'Well, sir,' he answered, 'I don't mean to say for what I have wrote my name—on a piece of paper—but I shouldn't like to venture in that 'ere book.' Could I do otherwise than excuse a man who showed such respect for my registers? So I let them affix their marks, and the signing being completed, I proceeded to the bride that now she had said the solemn words she must mind and keep to what she had said, which the bridegroom capped by saying, quite gravely, and joyously, 'Yes, you 'eepit your foot in it. One last incident remains to be told:—When they had one by one, all fled out of the vestry, I observed the ancient mariner standing at the door, in a lingering sort of a way, with his legs rather wide apart, and one hand half stretched out towards me. Instantly divining his wish, I advanced and shook hands with him, whereupon they all returned over the

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, SEPT. 30.

EAST HASTINGS ELECTION.

There having been irregularities at several of the polling divisions in this Riding, and it having been asserted before the election on behalf of Mr. Aylsworth that under the new Act ballots were so numbered that the voter could be identified, Mr. White determined to have the ballots recounted. This assertion was circulated for the express purpose of preventing many voters, believed to secretly favor Mr. White, but who were under the control of some one or more of the supporters of the candidate of the "party of purity," from casting their ballots according to their inclinations. "State a lie and it is hard to catch it," is a proverb. The "standard elevators" started this lie and they caught it, hard.

The statute provides that the judge should recount the ballots in the same manner as the Dominion Election Act says the Deputy Returning Officer shall count them.

We quote section 55 as amended, Cap. 6, 41 Vic, as follows:

"He shall reject all ballot papers which have not been supplied by the Deputy Returning Officer, all those by which votes have been given for more candidates than are to be elected, and all those upon which there is any writing or mark by which the votes could be identified."

The numbers on each set of ballots appeared to be in the same handwriting, showing they had not been put there by the voter. It was contended by Mr. Bethune that the correct principle or rule was that every intendment should be made in favor of the franchise—that the voter should not lose his vote by the act of the officer if it were possible to prevent it—that if the inference to be drawn from the numbers on the ballot was that they were arbitrary numbers put there by the officer to "identify the ballot" or to correspond with the voters' list numbers, a private list, as he contended—the ballots should be counted. But if the inference to be drawn was that the numbers referred to the assessment roll—a public document—then they should be rejected, because so marked that the voter could be identified.

These principles were agreed to, and the recount proceeded; and poll number 3 was first examined and allowed. This poll gave Mr. Aylsworth a majority. Then the ballots for another five were examined, and this difference was observed: the numbering on these ballots were not consecutive, and it was conceded by all parties that they referred to and were the numbers opposite the voters' names on the assessment roll—a public document—and the whole ballot was [illegible] and it was [illegible] counted as giving a majority to Mr. Aylsworth.

The ballots from polling division number two, Tyendinaga, which gave Mr. White a majority, were found to be numbered, and disallowed.

The ballots for polling division No. 1, Hungerford, which also gave Mr. White a majority, were also found to be all numbered. These ballots were opened out of their order to accommodate Mr. Bethune, who had stated in the forenoon that he had to return to Toronto that (Friday) night, and it appearing probable that Tyendinaga, which was before the Judge would not be got through that day, he asked the Judge to take up No. 1 Hungerford, as he (Mr. Bethune) wanted that poll disposed of before he left. And here was the rub of the re-count. All the ballots in the poll were found to be numbered, but an analysis of the numbers showed that they could not relate to the assessment roll numbers, nor to the voters' list made by the poll clerk, and were therefore clearly arbitrary numbers placed there by the officer to identify the ballots, and so could not by any possibility be the means of identifying the voters, and the vote was counted. Mr. Dickson had contended in reference to polling division No. 3, Thurlow, that it could make no difference to which list the numbers refered or corresponded with, inasmuch as the voters' list made by the poll clerk had to be kept for one year and might on scrutiny be inspected. But even this correction could not affect the Thomasburgh ballots, the numbers on which clearly referred to neither list.

It is desirable that as far as possible the same Deputy Returning Officers be employed in each succeeding election until there be a more extended knowledge of the ballot system, and more power should be given the Judge to put him in a position to determine whether or not a number or numbers can identify the voters. In particular he should have power to examine the assessment roll list and the poll clerks' list, and also to swear both the Deputy Returning Officer and the Poll Clerk.

THE EXHIBITION.—The total gate receipts from the Exhibition have been nearly $20,000, an increase over last year at London of about $7,500.

COUNTERFEITS.—A Toronto despatch says:—"Counterfeit $5 bills of the Bank of Commerce are in circulation. The signature, E. T. Smith, looks as if had been put on with a rubber stamp, being thick and heavy."

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.—Advices of the 20th, from Prince Edward Island, state that the crops there have been secured in excellent condition, and they are generally reported to be of good quality and rather above the ordinary yield. The wheat crop—especially the early wheat—is most plentiful and better in quality than it has been for several years past. The oat crop, too, is said to be above the average, though the price is low.

The East Hastings Recount.

The "lying campaign," is not yet over. Desperation seems to impel reckless politicians to make assertions which have neither truth nor reason in them. For instance, the Grit organ says in reference to the recount of the ballots in the East Hastings election, that, "Mr. Bethune, counsel for Mr. Aylsworth, threw up his case last night" (Friday 27th Sept), in disgust, declaring "that there was no justice to be had." This is an imputation upon the honor of a Judge which we do not believe Mr. Bethune ever made. He may have been annoyed at the result of the count, and the stupidity of those by whom he was surrounded, but that he ever made so grave a charge against a Judge in the discharge of his duty, we have the best reason for believing is without foundation. Judge Lazier is too well known in this County for his impartiality and probity, to be injured by such statements, particularly when made by those whose whole stock in trade is slander and falsehood.

Another American View.

The Reform organs are very fond of quoting the utterances of the London Times (a journal never fair towards Canada), the New York Herald, World, Evening Post, Chicago Times, and other organs of the free trade party, all of which concur in saying that the Canadian people have done a very bad thing in turning out a free trade Government. As, however, these commentators cannot claim to be disinterested, we imagine that their utterances will fall on heedless ears. Preservation is the first law of nature, and as the people of this country saw that their manufacturing, agricultural and mining industries were being ruined and our country depopulated by unjust discrimination on the part of the United States against them, and as it had been proved by bitter experience that our neighbors were resolved not to trade with us on fair terms, nothing remained for a self-respecting, patriotic, people but to assert themselves and proclaim to the world that fair play they were determined to have, and not to become commercially dependent upon any foreign state. As regards the mother country, our interests are distinct from hers in trade matters, owing to the difference in circumstances between the colony and the parent state. She gave us the right to legislate without restriction in matters financial, and we have exercised that right, which affects only a field in which her commerce was declining as that of the United States enlarged. By so doing, her trade may be affected for a time, but then her greatest colony a gem of priceless value, is preserved to her for ever, whilst under the fatal policy of the Mackenzie administration it would probably have become an appendage of the United States within the next generation. The London Times and the selfish, unpatriotic politicians of the Manchester school, who know little or nothing of our peculiar political position may not have seen this but we tell them that the people of Canada are more loyal to the empire than they, who count national honor as nothing compared with the [illegible] goods generally; and we believe that the great loyal mass of the British people who confounded these peace-at-any-price theorists by standing by Earl Beaconsfield a few months ago when by his firmness Russian aggression was stopped without a cannon being fired, will sustain the people of Canada now, as the Canadian people have stood by the empire at all times, and applaud and sustain the colonists in their determination not to continue any longer to be the hewers of wood and drawers of water for any foreign power. With such backing Canadians can laugh to scorn the feeble grumblings of those of the Cobden Club, and their disciples who have neither sense enough to understand nor patriotism sufficient to comprehend the causes which led to the late political revolution in this country.

As our Grit contemporaries are so fond of quoting the opinions of journals published in the United States, we herewith present them with one which takes another view of the recent elections. It is extracted from the Chicago Daily News and reads as follows:

"The victory of the Macdonald party will have a very important, and we fear, adverse bearing upon the trade and even the political relations now subsisting between the United States and the Dominion. The latter is now about to apply the principles to us which we have so long applied to her. THE OBJECT OF OUR LEGISLATORS, WHEN THEY ABROGATED THE RECIPROCITY TREATY WITH CANADA, WAS TO DRIVE HER INTO ANNEXATION TO THE UNITED STATES. But it did not succeed."

This is refreshingly candid and honest as well. That the deep, laid design of our neighbors to force Canada into annexation to them has been defeated is due to the unswerving loyalty and the patriotic exertions of the Conservative party, whose leaders educated the people in trade questions until they saw the yawning gulf which opened before them, and then they did what their patriotism dictated.

THE BOAT RACE.—The approaching race at Lachine is attracting multitudes from all quarters, and as the time draws nigh the excitement increases in intensity. The issue of the contest, is by no means a foregone conclusion. The Toronto man will by all present indications have enough to do to beat the American sculler, though the former's friends are confident of his ability to do it.

FROM MANITOBA.—Chief Justice Wood, of Manitoba, gave protest of the Hudson's Bay Company against the provincial tax of five cents per acre for educational purposes. The Act specially defined the Company as non-residents, whereas residents are only taxed one cent per acre. The judgment sustained the appeal on the ground that the tax is an exceptional one, and, therefore, beyond the power of the Legislature to impose.

THE EASTERN TROUBLE.—It is officially denied in St. Petersburg that Russia had anything to do with the rejection of the English mission by the Ameer of Afghanistan. The situation is extremely serious, the gravest fact being the possibility, by official blundering, of provoking the border tribes to hostility. The intentions and policy of the Government are as pacific as circumstances allow.

People who can be depended upon are pretty sure to get along in the world, while those who cannot, generally make a failure of life. To a young mechanic, starting in life the habit punctuality is worth more than a thousand dollars cash capital—although a thousand dollars is not to be despised. The trustworthiness of the faithful workman produces money, but the untrustworthiness of the unfaithful one causes him to lose money. This is an everlasting principle. He who would be punctually prosperous must keep his engagements "or die in attempt."

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, SEPT. 30.

City and Vicinity.

CITY COUNCIL.—A regular meeting of the Council will be held this evening.

MEETING.—Members of the Liberal Conservative Association are reminded of the meeting of their Association at 3 p. m. tomorrow. Let there be a full attendance.

A BIG FLEET.—There was an unusually large fleet of schooners lying off the harbor yesterday, no less than six vessels having come too there. The grain business is causing quite a stir in shipping at present.

SUNDAY SHOOTING.—A great many reports of guns were heard yesterday from the direction of the Prince Edward marshes. This Sunday duck shooting ought to be put a stop to by the authorities of the neighboring County.

FOR THE REGATTA.—The yachts Emma and Mystery came up from Kingston, and the Ina B. arrived to take part in today's regatta. The yacht Oddrieve, of Kingston, also arrived, but she is too large to sail in the second class, measuring upwards of 20 tons.

MORE BIRDS OF PASSAGE.—Tame geese and turkeys are now being carried over the Grand Trunk Railway from the West, destined for Quebec or Portland. It is said they will be there shipped for the English market.

"THE CHANGE OF TARIFF POLICY."—An excellent article upon this subject, which we copy from the Monetary Times, appears upon our first page. We commend it for careful perusal as the expression of the highest commercial authority in the press of this country and of a journal independent in politics.

THE DREDGE.—Mr. Cornelius Daly's dredge, two dump scows and tug arrived on Saturday night to perform a quantity of work in the harbor here under contract with the Government. Operations will be commenced at once and the work which is to be done pushed on vigorously to completion, as "Commodore" Daly is a very energetic contractor.

ANNUAL FAIR.—The combined exhibitions of the West Hastings Agricultural Society, the Eastern Ontario Dairyman's Association and the Belleville Horticultural Society, will be held on Wednesday and Thursday next. The season has been so favorable that a fine show may be expected in all classes, and we hope to see fine weather and a very large attendance.

BARGE WRECKED.—The Kingston News says:—"On Wednesday night or Thursday morning the steam barge Petronel, of Henderson, N. Y., while carrying lumber between Mill Point and Oswego, was driven on shore at the foot of the Island. We understand she is badly wrecked, and a large quantity of lumber is afloat from her cargo."

CHANCERY SALE.—The original advertisement of the Chancery Sale of valuable property which was to have been sold on August 10th, was reprinted and circulated for the benefit of those who want to have a description of the property, it being advertised to be sold on the first of October. Parcel 1, described in said advertisement being the residence of Dr. Wilson, should have been omitted from the advertisement, the property in question having been purchased by Dr. Wilson.

REGATTA ON SUNDAY.—Any person looking out on the Bay yesterday would have imagined that the Regatta which was announced to come off to-day was then being sailed. Fully a dozen yachts were noticed going over the course yesterday, and attracted considerable attention. It is to be regretted that the practice of boating on Sunday, which we regret to say has been indulged in to a considerable extent during the season, was countenanced in such a public manner by the yachtsmen of Belleville yesterday. It was a very unseemly exhibition, and cannot be too strongly condemned.

Fat People Made Lean.

Physicians and physiologists have long "scratched their heads" and "burned the midnight oil," seeking to devise some means whereby excessive corpulency might be either prevented or controlled. Until recently all "theories," "special directions," and "remedies," have failed. But at last the problem is solved. Allan's Anti-Fat will surely and positively reduce flesh from three to six pounds per week. No medicine or combination of medicines has ever been discovered that would produce such wonderful results, and at the same time improve the general health. Sold by druggists.

A Slight Cough that we are so apt to consider a mere nuisance and treat with correspondingly neglect, too often proves to be the seed sown for an inevitable harvest—CONSUMPTION. Immediate and thorough treatment is our only safeguard. A teaspoonful of Robinson's "Phosphoricit Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime given whenever the Cough is troublesome, will afford immediate relief, and if persevered in will effect a cure even in the most obstinate cases.

Prepared solely by J. H. ROBINSON, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B.; and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six for $5.00. d&w-1m

The Yacht Race.

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club were favored with exceptionally fine weather for their third annual regatta, though unfortunately the wind blew from the southeast, so that it was a free run around almost the entire course. The breeze was light, so that all the yachts could carry gaff-topsails, which gave them a pretty appearance and also enabled them to make fast time, the water being smooth and just wind enough to keep them all about rail-to most of the time. The entries were not very numerous, but amongst the competitors were well known fast sailers, and the presence of the new yachts Sylvia and Gracie, which sailed their first race on the occasion.

There was the usual delay in starting, the hour appointed being 10 a. m., but it was very nearly an hour later before all could be got in readiness, but the large crowd who had assembled on the dock bore the delay with good humor, being satisfied that their patience would be rewarded with a good race, and in this expectation they were not disappointed.

THE RACE.

At the firing of the first gun the yachts began preparing for the contest by moving to the westward of the starting point—an imaginary line drawn from the Grand Junction Railway dock to a flag boat anchored some distance south therefrom in the bay. The several contestants carried jib, mainsail, and gaff-topsail with the exception of the Gracie, which only carried the two former sails, whilst the Katie Gray added a jib-topsail to her complement.

The "starting gun" having been given, the line was crossed in the following order:

YACHT.	OWNER.	TIME.
Katie Gray,	W. Campbell,	10:58:50
Kathleen,	R. J. Bell,	10:59:23
Emma,	G. Offord,	11:00:00
Gracie,	P. C. Higley,	11:00:55
Sylvia,	W. Pike,	11:07:15

All the boats seemed to pass the water very rapidly, particularly the Gracie and Sylvia. The Katie Gray, and Kathleen appeared to hold their same relative positions whilst the Emma moved as if to indicate that the company she was in and was rather too fast for her. The first change worthy of note was the moving of the Gracie which rapidly hauled on the Emma and gradually passed her. When about two miles from the start, or thereabouts, the topmast of the Sylvia went by the board, thus placing her at a considerable disadvantage. The Kathleen took in her jib-topsail which hindered her progress apparently, as it fluttered very much. The changes in position altered somewhat in rounding the first buoy as the Katie appeared to have got the better of the Kathleen at this point, and the Gracie seemed not to be doing as well as formerly. On the first round up from the point the Kathleen caught up a little of what she had lost. The Katie however was first, the Kathleen preceding the Gracie which was third, the Emma fourth, and the Sylvia last.

The third class yachts were started as follows:

Minnie A.,	J. Addison, Belleville.....11:09:30
Mystery,	H. Cunningham, Kingston.....11:10:05
Mabel,	T. Cook, Belleville.....11:11:00
Ina B.,	H. Stanton, Belleville.....11:11:22
Whisper,	W. Wood, Belleville.....11:15:18

This also was a very pretty and interesting race, all the boats sailing very fast under gaff topsails.

On the second run to the westward buoy the contest for first honors appeared to lay between the Mystery, of Kingston, and the Minnie A., of this city! The struggle between these two was quite close after passing the eastern buoy. First the Minnie A, under the influence of an occasional increase of wind would haul on her adversary, only to fall to the rear, however, when the puff would die away. The Ina B, under a cloud of canvas for a boat of her size, bowled along well, but the company was, notwithstanding, too fast for her. The Mabel brought up the rear, and seemed to be laboring under nautical disadvantages. On the run home the Mystery held her own well, being in the lead a nice distance; the Minnie A second and the Ina B. third. These positions were unchanged at the finish, the line being crossed in the following order:

YACHT.	TIME.
Mystery,	1:40:27
Minnie A.,	1:50:24
Ina B.,	1:55:25
Mabel,	2.03.07

The Mystery was the winner in this c ass by 1 m. 32 sec., the Minnie A. second, and the Ina B. third.

On the second run down past the starting buoy the Katie Gray seemed to keep her lead well. On the return from the western buoy the Katie setting up her jib-topsail moved along to excellent advantage, and carrying this sail till passing the starting buoy passed the water very rapidly. The Kathleen did not make any additional sail, yet she made very fair progress. The struggle between these boats was one of interest and was watched with considerable anxiety by all who assembled at the dock. There was a wide difference between the Kathleen and Gracie which was third, whilst the Emma appeared to hold her own, the fourth place thus far, the Sylvia being last. The wind about the time was almost due south thus making the race at this period one to test the merits of the respective boats, by and off the wind—as the one to the westward almost gave them a free sheet. To the vicinity of the eastern buoy the wind was fresher at all times than at any part of the course, and therefore the lee sails of the several craft were invarably "damped"; when passing that part of the course the Katie Gray increased he rlead after going to the eastward: The Kathleen came next and the Gracie being "stuffed off" towards the north shore seemed to lose. The Emma and Sylvia held about their same relative position. On the return westward the leader increased her advantage, and widened the span between herself and her immediate follower very gradually but perceptibly, with the aid of her jib-topsail she passed the water very rapidly and kept widening the distance between herself and the Kathleen, which latter also kept moving off from the Gracie, which in turn returned the compliment to the Emma and Sylvia. On this run the Gracie set up a squaresail which helped her materially as she went along quite fast. Their positions were retained to the end, the line being crossed as follows:

YACHT.	TIME.
Katie Gray,	2.22.00
Kathleen,	2.31.25
Gracie,	2.42.20

This makes the Katie Gray the winner of the race by 8 m. 52 s. actual time: Kathleen second; Gracie third and Emma fourth.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 30.—It is reported that Prince Dondoukoff Korsakoff, the Russian Governor of Bulgaria, refused to recognize the nineteenth article of the Treaty of Berlin intrusting the administration of finances of Eastern Roumelia to an International commission.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 30.—The British fleet left Princess Islands on Saturday, after appearing off the entrance of the Bosphorus to salute, the Turkish flag proceeded to Artaki Bay.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 30.—The alarming depreciation of paper money continues to cause serious apprehensions, at the beginning of last week it had only about one third of its nominal value, since that time it has fallen nearly 7 p.c., in all probability it will fall much lower, for it no longer is accepted in payment forfithes and is consequently flowing into Constantinople from all sides.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Times correspondent at Calcutta telegraphs as follows: Unless Shere Ali gives us satisfaction, let the present occasion be seized to secure for ourselves the passes piercing the mountain ranges along the whole frontier from the Khyber to the Bolan, and further strategic measures be adopted to dominate Suleimantange and Hindoo Koosh mountains. The present condition of affairs on the Afghan frontier, and our relations with the hill tribes should once for all cease to exist; so we may thank the Ameer and more especially Russia, the causa causarum, for affording us the opportunity of consolidating the defences of our Indian empire by the strategic and military reconstruction of our frontier.

LOCKPORT, Sept. 30.—Mr. Brown, of Memphis, died here yesterday of yellow fever.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. Sept. 30.—The warp and twine mill of R. K. Edwards at Noose neck, West Greenwich, was burned, loss $30,000.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30,—During religious services at Reform school last evening 20 boys were attacked with violent vomiting. All recovered except two who are still sick. It is thought the vegetables or meat at dinner was poisoned in some manner during the cooking.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Father Macnamara after preaching a reformed Catholic sermon in a large tent on 7th Avenue yesterday, was surrounded by a mob of hissing and hooting Roman Catholics who threatened him with violence, but the police and his promising a cocked revolver made a safe exit for him.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The gold and stock telegraph company removed their instruments this morning from four of the blackboard exchanges known as perches shops, thus depriving them of facilities for continuing their business, and compelling suspension. The firms compelled to close are A. H. Curtis & Co., J. W. Knapp & Co., Allison & Co., and Friedman & Co. The matter will be taken to the courts.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 30.—This morning, Edwin Hoyt, for the murder of his father, was sentenced to be hanged Oct. 24th.

THE SWALLOWS.

Dear birds that greet us with the spring
That fly along the sunny blue,
That hover round your last year's nests,
Or cut the shining heavens thro',
That skim along the meadow grass,
Among the flowers sweet and fair,
That croon upon the pointed roof,
Or, quiv'ring, balance in the air;
Ye heralds of the summer days,
As quick ye dart across the lea,
Tho' other birds be fairer, yet
The dearest of all birds are ye.

Dear as the messengers of spring
Before the buds have opened wide,
Dear when our other birds are here,
Dear in the burning summertide;
But when the lonely autumn wind
About the flying forest grieves,
In vain we look for you, and find—
Your empty nests beneath the eaves.

Dora Read Goodale, St. Nicholas for August.

Autumn Care of Stock.

The critical seasons of thrift of our cattle and farm stock are the times of change from grass to hay, and from hay to grass—fall or spring. It becomes all thrifty farmers therefore to bridge over these seasons to the best possible advantage; and in no way can it be better done than by good feeding just previous to and during the transition stages. Many farmers who practice on this principle make as great profit from their cows in the fall as at any other season, and get, if we except the first greatest rush and flow, a full average quantity and better quality of milk. In the fall there are pumpkins, which are one of the best milk and flesh producers and sustainers when judiciously fed in conjunction with other feed, as corn stover and other matter abundant at this season, which it is impracticable to keep into winter. Much of this costs very much less to produce than the hay, grain, or other feed stored away for winter feed, and is better for present feeding than these, and will produce more and better milk, while the condition of the stock is improved and the system better sustained, if full fed.

Extra fall feeding should be begun when grass begins to grow short, to be increased as the grass diminishes in quantity and quality. Where this system of feeding is practiced, cows will keep up for several weeks their flow of milk (till January or later), giving a handsome profit in milk and butter. The farmer who does not avail himself of the advantage of extra fall feeding, finds his cows begin to diminish with the decrease of pasture, and shrink largely with the first cutting frost, gradually shrinking till they dry off in December, or earlier. A good hard frost generally uses up grass and forage, so that there is very little nutriment left in it; and although cattle may apparently fill themselves (look plump and full), nevertheless they actually shrink in flesh, for enough nutriment to sustain the system cannot be consumed. It is unwise for any farmer to cause his stock to depend almost entirely upon such grazing, giving them perhaps an occasional feed of some poorer quality of roots. Regularity in extra feeding should be the rule.

Many farmers have large quantities of apples, which they are at a loss what to do with, or perhaps they have roots, cabbages, &c., all which can be safely fed to milch cows and other stock, if their allowance of salt is increased. Let no farmer that because this can be done advantageously, that it may be indiscriminately or injudiciously done. An excess or full quantity given at once to begin on, will act the same on the animal as on the human system. The way to do is to begin with a small quantity, and gradually increase from day to day till you may feed the animals all they will eat. An illustration of ill effects of over-eating of apples by cows, unaccustomed to them, lately occurred with an acquaintance where the cows broke into an orchard and ate all the apples they chose. They shrank and failed in their milk. Let a child eat as many apples as it can force down, not being accustomed to them, and see what would be the result. Had these same cows been fed apples, and gradually accustomed to them, such result would not have occurred even had they eaten all they could. Of course, excesses are to be avoided when possible, but what is here meant is that comparative results are very different.

In the fall, then, the prudent farmer will improve his time and all his advantages; but he should not wait, but begin with spring and summer. He should plan his work beforehand; pumpkins and roots must be started in spring, or at their appropriate season. The man with a single cow often understands and practises something of this, and thereby obtains correspondingly profitable returns. What this man does with his one cow, the other man with his herd may do proportionally in a similar manner. Not only is there profit in thus feeding cows, but a similar profit is gained by feeding all other farm stock correspondingly well. Good stock in the fall is a first requisite; the keeping it good is the second; the regular attendance is the main thing. Any irregularity in attendance is sure to crop out and tell the tale. If our stock pass the transition of spring and fall safely there is usually no trouble to be apprehended during other seasons; therefore it is wise to see to it, and provide for these critical seasons.

How to Feed Poultry.

In an article on this subject the Gardner's Magazine says: "It is a very easy matter to incur a serious loss annually, where a good number of fowls are kept, by injudicious feeding. All kinds should have a sufficiency of food without being overfed. If the birds are kept in a state of semi-starvation, the hens lay but few eggs, and those intended for killing become so attenuated that a very considerable outlay is necessary before they can be brought into proper condition for the table, and when there they lack tenderness and delicacy. To feed too liberally is wasteful, and in the case of laying hens decidedly objectionable; for a hen when it becomes very fat ceases to lay freely and is subject to various ailments and an over fed cock becomes lazy and subject to death from apoplexy. Full-grown fowls should have just as much as they will readily eat, and no more. Barley, either whole or in the ground state, is fairly economical, used either alone or in combination with other food. Oats and oatmeal are of especial value for fattening for the table. Indian corn, or maize, is, perhaps, one of the most economical foods for poultry, and has the advantage that, owing to the size of the corn, sparrows are unable to rob the fowls. Pieces of bread and vegetables of all kinds may be utilized, and scraps of meat, chopped up rather small, are of great value in feeding fowls shut up in the small yards, when they are unable to obtain worms and insects. Potatoes, well boiled and mixed with sufficient coarse pollard or bran, when scalded to form a rather stiff paste, are useful for helping out the corn. As a rule, fowls kept entirely in enclosed yards should have three meals a day—the first to consist of soft food, prepared by the admixture of boiled potatoes, kitchen-scraps, bran or pollard, and barley or oatmeal; and for the other two meals corn or some kind is decidedly preferable. The soft food will be all the better if it is mixed over night and placed in an oven, so that it may be warm in the morning. The preparation of soft food is undoubtedly troublesome, and those who have but little time should feed entirely with Indian corn. A constant supply of fresh, clean water is essential; and a moderate quantity of green food—such as cauliflower, cabbage, lettuce, broccoli leaves, and turnip-tops—should be thrown into the yard daily, otherwise it would be difficult to keep the occupants in a thoroughly healthy condition.

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

In the hard dry cough of Chronic Bronchitis, with its difficult expectoration and labored breathing, the demulcent properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime manifests itself in its healing and soothing effect upon the irritated mucous membranes of the Bronchial passages; the cough quickly yields, the breathing is eased, while Nature, thus aided reasserts herself, and where once gaunt Consumption stared the victim in the face, now Hope beckons on to life and health. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w-1m

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Explorations and Adventures of Stanley" have been advertised. They are a rehash of Livingstone and other old books of African travel and of Stanley's letters. The first is the Original spurious book published in Philadelphia, written by T. J. Headley. The second is an inferior copy of the first. Both have mostly old illustrations. See that you get the genuine work written by Mr. Stanley.
